PROBE STOCK GAMBLES AFTER LEASE OF DOME

Senators Threaten Fall with Jail.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Following the refusal of former Secretary of the Interior Albert B. Fall to testify today in the oil lease scandal, on the ground that he might incriminate himself, and the decision of the investigating committee to compel him to answer on pain of imprisonment, the inquiry took a new and still more sensational turn.

The senate committee, with great secrecy observed, issued a new batch of subpoenas for persons and papers to be produced at the next hearing on Tuesday. The line of inquiry, it became known, relates largely to the stock market deals in Teapot Dome oil which are said to have enriched Harry F. Sinclair and his personal and political associates about the time he obtained the secret lease from Fall and Secretary of the Navy Denby.

Might Incriminate Him.

Mr. Fall's refusal to testify was based on two contentions: that his replies might tend to incriminate him and that the committee has lost its authority to press the investigation.

If Mr. Fall persists in his refusal to testify Tuesday, the committee may report the facts to the senate, and the president of the senate would be required to certify the facts to the district attorney for the District of Columbia.

The law then provides that the district attorney shall bring the matter before the grand jury and endeavor to secure an indictment for contempt of the senate. The penalty for conviction is a fine of $100 to $1,000 and imprisonment of from one month to one year.

There were reports at the capitol of a move to institute impeachment proceedings against Fall, despite the fact he has been out of the cabinet for more than a year. In case of conviction Fall would lose his citizenship, his right to hold office, and his right to vote.

Call Harding's Secretary.

The list of persons summoned to testify in the inquiry into stock market deals is being guarded with the utmost secrecy, but members of the committee admitted that one of the new witnesses to be called would be George B. Christian Jr., secretary to the late President Harding, and recently appointed by President Coolidge to be a member of the federal trade commission.

Auditing experts "loaned" to the senate committee by the federal trade commission are already at work examining the accounts of brokerage companies. Among the companies whose books are under scrutiny are those of W. R. Hibbs & Co.

Subpoena for Broker.

A subpoena has also gone out for Samuel Ungerleider, Cleveland broker, who formerly operated a branch office in Washington. James Sloan Jr., formerly Ungerleider's Washington representative, was at the investigation today, but was not called.

The list of subpoenas is also understood to contain the names of some New York men who are said to have participated in the boom of Sinclair oil stocks at the time the leases were announced. According to Senator La Follette [Rep., Wis.], who started the Teapot Dome inquiry, the profits to the beneficiaries of the boom were about $30,000,000, and the committee wants to establish the accuracy of this estimate and who got the money.

Picks Ex-Senator Pomerene.

Another important development of the day was the selection of former Senator Pomerene of Ohio in place of Thomas Watt Gregory, attorney general in the Wilson administration, as the Democratic lawyer to be associated with Silas Strawn of Chicago, Republican, in the prosecution of the oil lease cases.

Mr. Gregory reached Washington today and conferred with President Coolidge. It appears that Mr. Gregory was disqualified by reason of the disclosure that he had received from Doheny and the Elk Hills navy oil lease. Mr. Gregory had not deemed himself disqualified, but he found that the president took a different view.

The upshot of the conference at the White House was the disclosure that

Riot, Murder at Teamsters' Union Dance

Warring factions of the Chicago Truck Drivers' and Chauffeurs' union local No. 705 engaged in a gun battle in Carmen's hall, Van Buren street and Ashland avenue, early this morning in the midst of the annual dance of the organization while more than 1,000 men and women were in the hall.

When the gunplay ended and the smoke cleared slowly, one man was found dead and five others were wounded.

The Dead:

WILLIAM NOONAN, 2155 South Hastings street, shot through the heart with a charge of buckshot.

The Injured:

OLIVER VANDERPOOL, 35 years old, 207 Throop street, shot in both legs. Taken to the county hospital.

CHARLES NACEY, 41 years old, Maywood, shot in his left leg. Taken to the county hospital.

JOHN A. TEATING, 26, shot in back.

MORRIS ANNENBURG, 2645 Augusta street, shot in abdomen; serious. Taken to the county hospital.

GEORGE SMALLEX, 2435 South Avers avenue. Taken to the county hospital.

When the police squads from nearby stations and the bureau arrived they locked the doors and announced that the 500 or more men and women would be taken to police stations and wagons from the Central and South Clark street stations were used to convey the prisoners to the Warren avenue station and the detective bureau.

It was said that a vast quantity of illicit booze of uncertain origin had been drunk during the evening at the dance and that this drinking may have started the shooting.

Union Sluggers Seized.

Among those seized were Patrick Kissane, who is believed to have fired the shotgun, and Albert Green, former business agent of the local, and Riggio Hertz, a union slugger.

Green and Hertz were arrested by Sergt. Winge and his squad as they speeded north in Halsted street.

Kissane is alleged by Sergt. Tapscott of the detective bureau to have entered the hall with a sawed off shotgun and opened fire on Noonan, who was near the door of the dance hall on the third floor. Mrs. Bessie Doyle O'Donnell, who was at the dance, later identified Kissane as the man who fired the shotgun.

Several shots were fired. At the sound of these shots, Nacey, who was dancing with Miss May Harris, 943 West Monroe street, sank to the floor with a bullet in his leg. Vanderpool the next moment dropped to the floor with bullets in both legs.

Find Noonan Dead.

Policeman Simon Kennedy of the Warren avenue station, detailed at the hall, was on the first floor and at the sound of the first shot he and Michael Galvin, secretary of the union, supposed that an automobile engine had back fired, but the revolver shots convinced them that there was trouble upstairs. They ran to the third floor and found Noonan lying on the stairs, dead. He died while trying to get out of the hall.

There was a rush of men and women on the stairs that drove the patrolman and Galvin down with them. Before the patrolman could lock the doors half of the men and women had escaped.

Chief Collins and State's Attorney Crowe immediately took charge of the inquiry into the shooting. Chief Collins ordered Galvin and his secretary, Tom Connelly, held for questioning. The chief also said he would bring in the heads of the international union for questioning concerning rivalry between it and the Chicago-for-Chicago union.

On page 3 will be found a page of pictures illustrating the life and career of Woodrow Wilson.

On page 4 is printed the record of his life and achievements.

ASLEEP IN FINAL HOURS; TIRED, BUT WITH NO PAIN

Mrs. Wilson and Dr. Grayson at Bedside; War Chief Was Ill for More than Forty-eight Hours.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 3.—(Special.)—Woodrow Wilson died at 11:15 this morning.

The passing of the former president was announced from in the following statement issued by Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson.

"Mr. Wilson died at 11:15 o'clock this morning. His heart action became feebler and feebler and the heart muscles were so fatigued that it refused to act any longer. The end came peacefully.

"The remote causes of death lie in ill health, which began more than four years ago, namely: arterial sclerosis and hemiplegia. The immediate cause of death was exhaustion following a digestive disturbance which began in the early part of last week, but which did not reach the acute stage until the early hours of Feb. 1."

Fails to Rally from Coma.

The former President failed to rally from the coma into which he lapsed shortly before 10:30 o'clock last night, when Dr. Grayson informed the the newspaper men that Mr. Wilson was in a state of unconsciousness.

From that moment on the former President's life slowly ebbed away and he died without pain.

At the bedside were Mrs. Wilson, Miss Margaret Wilson, his eldest daughter, and Dr. Grayson. Mrs. William Gibbs McAdoo and Mrs. Francis B. Sayre, his other daughters, were not there. Mrs. Sayre is in Siam, and Mrs. McAdoo is on the way across the continent from California.

Died on Replica of Lincoln's Bedstead.

Mr. Wilson died in the third story back room overlooking the city. He expired on a huge four poster bed, a replica of Abraham Lincoln's bedstead, which he had occupied while living in the White House.

In the final hours no one was admitted to the sick room except the doctors and the nurses, Mrs. Wilson and the daughter.

Three ministers, including the Rev. James H. Taylor of the Central Presbyterian church, Mr. Wilson's own pastor, who called Friday, were not permitted to see the sick man because of his extremely depressed condition.

He had been "profoundly prostrated" since early last evening, and his death was momentarily expected. Those at the bedside were prepared for the end.

"Only a miracle can now save him," said Dr. Grayson, his intimate friend and personal physician during the last eleven years, earlier in the evening. Ex-President Wilson's own words were: "The machinery has broken down.'

Mrs. Wilson Holds His Hand to the End.

Earlier in the night Mrs. Wilson, his constant and devoted companion, had found the hand that she held so hopefully almost as cold as death.

The physical collapse on Thursday night, described by the doctors as a "crash," proved that the physical body was too exhausted by its long years of earnest struggle and high endeavor to continue its work. There was no pain nor restlessness. Woodrow Wilson smiled in a feeble attempt to gayly recognize familiar names and faces when their messages of love and their baskets of flowers were borne to him.

After passing a comfortable Friday night, the invalid, critically ill since Thursday, became weaker as the day passed. Every bulletin issued by his physicians before noon and those following indicated that the heroic campaign against death was fast approaching its last battle.

Dr. Grayson Sees Approach of Death.

After the night consultation of his physicians—Drs. Grayson, Ruffin, and Fowler—the bulletin which was issued at 8:30 o'clock Saturday showed that Mr. Wilson could not live much longer.

Those in the Wilson home and the sympathizing crowd grouped about the portals of the S street home were fully prepared for the final sinking.

Mr. Tumulty and Senator Glass, two loyal friends politically and socially, walked a short distance from the crowd with Dr. Grayson. As the physician returned to the sick room the admiral said to Senator Glass, "I told him you sent your love, and he smiled."

The street crowds were thick about the time the 8:30 o'clock bulletin was announced last night. When it had been communicated to the watchers solemn quietness fell over the scene, and for hours hundreds waited in silence for the expected announcement of death.

VALIANT FIGHT OF MORNING

Washington, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The official bulletin issued at 11:30 o'clock this morning follows:

Mr. Wilson is growing steadily weaker. He has been able to take little nourishment. He has had some sleep and has no pain. He recognizes those about him, but is too exhausted to talk. Our efforts in the main are directed toward keeping him comfortable.

CARY T. GRAYSON,
STERLING RUFFIN,
H. A. FOWLER.

Unofficially, the physicians declared that Mr. Wilson's life was slowly ebbing away and that he was conscious most of the time, with Mrs. Wilson at his bedside.

night. Mr. Wilson's tenacity, according to his doctors, was astonishing. They would not venture a prediction how long he might live. They said it was not beyond the range of probability that he would linger several days.

Enormous quantities of mail and telegrams pouring into the Wilson home will be acknowledged, beginning today. Close friends have volunteered to take up secretarial duties; others have offered the loan of servants, motor cars, or anything else needed for the emergency.

Deeply stirred, Admiral Grayson came out early this morning and told waiting newspaper men of the heart breaking fight Woodrow Wilson made for life through the long, silent hours of the night. Dawn found him victorious, but the last bit of his strength seemed spent in the struggle he was slowly losing.

"It almost breaks one's heart to watch his great fight for life," Admiral Grayson said, his voice shaken by the emotion he could not hide.

All the world, it seemed, kept vigil by the bedside of America's dying war President. While little groups watched in front of the S street home hourly bulletins flashed word of his valiant battle to the farthest fringes of civilization. And back came messages of prayerful hope that some miracle might spare him for a while.

Still Call Him "President."

Early evening found Washington telephone exchanges taxed beyond capacity with calls from far and near, all making the one anxious question: "Is the President dead?" It seemed almost pitiful that nearly every one should refer to him as "the President." Inquiries by the thousands poured into newspaper offices and many calls from distant points were directed personally to the telephone company.

As the evening shadows gathered the pilgrimage to Mr. Wilson's house became precipitate. Hundreds—perhaps thousands—of men and women journeyed by foot to the little colonial door from which he delivered his last address. Motor traffic in the street was forbidden and adjacent thoroughfares were almost blocked by the parked cars of those come to pay their last respects.

Scores of the watchers kept their vigil until after midnight, anxiously watching the flickering light in a third floor window that marked the place where Wilson was waging his last fight.

Suffers No Pain at All.

Despite the great exhaustion of the patient, it was said his heart remained strong and his pulse regular. There was no fever, and, for the most part, he suffered no pain. The only hope of his physicians was that there still might be energy enough in his broken constitution to ward off the languor under the spell of which resistance at last would cease.

There was little the medical men could do. More than four years of illness had so racked his constitution that strong medicine and surgery would do more harm than good. They could only watch and hope for the best.

After his night in the sick chamber Dr. Grayson left the Wilson residence at 8:45 this morning for a brief visit to his own home before the morning consultation with the other doctors an hour later.

Dying Man Is Brave.

"He is slowly ebbing away," he said. "He is a brave man. He knows that life is ending."

Mr. Wilson has been conscious or partially conscious, he added, frequently during the day and night that have elapsed since the crisis came. He said also that Mrs. Wilson is bearing the strain courageously. Even before the physician made his appearance and other members of the household were astir, a new procession of friends and admirers of the former president began to pass by the house to leave their cards as a sign of their sympathy, or to stand mutely at a respectful distance. A police line again prevented vehicles from passing through the nearby streets.

Admiral Grayson, when he left the Wilson home for luncheon, said there was nothing of public interest in the few remarks that Mr. Wilson had been able to make. He said Drs. Ruffin and Fowler would meet him again in consultation at 6 o'clock unless developments called them earlier.

Smooth Path to Shadows.

He was questioned concerning the last sentence of the official bulletin. "Does that mean that you are trying to make his death easy?" he was asked.

Dr. Grayson's voice choked and for a moment he was unable to answer.

"Yes," he replied with grave face.

Mr. Wilson's calm resignation and acceptance of the fact that death was inevitable after more than four years of serious illness has impressed all who have been admitted to the sick room.

Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to Mr. Wilson when he was president, was an early morning caller. He did not see Mr. Wilson, but talked with Grayson.

Secretary of Commerce Herbert Hoover, a neighbor of Mr. Wilson; Cordell Hull, Democratic national chairman; and Senator Carter Glass of Virginia were other early morning callers.

Senator Glass, a close friend of the former President, shook his head sadly when asked about Mr. Wilson's condition and walked away without any other reply.

PRAYS FOR WILSON.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The Rev. James Shera Montgomery, chaplain of the house of representatives, in his prayer today opening the session of that body, invoked divine support for Woodrow Wilson as he faces death. The Rev. Mr. Montgomery said:

"In this silence with subdued breath we pray for that most distinguished one as he lingers in the shadows of eternal morning. In that hushed chamber reveal thyself in the varied forms of comfort and peace. Give restful assurance to all sad and heavy hearts. Shelter and keep him unafraid in thy secret place, and may the shadow of the Most High bathe his brow as he awaits the summons to enter his Father's house—in heaven forevermore."

Story of Children Shows Father Killed Mother, Self

Murder and suicide was the verdict returned yesterday by a coroner's jury after an inquiry into the death of Mrs. Marie Rentsch, 2247 Clifton avenue, and her husband Herman. According to Raymond, 15 years old, and Viola, 10, children of the couple, Rentsch came home Friday night and his wife upbraided him for being intoxicated. He drew a revolver, shot and killed his wife, then put a bullet into his own head.

HUNT GIRL'S ATTACKER.

South Chicago police today identified as a man who attacked Miss Clara Rhue, 2729 Manistee avenue, and left her unconscious beside the Baltimore and Ohio tracks [illegible] she was found by her uncle [illegible] of fatal assault Sunday afternoon.

WILSON'S SPIRIT STILL WILL GUIDE PARTY COUNSELS

Momentum of Leadership to Be Felt for Long.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—It is not doubted that the passing of Mr. Wilson will leave a profound impress on the political situation. Although few of his intimates had dared to hope that the former President would recover sufficient strength to take an active part in the approaching presidential election, it was the general opinion that he would exert a potent influence in the councils of the Democratic party during the choice of its candidate and the formulation of its platform, and that he would be heard from in no uncertain terms during the campaign.

The league of nations was the subject closest to his heart. He brooded over the nation's rejection of the league, frequently burst forth in wrathful denunciation of the attitude of his countrymen, and firmly believed that the question would furnish the paramount issue of every national election until settled eventually by the entrance of the United States.

Kept Party to League.

Mr. Wilson contended all along that the Democratic party cannot afford to repudiate the league or any other part of the Wilson program for settlement of the world war. He believed that the party could not afford to modify in any respect its 1920 declarations in favor of the league, and he advocated the reiteration of that position in the 1924 platform and the nomination of a candidate who would champion American acceptance of the league without qualification.

The influence commanded by the former President was to have been put forth to achieve such a result in the Democratic convention this year. Enlisted in support of this program were thousands of Democrats, constituting an important faction of the party, among the more conspicuous of whom are former Gov. Cox of Ohio, presidential candidate in 1920, former Justice Clarke of the Supreme court, former Secretary of War Baker, and other members of the Wilson cabinet, and Bernard Baruch.

Anti-Wilsonites Stirring.

With the removal of Mr. Wilson from the scene this faction of the party will be greatly weakened. Without his inspiration, example, and moral support it becomes problematical how much influence the pro-league faction will be able to exert. Already powerful influences within the party are at work to cut the ground from under the pro-leaguers and mold the platform of the next convention on lines deemed more in keeping with the prevailing opinion of the country regarding the league.

It was expected that Mr. Wilson's influence would be directed mainly to the shaping of the platform and that he would refrain from taking any part in the processes of the choice of the candidate. Nevertheless there are some candidates who eagerly desired his support and others who knew he would be against them and were wondering whether he would actively oppose them.

Didn't Help Son-in-Law.

Political speculation has dwelt for some time on the attitude of Mr. Wilson on the candidacy of his son-in-law, William G McAdoo. It was whispered of late that Mr. McAdoo lacked the blessing of his father-in-law in his ambition to attain the presidency, and in this connection it was recalled that it was the attitude of Mr. Wilson which prevented Mr. McAdoo from becoming an avowed aspirant to the nomination in 1920.

There was a time in the San Francisco convention when one favorable word from President Wilson would have made Mr. McAdoo a candidate and probably would have brought about his nomination. But Mr. Wilson would not say that word, ostensibly because he deemed it improper for the chief executive to participate to the slightest degree in the selection of the candidate.

Mr. McAdoo indorsed Mr. Wilson's November radio address, in which the former President characterized the conduct of the United States since 1918 as cowardly and ignoble, but otherwise he has not stated in detail his present stand on the question of joining the league.

On the other hand, Senator Underwood of Alabama, Senator Ralston of Indiana, John W. Davis of West Virginia, Senator Glass of Virginia, and Mr. Cox, all potential candidates for the nomination, have made declarations regarding the league which approximate to the position held by Mr. Wilson.

COAL FIRM WINS AGAINST CHARGE OF PRICE HIKING

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The federal trade commission today announced dismissal of the Madeira-Hill case, involving charges of conspiracy to increase the prices of certain sizes of anthracite through pyramiding.

The commission said no evidence was adduced showing the Madeira-Hill corporation had agreed with any of its wholesale customers to sell anthracite at stated prices. The wholesalers mentioned by the commission included Pattison & Downs, Inc.; the Titan Fuel corporation; Hartwell-Lester, Inc.; C. P. Brodhead, and Lynn M. Ranger.

Tributes Give Wilson Important Place in History; Praised by Political Foes

Washington, D. C., Feb. 1.—[Special.]—Leaders of all parties tonight expressed their sorrow over the loss of Mr. Wilson. Joseph P. Tumulty, secretary to Mr. Wilson when he was in the White House, said:

"Eleven years of intimate association with this great man, both in New Jersey and in the capital, have builded in my heart in blocks of everlasting granite an affection, an admiration and, I trust, a loyalty that have continued to this eventful moment.

"America never needed more than at this critical hour, the sustaining force of the broad idealism of Woodrow Wilson, and it is too bad that this figure, like a mighty oak, has toppled over and fallen when his voice might have called us back to those knightly days when his influence was used to help a depressed nation and to bring peace to a stricken world.

Scorned Self-Exploitation.

"Woodrow Wilson was not only human but he was great. His humanness, however, was made of too fine a fiber to be used for self-exploitation, nor would he ever permit it to be so used. The trouble with his peculiar kind of humanness was this—it did not bubble, it did not effervesce, it did not sparkle; and so they called him cold when he was only shy; they mistook his gentility for austerity. But that kind of a man will live in the hearts and thoughts of men forever.

"They did not understand Woodrow Wilson, neither did they understand Lincoln. There was something inscrutably hidden about Woodrow Wilson's greatness and, unfortunately, we of this generation only caught flashes of it.

"Now that he is dead, we shall get a new and clearer glimpse into that big heart, and then perhaps we shall see how full it was of love for honor and justice and humanity."

Greatest Since Lincoln—Lansing.

Robert Lansing, who was secretary of state in the cabinet of Mr. Wilson and one of the American delegates to the Paris peace conference, said:

"In the death of Woodrow Wilson the United States has lost its greatest citizen and the most potent intellectual force in its public life. No man, called upon to serve the American people in a time of crisis, ever performed the task with greater fidelity, ability, and ardor than did Mr. Wilson during the years of the great European war, both before and after this nation entered the conflict.

"Woodrow Wilson was a great President, the greatest since Abraham Lincoln. So will he be remembered by future generations as his record of achievement becomes better known and as time softens the harsh judgment of political enemies and the exaggerated praise of enthusiastic friends. The solemn unemotional verdict of posterity will place his name near the head of the list of great Americans, who have rendered distinguished service to their country and to mankind."

World Lacks Equal—Hull.

Cordell Hull, chairman of the Democratic national committee, said:

"The death of former President Wilson fills one with deepest grief and sorrow. Woodrow Wilson was one of the very few greatest Presidents and statesmen in American history. He was more than that—he was the greatest exponent at a most critical stage of those moral, spiritual, and civic ideals so necessary for world rehabilitation and the promotion of permanent peace everywhere. The nation and the world will look in vain for his equal as a statesman, philosopher, and humanitarian. His great services will forever stand out in history."

Representative Finis Garrett, Democratic floor leader of the house, said:

"By reason of circumstances and by force of genius and virtues Mr. Wilson stood for years the most conspicuous personality in the most dramatic epoch in the history of mankind. The true place of a man in history is never fixed definitely during his life. We may have to wait half a century or even longer to know just what his place will be, but it is certain that his name will be, for all time, in every roll call of the immortals."

Viewed by Political Foes.

Speaker Gillett, Republican, said:

"Mr. Wilson was a man of extraordinary intellect, of brilliant power of expression, of inflexible will, and of fixed ideals, who occupied a place of unsurpassed power at one of the world's great crises and therefore will always be a historic figure."

Senator Lenroot, Republican, Wisconsin—Notwithstanding ex-President Wilson's failing health his death is a great shock to the country. He will pass into history as one of the great Presidents of the United States. He was a great leader of a great cause. That he was unsuccessful in accomplishing his principal aims and purposes was not due to any lack of sympathy with his ideals, but to the belief that they could not be secured by the methods he proposed.

Senator Pepper's Estimate.

Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania—The passing of ex-President Wilson removes from the stage one of the strongest characters of our day. By sheer force of intellect he raised himself from an obscure beginning to the topmost pinnacle of fame. From time to time he voiced the aspirations of hundreds of millions of his fellow beings. If he failed to bring them to realization it was not because the aspirations were unworthy, but because he failed to appreciate those human relationships through which along practicable results can be obtained. His aims were high, his courage was unfaltering, his power of expression was unsurpassed. He will go down to history with Jefferson and Jackson and the other great Americans whom he admired and emulated.

Senator Cousens, Republican, Michigan—His intentions were always good. His integrity was above reproach and he died in the interest of his country. I have no doubt that as time goes on and partisan hates are outgrown, he will go down in history as one of our greatest war Presidents. He was criticised for his firmness, but no war can be fought without firmness and with firmness inevitably goes some degree of error.

Lost Life to Ideals—Brookhart.

Senator Brookhart, Republican, Iowa—Woodrow Wilson will remain one of the outstanding figures in American history. All men will approve his great conception of world peace. This was best expressed in his famous fourteen points. Human selfishness prevented him from realizing these points in the treaty of Versailles and that doubtless was the fundamental cause of the failure of the treaty in the United States. No one knew better than Woodrow Wilson himself the fatal effect of the loss of so many of the fourteen points, but he clung to his ideals and lost his health, and finally his life, fighting for his great world conception.

Senator Dill, Republican, Washington—A very great man has passed and even his enemies must admit that Woodrow Wilson has left a great impression upon the world.

World Mourns.—Burton.

Representative Theodore Burton of Ohio, former senator from that state, said:

"Woodrow Wilson is one of the greatest personalities in the history of the United States and the history of the world. He was at the head of this nation in the greatest of all wars and expounded ideas relating to peace and the future which must chain general attention to his memory. Unfortunately he was of a type which made of him a storm center and awakened the most violent opposition, but the country and the world will most sincerely mourn his death."

Senator Shortridge, Republican, California—A distinguished American has fallen, an illustrious career has drawn to a close, and history will accord to Woodrow Wilson a large space in the affairs of his time. Quite apart from the merit or demerit, the wisdom or folly of his national or international policies, above all partisanship, we sincerely deplore the death of our former President and extend to his bereaved family our profound sympathy.

From Copeland and Reed.

Senator Copeland, Democrat, New York—By the death of Woodrow Wilson the United States and the world have both lost a useful citizen. No man in our time has had a greater intellectual grasp of domestic affairs than has Mr. Wilson.

Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri—The country and the world profoundly regret the death of Woodrow Wilson. For four years he has been a tragic figure and his sufferings have evoked the deep sympathy of all the people regardless of political or other differences of opinion.

Senator Sterling, Republican, North Dakota—While I could not agree with many of his policies, I never had occasion to doubt the sincerity of his purpose. From the time he was stricken with serious illness while advocating in entirely the things for which he stood, he has been a pathetic figure and has had, I am sure, the sympathies of all the people regardless of party.

Greatest of This Century.

Senator Curtis [Rep., Kas.]—The people of the United States learn with regret the sad news of President Wilson's passing. The country will join in sympathy with Mrs. Wilson and all the nation will mourn his loss.

Senator King [Dem., Utah]—The really great men of the world are few, but in every crisis Providence blesses humanity with a prophet and leader. Woodrow Wilson is the outstanding figure of this century. He was the truest exponent of democracy since Jefferson and the noblest character since Lincoln. He gave his life for his country.

Representative Madden [Rep., Ill.], chairman of the house appropriations committee, said:

"The nation in Mr. Wilson's death loses one of its most conspicuous figures. The man who occupied the presidency in one of the most trying periods in history, who had command of the greatest army and navy ever assembled under the flag, who did his utmost to adjust world affairs along the line of permanent peace, is dead. It is to be regretted that Mr. Wilson was obliged to suffer so much for so long a period. The nation will mourn his loss."

HARDEN PRAISES WILSON; GERMAN OFFICIALS SILENT

Paris and London Papers Are Sympathetic.

[Copyright: 1924: By the New York Times.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—"Wilson is the heroic Hamlet of American history." This is the keynote of a tribute by Maximilian Harden, which was the only one obtainable from any German source.

The Wilson deathbed bulletins evoked either embittered criticism or equally embittered dramatic silence.

Dead or alive, Wilson is still the best hated man in Germany by the bulk of the Germans. Neither President Ebert nor Chancellor Marx nor Foreign Minister Stresseman would today pay deathbed tributes to Wilson nor make any comment whatever. A high official said: "It is a very delicate theme.—Wilson's fourteen points are gone, but not forgotten by the Teutons."

Harden Pays Tribute.

The solitary exception was when Maximilian Harden paid the following critical, yet handsome, tribute to Wilson:

"Nations have the right to judge the men whom they have raised to power according to the achievements and successes which they gained for the nation that invested them with power. Individuals have the right and duty to check up whether the man clothed with power and might of state under specific circumstances and atmosphere of times could have achieved more than he did accomplish.

"Certain it is that Wilson did not achieve as much as was hoped of him as commander-in-chief, master of a great, fully equipped army with inexhaustible reserves and as food provider, nourisher, and creditor of Europe. It is equally certain that Wilson, however, gained for the United States a moral basis of world rank wherein George Washington would see fulfillment of his ideals."

London Paper Praises Him.

LONDON, Feb. 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—Woodrow Wilson's fight for life and his amazing vitality and fortitude continue to be featured in the English papers, which publish sympathetic appreciations.

The Sunday Observer, like other papers, touches upon what it characterizes as some of his political mistakes, but says his ideals remain, declaring:

"Time is proving him right in his ideals, even while it unfolds the sequel of their abandonment through the compromise he accepted.

"Woodrow Wilson's work did not end at Paris or Washington. His own pioneer part in it suggests criticisms. Others share with him the credit of his ideas, but no man in his position of power ever applied his strength to a more finely conceived purpose."

Paris Is Sympathetic.

PARIS, Feb. 2.—Woodrow Wilson's serious condition caused great concern this morning. The newspapers are most sympathetic in their references to the ex-President, expressing great admiration of the courage he has shown throughout his illness. They also recall his brilliant qualities and the great role he played at the Versailles conference.

Buenos Aires Is Sorry.

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 2.—News of the grave illness of former President Wilson caused a profound sensation here and is featured by the newspapers. Expressions of regret were forthcoming from all circles, as Mr. Wilson always has been most popular here.

FOREMAN KILLED IN NIGHT BLAZE AT SMYTH CO.'S

Loss Is $100,000; Quiz Ordered.

Rapid spreading of a blaze that killed one fireman and caused a loss of $100,000 in the destruction of the six story warehouse of John M. Smythe & Co., 1014-1016 West Madison street, last night caused Fire Marshal Buckley to order an investigation. No estimate was made of the value of furniture lost.

Frank Altman, who has a lunch room across the street from the warehouse, turned in the alarm after he saw fire on the third floor.

Says Watchman Fled.

Soon after that, he said, he saw James Denmore, 1401 South Halsted street, running from the building. When the firemen arrived the blaze extended in the back of the building from the second to the top floor. The police and fire officials want Denmore to tell about what he saw of the fire. It is believed he was panic stricken.

The fireman, Conrad Schwalm, a pipeman of engine company 30, father of six children, was killed almost instantly when a support on which he was standing at the third floor level gave way and he plunged to the sidewalk. He was dead when the ambulance reached the Jefferson Park hospital.

200 Hotel Guests Flee.

Nearly 200 persons were made homeless for the night when the fire spread to the Adams hotel on the east side of the warehouse and a rooming house to the west. There were nearly 100 lodgers, mostly itinerant workers, in the Adams hotel at 1012 West Madison street. Seventy-five persons, including the members of several families, were driven from the rooming house to the west. They sought shelter in nearby stores and women stood wringing their hands and weeping as they saw their household goods being destroyed. Most of them said they were carrying no insurance.

WILSON PRAISED AT GERMAN CLUB BY RICKENBACKER

Ideals Would Save Europe, War Ace Says.

The ideals of Woodrow Wilson former President

CAPT. E. V. RICKENBACKER.

America's dying would have saved Europe from getting into its present mess of internal dissension had they been carried out universally following the war, Capt. Eddie Rickenbacker, this country's world war air ace, said yesterday in a talk before the German club.

"I am a Republican," said Capt. Rickenbacker, "but I cannot say too much in praise of the ideals of Woodrow Wilson. The history of future generations will record him his rightful place as an outstanding benefit to humanity. Not only our own country, but the people of the world will recognize his worth.

"There are still kaisers in Germany—such as Stinnes. Had Germany and other nations of Europe followed Wilson's ideals there would be few of the international troubles which exist today in Europe."

Following Capt. Rickenbacker's talk it was announced that Chicago has have contributed $36,000 for starving German children and that more than $30,000 has come in large contributions from big business houses.

ITALIAN PRINCE AND EDITOR FIGHT DUEL; BOTH HURT

ROME, Feb. 2.—Prince Don Marc Colonna and Tullio Giordana, editor of the Tribune, were both severely wounded today in a duel. Twenty-one assaults were made before the desired coup came. The seconds, on the advice of the doctors, stopped the encounter and later the duelists were reconciled.

The meeting followed attacks in the Tribune on a new organization of economic theorists headed by the prince.

TRIBUNE FUND LIBERATED HIM, GRIFFIS ASSERTS

Gifts Showed Feeling in United States.

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—"It is impossible for me to say in words how I appreciate what THE TRIBUNE has done for me," said Lieut. Corliss Hooven Griffis, just released from a German prison, to THE TRIBUNE this morning during the short stop of the steamship Albert Ballin at Southampton.

"It was the little things which counted as much as anything, such as being able to get news daily and reading matter. Such things made life more bearable during my imprisonment.

"The money raised by THE TRIBUNE undoubtedly was the biggest factor in obtaining my freedom, and the realization that THE TRIBUNE was behind me assured me that I had more chance than I had hoped."

Still Wears Legion Button.

Lieut. Griffis, sitting in a cabin on the steamship, showed marked traces of the ordeal which he had undergone. His face was white and his body somewhat wasted. He still pointed with pride to the American Legion button which he said the Germans had allowed him to keep.

"It was that symbol which kept my spirits during my days of trouble," he said. "I felt that the soul of America was behind me in my efforts and my countrymen were with me.

"This knowledge, and the fact that THE TRIBUNE was straining every effort to assist me, made life easier for me, particularly during the latter part of my imprisonment. I cannot say more than again thank THE TRIBUNE and my countrymen, who have so nobly come to my assistance.

Money Impressed German Mind.

"I believe THE TRIBUNE has been effective in molding public opinion, and undoubtedly it has been the strongest factor of psychologic force on the German mind. Without the financial help of THE TRIBUNE I would have been practically unable to get anything to eat, to say nothing of the little extras which make life bearable.

"It would take me a long time to say all I want to, and all boiled down it would amount to my sincerest thanks to THE TRIBUNE and the realization that without its help I might possibly be still in a German prison."

WOMAN FINISHES TRANSLATION OF NEW TESTAMENT

Mrs. Helen Barrett Montgomery is the first woman to have published a translation of the New Testament. She was the first woman elected official head of a religious denomination, having been chosen president of the Northern Baptist convention in 1921. She has received the honorary degrees of doctor of laws and doctor of humane letters as well as the usual graduate college degrees.

MRS. H. B. MONTGOMERY.

The translation of the four gospels will be used as the standard text book by the Baptist Bible Readers' league, an organization in which it is hoped to enroll 100,000 by July 1.

In explaining why she thought a new translation was necessary, Mrs. Montgomery said:

"To the twentieth century reader the English translations of Wycliffe, Tyndale, and Coverdale are as meaningless as the Vulgate of St. Jerome is to any one who does not understand Latin."

Woodrow Wilson, Twenty-eighth President—High Lights of His Career

At Nation's Helm When It Enters Historic Chapter

WOODROW WILSON was America's guiding spirit in a new epoch. While he was President the United States entered the world war and handed Germany the knockout. The great new world, casting off from its cherished policy of isolation, became an active participant in old world affairs.

The historians years hence will determine where Wilson belongs in the halls of fame. Some say he will rank with Washington and Lincoln. This is challenged by others. No other American President entered so deeply into world affairs or wielded such an influence upon cabinets and thrones.

His Star Had Waned.

The future generations will determine his epitaph. His star, at its height in early 1919, began to wane with the rejection of the treaty at Washington. It dropped lower and lower as the treaty proved a breeding place for wars instead of peace—France in the Ruhr, Greece and Turkey, Fiume, the Balkans, and the flames of warfare and greed that have blazed in Europe since the coming of the peace.

All through the critical years from 1914 to 1920 Mr. Wilson undoubtedly was always asking himself, "How will this step appear to Americans fifty years hence?" He strove for the detached view. At the White House he was aloof, almost isolated, trying to keep his perspective, and then pecking out his conclusions in solitude on his typewriter. He was a scholar, stylist, author, historian, master of the written and spoken word.

Few Legends About Him.

He was a cold, intellectual force, combining idealism with the practical; as a politician he played perhaps the deepest game of any of his contemporaries, not even excepting Theodore Roosevelt. "A reformer need not necessarily be a fool," he once said.

Yet about him is no legend, as there was about Roosevelt, or Jackson, or Lincoln. Compared with other Presidents, he was a man who lived apart. He had a penchant for limericks and a fondness for the theater, and could tell a good story, yet in Washington there is no crop of anecdotes such as cluster about Lincoln and Roosevelt.

At Paris he was one of the "big three" formulating the peace treaty. Lloyd George, Clemenceau, and Wilson were called the world's three greatest democrats. Yet Wilson was America's most autocratic democrat—for six years he brooked nothing from congress, and controlled that coördinate body as if it were wholly subordinate. His force of intellect enabled him to do it. Taft, who was generally with him, once protested: "The United States needs no Cæsar."

Deep as a Politician.

With the possible exception of Roosevelt, Mr. Wilson was the most idolized and the most bitterly assailed President since Lincoln—the common lot of great men who live in big times. He was received in France, Italy, and England with greetings such as a conqueror might have envied—the populace went wild over his idealism, as expressed in his fourteen points, yet the fourteen points at the end were checked at the door of the Quai d'Orsay with the umbrellas and silk hats.

Millions in Europe who had hailed him as Moses called him a "blunderer," and the treaty, rejected by his own country, was denounced as "a breeder of wars and madness."

One tragic moment in the President's life came just as the world war began, when at the bedside of his dying wife he penned a message to the European powers suggesting a peaceful settlement. Mrs. Wilson died Aug. 6, 1914. Her death plunged the President into deep personal grief, and simultaneously with it came the anxiety of guiding the country aright in a world aflame with war. The following year, Dec. 18, 1915, Mr. Wilson was married to Mrs. Edith Bolling Galt, who at once became his constant companion and confidante. Her devotion was untiring through all the weary months of his invalidism.

War Gave Him Leadership.

It was the war which placed President Wilson among the leaders of the world. Before he had been in the White House a year and a half the vast conflagration began, and with it there were thrust on him responsibilities and problems without precedent.

In a proclamation Aug. 19, 1914, Mr. Wilson counseled Americans to be strictly neutral. "The United States," he said, "must be neutral in fact as well as in name during these days that are to try men's souls."

The picture one got of the President in those days was that of a recluse keeping himself aloof at the White House from callers and striving to gain to the utmost possible a detached view of developments and problems.

Although the great body of the American continent seemed willing to trust in the President's guidance, criticism began to manifest itself, in the east at first. Some of Mr. Wilson's stanchest friends became his open critics. Popular resentment against "peace at any price" was rising. The criticism came from those who were "pro-ally" from the outset.

Europe at first was at a loss to understand some of Mr. Wilson's positions. In a speech May 10, 1915, to citizens of foreign birth at Philadelphia, he uttered the famous remark: "There is such a thing as a man being too proud to fight. There is such a thing as a nation being so right that it does not need to convince others by force that it is right."

Sinking of Lusitania.

The most serious situation during the latter part of Mr. Wilson's first term had to do with his diplomatic controversy with Germany over ruthless use of submarines.

On May 7, 1915, the Lusitania was torpedoed and sunk off the coast of Ireland, 1,500 lives being lost, more than 116 of them American. Meanwhile German spies and propagandists had been busy in the United States. Munition plants, ships, and wharves were being burned or dynamited to hinder the shipment of supplies to the allies. Funds from Berlin were financing propaganda in America, agents and spies were everywhere.

The first Lusitania note warned the German emperor against the wanton murder of Americans "on peaceful enjoyment of their rights on the high seas." It said America "must hold the imperial German government to a strict accountability for any infringement of those rights, intentional or otherwise," and that we would not "omit any word or any act" to maintain our rights.

Germany sidestepped and tried to use the United States to force England to raise the blockade. In the midst of the note writing Secretary Bryan quit the cabinet. Many ships were sunk.

Feeling ran high and the President before congress announced that unless Germany changed its methods America would have to sever diplomatic relations. Germany's response was a pledge that merchant vessels would not be sunk without warning. This was observed for a few months, from May 4, 1916, to Jan. 31, 1917, although several cases came up requiring investigation.

Early in 1916 there was a movement among certain members of congress to warn Americans from traveling on armed merchantmen. It took shape in the McLemore resolutions. Germany's threats had led the President to recommend the arming of merchantmen for their own defense against submarines—the policy of "armed neutrality," and Mr. Wilson demanded the defeat of the McLemore resolution. The resolution was defeated by a decisive majority.

When Mr. Wilson sought to put into effect his plan of arming American merchantmen he encountered a filibuster in congress. The house was willing, but the senate delayed the President's program. The filibuster by "ten willful men," as Wilson termed the senate obstructionists, caused him to obtain a change in the senate rules rendering it impossible for a minority to "talk a bill to death."

National defense, or preparedness, had been occupying the public attention ever since the sinking of the Lusitania, and the demand was strong that the country should be placed in a position that would defy aggression. In January and February, 1916, Mr. Wilson made a tour of the middle west advocating preparedness.

"No man can tell what a single day, a single hour may bring forth," was his warning. "The world is on fire and our own house is not fireproof."

The Declaration of War.

On April 2, 1917, the President delivered his historic message to congress asking that America accept the state of war forced upon it by Germany, and on April 6 congress voted for war.

The conscription law was enacted on April 28, 1917, just three weeks after the United States declared herself to be in "a state of war with Germany." Subsequently a similar declaration was issued against Austria.

Training camps were located throughout the country, and within a year nearly 2,000,000 armed and equipped soldiers were landed in England and France.

A second draft, registering men from 18 to 21 and from 31 to 45, was ordered to bring America's fighting force in Europe up to 4,850,000 men, but few of these were called, as the central powers shortly after collapsed.

Meanwhile the United States navy had been greatly augmented, and on Nov. 11, 1918, when the armistice was signed, she had 338 warships and 70,000 enlisted men in service abroad.

During the eighteen months in which the United States was at war it has been estimated that her actual expenditures were $18,000,000,000. This aside from loans to allied governments. Total outlay by the allies was placed at $123,400,000,000.

BIG ECONOMIC MATTERS

War and the preparation for war were not the only problems with which Mr. Wilson had to deal during his administration. When he was inaugurated on March 4, 1913, he had three big economic items on his program. They aimed at a "restoration of the competitive system," to sum it in a phrase. Throughout his campaign and in his book, "The New Freedom," the President had maintained that the Republican protective tariff was a "breeder of trusts," and that the bank system was such as to concentrate cash, restrict credits, and permit the operation of a "Wall street money trust."

As to the tariff, 1910 had seen the election of a Democratic house and speaker on account of "downward revision upward"—Taft first hit the toboggan when he whooped it up for this 1909 tariff act in his Winona speech.

Revision of the Tariff.

Mr. Wilson's three chief items were tariff revision, currency legislation, and "putting the teeth" into the Sherman anti-trust law.

Tariff revision went through quickly. It included the income tax provision, passed under a new amendment to the constitution which had been repeatedly urged by Roosevelt after the Supreme court had declared the first income tax provision unconstitutional.

The passage of the federal reserve act followed, designed to make the national currency more elastic. The bankers shrieked against it, but after it had been in operation a short time they changed their tune. It decentralized credits and made liquid millions of dollars of assets which hitherto were unavailable for currency issues.

Anti-Trust Legislation.

Then, in January, 1914, came the fight for anti trust legislation. The federal trade commission law went through in September, and in October the Clayton anti-trust act was passed, prohibiting, among other things, interlocking directorates; giving government supervision of railroad financing; giving exact definitions of the meaning of the Sherman act, and providing means for reaching individuals responsible for corporate wrongdoing.

In less than two years President Wilson had obtained from congress the three big measures in his program. With them, too, went a large grist of minor reform acts. It was said that more important laws had been passed in the two years than in any like period since the civil war.

THE MEXICAN QUESTION

The largest foreign problem which President Wilson had upon his hands in the first year of his administration was Mexico.

A revolutionary coup d'état in Mexico had overthrown President Madero and placed in dictatorship Gen. Victoriano Huerta. Within a few days, President Madero and Vice President Suarez were assassinated in Mexico City.

President Wilson refused to recognize Huerta, picturing him as a dictator who had "forfeited respect and moral support." For months followed a policy of "watchful waiting."

Conditions became worse. The paymaster of the U. S. S. Dolphin, while loading his whaleboat with supplies at Tampico, was arrested by a squad of Huerta soldiers. Admiral Mayo demanded that the flag be saluted with special ceremony, so great was the affront. Huerta refused the salute, and the result of the imbroglio was the occupation of Vera Cruz by American forces in April, 1914.

For months Gen. Funston held the seaport, then the troops were recalled, Huerta having left the country, though the demanded salute had never been given.

Later came the military expedition for the capture or killing of Francisco Villa, led by Gen. Pershing in March, 1916, following a raid and massacre of American citizens at Columbus, N. M. Villa's band was scattered, but Pershing was withdrawn without either capturing or killing the leader.

It was during this expedition that members of the 10th cavalry were ambushed at Carrizal by Carranza troops and killed or captured.

PANAMA TOLLS DISPUTE

Another problem of the Wilson first term which aroused great discussion was the Panama tolls issue. On Aug. 14, 1914, a few days after the world war began, the Panama canal was opened to navigation. The canal act had granted free passage of the canal to American coastwise ships free of tolls. Great Britain had urged this was in violation of the Hay-Pauncefote treaty.

President Wilson agreed with the view that the provision should be repealed as being "in plain contravention of the treaty with Great Britain" of 1901. He went before congress and asked it to nullify the tolls exemption clause.

He said if his request were not granted he would not "know how to deal with other matters of even greater delicacy and nearer consequence." It was Wilson's first test of strength, and, although he was opposed by Speaker Clark and other leading Democrats, the tolls exemption provision was repealed.

CONTROL OVER CONGRESS

For six years Mr. Wilson exerted a control over congress never equaled by any other President except perhaps Washington. Congress became a subordinate instead of a coördinate branch of government; it lost its initiative powers; it was simply a mill to put through measures prepared by administrative departments.

In the early period the President exercised control through sheer intellectual dominance. Members complained that he treated them "like schoolboys." But they put his measures through. Then, too, among Republicans there was a strong disposition to give the President a full and fair chance to try out his economic theories. Where some Democrats deserted their leaders, Republicans came out in support of administration measures.

During the war period party lines were obliterated. Mr. Wilson's war measures were put through by Republicans after Democrats came out in active opposition to the President. In the 1918 campaign the President, however, made an appeal to the voters to return Democratic members on the theory that this would show the people backed the President. This line of reasoning did not appeal and Republican majorities in both houses were elected. The appeal was perhaps Wilson's most important political blunder.

His Flag Day Speech; an Example of Stirring Heights of His Oratory

Mr. Wilson's famous Flag day address was delivered from the steps of the White House, June 14, 1917, a little more than two months after the United States had entered the world war and when the nation was engaged in the first rush of preparation for the gigantic struggle. The prelude to this speech is considered one of Mr. Wilson's most eloquent efforts. In it he pays this tribute to the Flag of our Country:

"My fellow citizens: We meet to celebrate Flag day because this flag which we honor and under which we serve is the emblem of our unity, our power, our thought and purpose as a nation.

"It has no other character than that which we give it from generation to generation. The choices are ours. It floats in majestic silence above the hosts that execute those choices, whether in peace or in war. And yet, though silent, it speaks to us—speaks to us of the past, of the men and women who went before us and of the records they wrote upon it.

"We celebrate the day of its birth; and from its birth until now it has witnessed a great history, has floated on high the symbol of great events, of a great plan of life, worked out by a great people.

"We are about to carry it into battle, to lift it where it will draw the fire of our enemies.

"We are about to bid thousands, hundreds of thousands, it may be millions, of our men, the young, the strong, the capable men of the nation, to go forth and die under it on fields of blood far away—for what? For some unaccustomed thing? For something for which it has never sought the fire before? American armies were never before sent across the seas. Why are they sent now? For some new purpose, for which this great flag has never been carried before, or for some old, familiar heroic purpose for which it has been men, its own men, die on every battlefield upon which Americans have borne arms since the Revolution?

"These are questions which must be answered. We are Americans. We in our turn serve America, and can serve her with no private purpose. We must use our flag as she has always used it. We are accountable at the bar of history and must plead in utter frankness what purpose it is we seek to serve.

"For us there is but one choice. We have made it. Woe be to the man or group of men that seeks to stand in our way in this day of high resolution when every principle we hold dearest is to be vindicated and made secure for the salvation of the nation. We are ready to plead at the bar of his tory, and our flag shall wear a new luster. Once more we shall make good with our lives and for tunes the great faith to which we were born, and a new glory shall shine in the face of our people."

BROKE CUSTOM WHEN HE SPOKE HIS ADDRESSES TO CONGRESS

PRESIDENT WILSON during his two terms upset various of the precedents which had hemmed in the President almost since the founding of the republic. Most of these were merely customs which had been so strictly observed by his predecessors that they had become the unwritten law of the White House.

The President had not really been inducted into office when he broke the first precedent. This was the elimination of the inaugural ball, for years the greatest social event of the capital.

Hardly had Washington overcome the surprise at this act when Mr. Wilson gave it a second cause for amazement. This was by going before congress in its special session, April 8, 1913, to deliver his address in person. The first two Presidents, George Washington and John Adams, gave their annual messages in person, but Thomas Jefferson, the third President, not having a strong voice, introduced the written form, and all his successors followed this course until Wilson reverted to the original custom.

Mr. Wilson announced that this action was taken in the hope "of getting the two ends of Pennsylvania avenue together." He followed it by opening up the long unused presidential room at the capitol. He made frequent pilgrimages from the White House to that room, and called into conference there the leaders of the legislative branch of the government to discuss with them the problems of the day.

Broke Precedent When He Entered Europe for Peace

PRESIDENT WILSON'S peace work in Paris was the subject of both the greatest praise and condemnation. His two trips to the peace conference—he went first in December, 1918 and again in March, 1919—caused him to be praised by some as the world's peace-maker and to be denounced by others. Many of the latter based their objections on Washington's warning to beware of "entangling alliances" and the embroilments of foreign rulers.

Before his first departure, in an address to congress, he repeated his famous "fourteen points" which, he said, constituted America's interest in the forthcoming council at Versailles. Presentation of these "points," one of which provided for a league of nations covenant, precipitated a bitter controversy in congress which lasted for many months and the ultimate repudiation of the league.

Wild Greeting in Paris.

Two days after announcing in congress his decision to go to Europe, on Dec. 4, 1918, Mr. Wilson sailed for France with Mrs. Wilson aboard the steamship George Washington, leaving New York amidst one of the greatest demonstrations ever accorded an American citizen. He arrived at Brest on Dec. 13 and upon reaching Paris took up his residence in the mansion of the Prince Murat as a guest of the nation.

Following the big public reception upon his arrival in the French capital, which lasted four days, the President conferred with Premier Clemenceau, Col. House, and Herbert Hoover, who was later designated as director general of allied relief in Europe, and who expended $2,800,000,000 in all in his mission of mercy abroad.

On Dec. 26 Mr. Wilson and several members of his party went to London, where he met David Lloyd George and Arthur J. Balfour. Christmas day he spent at Chaumont, France, with Gen. Pershing and the American troops. The British people showed the greatest admiration and affection for the President, and at Manchester and other English cities where he spoke he was wildly cheered. In his London speech he said the league of nations must supplant "the balance of power" in Europe to safeguard the future of the world.

King George entertained the President and Mrs. Wilson at Buckingham palace and at the end of what he called "a delightful visit" the President and his wife went to Carlisle, England, the birthplace of his mother and where his grandfather was a preacher.

His Visit to Italy.

The President returned to Paris on Dec. 31 and left almost at once for Italy, where on Jan. 3 he spoke before the chamber of deputies, dined with the king and Ambassador Page, and a day later paid his respects to Pope Benedict. The pope presented his guest with a rare mosaic picture. While in Italy Mr. Wilson was made a "citizen" by 1,400 or more Italian cities and towns.

Returning to Paris on Jan. 9, he at once began to hold informal meetings with allied statesmen and on the 18th he nominated Premier Clemenceau of France as permanent chairman of the peace conference.

On Jan. 30 the President signed a proclamation giving full recognition to the free and independent Republic of Poland. He also warned the Poles and Czechs that they must not occupy disputed territory. He advanced also $5,000,000 to the new Czecho-Slav republic.

On Feb. 14 he read the text of the constitution of the league of nations before the conference at Versailles and declared it could not be separated from the peace treaty. The next day he sailed from Brest for Boston, as the French papers said, "a very tired man."

On his arrival he made a speech at Boston and expressed the belief that the league would not usurp the powers of congress, that no nation was bound to stay in it against its will, and that serious trouble between the five great powers was "unthinkable." At the same time he declared the league would not contravene the Monroe Doctrine.

Leads a Huge Review.

The President's return to Washington was marked by his leading on foot, carrying an American flag, a big parade of soldiers returned from overseas. Among his first executive acts was the signing of a $6,000,000,000 revenue bill.

The day before his second departure for Europe, March 4, he went to New York, and in a speech at the Metropolitan Opera house charged that his critics had "never felt the world's pulse," and that he would not return from Paris "till it's over, over there."

At the same time he accused certain senators with having "deliberately chosen to embarrass the administration."

Arriving back in Paris on March 14, he attended the supreme council, and three days later had the satisfaction of seeing the league of nations covenant incorporated as an appendix to the proposed treaty.

First of Criticism Abroad.

While Mr. Wilson's return to France was marked by real cordiality there was less of the spirit of jubilation by the populace of Brest and other towns through which he passed on his first visit. He soon became the target of writers in the French press and was criticised by British and Spanish papers as "autocratic" and "too idealistic."

This was accentuated by the fact that from the start the American delegation was a one-man power. Wilson did the thinking, the deciding, and the acting. The other members were reduced to little more than dummy directors; the President remained aloof and inaccessible, rarely consulting with them. He told them little, and the other delegates might have been so many stuffed shirts at the Hotel Crillon. All of which was brought out in books after the battle of Paris, notably in Mr. Lansing's. It may be that in this very fact lay the turning point in Mr. Wilson's destiny—if the President had picked a delegation of America's very greatest and had given each a full voice it might, perhaps, have changed the course of history, so some close observers fancy.

Strained Relations with Leaders.

Meanwhile his relations with his peace confrères were reported somewhat strained. Lloyd George was said to have opposed making the league of nations a part of the treaty, and Clemenceau was reported to have taken umbrage at Mr. Wilson's declaration that the United States would not fully indorse the attitude of France on the question of the Rhine lands.

Premier Orlando of Italy and his colleagues, after a long statement by the President, in which he explained his attitude on the Adriatic question, quit the peace conference in a body.

An aftermath of this situation occurred some months later when Gabriele d'Annunzio, poet warrior, at the head of 15,000 of his countrymen, forcibly "annexed" Fiume to Italy. Public thoroughfares in Italian cities which had been named in honor of the American President were changed from "Wilson" to "Fiume" street.

Trouble with Bolsheviki.

The situation in Russia and the former central empires was demanding the President's attention. Bolshevism was daily growing more menacing. The President had sent two American envoys to Russia, and also a commission headed by Elihu Root. Advocacy by the allies of armed intervention in Russian affairs Mr. Wilson met with the declaration that the United States could not give its military support.

Subsequently the President authorized the sending of 8,000 troops to Siberia, following the withdrawal of American soldiers who had been sent to Vladivostok and the Murmansk coast early in the war.

On March 24 announcement was made in Paris that the President was ill and that his place at the supreme council table would be taken temporarily by Col. House. Meanwhile there was no cessation of criticism at home.

Recovered from his indisposition on April 7, the President was reported to have delivered an "ultimatum" to the supreme council that he would quit the conference unless it expedited its work. During these later weeks many of the protests in America were directed against the alleged secrecy which surrounded the council's deliberations.

Treaty Given to Germans.

On May 7 the peace treaty, finally drafted and embodying a number of Mr. Wilson's "fourteen points," was laid before the Germans at Versailles. Its terms caused the Count von Brockdorff-Rantzau, head of the German peace emissaries, to appeal to the President for a personal interview in the hope of obtaining more moderate terms. The President declined to meet him.

In a speech in Paris the President declared America had entered the war "to liberate the world." He later declared he would not keep the American troops of occupation in Germany for an indefinite period and announced the date for beginning demobilization.

He called congress into special session on May 19 and cabled a message of 5,000 words. Weeks passed and both houses were in the dark as to the text of the treaty.

Meanwhile the document had been printed in Berlin and other former enemy countries, its contents were known to the governments of Europe and Washington was the one capital in ignorance of its terms. Congress importuned the President for the official text and he refused pending its acceptance by Germany. THE TRIBUNE obtained a copy of the text, brought it over from Paris to Chicago, then sent it on to Washington and presented it to the senate, which thus received its first knowledge of the terms.

At length at the Chateau of Versailles Mr. Wilson and his colleagues signed the treaty June 28 and the flags of twenty-three nations were broken out. The next day Mr. Wilson sailed again for America with the parting observation that "we are at the crossroads."

At Home, Defends Course.

Reaching New York on July 8 the President went from the pier to Carnegie hall, where he made a speech in explanation of his course abroad. He arrived in Washington July 9 and the next day submitted the peace treaty to the senate, with whom rested the ratifying power. In an address to that body he outlined the work of the peace conference.

On July 29 he presented the Anglo-American and Franco-American treaties to the senate, two agreements which obligated the United States to go to the defense of her allies in event of aggression by Germany or any of the former central powers.

The President's cross country tour in behalf of the league of nations was started on Sept. 2, his itinerary covering many cities from coast to coast.

Scheduled to speak in Wichita, Kas., on the night of Sept. 26, the President, wearied by months of labor and anxiety, abandoned the tour, went to his bed and the special train which was bringing him east sped on to Washington five days ahead of schedule.

Arrived at the capital, the President was taken to the White House, where he remained a sick man for eighteen months, until his retirement to private life in March, 1921.

In 1920 he was awarded the Nobel peace prize. He never lost faith in the league of nations, and in brief talks in his house within the last few months he expressed confidence that ultimately his views would prevail.

Some of Wilson's Sayings Which Bid Fair to Live in American History

While his addresses were not replete with aphorisms as were those of former President Roosevelt, Mr. Wilson coined many phrases which caught public fancy at the time and were often repeated later. Some of his sayings follow:

If you think too much about being reelected, it is very difficult to be worth reelecting.

Son of Preacher, He Fights His Way to the Presidency

WOODROW WILSON, born Dec. 28, 1856, at Staunton, Va., was of Scotch-Irish ancestry which came from Ulster early in the nineteenth century. His father was a clergyman of the Presbyterian church and his mother was the daughter of a clergyman of the same faith.

Mr. Wilson entered Princeton as a student in 1875 and was known as "Tom" until his graduation in 1879, when he dropped his front name and was thereafter known only as Woodrow Wilson. In his campus days he appeared as a young man of maturity of character, blended with great zest for things pertaining to college life.

He became managing editor of the Princetonian, and, although without particular ability in athletics, he was a leader in the stimulation of sports, and in '78 was president of the athletic committee. He sang in the chapel choir and uplifted his voice in the glee club.

Would Not Urge Protection.

He became one of the star debaters, but when the day for competing for the big prize of the Lynds debate, to which he had looked forward, dawned, he put his hand into the hat and drew out a slip which required him to uphold the side of protection in "Free Trade vs. Protection." He tore up the slip and said he was a convinced free trader and that nothing would induce him to advance arguments in which he did not believe.

In May, 1882, he hung out his lawyer's shingle in Atlanta, Ga. He went into partnership with Edward Ireland Renick, but clients never came, and Mr. Wilson went north for post-graduate work at Johns Hopkins at Baltimore.

On the heels of this came invitations to college chairs, and Mr. Wilson accepted one from Bryn Mawr. He was married to Ellen Louise Axson in June, 1885.

The year 1890 saw Mr. Wilson back at Princeton, this time as professor of jurisprudence. Twelve years later he became president of the university, and his fight started for the "democratization" of the university, in which student cliques were abolished and the sons of rich and poor men were encouraged to fraternize.

He began to broaden out as a publicist; his speeches and writings on governmental subjects began to bring him into the public eye. The first mention of him in connection with the presidency was by Col. George Harvey before the Lotos club, Feb. 3, 1906.

In 1910 the college professor, who was said to be contemplating retirement on a teachers' pension, burst into active political life as New Jersey's governor.

Elected Governor of New Jersey.

As governor Mr. Wilson was hailed as a new type in politics. The old style Democratic bosses had picked him as a man who could carry the state, and had sent word that if he would allow his name to be presented he could feel assured of the nomination. Dr. Wilson replied if the people wished him to run he would. The bosses, among them the big one, James Smith Jr., smiled into their sleeves—it sounded like regulation stuff. The state convention brewed a hot fight, this through a suspicion that the bosses were gearing up the steam rollers in Wilson's behalf. But despite charges that he was a candidate of "the interests," Wilson won.

During the campaign Mr. Wilson boldly said that the Democratic bosses were out and would stay out if he had anything to say about it. Smith and his pals looked on this as the usual campaign buncombe.

"Licking of the Gang."

The awakening came after the election. The Democratic legislature had been elected, and Smith announced he would run for the United States senate. Dr. Wilson at once said he would fight him. What happened was described by one of Wilson's friends: "This long haired bookworm of a professor who had just laid his spectacles on his dictionary came down to the Trenton statehouse and licked the gang to a frazzle."

Having "walloped the gang" and made himself state leader of his party, Mr. Wilson proceeded to put through his pet measures. They became known as the "Seven Sisters," a deft allusion to the charge which the bosses were raising that Wilson was a radical, or in political parlance, a "long hair." Among them were direct primaries, a corrupt practices act, a public utilities law, cold storage regulation, and an employers' liability law. New Jersey had been a rendezvous for monopolistic corporations, and the new laws forbade the incorporation of predatory trusts within the state.

By the time the national conventions of 1912 were approaching Mr. Wilson was being regarded as a promising, high-minded, and astute Democrat of the new school.

Mr. Wilson's nomination to the presidency by the national Democratic convention in 1912 at Baltimore, after a prolonged deadlock, was a dramatic episode. The Republicans had split, and the Bull Moose had formed the third party. With the opposition divided, it looked clearly a Democratic year, a cinch in particular if the Democrats put up a progressive candidate.

The blowup in the Republican convention in the Chicago Coliseum had hardly died away before the astute on both sides were picking Wilson as the probable Democratic standard bearer, despite the fact that he lacked the votes at first.

Champ Clark, speaker of the house, went to Baltimore with more than a majority of the votes up his sleeve. The two-thirds rule is a Democratic principle. Clark registered his majority, but failed to roll up the necessary two-thirds. It was the first time a majority candidate failed ultimately to connect.

Gains Help of Bryan.

William Jennings Bryan, who thrice ran for President, wielded power. He called upon all candidates to decline the support of "Wall street" delegates, the Tammany bunch. Mr. Wilson was emphatic in his refusal to accept such votes, and Bryan and his followers swung their support to him, despite the fact that Mr. Wilson a few months before had written a friend expressing the fervent hope that Bryan might be "knocked into a cocked hat."

The convention ran into its second week with the delegates deadlocked. Insiders surmised that Bryan was not shedding tears, but entertained some measure of hope that the tieup might eventually shake the plum into his own lap for the fourth time. Finally a Wilson stampede, started by Roger Sullivan of Illinois on the forty-third roll call, reached its climax on the forty-sixth ballot, when Mr. Wilson was nominated with 990 votes, Clark getting 84.

Elected in Landslide.

That November Mr. Wilson was elected President in a landslide—he even carried Illinois, the banner G. O. P. state—the first Democrat chosen in sixteen years, the first since Cleveland.

President Wilson was nominated for a second term by acclamation in the Democratic convention at St. Louis. Charles Evans Hughes had been named by the Republicans. The November election returned Wilson by 277 electoral votes, as against 254 for Hughes.

RADICALISM IS GIVEN SETBACK AT MINERS' MEET

Four Year Wage Scale Approved by Workers.

Indianapolis, Ind., Feb. 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—Conservative trade unionism has scored a marked triumph over "the destructive influences of communism," International President John L. Lewis of the United Mine Workers of America declared today after adjournment of the miners' biennial convention. He spoke of the convention's work as a whole, and of the repudiation for the second time of Alexander Howat, deposed Kansas district president.

"The complete rout of the radical influences," Mr. Lewis said, "demonstrates that the overwhelming majority of the membership of the United Mine Workers' organization believe in constructive progress through the instrumentality of orderly procedure.

Radicals Haunt Convention.

"The United Mine Workers has been made the target by these gray wolves of a pernicious philosophy. The master minds of radicalism in America have been hovering around the Indianapolis convention, and nightly have assembled in their dens to lay their plans for stampeding the convention on the following day. Gathered here were Foster, Myerscoough, Howat, Dunne, Hamilton and others of their ilk, with ample funds at their disposal to carry out their preconceived plans for the destruction of the largest unit of American labor.

"As they have failed now, they will fail again, but it behooves our citizenship to recognize the menace of such sinister influences and to place the heel of disapproval upon its serpent head.

Praises Four Year Scale.

"The scale demands of the United Mine Workers as enunciated by this convention should receive the indorsement of all thoughtful citizens. They represent a constructive policy designed to insure peace within the industry for a period of four years, and will give ample time for necessary readjustment."

Last minutes of the convention were filled with dramatic situations. After gaining the front of the hall while President Lewis hammered for order and demanded in his resonant voice, "Alexander Howat, for what purpose do you come to this convention?" the former Kansas president proceeded to the stage approach and then to a stand three feet from the chairman.

Howat Is Ejected.

Two sergeants-at-arms took Howat by the arms. He struggled till they got him to the stairs, and then said, "I'll go," and with that was shoved down the steps. For five minutes there was a possibility of rioting, and a call for police was sent out, but order was restored by President Lewis' sharp whacks of the gavel, marking the end of the convention.

Delegates favoring the administration left the hall, but insurgent leaders passed around word that a rump convention would be held.

Called to order by John Watt of Springfield, Ill., about 300 delegates heard Howat after the convention's adjournment and adopted a demand for a special convention to "give Kansas miners justice" and "impeach John L. Lewis."

The next biennial convention, in January, 1926, will be held in Indianapolis, which received 581 votes, against St. Louis, which received 326. There were nine other cities proposed.

NINETEEN YEAR SEARCH FOR DAUGHTER ENDS

After a nineteen year search Mrs. Beatrice Stein is reunited with daughter, Mrs. L. Raynor.

Nineteen years ago Mrs. Beatrice Stein and daughter, Mrs. L. Rayner, who were reunited yesterday, looked like this. The picture was taken by The Tribune shortly before the disappearance of Mrs. Rayner, then 4 years old. (TRIBUNE Photo.)

FINDS "SON" WITH DAUGHTER AFTER 19 YEARS' SEARCH

Mother Weeps with Joy at Reunion.

A woman in early middle life paced nervously about the 12th street station yesterday awaiting the arrival of a Boston train. She fearfully scanned each face as the passengers finally streamed through the gates.

At the very end of the procession appeared a tall, blackeyed girl, her features almost hidden in a wealth of white furs. At her throat was a tiny flash of crimson and at sight of it the woman sprang forward and clasped the girl in her arms. The ribbon was the talisman by which the woman, Mrs. Beatrice Stein of Cincinnati, knew that her daughter, Irene, lost to her since August, 1905, was at last restored.

Sobs with Joy.

"It really is my baby. I would have known you anyway among a thousand," half sobbed the joyful mother, burying her face again and again amid the furs.

"And, mother," exclaimed Irene, tearing herself loose to point out an embarrassed young man nearby, "you must meet your new son. You know, I'm Mrs. Louis Rayner now."

Then the three turned to thank Miss Frances E. Spooner, an attorney of 5 North La Salle street, whose ability as an amateur detective had brought it all about.

Later at the home of Mrs. Esther Tamon, 7342 Coles avenue, Irene's aunt, Mrs. Stein retold the story of her nineteen year search for the 5-year-old girl who mysteriously disappeared from her home at 345 Marshfield avenue when the mother was on the point of obtaining a divorce from her first husband.

Never Ceased Hunt.

"I searched the world over, but could find no trace of Irene," she said. "I offered $1,000 reward, but it did no good."

But throughout the years, the mother declared, she never once ceased to search, and two weeks ago came a telephone call from Attorney Spooner.

"The Salvation Army had asked me to find Irene's mother," supplied Miss Spooner. "You see, Irene had been placed in an institution in London.

"But, anyway, Irene grew up, married and came to Boston, and begged the Army to help find her mother. Old court records gave no clew to Mrs. Stein's whereabouts, but by calling a million phone numbers—more or less—I found Irene's grandfather, Hyman Rosenfeld. The rest was easy."

"Must Never Leave."

"You must never leave me," child; you must go home to Cincinnati," implored the mother, tenderly caressing Irene's black tresses.

"O, I would just love to, mother, and maybe I can for a little while—but——"

And Irene's eyes wandered to young Mr. Rayner.

"You know Louis is very fond of Boston."

And the happy mother sighed—and smiled, too.

HORNY HANDED LABOR MEN NAMED TO CHECK KING'S GROCERY BILL

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—King George today approved the appointment of eight Labor members of parliament who will have charge of the expenditures in his household. As such they may decide whether the proverbial "four and twenty black birds" are the correct filling for the royal pie.

As auditors of his majesty's expense account they probably will be surprised to learn how much he has been accustomed to pay out of his private purse for the continuance of various customs and ceremonies connected with the maintenance of a throne. These they cannot pass upon, confining themselves to that support furnished by the state.

Of the new lords commissioners of his majesty's treasury William Graham is the secretary. He is a journalist, who made an enviable record as a scholar during his six years at Edinburgh university. Associated with him as lords commissioners are Fred Hall, the Labor whip and for long the treasurer of the Yorkshire miners' association, Thomas Kennedy from Scotland and John Robertson, who worked in a coal mine as a boy.

Another miner, John Allen Parkinson, is controller of the king's household. Thomas Grimth, divisional officer of the iron and steel trades confederation, is treasurer of the king's household, and the vice chamberlain is John E. Davison, an official of the iron founders' society.

While the Tory press is horrified at the idea of horny handed sons of toil turning the pages of the royal bankbook, King George does not seem to share their feeling.

18 BURN TO DEATH WHEN TROLLEYS CRASH HEAD-ON

Bodies Cremated; 30 Injured in Indiana.

Fortville, Ind., Feb. 2.—The death toll of the wreck of two Indiana Union Traction company trains, which collided head-on near here late today, will probably reach eighteen, rescue workers said tonight.

Nine badly charred bodies have been removed from two cars that were destroyed by fire and seven other bodies are believed to be in the wreckage. One man injured in the wreck died later in an Anderson, Ind., hospital. Forty injured have been removed to hospitals at Anderson and Indianapolis.

Interurbans Crash Head-on.

The two interurbans, jammed with passengers, crashed head-on at a sharp curve outside Fortville. Both cars were going at a speed estimated by some of the passengers at fifty miles an hour.

There was a sudden crash, the survivors said, and the two cars telescoped. The wreckage caught fire immediately.

While rescuers looked helplessly on several of the injured were slowly burned to death. Apparently not one passenger escaped without more or less serious injuries.

The dead were placed in the station as they were removed from the wreckage to await the arrival of the coroner from Anderson.

Bodies Not Identified.

Some of the bodies were burned so badly identification was practically impossible. Late tonight only one body—that of Dr. E. Blain Haskin of Indianapolis—had been identified.

The cars were of wooden construction and burned rapidly, with intense heat, leaving a mass of embers and hot trucks and brake rods.

15 SHORT WORDS TELL FOURTH OF WHAT'S IN BOOKS

Not One's a Noun, Professor Finds.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—More than 25 per cent of all the words in an average book or novel consist of fifteen small words, it was learned from a list given out here today by Prof. Carl C. Brigham of the psychology department of Princeton university. The fifteen words, none of them more than four letters in length, are the most important from the standpoint of frequency of occurrence, if not from the standpoint of abstract conception, and an interesting feature is that not one of the number is a noun.

This disclosure was made in connection with the recent discussion among Princeton professors concerning the six words containing the conceptions of most fundamental importance to man and the statistics given are the result of investigation of more than 4,000,000 words of all kinds of English literature.

"Time" Tops all Nouns.

Such words as "in," "and," "that," are much the most used of our words, as shown in a recent publication of Edward L. Thorndike, professor of educational psychology, of the Teachers' college of Columbia university. It happens that of the first hundred words, most used in the language, only six are nouns, and of these six "time" is the leader.

The fifteen most used words are as follows: In, and, that, a, the, to, with, be, of, as, all at not for on. Closely behind "time" in the scoring column of nouns is "day" its wide occurrence apparently being due to the fundamental unit of time which it represents. As might have been expected, "man" finds a high ranking among the nouns, having but one less point than "day." Fourth position goes to "place," while tied for fifth and sixth positions are "year" and "work."

List of Basic Concepts.

The complete list, "time, day, man, place, year, work," according to Prof. Brigham, contains the fundamental concepts which lie at the basis of the every day life of the ordinary man, their position showing the importance played in language by words representing common concrete conceptions. The fifteen small words of most frequent occurrence merely help to exemplify the meanings of the nouns, or convey ideas supplementary to those more positive ones.

"BANANA" GOWN PARIS' VERY LATEST; FITS LIKE BANANA'S SKIN

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—"Yes, we have no bananas," is the name of a wonderful clinging, sinuous yellow plaited evening gown and cape, which was the sensation of Jean Patou's initial showing of spring and summer models today. The shorter shaped skirt, tapering and revealing every line of the figure, was the outstanding feature.

M. Patou forecasts an early return to the "elegant" modes of 1887, with plaiting to give the skirts the volume formerly obtained through wearing innumerable petticoats.

"The women will not return to petticoats," M. Patou said. "The tendency continues toward simplicity and the elimination of all superfluous garments."

An innovation this year is the "ensemble" outfit, which includes capes, cloaks, and practically every dress needed for sport, afternoon, and evening wear.

M. Patou admits the effort to reestablish tailor mades has failed because "once the jacket is removed the blouse and bodice are not becoming."

The three piece gown has also disappeared.

Banana tint, combined with pink, is the most popular color, but black holds a predominant place again. M. Patou is the first big dressmaker to employ artifical silk, using vegetable fiber fabrics for several gowns.

"The richness, liveliness, and glimmer of artificial has dethroned real silk, but it has a serious drawback—it does not wear well, and only the richest women can afford it," said M. Patou.

Lace ornaments the gowns, after years of absence.

SPAIN'S DICTATOR WILL BE OUSTED, MADRID HEARS

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

MADRID, Feb. 2.—It is asserted in informed circles here that Dictator Primo de Rivera, after his four months' effort to rule Spain as Premier Mussolini rules Italy, is ready to give up the job, and the appointment of a successor is only a matter of few days.

Senor de Rivera no longer possesses the full support of the army, and he is estranged from the king and the court by his severity with his political opponents. King Alfonso is said to be contemplating naming Gen. Valeriano Weyler, former commander in the Philippines and Cuba, as premier, as soon as Senor de Rivera can be retired.

It is said that on the last occasion Senor de Rivera presented a list of his enemies to King Alfonso for banishment the king, astonished at the large number of Spanish notables included, said, "You have forgotten one name," and wrote "Alfonso" underneath the list. Senor de Rivera then destroyed the list.

PRISON WARDEN OUSTED AFTER THREE ESCAPE

Little Rock, Ark., Feb. 2.—The Arkansas penitentiary commission tonight announced the dismissal of Warden Hamp Martin, who was kidnaped yesterday by three condemned murderers confined in the "death house" at the penitentiary and forced to drive the prisoners from the prison in his automobile.

The dismissal of the warden followed the declaration by Gov. T. C. McRae late today that the escape of the three prisoners "undoubtedly was due to negligence of somebody within the prison walls." The governor asserted that the matter would be "probed to the bottom to determine where the responsibility lies."

Seize Three Youths on Suspicion After Long Chase

Three youths suspected of being holdup men were arrested yesterday morning by Detective Sergeant Albert Winge and his squad from the detective bureau, following an automobile chase on the west side. Several shots were fired by the policemen. The men gave their names as Leo Orchel, 19 years old, 440 North Des Plaines street; George Gerhardt, 19 years old, 2359 West Grand avenue, and David Nocheletti, 20 years old, 1352 Ancona street. A woman's handbag was found in their automobile.

Was Methuselah's Great Age Due to Radium?

Have you heard about Radium as now being used to prolong life and to relieve suffering?

Let us send you booklets telling about this very remarkable element, its tremendous power for good, letters from people who have suffered for years from all kinds of disease telling their own experience and results from using Radium in this new form.

This information will no doubt startle you, but these same results are being gotten every day, perhaps by your next door neighbor. There is something almost spookish about this little Radium Pad. You put it on, wear it day and night, and right soon you notice that you are perking up and the next thing you know you are well. Contrary to general belief, these Radium Pads are not expensive. Then again, there is no additional upkeep or operating expenses connected with them.

These Pads are benefiting daily people sick with practically every known ironnie the human race is subject to. The literature we send you will tell you how this is possible. Then, if after reading these booklets, no matter how skeptical you are feeling or how long you have been sick, we will be very pleased to have you try the Pad for 10 days, and do so without any risk on your part. You wear the Pad. If you are satisfied you keep it. If not, send it back, and it costs you but two to twelve cents, according to what postage rate you try it, for postage one way, to return it to us.

Write today for these free booklets, and tomorrow or next week, or some other time. Get the stamp ready, but write now. It's very interesting. Address Radium Appliance Co., Dept. 1411 Bradbury Bldg., Los Angeles, Calif.

The former company producing this form of Radio-Active Health Appliance from 10,000 to 20,000 Pads a day is dead. The satisfied Pad users have plan.

YOUNG DIVORCEE IS GLAD POISON WAS WEAK; HUBBY PAYS

LUCILLA MONTGOMERY.

Miss Lucille Montgomery, 20 years old, 810 Hyde Park boulevard, known also as Mrs. Lucille Baron, rejoiced yesterday over her failure, six weeks ago, to commit suicide by poisoning, while despondent through fear of receiving no alimony. For yesterday before Circuit Judge Ira Ryner, Miss Montgomery, through Attorney Lloyd Faxon, was granted a divorce from Saul Baron, wealthy eastern sporting goods manufacturer, and was given a $5,000 cash settlement.

In filing his client's cross-bill, alleging cruelty, July 10, Attorney Faxon turned the tables on Baron, who was suing to annul his marriage with the former model for Mme. Alla Ripley, on the ground that he had married within the two years stipulated after his first wife had divorced him.

DOWNSTATE DRY KLAN RAID PUTS 130 MORE IN JAIL

Young, Dressed as a Hunter, in Lead.

Benton, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—One hundred and thirty persons were arrested late last night and early this morning by special officers and members of the Ku Klux Klan in a series of spectacular raids on private homes in various parts of Williamson county.

The throng of raiders were led by S. Glenn Young, dry worker under Klan employ. Their principal targets were private residences, although a number of Negro communities were visited. Half a dozen stills, thirty barrels of home made wine, sixty gallons of moonshine, and hundreds of gallons of domestic beer were confiscated.

Special Train for Captives.

Young and his cohorts chartered a special train from the Chicago and Eastern Illinois railroad, herded the scores of prisoners aboard, guarded the exits with armed men, and brought the caravan here from Johnston City.

Arriving here, the most amazing parade ever seen in this city was put on up east Main street, across the square and on to the city hall. The coming of Young had been telephoned, and people flocked from all directions to see the procession.

Ahead of the parade came prominent business men of Williamson county and an attorney who hastened to arrange for bondsmen. The prisoners were marched up town in the middle of the street. On either side were lines of armed guards.

Young in Hunting Costume.

Justice of the Peace Cesar Cagle of Herrin, who issued the warrants, headed the procession.

Right up in front Young marched in a light colored hunting costume. He carried a machine gun and was also armed with revolvers. Nearing the square and seeing the big crowd blocking the way, Young yelled to make room, and the people opened a passageway for the procession. The sightseers viewed the scene with much amusement. Some of the prisoners were laughing.

While considerable shooting was done by the raiders, it was said that the shots were fired only into the air above fleeing citizens' heads.

Last night's mobilization was the fourth in this county within the last few months. Following an outbreak of resentment on the part of local inhabitants and anti-klansmen the state authorities were compelled to send three companies of militia to prevent a riot.

WORKS DESPITE SKULL FRACTURE, THEN HE DIES

Despite a fractured skull, which resulted in a cerebral hemorrhage, Fred Semon worked for half a day without realizing that he had been fatally injured, according to Dr. A. T. Horn of the Wesley Memorial hospital staff.

Becoming suddenly faint, Semon fell to the sidewalk in front of his store at 22 West 50th street Friday noon. His head struck the cement. Semon got to his feet, stepped inside, and tended his shop all afternoon.

Early in the evening he complained of a headache and lay down. Several hours later, when his family was unable to awaken him, Semon was taken to the hospital. He died yesterday noon.

PEOPLE TO VOTE YES OR NO OVER DEVER TRACTION

Schwartz Predicts Early Offering of Program.

Propositions involving either the purchase of one of the two existing transportation units or the construction of subways may be placed before the voters at the June election, it was said yesterday, after a conference between Mayor Dever and Ald. U. S. Schwartz [4th], chairman of the council local transportation committee.

U. S. SCHWARTZ. (Matzene Photo.)

Negotiations with the surface lines' owners have progressed to such a point, according to Ald. Schwartz, that success or defeat of the administration's purchase plan is probable within ninety days.

To Press "L" Negotiations.

In the meantime, as an alternative in the event of failure of its scheme to acquire the surface lines, the administration, it was said, will press negotiations with the elevated lines to conclude terms under which a municipally owned subway may be operated.

Milo Maltbie, New York subway expert, is now engaged in a study of the several subway projects offered the city in recent years, including that presented in a comprehensive traction program to the transportation committee a few months ago by Maj. R. F. Kelker, its engineer.

Dever Believes Subway Needed.

"In his conversation with me, Mayor Dever reiterated his belief that Chicago must have a subway," declared Ald. Schwartz. "But he also insisted that existing questions must be disposed of first.

"The mayor still is convinced that it would be folly to spend the city's $40,000,000 traction fund for a subway that would not fulfill the fond hopes held by its proponents. The surface lines are here and must be dealt with in any program of solution for the transportation problem.

Wants Definite Terms.

"Again the mayor is unwilling to begin digging a subway until the terms on which it will be operated and by whom have been determined definitely.

"However, a decision in the more important phases of the traction problem will have been reached within ninety days at some proposals probably will be made to the voters at an early election thereafter as possible. If not in June election, surely at the November election."

CITY CLUB BODY ASKS SCIENTIFIC TAXING SYSTEM

The City club committee on taxation, of which Augustus S. Peabody is chairman, desires an amendment to the state constitution by which the legislature may adopt a scientific system of taxation. The club's board approves of this idea and will urge its adoption by the several organizations now attempting to formulate a program on taxes.

The club asserts the foundation of Mr. Peabody's program is as follows:

"That the proper valuation of land for taxation must involve three factors: a city-wide system of unit values, a fixed and uniform relation between actual cash value and valuation for taxation, and a scheme of publicity to insure the foregoing."

COURT ASKED TO BAR SEWERS TO PACKING WASTE

Sanitary District Admits Parleys Have Failed.

Now comes the sanitary district of Chicago and in one blow disposes of the tradition that "everything but the squeal" is utilized at the stockyards.

WILLIAM J. HEALY

Instead of using the waste matter, as is popularly supposed, the packers and allied industries throw away an amount equivalent to the domestic sewage of a city of 1,000,000, thereby clogging the channels and endangering the health of those who live nearby, it is alleged in a suit filed yesterday by the sanitary district attorney, Clyde L. Day.

The sanitary district asks an injunction in the federal courts against eleven packing and food corporations to prohibit them from further disposal of trade wastes through the city sewer system and the drainage canal. Nonresident corporations are the defendants in this bill. The residence corporations will be proceeded against in the state courts.

Parleys Come to Naught.

This action comes after repeated attempts on the part of the sanitary trustees to come to an agreement with the stockyards interests by which these interests would bear their share of the disposal of wastes. Negotiations were begun more than three years ago by the former board of trustees and had proceeded to a tentative agreement under which the packers would have paid about 60 per cent of the cost of disposal of sewage from that district. This agreement was never consummated. The present board called upon the stockyards industries to negotiate, but have not been able to get any cooperation.

President William J. Healy of the sanitary district said yesterday that the trustees had done their utmost to bring about an amicable arrangement:

"The industries creating trade wastes at the stockyards seem to ignore our efforts to bring about a businesslike solution of this problem in protection of the interests of the people and the public health," he said. "Hence we have found it necessary to institute court proceedings against all the persons, firms and corporations who are turning their trade wastes into the sanitary canal."

Packers Pay Nothing.

At present, it is stated, the packers contribute nothing toward the cost of sewage disposal except as they incidentally pay taxes.

The bill states that the navigable capacity of the main channel has been materially decreased by the settling of waste in the bed, and that the value of the property along the channel, placed at many millions of dollars, is greatly lessened. The health of the people residing along the Des Plaines and Illinois rivers is also declared to be injured.

The construction of a sewage disposal plant to handle this trade waste will cost between three and four millions, it is estimated.

CONVICTED DRY LEADER TO TALK; PASTORS OBJECT

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Much dissatisfaction and adverse comment has been caused by the published notice that William H. Anderson, superintendent of the New York State Anti-Saloon league, intends to speak in Jamaica, Feb. 11, at a meeting of the joint law enforcement committee of the Young People's Evangelical societies of Long Island at the Dutch Reformed church, Jamaica.

C. Manley De Bevoise, president of the Queens County Christian Endeavor society and head of the joint law enforcement committee, while maintaining that most of the members of the two organizations still supported the convicted dry crusader, admitted that two Jamaica clergymen have opposed Mr. Anderson speaking there.

The two clergymen who are opposed to Mr. Anderson's appearance are the Rev. Robert Kerr Wick, pastor of the Dutch Reformed church, where the meeting is scheduled to take place, and the Rev. Andrew Magill, pastor of the First Presbyterian church of Jamaica.

Democrats Hint Dr. Mayo as Presidential Candidate

St. Paul, Minn., Feb. 2. — "Dr. Charles H. Mayo of Rochester, Minn., may be brought out as a candidate for the Democratic nomination for President, according to gossip in Democratic circles in St. Paul," the St. Paul Pioneer Press will say tomorrow. "The proposal has not been broached to Dr. Mayo and is not taken seriously by Minnesota Democrats at this stage of the pre-convention campaign," the paper will say, adding that "two Democrats from New York state visited Minnesota last week to 'sound out' the Mayo candidacy."

Only Living Lincoln Delegate Coming Here

GREEKS' REGENT ASKS KAFANDARIS TO FORM CABINET

ATHENS, Feb. 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—M. Kafandaris, former minister of the interior, has been requested by the regent to form a cabinet to succeed the Venizelos government.

Comparison today of an X-ray photograph of M. Venizelos' heart, just taken, with one made at Saloniki in 1917 is said to have proved that there has been no deterioration and that there is no cause for anxiety over his condition.

M. Venizelos was well enough today to take a motor ride and to receive Oscar Straus, who arrived on the Leviland.

Mr. Gregory would be replaced by the former senator from Ohio. Mr. Pomerene is 60 years old and a lawyer of 36 years practice. His selection is satisfactory to Democratic leaders here.

President Coolidge and Mr. Strawn, in conjunction with the department of justice meantime are preparing to follow out that section of the Walsh resolution which orders immediate stoppage of further drainage of the naval oil reserves pending final outcome of the government's efforts to regain the oil lands.

Will Ask Injunction.

August Seymour, acting attorney general, conferred with the President on this question. While Seymour was most uncommunicative, it is understood that as soon as the President has formally signed the Walsh resolution steps will be taken to procure an injunction restraining the oil companies from taking further oil from the reserves. This injunction will be obtained either in the west or through a federal court here.

Levi Cooke, counsel for Albert B. Fall, had a conference late today with Senator Lenroot [Rep., Wis.], chairman of the investigation committee in an effort to obtain permission for his client to leave Washington for several days for rest and recuperation. Senator Lenroot said he had no authority to change the decision of the committee. In view of this, Mr. Cooke said it would not be worth while for Fall to leave Washington.

In the house, Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.] pressed for consideration of his resolution for the return of Harry F. Sinclair to the United States.

"If Sinclair and Doheny are guilty of bribing a cabinet officer they will have done more than all the reds, communists and anarchists combined to undermine the faith of the people in our form of government," Mr. Fish said.

Representative Jeffers, (Dem., Ala.), called for an investigation of Sinclair's income tax payments. He charged that "a thorough check of Mr. Harry F. Sinclair's personal tax records made by competent authority will uncover irregularities, graft, crookedness and corruption in connection therewith."

Entrance Is Dramatic.

The session of the committee today was dramatic but exceedingly brief. The nearly room and the surrounding corridors were crowded, largely with women, prepared for another day of sensational disclosures when Senator Lenroot [Rep., Wis.], the chairman, called Mr. Fall to the stand.

The former "iron man of Mexican border," who has fought Indians and bandits and hunted gold in "the hell roarin' days" of the west, was plainly a broken man. The old time confidence and aggressiveness which used to be his outstanding characteristics were gone. Still, there was nothing cringing in his demeanor as he faced the committee.

Reads His Refusal.

Mr. Fall held up his right hand steadily and swore to tell the truth. There was a pause in the proceedings for a minute or two until order was obtained, and then Senator Walsh [Dem., Mont.] asked Fall if he was prepared to answer questions. Fall reached into his pocket and pulled forth a typewritten sheet and began to read:

"I decline to answer the question for the following reasons and on the following grounds:

"The committee is conducting an investigation under senate resolution 282, agreed to April 21, 1922, in the Sixty-seventh congress, and senate resolution 294, agreed to May 15, 1922, in the same congress, and, further, by virtue of senate resolution 434, agreed to by the senate on Feb. 5, 1923, during the same congress, and I do not consider that, acting under these resolutions or under the last mentioned resolution, which authorizes the committee to sit after the expiration of the Sixty-seventh congress, until the assembling of the Sixty-eighth congress, and until otherwise ordered by the senate, this committee has any authority to conduct the investigation now attempted to be conducted by the addressing of this question to me.

Says Body Loses Authority.

"I decline further to answer on the further ground that on Jan. 7, 1924, Senator Caraway introduced in the senate of the United States, in this congress, senate joint resolution 54, attempting to deal with the lease of the Mammoth Oil company; that that resolution was referred to this committee, and in due course the senate discharged this committee as of Jan. 24, 1924, and the senate thereafter, on Jan. 31, 1924, agreed to that resolution and completed its consideration thereof, the resolution being so amended as to deal, in the senate, in a plenary way with the leases upon naval oil reserves which were before this committee under senate resolution 282 and senate resolution 294, and that this committee has no further authority to deal with senate joint resolution 54, since it has been discharged by the senate and the senate itself has finally acted upon the resolution

May Incriminate Him.

"I decline to answer on the further ground that senate joint resolution fifty-four, as passed unanimously by the senate, recites that it appears from evidence taken by this committee that a certain lease of naval reserve No. three in the state of Wyoming, bearing date April 7, 1922, made in form by the government of the United States through myself, Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, and Edward Denby, secretary of the navy, as lessor and a certain lease of naval reserve No. one in the state of California bearing Dec. 11, 1922, made in form by the government of the United States through myself, Albert B. Fall, secretary of the interior, and Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy as lessor, were executed circumstances indicating fraud and corruption; that said leases were entered without authority on the part of the officers purporting to act in the execution of the same for the United States and in violation of the laws of congress; and that in the same resolution it is resolved that the President of the United States be authorized and directed immediately to cause suit to be instituted and prosecuted for annulment and cancellation of the leases, and to prosecute such other actions and proceedings, civil and criminal, as may be warranted by the facts in relation to the making of said leases and the President is further authorized and directed to appoint special counsel to have charge and control of the prosecution of such litigation and I decline to answer on the ground that my answers may tend to incriminate me.

Testified at Length.

"In declining to answer and in stating these reasons I wish to express full respect for the committee and for the senate, but to remind the committee that, on Oct. 23 and 24 last, while this committee was sitting in recess of congress and dealing with senate resolution 282 and senate resolution 294, I appeared before the committee and discussed at length the negotiations of the leases, including the lease of April 25, 1922, signed by Edwin C. Finney acting secretary of the interior, and Edwin Denby, secretary of the navy, relating to the construction of oil tanks at Pearl Harbor, Hawaii; and thereafter was prepared to appear again before the committee, but since the senate of the United States has passed the senate resolution 54, that action being concurred in by the house of representatives, and the congress of he United States has adjudicated by that resolution its findings that the leases were executed under circumstances indicating fraud and corruption, and has directed the President of the United States to prosecute such proceedings, civil and criminal, as may be warranted by the facts in the making of the said leases, I decline further to answer any question of the committee, on the ground that it may tend to incriminate me, and on the further ground first above stated."

Committee Considers Action.

When Mr. Fall concluded he stepped from the stand, and, in company with his attorney, Levi Cooke, left the committee room. The committee went into executive session to consider its future course of action.

It was the general opinion of members that Mr. Fall could be required to answer any questions and that such testimony while it could not be used against him in future proceedings, would not give him immunity. It is expected that if contempt proceedings are brought, Mr Fall will go into the courts to obtain a writ of habeas corpus and that a legal battle will ensue.

Ask New Authority.

The point raised by Mr. Fall concerning the authority of the committee was also carefully considered. Members of the committee contended that the authority was ample and still in effect under the old resolution, but in order to remove all doubt it was decided, on motion of Senator Walsh, to ask the senate Monday to approve a new resolution, similar in terms to the old one.

The committee has made no arrangements for examining William G. McAdoo, secretary of the treasury under President Wilson and Democratic candidate for President, who, Edward L. Doheny testified yesterday, had received $250,000 from him in fees.

Mr. McAdoo is on his way here from California and is said to desire an opportunity to explain his relations with Doheny.

SINCLAIR MAY SAIL FEB. 6

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

PARIS, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.] Harry Sinclair, the American oil magnate, today told THE TRIBUNE that he intends to sail for America aboard the Berengaria Feb. 6 or on the President Harding Feb. 12.

"I know nothing about Mr. Doheny's attorneys, and I was ignorant that Mr. McAdoo worked for the oil interests until I read it in THE TRIBUNE this morning," Mr. Sinclair said. "I must abandon my trip to the Riviera now, but I am trying to find time to go to Belgium and inspect my properties there.

STRAWN IS NOT BARRED BY OIL CLIENT—LENROOT

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The report printed here this morning that Silas H. Strawn's Chicago law firm had a client in the Texas Oil company was the subject of comment during the day. Mr. Strawn has been chosen by President Coolidge as one of the special government lawyers to handle the Teapot Dome and Doheny scandals.

It is said that the limit of the legal services of Winston, Strawn & Shaw to the Texas Oil company [which oil company has not been involved in the Sinclair-Doheny scandal] has been collection matters.

"If that is true," Senator Lenroot said tonight, "it would be regarded as an unimportant circumstance and no one would think of it as disqualifying Mr. Strawn for the government service."

Indict Woman, Five Men, for Oil Fraud in Texas

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—Indictments were returned late yesterday by a federal grand jury against Wyatt L. Nix, E. Guy King, Alice Gardner, Frank L. Gardner, James E. Chambers and Percy M. Raymond, charging them with using the mails to defraud in connection with the sale of oil stock in the project of the Eliasville Pool syndicate No. 1 of Eliasville, Tex.

Chronological Story of Navy Oil

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The reservation of oil lands for future use of the navy department dates back to 1908, when initial proceedings to provide oil for the navy's use were launched by President Roosevelt.

It was this movement that brought under control of the naval department, and then of the department of the interior, the Teapot Dome reserve leased to Harry F. Sinclair, and the California reserves, which were leased to Edward L. Doheny and from which Doheny said he expected to make $100,000,000.

Chronology of Oil Reserves.

The chronological story of the naval oil reserves is as follows:

1908—President Roosevelt initiates proceedings to set aside oil lands for future use of navy.

1909 (Sept. 27)—First petroleum land withdrawals by President Taft.

1912—Creation of naval oil reserves.

1916—Two withdrawals oil shale lands for navy.

1920—Act of Feb. 25 (general leasing act) providing as to naval reserves that only producing wells might be leased by secretary of interior.

1920 (June 4)—Naval act, giving secretary of navy control of unappropriated lands in naval petroleum reserves.

1921 (May 31)—Executive order giving secretary of interior authority to administer and operate naval reserves in coöperation with secretary or acting secretary of the navy.

Leases Made in April, 1922.

1922 (April 7)—Control of Teapot Dome given Harry F. Sinclair under lease signed with Mammoth Oil company.

1922 (April 24)—Protest from Senator Kendrick and governor of Wyoming.

1922 (April 25)—Control of all remaining lands in reserves Nos. 1 and 2 given to Edward L. Doheny under lease signed with Pan-American Oil company.

1922 (April 30)—Senate approves Senator La Follette's demand for facts.

Harding Explains Leases.

1922 (June 7)—President Harding and Secretary Fall explain oil leases to senate.

1922 (Aug. 30)—Senator Kendrick charged the government threw away from $16,000,000 to $20,000,000 in lease of Teapot Dome.

1922 (Dec. 11)—Supplementary Doheny contract in connection with lease of April, 1922.

1923 (Feb. 5)—Senator Smoot asks for consideration of Teapot Dome lease under La Follette resolution.

1923 (Feb. 27)—Executive order establishing fourth and last petroleum reserve near Cape Barrow, Alaska.

1923 (March 4)—Secretary of the Interior Fall resigns.

1923 (Oct. 22)—Investigation begun by senate committee.

The Scandal Breaks.

1923 (Dec. 27)—Fall in letter to committee says he got a $100,000 loan from E. B. McLean.

McLean says Fall did not get $100,000 loan from him, and Fall admits he did not.

Senators Walsh and Caraway start drive for cancellation of oil leases.

Archie Roosevelt appears before committee and tells of $68,000 conveyed to Fall by Sinclair's secretary, his own suspicions of bribery, and his consequent resignation from Sinclair company

President Coolidge directs department of justice to watch proceedings of committee with view to instituting prosecution if warranted by testimony.

Testimony of Wahlberg, Sinclair's secretary, confirms apprehensions of committee as to corruption in connection with leases

Charges that country has been betrayed and demands for cancellation of leases made in senate.

E. L. Doheny testifies on Nov. 30, 1921, he loaned Mr. Fall $100,000, insisting it was a personal matter and wholly unconnected with the lease signed subsequently for naval reserves No. 1, out of which he admitted he expected to make $100,000,000. Offered to return lease if it was not found to be advantageous to the government.

Fall returns to Washington, but is unable to appear before committee on account of illness.

Zevely Loan to Fall.

J. W. Zevely, counsel for Sinclair, tells committee of loan of $25,000 to Mr. Fall.

Doheny offers to return lease if reimbursed for expenses.

President Coolidge orders expert inquiry by department of interior to determine if Doheny and Sinclair leases should be canceled.

Democrats launch savage attack on administration.

President announces appointment of counsel to examine and conduct prosecutions if leases are found illegal.

Sinclair and Doheny leases of navy oil reserves annulled by the senate without a dissenting vote; resolution put forward by Senator Walsh of Montana.

Feb. 1.—Edward L. Doheny testifies before senate committee that William G. McAdoo, George Creel, the late ex-secretary Lane, ex-Attorney General Gregory and ex-Secretary Garrison were on pay roll.

Feb. 2.—Ex-Secretary Fall refuses to testify before senate committee on grounds it may incriminate him.

CRAWLS ACROSS COURT; SCORNED BY ANGRY WIFE

When her repentant husband, crawling on his hands and knees across the floor of a Cicero courtroom, attempted to kiss the hem of her skirt yesterday, Mrs. Mary Rent fainted.

"Please forgive me and give me another chance, Mary," wept George Rent. "I'll be a good husband and go to work."

Court attaches dragged him back and revived his swooning wife.

"I'm afraid of him, judge," she said. "His tears don't mean a thing. He drinks too much moonshine. But he wasn't drunk the other night when he came home and slapped the kid. He was just plain cussed ornery. Our baby girl is only 4 weeks old."

Police Magistrate Henry J. Bandusky held Rent in $1,000 bonds on charges of desertion and non-support.

TAKE AUTO FROM BANDITS.

Three colored bandits gained $45 and "lost their flivver yesterday, when they held up the office of See & Co., wholesale grocery firm at 3015 South La Salle street. As soon as they left, Gus Meister and Albert Seitz, employes of the company, started after them with a shotgun and revolver, but they were in such a hurry to get away that they left their machine behind.

'DANNY' GOODMAN CONVICTED ON DRY LAW CHARGE

Daniel "Danny" Goodman, former lightweight pugilist, was found guilty yesterday on three separate counts of violation of the prohibition act. The verdict was returned by a jury before Federal Judge Adam C. Cliffe.

Goodman, who conducted a saloon at 18th and Wabash, was charged with having sold liquor to prohibition agents a few months ago.

He probably will be sentenced on Feb. 16.

Iowa's Delegates to Be Instructed for McAdoo

Des Moines, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—That Iowa delegates will go to the national convention instructed for McAdoo was the spirit at the meeting of the Democratic central committee here today. The state convention will be held at Davenport the first week in April, at which the national convention delegates will be selected. A telegram with a tribute to the courage of former President Wilson and a wish for his recovery was sent to him.

CASES TO REST UNTIL LELAND HEARING REVIVES

Take Secret Vacation as Moss Goes East.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

This morning, just about the time parishioners are gathering at the First Baptist church of Oak Park to pledge loyalty to Dr. Carl D. Case, Attorney William R. Moss, counsel for Mrs. Charlotte Leland, will be leaving for the east to learn, he claims, several "specific things" about the minister's previous pastoral records.

W. R. MOSS.

Dr. Case will not be present at his church today. He and his wife are away on a short and secret vacation, during the lull in the Albert R. Leland divorce hearing, which is continued until Feb. 19.

May Have Gone South.

Speculation has it that the minister and his wife have gone to the winter home in Florida of Mr. and Mrs. John Meier, two of their most prominent parishioners. This was denied yesterday by Mr. Meier as he left for the south to join his wife.

The Rev. John A. Earl of Oak Park will occupy Dr. Case's pulpit at both morning and evening services today.

Mrs. Charlotte Leland, who is spending the time busy in household duties at the home of her parents, Dr. and Mrs. Beach Loomis, has not yet made up her mind whether she will attend church. Mr. Leland, at the home of his father, 123 North Elgin avenue, Forest Park, declined to say whether or not he would go to the Elmwood Park Baptist church, which he has been attending since November. Miss Mae Brown, his former private secretary, also journeys each Sunday to the Elmwood church.

Looks Like Long Fight.

Referring to a statement reported to have been made by Trustee Meier that, ultimately, it may be necessary to ask public spirited citizens for contributions to continue the defense of Dr. Case, Leland reminded questioners that he, too, was a public spirited citizen.

"And I'll prosecute this case," he declared, "if I go in debt for the rest of my life."

Between "everybody" and "more than 99 per cent" is the estimated number of the congregation who believe absolutely in Dr. Case.

With the Oak Park congregation standing almost to a unit in favor of the pastor, Mr. Moss goes to two other congregations, the Hanson Place church of Brooklyn and the Delaware Place church of Buffalo.

In both churches, Mr. Moss maintains, Dr. Case was guilty of improper relations with some of his women parishioners.

"I am confident," he said yesterday, "that I will be able to prove my charges."

'DEM' TAX CUT OF $620,000,000 TO MEAN DEFICIT

Measure Is a Menace, Mellon Shows.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The proposed tax reduction plan of house Democrats would result in a loss of revenue on income taxes alone of more than $510,000,000, according to treasury estimates made public in a statement tonight by Secretary Mellon and based on prospective conditions in the period in which they would actually apply.

Added to the $110,000,000 loss in revenue in the miscellaneous tax reductions already voted by the house ways and means committee, Secretary Mellon said, this would mean a total reduction of $620,000,000, and a government "deficit would be the result."

Previous estimates by the treasury of the loss of revenue under the income rates proposed for the Democrats by Representative Garner [Tex.], based on the 1921 returns, do "not show at all what would be the actual loss of revenue in other years," Mr. Mellon said, inasmuch as "1921 was a year of low personal income." The estimate on the 1921 basis was $347,000,000.

Further Analysis Made.

For the period in which they would actually apply, the loss of revenue under the Garner plan on both income and miscellaneous taxes would be "almost twice as much as under the Mellon plan," the secretary said, estimating the total loss under the latter plan at $332,000,000.

"No expected governmental surplus could meet the loss of revenue desired by Mr. Garner, and a deficit would be the result," Mr. Mellon said.

Democratic house leaders, confident they can muster enough votes to upset the surtax schedule carried in the Mellon bill, declared today they would make no concessions on the 44 per cent maximum they favor.

Confidence of the Democrats that a majority of the house will not line up in favor of the 25 per cent surtax maximum proposed by Mr. Mellon lay chiefly in the announcement of Representative Frear [Rep., Wis.], on the ways and means committee, that he and other insurgents would not go along with the Republican organization on this point.

Pin Hopes on "Rebels."

Democratic leaders predicted that at least thirty Republicans would swing to their support when a showdown comes on surtaxes. Some Republicans, however, expressed the opinion that a compromise on a figure below the Democratic maximum might be agreed on.

The ways and means committee will meet the latter part of next week to dispose of odds and ends before reporting the revenue bill not later than Feb. 11. Republican members, however, will confer Monday on some sections, including the tentative amendment providing for a 25 per cent flat reduction on personal taxes paid this year on 1923 income.

Chief Called to Court Over "Birth of a Nation"

Police interference with the showing of "The Birth of a Nation," a motion picture, in the Auditorium theater yesterday caused Superior Judge Denis E. Sullivan to summon Chief Collins into court on Monday to show cause why he should not be punished for contempt of court. A permanent injunction issued in 1915 restrained the city from interference with the picture. The city's objections at that time were that it was "likely to foment race prejudice."

EXPERTS TO URGE ECONOMIC RUHR RULE BY GERMANY

Needs All Resources to Pay Her Bills.

BY JOHN CLAYTON.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—The first recommendation of the committee of international experts studying Germany's ability to pay reparations will be for the immediate return of economic control of the Rhineland and the Ruhr to Germany.

After their brief stay in Germany, THE TRIBUNE is able to declare that unless there is a great change in the impressions of the experts they will insist that Germany will never be able to meet the reparations claims until it is able to unite its productive resources as security for an international loan.

A tactical military occupation of the Ruhr and Rhineland is not being considered by the committee. It makes no difference whether the return of economic control of the Ruhr to Germany means a withdrawal of the French troops or not, but the committee will insist that the German railways, German factories, and German mines be returned to the management of Germany.

Back Gold Currency Plan.

In addition, the experts have confirmed their conclusions that these two other things are necessary for the restoration of Germany's ability to pay reparations:

1. A currency on a gold basis to supplant temporarily the stable emergency currency known as the rentenmark;

2. Balancing of the German budget, with the Germans paying taxes equivalent at least to those paid by the most heavily taxed citizens of the allied countries.

There is no tendency among the members of the commission to let Germany down easily. Charity for the present, until Germany has recovered its ability to pay, and then sterner messages unless Germany gives to its fullest capacity for payment until the reparations debt is liquidated, is the idea of the experts.

Would Boost German Taxes.

The committee has not yet completed its study of detailed methods of taxation and balancing the German budget, but THE TRIBUNE learns that they feel that the Germans are not yet bearing a tax burden commensurate with their ability when normal conditions are restored.

The protests of the industrialists against the foundation of a real currency outside of their control has made no impression on the members of the committee. The experts are convinced that the only satisfactory stabilized currency is one backed by gold or other extremely liquid assets.

After Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, again appeared before the subcommittee on finance today, the disagreements between the German financier and the committee seemed nearer settlement.

EXPERTS TO URGE ECONOMIC RUHR RULE BY GERMANY

Would Boost German Taxes.

The committee has not yet completed its study of detailed methods of taxation and balancing the German budget, but THE TRIBUNE learns that they feel that the Germans are not at present bearing a tax burden commensurate with their ability when normal conditions are restored.

The protests of the industrialists against the foundation of a real currency outside of their control has made no impression on the members of the committee. The experts are convinced that the only satisfactory stabilized currency is one backed by gold or other extremely liquid assets.

After Dr. Schacht, president of the Reichsbank, again appeared before the subcommittee on finance today, the disagreements between the German financier and the committee seemed nearer settlement.

CHICAGO'S NEW SCHOOL CHIEF IS HERE; TALKS NOT

Holds Brief Parley with Moderwell.

William McAndrew, Chicago's new superintendent of schools, reached the city yesterday.

He was discovered by Peter A. Mortenson, former school head, wandering about the third floor of the board's educational headquarters at 460 South State street.

Mr. Mortenson led him to his new office on the seventh floor, ensconced him in an armchair, relieved him of his cloth covered brief case, and asked him whether he would see reporters, who anxiously waited to interview him in order to give Chicagoans an idea of their new superintendent.

And Trouble Started.

It was at this point that trouble began—for the reporters. They should have felt a premonition—have been forewarned by his refusal even to wire ahead the hour of his coming.

Mr. McAndrew who relinquished a $6,500 job as assistant superintendent in New York to accept a $15,000 position in Chicago had "nothing to say" on the general problems of education. The only biographical information gleaned from him was that he had at one time belonged to a club whose members knew each other as "Little Blades of Grass."

Mr. McAndrew's first day unfolded a whirligig of events, chases, scrambles up back alleys, and dashes through corridors.

Reporters seeking conversational points of vantage from which to gain a pen picture of the new arrival were as baffled as the photographers, cameras and flashlights poised, who sought him with the lens.

What Glimpses Revealed.

Both saw a man past 50 in a black overcoat and gray fedora, somewhat portly. In hurried glimpses they verified the fact that he wore a graying Van Dyke beard and had gray hair. His eyes were aided by spectacles. His face was full and the cheeks ruddy.

These were thumbnail sketches made as the new superintendent moved from strategic point to strategic point.

Ten minutes sufficed for Mr. McAndrew to visit the school board office. Then he desired to see Charles M. Moderwell, president of the board of education.

"His business office is in the Peoples Gas building, is it not?" he queried.

"Yes, my car is outside, or we will call a taxi," offered Mr. Mortenson.

"No, no," replied his new chief. "I need the walk."

Mr. McAndrew breezed through the gathering. Some one offered to ring the elevator bell. His ring went in vain. Down seven flights of stairs walked the visitor.

Confers with Moderwell.

He was closeted with Mr. Moderwell for half an hour. As he started to leave the Peoples Gas building from the Michigan avenue entrance he caught sight once more of the photographers and reporters. He performed a flank retreat.

Mr. McAndrew dashed toward the Adams street exit. The gentlemen of the press, in better training, beat the new superintendent to it. Once more he turned, but then walked slowly from the Michigan avenue exit while the cameras clicked and the flash guns boomed.

Next on the program was a luncheon at the Union League club with the club's school committee. So the press hurried to the club.

Reporters Are Persistent.

Three reporters sneaked through before a whirl of house managers and bell boys bore down and stopped the advance.

The three repaired to Room C on the fourth floor, where the luncheon was in progress.

"Have you anything to say, Mr. McAndrew?" they chorused.

"When I have news to give out I'll call you in," was the reply.

"When will that be? About May 1, I should say."

As to pictures, "Years ago, more than I care to remember, back in Detroit, I took a vow with several others not to have any pictures taken," the new superintendent supplied. "We called ourselves the 'Little Blades of Grass.' Some of the boys have passed away since then, and it is not for me to break the faith."

Spokesman for McAndrew.

Shepherded downstairs, the news gatherers huddled in a group, surrounded by zealous club attendants. Mr. Moderwell said he would see if Mr. McAndrew could be persuaded to come down. Instead, John Benham, head of the club committee, appeared.

"We have been trying since 9 o'clock to get an interview with Mr. McAndrew," explained one reporter.

"You can say that he is much interested in the plans our committee is making for the celebration of Washington's birthday," declared Mr. Benham. "You should appreciate his willingness to come to such a meeting as ours on the day of his arrival."

Amid a barrage of cameras Mr. McAndrew finally left the club, for a visit to the Auditorium theater, where he was shown about back stage.

His Final Retort.

A reporter took one last chance at him.

"Have you still nothing to say, Mr. McAndrew?"

The new superintendent became facetious.

"It is Saturday," he declared. "Work stops at noon on Saturday."

He was last seen flying down the alleyway in back of the Auditorium on his way to the closed and locked school administration building, where he wished, he said, to spend the rest of the day alone.

D'ANNUNZIO TO BE GIVEN TITLE, "COUNT OF FIUME"

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

ROME, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—Gabriel D'Annunzio is not forgotten after all. The poet who started the Fiume movement, which just had led to the Italian possession of Fiume, as well as the black shirt movement which placed Premier Mussolini in power, will be offered the title of "Count of Fiume." The government will advise the king to thus honor Signor D'Annunzio.

RINGLINGS LOSE 'SACRED OXEN' IN BRIDGEPORT FIRE

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 2.—Fire of undetermined origin early today started in the winter quarters of Ringling Brothers and Barnum and Bailey's circus here. A panic among the animals in the menagerie resulted. For several hours keepers were kept busy preventing terror stricken elephants and horses from stampeding through the crowd gathered to watch the spectacular blaze.

The only animal lost was a large black ox brought here by the circus from Italy and known as "the sacred ox." It was burned to death in its pen before keepers could liberate it.

MORE CHURCHES TO BE INSPECTED FOR FIRE PERILS

Churches which escaped inspection last Sunday will be visited by attaches of the fire prevention bureau this morning, according to John C. McDonnell, bureau chief. Strict observance of regulations against the crowding of aisles or unseated worshipers will be demanded, he said.

Insufficient exits and other violations caused services to be prohibited in two churches last week, while one congregation was forced to worship in a basement when an inspector sealed the church auditorium.

Mayor Dever's wife, it was disclosed yesterday, was one of the many refused entrance to St. Ita's Roman Catholic church last Sunday when a fire guard closed the doors after all available seats were filled.

"Mayor Dever says the law must be enforced," the guard said.

"But I am the mayor's wife," Mrs. Dever said.

"I couldn't admit the mayor himself," the guard said.

Enright Orders Another Shakeup of N. Y. Sleuths

New York, Feb. 2.—The third big shakeup in the detective bureau within a year was ordered tonight by Police Commissioner Enright. Twenty-five detectives were demoted to patrol duty in uniform and their places were filled by patrolmen. Last September forty-four detectives were transferred to patrol duty and in November thirty-seven more were reduced.

SLASHES THROAT WITH RAZOR; DIES.

William Gibbons, 43, 1839 Indiana avenue, a salesman, died yesterday in St. Luke's hospital after he had slashed his throat with a safety razor blade. Police of the South Clark street station say that he was despondent over domestic troubles.

"MYSTERY" HAT GIVES PUZZLE TO DOCTORS

Wonder What the Owner Thinks About.

Dr. W. A. Evans of THE TRIBUNE and Dr. Ben L. Reitman of the health department, taking a morning constitutional along the lake, yesterday came upon an object lying on the shore at the foot of Division street.

It was a hat of brown panne silk velvet, trimmed with maline. It suggested a pretty face. Stuck rakishly through the front of it was one of those pearl daggers which are so popular just now.

It lay there unsullied and unruffled—as if some chic woman had taken it off and placed it carefully on the beach.

"A Thing of Beauty."

"'A thing of beauty is a joy forever,'" quoted Dr. Evans. He held it out admiringly. "Reitman," he said, "the woman who wore that is blonde. She is single and a working woman. She——"

"Well, I agree with you, Evans," said Dr. Reitman, "except for the 'single' part of it. She may have been married."

Dr. Evans started suddenly to looking over the sand.

"I was looking for footprints," he explained. "Perhaps she jumped in the lake."

"Or," interposed Dr. Reitman, "she may have been riding on the top of a motor bus and her hat blew off."

"No," said Dr. Evans, "this hat was placed here. Besides, she does not live in the Wilson avenue district."

Still Another Theory.

They walked to THE TRIBUNE office. On the way in they met a mutual friend.

"It belongs to a trim young woman," said the friend. "She is bobbed haired. I deduce that from the fact that there is no hatpin stuck through it."

A young woman acquaintance of the physicians heard the remark.

Now Speaks a Woman.

"O, the lack of a hat pin doesn't mean anything," she said. "They are rather passé, anyway." She held up the hat. "It is of good material," she said. "It must have been a tall girl who wore this—and—and a brunette couldn't wear it."

"A stenographer in a lawyer's office," said another passerby. "I venture to say she lost it while trying to escape from a couple of doctors. Where did Evans and Reitman put the body?"

A well known globe trotter entered the controversy: "I think it suggests a face piquante—understand that? piquante; that's French."

Still others gathered about the group and discussed the find. In the lining was a label:

"Jeanette Shop," it read, "4702 Sheridan road." And Mme. Jeanette was called on the phone.

"O, that hat?" she said. "Yes, I remember it well. I sold it to a young woman recently—a young woman of medium build and complexion; she was neither short nor tall, nor quite slender nor quite stout. She lives on Wilson avenue, I believe."

Suicide or blown from a bus or . . . Who knows?

GOMPERS HURLS LABOR IN FINISH FIGHT FOR BONUS

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—"Adjusted compensation for veterans of the world war is not to be forgotten, even if certain politicians find it convenient to evade the issue," said Samuel Gompers, president of the American Federation of Labor, today. Mr. Gompers said the issue would be given the special attention of labor until it was settled satisfactorily.

"It has been shown repeatedly that adjusted compensation can be provided without disturbing the finances of the country, but we are perfectly willing to disturb certain kinds of financial arrangements. We are perfectly willing, unlike Mr. Mellon, to see a proper surtax and a proper excess profits tax imposed."

DESPONDENT, TAKES POISON.

Despondent over trouble with her family, Mrs. Marian Bangora, 25 years old, of 831 West Harrison street, last night attempted to commit suicide by swallowing carbolic acid. She was taken to the county hospital, where attendants said her condition was not serious.

WHO LOST THE HAT?

BLAST AT RUSH HOUR KILLS ONE, INJURES EIGHT

Kansas City, Mo., Feb. 2.—An explosion that shook the entire downtown district here as thousands were hurrying to work today caused one death, injury of eight persons, and property damage estimated at between $100,000 and $150,000.

Claude O. James of Richmond, Va., who was passing the four story building of the Bailey-Reynolds Chandelier company, where the explosion occurred, was killed.

Don McDonald, 15, messenger for the Kansas City federal reserve bank, two doors away, was probably fatally injured.

J. S. Bailey, president of the concern, was slightly injured. He entered the building just a few minutes before the crash. Two firemen were injured by a second explosion in the rear of the building, about an hour after the first. About fifty employes were at work in the building. All were thrown to the floor by the force of the first blast. Firemen carried many to safety while others fled down fire escapes.

The cause of the explosion had not been determined tonight, but it was believed that a gas leak in the basement was responsible.

Yun Resigned from Prison; Didn't Like to Wash Dishes

Jefferson City, Mo., Feb. 2.—Yip Ah Yun, alias Jack Lang, Chinese convict in the Missouri penitentiary, who escaped yesterday, after leaving a letter of resignation, because he did not like to wash dishes, is once more behind the walls. Two farmers captured Yun late today floating down the Missouri river in a leaky boat.

MAKES THE DEAF HEAR.

Remarkable Invention Enables the Deaf to Hear All Sounds Clearly.

Every one who is troubled with deafness in any form will be interested in the announcement of the Dictograph Products Corporation, Suite 1231-M Lytton building, State and Jackson streets, Chicago, Ill., that they have at last perfected a device which will enable every one whose auditory nerve is not entirely destroyed to hear as, perfectly as one whose hearing is normal. To test it thoroughly they sent it to a number of people who had been deaf for years, and they report most gratifying results. Many state that they hear the slightest sound with perfect ease and that their natural hearing has been greatly improved. The manufacturers are so proud of their achievement and so confident that every deaf person will be amazed and delighted with it, that they offer to send it to any one by prepaid parcel post on ten days' free trial. They do not ship C. O. D., nor do they require any deposit, but send it entirely at their own risk and expense, allowing the user ten full days to try it and decide whether they want to keep it or not. As there is no obligation whatever, every one who is troubled with deafness in any form should take advantage of this liberal free trial offer. Just send them your name and address for descriptive literature and free trial request blank.—Adv.

TRANSFER FORTY PATROLMEN AND SIX SERGEANTS

Orders shifting six sergeants and forty patrolmen tomorrow morning were issued last night by Chief Collins.

Most of the transfers were made at the request of men who wished assignment nearer their homes, while others, the chief admitted, were "for the good of the service."

The following sergeants were included in the order: John McCarthy, Hegewisch to Cottage Grove avenue station; John Fitzpatric, Englewood to South Chicago; Charles M. Stadfield, South Chicago to Englewood; John J. Neary, Cottage Grove to Deering; John E. Curran, West North avenue to Hudson avenue, and M. A. O'Connor, Town Hall at Englewood.

1,000 MAY LOSE CITY HALL JOBS; TESTS ORDERED

Dever Wants Civil Service to Apply to All.

Civil service examinations which will abolish more than 1,000 sixty day or "temporary" appointments in city hall departments were ordered yesterday by Nicholas Finn, president of the civil service commission.

DR. W. J. HICKSON.

Calling of the new examinations marks resumption of Mayor Dever's effort to extend civil service requirements throughout the city's pay roll, which now lists nearly 2,500 of the temporary or "political" appointments. After previous examinations approximately 200 civil service employés were certified to positions formerly held by "temporaries."

Police Exams Also Due.

In addition to examinations which will be held almost daily to fill various positions from busman at the municipal tuberculosis sanitarium to architectural designer for the board of education, promotional quizzes will be held to provide the fifteen new captains and sixty sergeants asked by Chief of Police Collins.

Accompanied by Chief Justice Harry Olson of the Municipal court and Judge Daniel P. Trude, William Hickson, director of the city psychopathic laboratory, sought in a conference with Mayor Dever yesterday to prevent inclusion of that department in the city's classified merit system.

Wants Merit Rule Applied.

The mayor, however, upheld Corporation Counsel F. X. Busch's ruling that the laboratory was not a function of the court, but more properly a bureau under the control of Health Commissioner Herman Bundesen and as such, its employés, including Dr. Hickson, would be compelled to take civil service examinations.

OIL.

Political Washington is beginning to look like a prairie town in the grip of a cyclone. The American public outside would do well to keep calm and do its own thinking. Its interests are involved but are not necessarily identical with those of politicians who are throwing tantrums to impress us.

The people's concern is to know the facts and to have the opportunity of passing judgment upon them. It is no interest of theirs to join a political lynching staged by either party. The attempt of the Democrats to rush public opinion into sweeping condemnation of Republican officials has now been countered by the Republicans. Day before yesterday Denby, Daugherty, Roosevelt, Work were in the headlines. A bomb explodes and we have McAdoo, Garrison, Creel, Daniels, and the late Franklin Lane in the tumbrils. Even the lawyers selected by the President to conduct nonpolitical inquiry into the oil lease charges are brought within range, for it seems Mr. Gregory has been Mr. Doheny's attorney and Mr. Strawn's law firm has been counsel for the Texas Oil company.

The danger of this preposterous situation from the point of view of the public welfare is that if kept up it will reduce the whole situation to the absurd. What is normal and proper is being confused with what is sinister, improper, and perhaps downright criminal. In the wild and whirling political witch dance which has been carried on for days it is the innocent who will suffer, while the guilty may escape.

The case of Mr. McAdoo is the best illustration of how this inquiry is being exploited for political purposes. Mr. Doheny testifies that Mr. McAdoo was a general retainer from him and that Mr. McAdoo's firm represented Mr. Doheny in matters relating to Mexican oil holdings, in claims against the shipping board, etc. There is no charge, much less evidence, of any misconduct in any transaction, but we have a political outcry and gleeful assertions that Mr. McAdoo is done for as a candidate for the presidency. That is reducing politics to its most contemptible level.

Congress seems to have worked itself into a state of mob psychology from which we trust the press and public will remain aloof. The attempt to discredit every lawyer or public man who has ever been employed by an oil company or pressed a claim against the government or sought the support of the government for the protection of a right or interest in a foreign country, is either unintelligent or disingenous or both. Corporations with large interests get the best lawyers they can employ, as does any one else. In our time almost all business is carried on by corporations and virtually all lawyers are corporation lawyers, except specialists in criminal law. When, therefore, the attempt is made to discredit individuals on the mere evidence of employment by corporations, the public can afford to note ulterior motive and reserve opinion.

Meanwhile the real issue is the disposal of the oil reserve, created by Roosevelt and Taft and conserved through the Wilson administration. Was the transaction by which this reserve was transferred from the navy department to the interior department, and by the latter leased to Sinclair and Doheny, injurious to the public interest or tainted with fraud or undue influences? If the leases were unprofitable or inexpedient they should be cancelled. Where there was graft or fraud or undue influence in the negotiation of the leases the individuals guilty should be exposed and prosecuted.

The relevant disclosures made thus far, when separated from political charge and countercharge, are of a grave character, indicating, if not proving, that undue and even corrupt influences were active in the transaction. They are enough to justify and compel the most searching inquiry and the promptest and most vigorous action. That will bring about the results the country, apart from frenzied politics, desires, the ascertainment of truth and the punishment of guilt.

The question has two phases; was the leasing of the reserves contrary to the public interest and was it brought about by criminal or improper means?

There is no question that it is of first rate importance that the navy should at all times have an adequate supply of fuel oil. The navy must be ever ready. It is our first line of defense. It cannot wait for anything. It therefore must have stores of fuel where they are available. It must have great reservoirs at bases and seaports. On the other hand the government must look to the future and so far as possible must see that a continuing supply is provided. This was the purpose of the Tea Pot Dome reservation. Doubtless it must be considered in relation to the whole oil policy of the government. There is no doubt the government should have an oil policy as every great nation has in this age of oil. It should be an aggressive policy seeking oil wherever it can be had, but especially in countries with which we can protect our communications. That is a defense consideration, but there is also the consideration of our industrial and personal needs. Virtually every one in the nation is a user of oil and consumption grows at a rapid pace. We have a problem therefore not merely of conservation but of supply, and its solution is vital to the material prosperity and progress of the United States.

We make these remarks on oil because one would think from the excitement in Washington that there were something inherently corrupt in any connection with the production or disposal of oil. Yet the production of oil is not only one of the chief industries of the United States, but it is an essential activity in which the present and future of the nation are vitally concerned. It must be fostered and stimulated if we are to hold our own in the world.

The Tea Pot Dome affair challenges thorough, unflinching, impartial, nonpolitical investigation, the correction of mistakes and the punishment of wrong doing. But its exploitation for partisan purposes is itself a scandal and will be condemned by the fair minded public.

A WATERWAY TO PROSPERITY.

The recent introduction in the United States senate of a bill for improvement of Mississippi valley waterways under a sort of glorified municipal ownership theory again calls attention to the need of the middle west for an adequate waterway from lakes to gulf. That need is recognized by every producer of heavy freight, such as farmers, coal operators, and important manufacturers. Such a development is recognized as one which would save millions of dollars annually in freight bills, and thereby reduce prices, increase profits, and stimulate prosperity and progress.

The urgent necessity is to concentrate upon such a measure as the McCormick bill, perfected after careful study of the whole waterway system, and after comprehensive public hearings on the various issues involved, and press it through to adoption. The task is entirely a domestic one, the potential advantages and profits are primarily domestic, and there ought to be no effective opposition.

In such respects the situation is somewhat different from that involved in the St. Lawrence seaway development, for instance. The Great Lakes basin and contiguous areas are already shipping heavily through the lakes and St. Lawrence river to Montreal, and thence, after breaking cargo, to the markets of the world. We are also shipping, more profitably than we could by rail, through the lakes to Buffalo, and thence, after breaking cargo, by barge through the New York state canal to New York or beyond if we break cargo a second time.

Those water routes, and especially the St. Lawrence route, could be, ought to be, and eventually will be further developed. But resistance to improvement is great. The international factors involved make it possible for obstruction on either side of the border to bar development. Also the fact that there is an outlet for freight moves many reactionaries to insist that it is sufficient.

In the Mississippi valley, on the other hand, we have no through route by water from lakes to gulf. The present status of the Illinois river waterway blocks through shipments. It must be developed, and developed on a scale sufficient to give a minimum depth of nine feet from lakes to gulf, sufficient to carry a barge service which would meet all apparent freight transportation needs. The resultant advantages to all farmers and other heavy shippers ought to be clearly apparent at once. In addition there could not fail to be great stimulation of lakes shipping which would increase the effectiveness of the middle west's demand for the St. Lawrence seaway development. United support for this in one simple bill (free from Socialist entanglements) will assure the improvement.

WHEN WE LET THE BROWN BROTHERS GO.

Representative Cooper of Wisconsin has introduced a joint resolution in congress to enable the people of the Philippine islands to form a constitution and a national government and to provide for their independence. To the principle, amen. For many of the details, O. K. It may be wise or at least humanitarian, as provided in the resolution, for the United States in setting the brown brothers out on the sea of national existence to stipulate that they shall adopt a constitution of their own making which agrees in principle with ours.

We know ours to be good, in most respects, for us. Ideally it may be good for them in spite of varying antecedents. Although not in our interest, it may be good for our repute if we see that they take the best precautions for their own welfare before they set out in their own boat. We have no objection to that. The world would gain nothing if these people went out in a leaky boat into a storm.

One requirement of the resolution is that the constitution of the Philippines shall contain a provision for the maintenance of a system of public schools conducted in English. What is in the blood of Americans which emerges in such ideas? Can any one explain a reason why an independent republic, as this is to be, raised in another language than ours and speaking many, should be required at our parting mandate to teach English? To us it is inexplicable. Is it an enforced sentimental tribute to what we have tried to do for the Filipinos? Are we to maintain that part of the constitution by force? Do we want to keep this end of the apron string tied to the proposed republic?

What do we care whether they continue to speak English or not if they are to have a free republic? Why not tell Japan that Koreans must maintain schools in English? Sometimes the American idea is inexplicable to citizens who love America most.

RELIEVE THE UNNECESSARY STING OF TAX PAYING.

The business of assessing and collecting taxes is a painful and irritating one at best. It develops an impersonal but flinty hardness of heart on the part of the assessors and collectors, and a corresponding irritation and resentment on the part of the persons taxed. It has led to revolution, and the downfall and extermination of innumerable governments in the past.

With the lessons of history and the complications of the present in such matters before us it might be well for the internal revenue department of the United States government to give some thought to this matter, in an effort to make income tax paying as painless as possible. Congress is trying to make it more painless and less burdensome by reducing the sums demanded. The revenue department ought to do as much by removing unnecessary irritations, and by facilitating the mechanics of payment and adjustment.

As the department is operating nowadays, the auditing of income tax returns is frequently several years behind the actual date of the return. Private individuals, who are unable to engage expert assistance in making out their returns, are more or less frequently being called upon to render some accounting for an error made three or four years ago. As most of us keep no comprehensive system of personal accounts, such an accounting after three or four years is almost impossible. To ask it is an injustice, and to penalize for it is almost vicious.

Corporations or business with elaborate systems of bookkeeping, and expert advisers on tax returns, may be able to clear up such points. Private citizens are almost at a complete loss to make an adequate accounting of a financial transaction which occurred more than a year back. Even the experts who advise the larger tax payers find themselves constantly confronted with questions which they must refer to the treasury department. What chance, then, has an ordinary citizen?

It would be simple justice, and common intelligence, to require the revenue department to make complaints of error within a year of the date of the return. It could be done if the department were properly conducted. It should cost no more money to find an error made last year than one made four years ago. It should save some money to the department and vast irritation to the taxpayer. Political intelligence, if nothing else, should improve this situation.

THE COMMUTER'S TICKET.

Ice breaking up, free waters rushing along the white edged banks of streams, snow disappearing from the slopes in a day of bright sunlight and soft winds from the southwest. Things unseen and unheard are near by. The proof is in the air. It touches the cheek and you know it is filled with mysteries. It is the touch of a sprig of lilac, the caress of rose petals, the waving of shadbush blossoms, a mirage of blossoming thorn with a brown thrasher singing, of a field white with trilliums, of a slope pink with hepatica or white with bloodroot.

There are songs unheard but from fields just over the horizon and coming on swift wings. The flutter is in the air which touches the cheek and beguiles the fancy into flowering gardens and blossoming orchards. You are being led by the hand into a new land. Nothing in the way but a month of snow, a month of snow and rain, and a month of rain.

TO IMPROVE CRIMINAL PROCEDURE.

The committee on juries of the Chicago crime commission has made recommendations which ought to be acted upon. For example, the committee repeats the suggestion frequently made that judges in criminal cases have more freedom to comment upon evidence and thus enlighten and direct the judgment of the jury. This is the practice in the federal courts and in those of England, which has a highly efficient criminal procedure. The fear of increasing the influence of the judge is exaggerated in our country, whereas we have no adequate estimate of the evil effects of the weakness of our criminal administration. An innocent defendant has little cause to fear the intervention of the trained judicial mind, but the evildoer is favored by the lack of training and experience of the jury.

The result of our system is to multiply the chances of the guilty to evade justice and the public is the sufferer thereby. The prevalence of serious crime in this country is a disgrace and its chief cause is ineffective administration of justice. We cannot reduce the shameful and demoralizing record of successful criminality until we contrive to make punishment a probability, at least.

Another recommendation of the committee which does not run afoul of a tradition and ought therefore to be more readily adopted is for the improvement of conditions under which talesmen and jurors have to serve. Thousands of men are drawn from their business and sometimes compelled to wait for days in most boresome and disagreeable surroundings, and often do not serve at all. Men with pull escape. Men without pull or unwilling to use it are penalized. As the report says truly, many citizens who are quite willing to do their duty as jurors are resentful of the unnecessary inconveniences of our practice. Means should be adopted to avoid unnecessary delays and diminish inconvenience and discomfort. Comfortable accommodations should be provided so that if a talesman has to wait a considerable time he can read or write or even transact some business during the delay.

This is not difficult to provide for and it would materially decrease the pains and penalties of jury service. It should raise the quality of our juries, and that is of vital importance, for that quality is often dangerously inferior.

SENATOR ESSINGTON'S PLATFORM.

[Peoria Transcript.]

Senator Thurlow G. Essington of Streator, Republican candidate for the gubernatorial nomination with the support of the anti-Small following, has formally announced the platform upon which his candidacy is based.

The platform is significant not because of its pledges or the variety of topics with which it deals, but because its tone and temper matches the known character of its author and because it is confined to state business. Senator Essington does not affect either alarm or satisfaction concerning national or world conditions, but, realizing he is a candidate for governor, gives assurance that, if elected, he will concentrate his energies and such talent as he possesses upon the business of the state.

"My promise to the people of Illinois," says Senator Essington, "is simple and single. I will, as governor, make the state administration a clean administration. I will remove from it the high cost of personal corrupt favors and of political corrupt favors. In making it clean I will make it effective and I will make it economical. Any clean administration can bring it about that the state government of Illinois, on behalf of the citizens of Illinois, will do more and cost less. I will give that sort of administration."

When Len Small announced his candidacy for governor on June 23, 1920, he wrote, "It is my opinion that the nation should be rid of the misrule and extravagance of the Democratic party and that the Republicans who are vested with the power to manage the affairs of our state and national governments should not be owned and controlled by the profiteers who gouge the people." In the foregoing Mr. Small merely voiced the political malice of political bosses in Chicago who lusted after the political blood of the best governor Illinois ever had.

We heartily agree with Senator Essington that the philosophy of doing good is being good, and that Illinois needs nothing so much as a hot bath with plenty of soap and the application of stiff brushes. The senator's record as city attorney and mayor of Streator and as a member of the upper branch of the general assembly is his best credential to the post of supervisor of baths at Springfield.

How to Keep Well. By Dr. W. A. Evans.

Questions pertinent to hygiene, sanitation, and prevention of disease, of matters of general interest, will be answered in this column. Where space will not permit, or the subject is not suitable, letters will be personally answered, subject to proper limitations and where a stamped, addressed envelope is inclosed. Dr. Evans will not make diagnosis or prescribe for individual disease. Requests for such service cannot be answered.

PNEUMONIA.

F. writes: I am a high school pupil. In the physiology class I was assigned the disease of pneumonia. If you have any information you could give me on the subject I would be very much pleased and grateful to you.

1. Description.
2. Organs affected.
3. The cause; how it spreads.
4. Simple remedies or home care.
5. Symptoms.
6. How to prevent disease.
7. How many people die yearly.

REPLY.

I will attempt to write you a composition on pneumonia, in the course of which I will answer each of your questions. The answers will not be numbered. Since I am relieving you of the trouble of writing the essay, you will be willing to wade through the composition analytically and find the answers. Your teacher will tell you that is good pedagogy.

Herbert Spencer wrote a five foot shelf of essays criticising education, but he never learned to pack facts in a page as a grade student can. This composition follows the literary method of the child in earlier grades.

Pneumonia is an inflammation of one or both lungs. It is due to infection with a microbe. People get the pneumonia infection from other people. Among the people capable of spreading pneumonia are those who have pneumonia, or bronchitis, or heavy colds; and those who have recently had any of these diseases, or those who have been in contact with those who had them.

It is the sputum, or spit, which spreads the disease. Exposure to cold, chilling, getting wet, living in crowded, hot houses, dirty air and lack of sunshine are aids in contracting pneumonia.

There are some cases of pneumonia at all seasons of the year, but the number in the late winter and early spring is very high as compared with the number at other seasons.

Pneumonia generally starts with a cold. Then suddenly there comes a chill and a high fever. This fever lasts about one week. When the fever starts a pain in the side usually starts. There is coughing from the very beginning. The sputum which is coughed up may be blood. The patient breathes fast and is very sick.

Of those who have pneumonia about one-quarter to one-half die within ten days. In some, for one reason or another, there are complications which cause the patient to stay sick for some time.

There are few other diseases that are so deadly. Out of each 1,000 people in a community at least one dies each year from pneumonia. About the only way to prevent the disease, that we know of, is to keep out of hot places, to avoid exposure, to drink no alcoholic beverages, and to keep away from people who have coughs and bad colds.

CAN'T BE INHERITED.

Mrs. M. F. writes: I am a young married woman, and just recently learned that my father-in-law and brother-in-law had at one time contracted a slight touch of tuberculosis, but are now supposed to be cured of it.

My husband is in perfect health, but I have heard that this disease can be inherited, and I am wondering if there should be a child born whether it would inherit this disease or have any tendency towards it whatever.

REPLY.

It will not.

KEEP 'EM BARE.

Mrs. J. C. M. writes: Under the best of conditions—tonsils removed, wool halt hose, warm bloomers underneath the skirt—is it a good thing for little girls up to 13 years old to go bare kneed all winter in Missouri climate?

Does it harden them up and make them more rugged and healthy or is it harmful to them?

The average child, of course I mean, with nothing apparently the matter with her.

REPLY.

Under the circumstances noted, I vote for bare knees.

ASHES IMPROVE THIS ALEY.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Our alley, which lies south of 32d street between Bishop and Loomis, is in an impassable condition. Would it be possible to have it filled with clean ashes? I have been unable to use my garage on account of this condition and must therefore keep my car in a public garage. A. G. L.

The alley has been filled in with clean ashes as per request. THOMAS H. BYRNE, Superintendent of Streets.

RENT GOES TO NEW OWNER.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[To the Legal Friend of the People.]—My landlord introduced a stranger to me as "the new owner" of the apartment building in which I live and where I have a lease which does not expire until May 1.

Am I justified from the standpoint of common prudence in paying my rent to the alleged new owner without a release in writing from the party with whom I have the rental contract? S. L.

If you feel any question about it, we would suggest your writing to the landlord, stating that you will pay to the new landlord unless he objects.

TRIBUNE LAW DEPARTMENT.

FOREIGN POSTCARDS.

Chicago, Jan. 28.—[Friend of the People.]—Postcards mailed in Britain at the postage rate of one penny [English] are surcharged 2 cents on delivery in Chicago. Is this in accordance with the postal regulations of the United States?

Postal cards mailed here for delivery in Britain are not surcharged. H. B.

The rates on single post cards from Great Britain are 1½ pence. Consequently a card prepaid with 1 pence postage is deficient ½ pence, which is equal to 1 cent in United States currency. Double the deficient postage is charged on all insufficiently prepaid mail matter, and consequently 2 cents postage would be collected upon delivery of a card shortpaid as above mentioned.

ARTHUR C. LUEDER, Postmaster.

PAVING ASSESSMENT.

Chicago, Jan. 27.—[Friend of the People.]—When will North Lavergne avenue be paved between Division and North avenue? Most of the property owners have been assessed for paving for over a year now. A. J.

We have a proceeding pending in court for paving, with asphalt, Lavergne avenue, from North avenue to Hirsch street, and hope to have the assessment confirmed in time to pave the street this year. The assessment for this improvement is not yet in collection, and will not be due and payable until next year.

We have no proceeding for paving Lavergne avenue, from Hirsch street to Division street. EDWARD J. GLACKIN, Secretary, Board of Local Improvements.

THE SUPER-POWER PLAN AS AN AID TO PEACE.

Madison, Wis., Jan. 28.—I read with keen interest yesterday your editorial comment on the new plank which you have adopted—"Develop a Nation-wide Super-Power System."

This activity to harness the present and increase the potential power of America is one of the foremost economic considerations before the country today. I was greatly surprised that the Bok peace plan, or counter plans, none of which was announced, failed to place any emphasis upon the fact that world peace can only be founded and then developed upon the premise that prosperity and culture go hand in hand. If there was any belief held by the judges that sound economic law should guide forward the world's advancing civilization, there was no indication of it. The permanent mobilization of world business seems to be the only way out of the peace question and the plank which you have adopted will carry us a long way forward.

Throughout the world business has not been mobilized so that it may function on a permanent basis. Political internationalism may not have its appeal for all peoples of all civilized lands, but economic internationalism—world business mobilization—which contemplates strengthening prosperity and spreading culture on a large scale, on a sound economic basis, to the 1,200 millions of people who are now living just above the edge of simple barbarism, should finally interest all thinkers the world over.

Our ultimate goal is invested with the idealism which robs it of any sordid or selfish material progress. There must be preserved in America the conditions under which this splendid material advancement has been created. History may yet record the fact that the greatest contribution which the United States made in the interests of world peace was the charting of the course for the great world to follow in the permanent mobilization of world business, upon a sound economic basis, and it strikes me that in your new plank to develop a super-power is one of the most significant steps yet taken to cause our people to think in terms larger than state or sectional interests. DON E. MOWRY, General Secretary Madison [Wis.] Association of Commerce.

WHY TWO SUPERINTENDENTS OF SCHOOLS ON THE PAY ROLL?

Chicago, Jan. 23.—So the members of the board of education have concluded to allow Mr. Mortenson to remain on the public pay roll for another six months. What's the idea? Are not the assistant superintendents of any use? If not, they should be eliminated from the public pay roll. When Mr. Chadsey—and I consider him the most efficient man ever employed for the superintendency—came from Detroit, he did not need any assistance. I have held several minor positions in life, including the present one, and if I was not able to deliver the goods I got my time.

In my judgment this Mortenson matter is simply an illustration that the public funds are rarely considered and conserved. This government business is a very expensive affair and it is becoming more so. All the pay rolls are padded. The school's pay roll for the city is overloaded with supernumeraries; the city, county, state, and United States pay rolls are cluttered up with political henchmen.

The burden is indeed great and the only remedy, in my judgment, is an enlightened public and the election of honest and efficient men to public office, not machine nominated candidates. If the public is too stupid to become enlightened the only remedy is to disfranchise the ignorant.

IS PEACE AND STABILITY IN MEXICO EXPEDIENT OR RIGHT?

Winnetka, Ill., Jan. 21.—Until reading your editorial on Mexico in this morning's TRIBUNE I had wondered why my letter of Jan. 9 to your Voice of the People had not yet been published.

It had occurred to me that your many interests might include holdings in Mexico, which made it wise for your paper to seem to favor the present regime. I now see that such must be the case, unless your source of information as conditions in Mexico be woefully at fault and absolutely at variance with the writer's first hand observations and convictions.

It seems to me that the policy you espouse is one of expediency rather than right. If a handful of renegades have the upper hand in Mexico would it not be better to exile or even execute them in favor of a Mexican leader whose record is clean? I mean by this: Why should Uncle Sam throw up his hands in horror if this be the only way open for a new right thinking leader to get control?

You must know that the Mexican public never voted to put the past or present clique in control. The vast majority of Mexicans are without education and in no way fit for the ballot, and are absolutely at the mercy of the little group who control the republic from Mexico City. This is why it seems to me our duty is to Mexico itself; to the thousands of foreigners residing there, and to our own fellow countrymen and country women, either sojourning or making that beautiful country their temporary home, to step in and civilize Mexico. E. DUDLEY BRADSTREET.

WORLD'S WONDER THEATRE

APOLLO

Again the Apollo performs the unusual!

You sat in amazement just about a year ago at the Chicago, Tivoli, or Riviera Theatres when you heard the APOLLO play an important role in one of the cleverest and most interesting acts. Now Balaban & Katz has even a bigger and better surprise awaiting you. An act that will thrill you through and through with its grandeur, its gorgeous settings, dancing and music, such as you have never dreamed of. Imagine such a big and brilliant composition as the famous Second Hungarian Rhapsody by Liszt being played on three Pianos—the APOLLO playing the solo part ALONE! Hans Hanke, America's foremost pianist and composer, has written, recorded and arranged this beautiful Rhapsody and will appear, together with the APOLLO and Elsie Barge. This musical and dancing number will show tomorrow and this week at the Chicago Theatre, then to the Tivoli, beginning the week of February 11, and the Riviera for a week beginning February 18. Go to Balaban & Katz Chicago, Tivoli or Riviera Theatres and hear this remarkable achievement. You can always depend on Balaban & Katz, likewise the APOLLO for performances unusual.

CARTER READY TO OPEN PINK STONE COFFIN OF TUT

Excavators Sure They'll Find Pharaoh's Body.

LUXOR, Egypt, Feb. 2. — [By the Associated Press.] — With steady strides, the excavators in the tomb of Tut-Ankh-Amen are approaching the crowning stage of their labors — the opening of the great pink stone coffin.

HOWARD CARTER.

Good progress was made this week with the work of dismantling the three outer shrines, so that with the removal of the two side cornices of the third shrine this morning the fourth casket now stands disengaged, save for the walls of the third shrine, and fully disclosed in its gleaming golden beauty.

As Howard Carter draws nearer to the heart of this bizarre, beautiful nest of shrines, evidence accumulates that the body of the mystery pharoah is still within. Tucked away in the corners and the narrow spaces between the different caskets have been found successively such attributes of royalty as the king's scepters and maces of gilded wood inlaid with faience.

Symbols of Royalty.

The discovery of two great ostrich feather fans with gilded handles more than three and a half feet long, stamped with the two cartouches giving the king's family name and official title, proclaims that the body of the pharoah is indeed close at hand.

For these fans, which have been a symbol of royalty in the orient through the ages, and are frequently depicted in mural relief in the ancient Egyptian temples, were borne close behind the monarch by great nobles, who were honored by the charge.

Were further indications required they would be found in the protective goddesses of death with tenderly spreading wings which are beautifully depicted in gilded gesso on the covering of the fourth casket, similar to the goddesses distinguished by the excavators, incised upon the outside of the stone sarcophagus, in their brief glimpse of the coffin a month ago.

Shrine in One Piece.

Mr. Carter was at first extremely puzzled by the problem which the fourth casket presented. Obviously his first move would be to take off the doors, which in the case of other shrines was not an operation of great difficulty. For the rest, however, the shrine appeared to be in one piece, and how to dismantle it without damage in the narrow space at his disposal was a problem.

Closer inspection today showed that after all the shrine is in sections like the others. As a result of this afternoon's work, Mr. Carter succeeded in raising the roof of the shrine about sixteen inches, disclosing part of the lid of the sarcophagus beneath. One of the next things to be done is to provide the elaborate tackle of pulleys and differential gear required to raise the immense heavy lid of the sarcophagus.

Mr. Carter conferred all the morning at his home on the edge of the valley of the kings with his lawyer, who arrived unexpectedly from Alexandria, presumably in connection with long drawn out negotiations proceeding between the Egyptian government and the excavators regarding the conditions of control of the tomb.

IRELAND'S AGE OLD FEUD FENCE BEGINS TO CRUMBLE, BELIEF

LONDON, Feb. 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—The Irish boundary conference adjourned peacefully after a session this morning. This in itself is considered as augurING progress toward agreement of the territorial line which will separate Ulster from the Free State. William T. Cosgrave, president of the Free State executive council and Sir James Craig, the Ulster premier, will return to their respective capitals to report the proceedings of yesterday's and today's meetings at the colonial office.

They have agreed to meet again within a month when Premier Macdonald again will use his good offices to bring about a settlement. It is understood that during the present session neither Cosgrave nor Sir James deviated the slightest from the positions they have maintained since the boundary dispute began, but the Ulster premier found the labor government firm in its intention of carrying out the Irish treaty and less sympathetic toward the Ulster viewpoint than were his conservative colleagues of the Baldwin government.

During the conference both the northern and southern delegates showed a desire for solution of the problem by agreement.

PATRONS SEEK TO PUT ORCHESTRAS ON PAYING BASIS

New York, Feb. 2.—Means for putting the leading symphony orchestras of the United States on a sound financial basis were discussed tonight at a meeting of patrons held at the home of Clarence H. Mackay. Figures were presented showing that the deficits of the symphony societies amounted to approximately $1,250,000 annually.

Application of big business methods, including appointment of managers and formation of pools, was considered. It was announced Mr. Mackay would probably disclose within a few days the results of tonight's conference.

Those present at the meeting included Alexander Van Rensselaer and William J. Turner, Philadelphia; Henry Harkness Flagler, Symphony Society of New York; Charles H. Hamill, Chicago; William H. Murphy, Detroit; Elbert L. Carpenter, Minneapolis; George Todd, Rochester, N. Y.; Louis T. More, Cincinnati; and Melville Clark, Syracuse, N. Y.

COSTS $21,695 A YEAR TO KEEP 17 YEAR OLD BOY

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The necessary expenditures for a 17 year old boy who will inherit a fund now amounting to $2,500,000, which is increasing at the rate of $50,000 a year, were set forth in a petition submitted to Supreme Court Justice Guy today. The court granted an increase of $5,000 a year in the $15,000 allowance paid to John Arthur Hinckley.

The boy is the son of J. Arthur Hinckley, who died in 1910, leaving two-thirds of his estate in trust to his son. The boy is to have half the principal when he reaches 35 and the other half at 40.

Mrs. Hinckley applied to the court for the increase on the ground that since the $15,000 allowance was made, living expenses have increased, and during the last several years she has had to pay part of the cost of the boy's maintenance. She estimates that she has paid $21,695 annually for her son.

Some of the items are: Clothing, $2,500; tailoring, $800; auto, $3,500; chauffeur, $2,000; pocket money, $500, and board of dogs, $420.

REP. CURRAN'S SON ARRESTED AGAIN; BEER RUNNER?

A charge of beer running may be added to the police record of young Charles Curran, son of State Representative Thomas Curran, as result of his arrest yesterday by the Deering street station flivver squad after a lively chase through crowded streets of the west side. With Curran is held another youth who gave the name of Joseph Ziwiski, 1630 South Spring street.

Two barrels said to contain beer were found in the truck and the youths were held pending arrival of prohibition agents.

OBITUARY.

MRS. MARY CLOONAN BOYLE, for many years a resident of Marengo, Ill., died at the home of her son in Woodstock, Ill., yesterday at the age of 104 years. Mrs. Boyle was born in Belfast, Ireland, in 1819. She always spoke Gaelic, never learning to speak, read or write English.

"The Revelations of Inventory"

THAT period of the business year fraught with mild excitement and sweet anticipation — Inventory-time — is past, and we are glad. Glad because Inventory reveals the splendid progress we've made in minimizing Fall and Winter stocks preparatory to the adoption of our new policy of "concentrated buying." • • • In sales-volume January goes on record as one of The Hub's banner months, and February, though usually shy and diffident in a commercial sense, seems nevertheless charged with portentous possibilities. For The Hub's "good old-fashioned clearance sale" continues—a selling event conceived in sincerity, definite in purpose, and waged with the courage and determination characteristic of this institution. • • • Indeed, huge tasks are not to be completed in a "jiffy," and certainly this self-imposed task of The Hub was a herculean one. Vast inroads have been made upon these great stocks in the past thirty days, and yet much remains to be done. So, come tomorrow morning with expectations running high, for in the re-grouping and re-pricing process "real thrillers" are revealed that will startle even the most habitual bargain-seeker. Hop in the golden chariot of Progress—the ox-cart days are gone forever.

Henry C. Lytton

Putting the Final "Kick" in America's Greatest Sale

Beginning tomorrow (Monday) morning at 8:30 sharp

We Offer Our Entire Stock of Fine and Finest Winter

OVERCOATS

At Less Than Wholesale Prices

$37 and $47

For Coats That Sold Up to $75

A finely tailored overcoat—like a well built automobile—proves its worth in long and faithful service.

Values are outstanding only when price is backed by quality. Indeed, price alone means little; it's the combination that relieves that human urge for satisfaction.

Therefore, The Hub's unprecedented overcoat offering deserves your consideration chiefly for this reason—it inseparably links "high quality" with "low price."

Every Winter overcoat in the world's greatest overcoat department is included at the above two prices—$37 and $47—thousands of beautiful garments, in the season's best selling models, fabrics and patterns—not a handful of odds and ends.

A new era is dawning at The Hub—an era of greater usefulness. Napoleon's battles were planned with no greater care than The Hub's good old-fashioned clearance sale. And this remarkable overcoat offering is merely one of the details of our plan to minimize Fall and Winter stocks, preparatory to the adoption of a new policy of "concentrated buying."

• • •

There'll be a grand rush for these fine things tomorrow morning—that's certain. If you appreciate the importance of "timely action" you'll be here early.

Re-Grouping and Re-Pricing Reveal these "Real Thrillers"

Thousands of Fine Suits

That Sold Up to $65 Many with 2 Trousers Now $37

That Sold Up to $75 Many with 2 Trousers Now $47

QUALITY IN SUITS is every bit as vital, or perhaps more so than in Overcoats. Correct style demands skilled designing; good fit requires fine tailoring. Those two characteristics are outstanding in this great selection. When we state that these are Suits that sold up to $65 and $75, respectively—you may rest assured that that is exactly what they are, from the collar of the coat to the cuff on the trousers. Only an inspection will fully convince you of the extraordinary savings they offer—but we can safely predict that many, many particular men and young men will choose two and, perhaps, three of these Suits, when they see the very outstanding merit of the values. They are weights and patterns that you can wear well into Spring. It is an opportunity that you cannot afford to overlook.

BIBLE LEADERS, OLD AND NEW, OPEN WAR HERE

Both Factions of Church Plan Lectures.

BY THE REV. W. B. NORTON.

A lively discussion in church circles is promised this week in Chicago by the announcement of fundamentalists and modernists that they are prepared to defend their opposing beliefs with opposing beliefs with vigor.

The fundamentalists will open their onslaught tomorrow morning wit hthe celebration of Founder's week at the Moody Bible Institute, North La Salle street and Chicago avenue. Their program heralds the coming of some of the most doughty champions of fundamentalism.

The modernists announce the beginning of a series of lectures at the University of Chicago open to the public under the auspices of the extension department of the divinity school. These lectures will espouse the beliefs of leaders like Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick.

U. of C. Lecture Topics.

The first lecture will be given on Tuesday evening at the Harper Memorial library on "What Is Modernism?" Dean Shailer Mathews will be the speaker. Other lectures will be on "Jesus Christ and Modernism," by Dean Mathews; "The Modern View of the Bible," by Prof. J. M. P. Smith; "A Modern Faith in Life Beyond," by Prof. T. G. Soares; and "The Function of the Church in Modern Society," by Prof. C. T. Holman, secretary of the extension department.

In announcing the lectures on modernism Dr. Holman, who was formerly pastor of the Normal Park Baptist church and president of the Baptist ministers' conference, says:

"Modernism in the minds of many implies merely a negative attitude. On the contrary, the modernist is not negative but is possessed of an overmastering, positive conviction that gospel truths are supreme in the world and that the needs of the modern world can be met only in the spirit and attitude of Jesus."

Champions of Fundamentalists.

The fundamentalists at the Moody Bible institute will be represented by those who have announced their intention to drive modernism out of the sert Aox churches. One of the speakers who will speak tomorrow is Dr. J. Gresham Machen, professor of New Testament literature and exegesis in Princeton University Theological seminary. It was a sermon by Dr. Machen which so offended Dr. Henry Van Dyke, author, diplomat, and professor in Princeton, that Dr. Van Dyke withdrew from the Princeton Presbyterian church which Dr. Machen was temporarily serving as pastor.

Another fundamentalist champion at the Moody meeting is the Rev. Harold Paul Sloan, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church, Bridgeton, N. J. Dr. Sloan four years ago at the Methodist general conference led in the attack on the course of study pursued by the young candidates for the Methodist ministry. Dr. Sloan especially singled out books by Prof. Soares of the University of Chicago and Prof. H. F. Rall of Garrett Biblical institute, Evanston. Both Dr. Machen and Dr. Sloan are authors of books which are aimed directly at modernism.

Dr. Stone's Attitude.

Dr. John Timothy Stone, pastor of the Fourth Presbyterian church, has announced his intention to do all he can to banish controversy in the church.

"I believe Dr. J. M. Gray of the Moody Bible institute and Dr. Harry Emerson Fosdick are both Christians," said Dr. Stone. "Either one is welcome to my pulpit but the minute either one or any other minister begins to attack others or start controversy I will refuse them a second chance in my pulpit. I believe it is my business to preach the gospel as I understand it, saw wood and let others do the fighting.

PISTOL TOTING HALTS DAD'S RACE TO NEWBORN SON

A violation of the Sadler act, which prohibits the carrying of concealed weapons, kept Lawrence Bronson, 20 years old, 847 Irving Park boulevard, from seeing his new born son for several hours Friday night.

A telephone call from the West Suburban hospital informed Bronson that his wife had presented him with a baby boy. The nurse who telephoned also mentioned the amount of the hospital bill and the father slipped a roll of bills into his pocket. Before he left his home he put an unloaded pistol into his overcoat. He wanted to protect his money, he said later.

Policeman James Donnwyth stopped Bronson in front of the hospital and found the pistol. Bronson explained, but the patrolman believed his superior officer should be interviewed. After six hours, Bronson was released and hurried to the hospital to see his son.

WINS COVETED HONOR

"Hindu Head Study," first picture sold at Chicago artists' exhibit.

Le Roy F. Jonas, who painted "Hindu Head Study."

Another Victory

"Hindu Head Study," the first picture sold at the exhibition of the work of Chicago artists at the Art institute, was painted by Le Roy F. Jonas, 4143 Washington boulevard. His left leg and left hand were shattered by shell fragments while he served with the 32d, Wisconsin-Michigan National Guard division, in France. He had been a sign painter when he enlisted in Co. G, 128th Infantry. A bone from the leg of an enemy soldier, whom he had bayoneted, was grafted to Jonas' left leg. After the war he was being "rehabilitated" as a sign painter, but wanted to go higher.

George B. Harrington purchased the picture. Friends of the soldier in Wausau are backing him financially, and want him to paint a series of pictures typifying the early woodsmen of Wisconsin.

KEWANEE
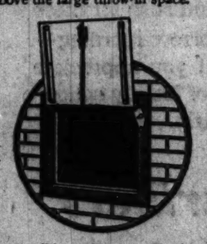
NON-BREAKABLE
COAL CHUTES
$9.00 and up

The KEWANEE Coal Chute with hopper, shown above, is constructed for buildings where the coal is delivered in bags, baskets, or shoveled in direct from the wagon. Note the protecting shield which opens up above the large throw-in space.



For conditions where a hopper is not necessary the above style is recommended. Due to its simpler construction it is lower in price but gives the same protection as all other KEWANEE Coal Chutes.

Protect Your Building

An easily installed KEWANEE Coal Chute eliminates the danger of a battered coal—the constant expense of repainting, repairing and replacing which cannot be avoided when wood coal windows or easily broken cast iron chutes are used.

All KEWANEE Coal Chutes are made of rust-resisting, non-breakable "Copper Steel." Its permanent protection of your building and the neat appearance of the KEWANEE Coal Chute increases the value of your property.

Guaranteed

Every KEWANEE Coal Chute is backed by an unlimited life-time guarantee. Each style is equipped with every convenience, including a reliable safety lock which automatically locks when the chute is closed. Lock can be released from inside only.

Write today for free circular describing complete line of KEWANEE Coal Chutes and the name of your nearest dealer.

Dealers The complete line of KEWANEE Coal Chutes is popular priced and offers you a good margin of profit. Send for description of styles and sizes with terms and discounts to dealers.

ONE-HAND GUN MAKER FOE TO PISTOL TOTING

BY ARTHUR EVANS.

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—To curb gun toting and its attendant crimes of violence, shipment of one hand guns to individuals by mail or express should be stopped. Sales of revolvers and pistols should be made only by responsible dealers to known and reputable persons. All purchases should be recorded. These are some of the views of officials of the Colt's Patent Fire Arms Manufacturing company.

This observer came here to get the viewpoint of the pistol makers, having presented the gun toting problem from the position of the police, the judiciary, and leading criminologists, who seem almost unanimous for government control of the manufacture and sale of one hand death dealers.

For eighty-eight years the Colt establishment has been a leader in the small arms industry, and today Frank C. Nichols, its vice president, gave a careful presentation of views.

Would License Gun Carriers.

"Let it be distinctly understood," said Mr. Nichols, "that American manufacturers do not favor promiscuous gun toting. We believe no man or woman should be permitted to carry a pistol or revolver unless properly licensed, and such licenses or permits should be granted only to such persons as are proven capable of properly handling a loaded firearm and have a legitimate reason for going armed.

"We believe every pistol or revolver should bear a manufacturers' serial number. This number should be recorded at time of sale. We carry out this policy and for years have furnished our dealers with books in which to keep such records. In this way we know to whom we sell our arms, and the dealers have a record of individuals to whom they sell—these being open to the police.

Laws Not Enforced.

"The unfortunate angle, however, is that neither laws nor records have so far kept pistols and revolvers out of the hands of the criminals. Our feeling is that the free possession of small arms by this class is due to the general lack of enforcement of existing laws. England has been cited as an example well to follow, it being stated it is exceptional to capture a criminal with a pistol or revolver on his person. Why? Because he well knows the penalty will be executed speedily and relentlessly.

"It may be questionable, even in these days of common violence, whether there is an advantage in a reputable citizen being armed, but if circumstances should justify such means of self-protection, a license to carry should be procurable. While it is true that the stickup man may in many cases have the first advantage by an unexpected appearance and the "drop," yet certainly a man well versed in the use of a small arm and prepared for such an emergency is not nearly so likely to be taken unawares, nor would the common crook be so free in taking chances as he is today.

Protection for Homes.

"However, waiving the 'carrying' problem, we now turn to the possession of arms for home protection. That is the constitutional right, we believe, of every American citizen and we, as manufacturers, believe we have the right to supply that want.

"It is argued by many that a rifle or shotgun is a superior weapon of defense. Visualize, if you please, a rifle or shotgun standing in the corner of one's bedroom, the intrusion of a marauder, and the opportunity one would have to gain possession of such a defensive weapon.

"The 'one hand' gun is not made, sold, and bought for the sole purpose of man killing. It is misused in that manner by the vicious element, but its possession and readiness for use has prevented more killings than may be conceived.

Would Arm Citizens.

Perhaps the argument that a greater arming of the citizenry today would discourage the criminal is not altogether impracticable. In Chicago some years ago when officials called on citizens to arm, publicity was given the movement and—holdups diminished.

"As to more legislation, we doubt its usefulness, except it be a clearing up of the conflicting state laws, greater penalties for the misuse of small arms, the recording of all sales, the stoppage of sales to irresponsible persons through the medium of the mails and sales to be made to known and reputable persons by a responsible dealer over his counter."

LEGION NOTES

County Judge Edmund K. Jarecki will address Advertising Men's post No. 28, American Legion, at the weekly luncheon tomorrow in Mandel Brothers' café, ivory room.

A new post, Town of Lake post, was organized Wednesday night at McDermott's hall, 5445 South Ashland avenue. James J. Buckley, 5145 South Ashland avenue, a bailiff in the Court of Domestic Relations, was elected commander.

$25,000 CONTEST HAS WHOLE U. S. PICKING NAMES

Christen New Magazine and $20,000 Is Yours.

There's a brand new indoor sport.

It's naming the new national weekly soon to be published by the owners of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE and The News, New York's picture newspaper

It's a worth while sport, for $25,000 in cash prizes is offered for the best name and slogan for the new magazine. Three prizes are to be awarded—one of $20,000, one of $4,000, and one of $1,000.

Men, women, and children everywhere are trying their hands at this new and profitable pastime. The contest is open to everybody, everywhere. So keen is the interest that already contestants in every state in the union have been heard from. Folks from Maine to California, from Louisiana to Minnesota, are trying to win one of the big cash prizes.

Send in Your Names Now.

The suggestions for names and slogans come from cities, towns, and villages from every letter of the alphabet—from Aurora, Ill., to Zanesville, O. If you haven't sent in your suggestions yet, it's time to start, for the contest is limited, and you'll surely want to get yours in before the deadline is reached.

The new weekly magazine will be sold on newsstands all over the United States and Canada at 5 cents per copy. It will be a big magazine—64 pages to start, and printed on paper of high quality. It will feature fiction by the greatest authors, illustrated in color by artists of note. It will contain articles on the home, health, beauty, love problems, sports, etc. It will print weekly articles of interest to every one—men, women, and children. Keep all these facts in mind in suggesting a name and a slogan.

Ad Tells All About It.

Be sure to read the full page advertisement which gives all the facts about the new publication. It appears on another page of this newspaper today. Be sure to study the rules carefully. It is important that you conform to the rules in submitting your suggestions.

Some of the suggestions just received are as follows:

"Prismatic—Reflecting Every Shade of Human Thought."

"The Eagle—A World's Amusing 5c Week Magazine."

"The Chosen Weekly—It Quite Engulfs All Human Thought."

"Arrow Weekly — Straight and True."

"The Weekly Garner—A Full Harvest of Interesting News."

"The Colorfoto Review — World News in Color."

"The Camera—The Magazine With the True Facts and Views."

"The Skyrocket—It Soars and Drops Its Facts to You."

"Eldorado—A Magazine of Opportunity."

"Cosmos—The World Before You."

"Milestones — A Magazine That Marks the Miles of Progress."

"The Trail Blazer—Monarch of the Magazine World."

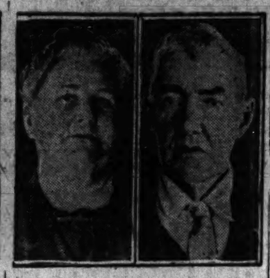
"Vim—The Magazine With Snap."

The above are just a few of the many suggestions that have been received. Surely it is easy for you to think of a dozen or more. Just try it!

GOLDEN DAYS

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Tompkins.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Tompkins, pioneer residents of Harvey, have just celebrated their fifty-ninth wedding anniversary by holding a family reunion. Mr. Tompkins is 79 years old, while his wife is one year younger. Their four children, nine grandchildren, and six great grandchildren will be present at the reunion.



Mr. and Mrs. J. K. Whitehead.

Seven children, fifteen grandchildren, and two great-grandchildren attended the golden wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. John K. Whitehead, which was celebrated a few days ago in the home of their son, Charles E. Whitehead, in Oak Lawn. Mr. Whitehead was born in Cincinnati seventy-two years ago. His wife, Mrs. Belle Whitehead, 67 years old, is a native of Illinois.

Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sweitzer.

Seventy years of married life were celebrated Jan. 19 by Mr. and Mrs. Michael Sweitzer of Lake Odessa, Mich., who pushed through the wilderness from Ohio to break the land for a farm in Woodbury. Mr. Sweitzer is 94 years old, his wife 90. They are the grandparents of Mrs L. C. Lake, 7260 Bennett avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. Eligah Sudbury.

Mr. and Mrs. Eligah Sudbury of 340 West 63d street, residents of Chicago for thirty years, celebrated their fifty-second wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, 340 West 63d street, on Jan. 25. They are the parents of eleven children and eleven grandchildren and two great-grandchildren, all living.

Mr. and Mrs. C. E. McCabe.
[Moffett Photo.]

Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius H. McCabe of 5922 South Hoyne avenue celebrated their golden wedding anniversary a week ago.

Children came from Boston, Salt Lake City, and Detroit, to help Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Kurzon, 5202 North Clark street, celebrate their golden wedding anniversary last Sunday. A reception was held in the Wrightwood clubhouse, with 150 friends and relatives attending. The couple have lived on the north side for thirty-six years.

Memories of the days when a rope ferry carried citizens across the Chicago river where the boulevard link bridge now spans the stream are still fresh in the mind of Marshall Garrison, a traveling salesman of Evanston, despite his 75 years. Mr. Garrison and his wife, Mrs. Nora E. Garrison, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at their home, 826 Madison street, Evanston, on Thursday. Mr. Garrison first came to Chicago in the early fifties. They have three children.

BANK SWINDLER FREE AGAIN BY PARDON ROUTE

Banks Fight Release, but "Reason" Wins.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Herman J. Blumson, alias H. Blume, alias Harold J. Benjamin, who was sent to the penitentiary while over his head hanged three indictments for confidence game, two for forgery, and one for embezzlement, by which process he swindled local banks out of more than $200,000, has been turned out of Joliet.

His victims believe and charge he emerged from the penitentiary with $100,000 of his stolen coin.

The Blumson release was unlike most of the other pardons and paroles by the present state administration in one respect—a reason was assigned for turning him loose. It was represented that his health would not longer bear the confinement. Perhaps that is true, but inquiry at the health department brought no statement of his death. But the point is not highly important anyway.

Was Well and in Love.

Blumson, who was said to be around 60 years old, seemed to be in pretty good health when he was caught after having swindled the banks out of more than $200,000. He thought he was in good enough health to get married. He was ardently wooing two Baltimore widows at the time. He was passing through the agony of deciding which one to pluck. One was supposed to have had about $50,000 and the other "a substantial sum." If he had been informed definitely how much the second one had in worldly goods it might have been easier for him to determine which one he loved most.

He had a wife and four children, according to the swindled banks, but they were no embarrassment. They were in Johannesberg, South Africa.

Sold Flour During War.

The evidence against Blumson was that he was a swindler of unusual cleverness. That he "skinned" several large banks indicates his boldness, but the prime example of his skill is said to have been exhibited during the war. At one period the government urged "save wheat," and to do that white flour was placed under the ban. But Blumson advertised and sold "white flour." It was so good that the federal government got on Blumson's trail. He convinced the government agent that he made the "white flour" without using wheat.

But he was sent to the penitentiary for another offense. He was charged with using fake bills of lading and warehouse receipts to obtain loans from the banks. To one indictment he pleaded guilty June 1, 1920, and was sentenced to prison for one to ten years. The evidence showed that he swindled Greenebaum Sons Bank and Trust company out of $55,000, the Corn Exchange National bank out of $64,700, Second Security bank out of $40,220, Benjamin Fishman $750. Several other banks were interested in Blumson's prosecution.

Fought Against Release.

They fought strenuously against his release. J. C. Hansen, president of the Second Security bank, wrote March 23, 1921, in part:

"We wish to enter a strong protest against showing him any clemency, as we feel that this man has not in any way shown repentence for his acts.

"It appears to have been his plan to serve a minimum sentence and upon his release to take advantage of funds which he so far has been able to conceal from his creditors. We feel that he is not entitled to a release or pardon at this time."

Blumson's accusers openly charged that he obtained $200,000 by fraud and absconded with $100,000 of it."

He was traced to Detroit, then to Philadelphia, and then to Baltimore, where he lived as Harold J. Benjamin. In one of his side trips from Baltimore to Washington Blumson was recognized by Frank Harvey, one of the credit men for Greenebaum's bank. Blumson was caught and extradited. When he arrived in Chicago and saw the evidence collected against him he pleaded guilty.

Health Helped Escape.

Against his release were not only the banks, but also the crime commission, state's attorney, and other agencies. It was charged by Assistant State's Attorney George F. Crane that Blumson was using his health as a means to escape punishment. Attorney Lautmann for the receiver said on May 25, 1921, that Blumson was in better health than when he was on trial, according to appearances.

No statement has been made the public regarding the name of the man who urged that Blumson be released. This pleader for Blumson is not a lawyer, or at least does not practice that profession. No statement has been made regarding this man's reasons for being interested in Blumson. In fact, no statement has been made regarding the release of Blumson, except that it was done because of his health. He was paroled March 19, 1923.

Four Indictments Pending.

He is now free, although four other indictments are pending against him. He was not required to stand trial on those before he went to the penitentiary because he promised to turn over all of his cash for the benefit of those he had swindled. But when he was safe in Joliet he refused to give any information, according to his accusers.

The North American—the unusual restaurant where a real portion of Fried Chicken costs you only 65c

You can't get a great deal for a dollar bill in the way of quality food in most high-class restaurants and hotels. Prices have a habit of merely starting at about that amount. And when one wants fried chicken, for instance, the cost in most places cuts into several dollar bills.

Yet the North American Restaurant provides you with a real portion of fried chicken—consisting of a breast (all white meat) with bacon and cream gravy or giblet sauce—for only 65 cents. If you prefer dark meat the same dinner costs only 55 cents. You can't get finer fried chicken. We fry only the tenderest Milk Fed Spring Fryers. And to be sure each portion is a generous one we use only chickens weighing 3½ pounds or more.

And low prices like this are possible because here you "serve yourself" and pay nothing for service. Furthermore, we have purposely kept prices just as low as possible in order to build a tremendous volume of business. And our present volume of some two million diners a year makes it possible to give you, as one of our discriminating patrons recenty put it, "More good food for less money than any other restaurant or hotel in Chicago."

Tenderloin Steak: A thick, juicy tenderloin with French fried potatoes and lima beans 85c

Roast Spring Turkey: A big portion with delicious stuffing, giblet gravy and cranberry sauce. [all day Sunday—after 5 p.m. on week days]
Dark meat 75c
White meat 85c

And our breakfast specialties:

Strawberries: A big dish of red ripe Florida Strawberries with plenty of cream 25c

Honey Waffles: With 3 strips of bacon or sausage, butter and pure maple sap or honey 25c

Bacon and Eggs: 2 fresh eggs, fried in butter and 4 strips of bacon 30c

Let us Supply you with a whole Roasted Turkey to take home. Ready every day after 4 o'clock. A turkey big enough for a family of 6 or 8—with delicious stuffing, giblet gravy and cranberry sauce—packed in a special container for convenient carrying. $4.75

TWO BOYS HURT BY AUTOS; ONE IS UNIDENTIFIED

Child Holding Dime in Hand Is Felled.

Two boys received probably fatal injuries yesterday when struck by automobiles. There were no auto fatalities during the day, toll for Cook county since Jan. 1 remaining at 38.

Frank Hearing, 14 years old, of 2006 West 21st street, running across the street at 229 South Clark street on an errand for his employer, was struck by an automobile driven by Anton Kovals of 11306 South Michigan avenue. The boy was taken to Iroquois hospital.

Unidentified Child Hit.

The other boy, about 7 years old, is in the Chicago Lying-In hospital, as yet unidentified. He was struck at Grand boulevard and 48th street by an automobile driven by Jewel Simmons, colored, of 435 East 48th street, who was held by the police. It is believed the boy had been sent by his mother to a neighborhood store, for he held a dime in his hand.

The only speeders who appeared in the auto courts were Miss Lillian Rayment of 7421 Sheridan road, and Edward Hank of 721 Pratt boulevard. Each was fined $30 and costs by Judge J. G. Fitch.

Three Held to Jury.

Three motorists were held to the grand jury on charges of manslaughter in twenty-eight inquests during January, according to a report of Ald. Frank J. Tomczak, chairman of Mayor Dever's safety commission. Twelve drivers were exonerated. In the remaining thirteen cases open verdicts were returned.

COOLIDGE O. K.'S COAST GUARD'S RUM WAR FUND

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—President Coolidge has forwarded to congress the treasury proposal to appropriate $12,353,989 to enable the coast guard to deal more effectively with rum runners.

The coast guard proposes to procure from the navy twenty torpedo boat destroyers of the second line and two mine sweepers or similar type of vessels, and to have built 223 "cabin cruiser" type motor boats at a cost of $37,500 each, with necessary equipment, including radio, and 100 "Seabright dory" type motor boats, costing $3,000 each.

Plans also call for reopening of nineteen life saving stations now on the inactive list, and organization of twenty-four section bases.

HANDS OF DEATH

The clock indicates the number of deaths caused by automobiles, guns, and moonshine in Cook county since Jan. 1.

GROUNDHOG AND PROF. COX CAN'T AGREE ON SPRING

Mr. Groundhog, nature's weather forecaster, and E. J. Cox, who prognosticates for the government, are on the outs again.

Mr. Groundhog performed his annual task yesterday. He came out of winter seclusion, looked for the sun and, not finding it, decided there would be no more cold weather. A visible sun would have meant a shadow for the four-legged forecaster and whenever he sees his shadow he dives back into his hole for six weeks more of winter.

But—

"Why bother me with that stuff," said Mr. Cox. "Every one knows that groundhog story is just a myth. It may, or may not, be warm from now on, but the groundhog has nothing to do with it. My own prediction is that the weather will be warm until the middle of next week, then cold again."

So, you can take your choice of these versions when deciding whether to dust off the spring overcoat and polish up the oxfords.

BOY SCOUTS TO CELEBRATE 14 YEARS OF WORK

Ten thousand Boy Scouts in Chicago are making preparations for the celebration of the fourteenth birthday of scouting, Feb. 8, it was announced yesterday. Beginning on that date there will be a week of scout activities, not only in Chicago but throughout the nation, in celebration of the anniversary. Feb. 10 will be scout Sunday in many churches. The scouts will visit the Lincoln monument in Lincoln park on Feb. 12.

More than 150,000 Campfire Girls plan to share in the celebration of the twelfth birthday of the organization on March 17. There will be song festivals and song contests in different cities and towns beginning March 17 and lasting until the end of the month.

HOME ENJOYMENT

This is the season when a well appointed home holds its greatest charm. Slush, mud, and faded turf enhance by contrast the fascination of an easy chair and a fire lit hearth.

It is a good omen for the future of the United States that people are realizing more and more the value of their homes—beginning to see that big dividends in health, happiness, and contentment may be derived from them when they are both attractive and comfortable.

There is no greater factor for clear thinking and right living than such homes.

NATIONAL POWER SYSTEM GAINS ALLY IN HOOVER

Asks Lakes-Sea Channel as First Step.

BY GRAFTON WILCOX.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Secretary of Commerce Hoover is in thorough accord with the plank added by THE TRIBUNE to its program for America:

"Develop a nation-wide water power."

The secretary regards water power development as one of the salient necessities of the time, and believes the federal government must give larger support to waterways projects.

"Having gotten practically out of the economic woods of the war," Secretary Hoover said today, "it is time we consider a long view and more vigorous national policy of improvement in our national plant and equipment —transportation, power, flood control, reclamation.

Backs Lakes to Sea Plan.

"Many of these projects require finance beyond the powers of private investment. Public utilities are under rigid national and state regulation. Therefore, any great national policy in all these matters must be carried out with the cooperation of the federal government."

One of the specific developments that should be consummated, Secretary Hoover believes, is the St. Lawrence-lakes-to-the-sea waterway.

"In our water transportation," he said, "one of the outstanding opportunities given us by the topography of North America is the St. Lawrence waterway.

"At present ocean going rates on grain and provisions to consuming centers in Europe are the same from Montreal and from New York. The grain rate from Buffalo to New York is from 8 to 12 cents a bushel, whereas with the St. Lawrence waterway the rate from Buffalo to Montreal should not exceed 3 or 4 cents—a difference that must inevitably reflect back in the price of grain to the farmer.

Answers New York Objectors.

"Some groups in New York have objected to the construction of this waterway as being a diversion of commerce through foreign territory and a consequent loss to our greatest commercial centers. As a matter of fact, the development of the St. Lawrence will produce by-products in electrical power amounting to something over two millions of horse power, of which a minimum of one-half will be available for American consumption.

"The natural point for consumption of the American share of this power for industrial purposes is along the Erie canal, and here lies a promise of the canal's further development and a return to the state of New York far greater than the small amount of values that comes from the handling of commodities through the port of New York.

Era of Power Development.

"Another of these great projects is the development of the Mississippi waterway through the deepening of the drainage canal, permitting enlarged barge service from Chicago to the gulf. Still another of these great developments is the inland waterway along the Atlantic seaboard. In these we can act at any time.

"In power development we are at the threshold of one of the greatest advances in our history. We have increased our kilowatt consumption in twenty years from 60 to 500 per capita, and we are still only on the way."

MUSCLE SHOALS SALE TO FORD IS GIVEN APPROVAL

No Date Set for Action in House.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—With the McKenzie bill authorizing acceptance of Henry Ford's offer for Muscle Shoals formally reported to the house today, a move by advocates of the measure to secure prompt consideration apparently met with but little encouragement from Republican leaders.

Representative Longworth of Ohio, the majority leader, said it had not been determined what place could be given the measure. He said the resolution of Acting Chairman McKenzie of the house military affairs committee requesting early consideration of the bill had been taken up by the Republican leaders to ascertain when it could come before the house.

Garrett Opposes Resolution.

Representative Garrett of Tennessee, the Democratic leader, declared he was in favor of the McKenzie resolution and would exert his influence to obtain early consideration of the bill.

The tax measure and appropriation bills, Mr. Longworth pointed out, held precedence over other matters, and, with a request also for prompt action on the immigration bill, it was difficult to predict any date for the Shoals discussion.

The resolution of Mr. McKenzie provides for ten hours' debate under the five minute rule with the time to be equally divided between advocates and opponents.

The bill as formally reported embodies practically the offer as made by Mr. Ford two years ago.

To Replace Gorgas Plant.

The section authorizing replacement of the Gorgas plant with a similar steam plant differs slightly from Mr. Ford's wish as expressed to the committee. It provides that the new plant must be located at or near dam No. 17, on the Black Warrior river, Alabama. Mr. Ford had suggested a clause be added providing for either the location specified or some other point mutually acceptable to the government and himself.

On the section providing that the shoals properties must always remain in the hands of American citizens the report commented as follows:

"The purpose of this amendment is to keep the control of this project, so essential to national defense, forever in the control of American citizens."

Steamer Missouri Frozen Fast in Benton Harbor

Benton Harbor, Mich., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Stuck in the ice since Friday morning the steamer Missouri of the Michigan Transit company, Chicago, has no prospect of release unless there is an unusual thaw. Capt. S. J. Carlson of the St. Joseph coast guard station said today the crew walks daily across the ice, piled fifteen feet high in some places, to St. Joseph. Ice drifting into the harbor reaches to the bottom of the lake and has frozen solidly.

ROBERTSON LECTURE MONDAY.

Lionel Robertson's lecture on "Interior Decoration" will be held in Fullerton hall, Art institute, tomorrow at 2:30 p. m., instead of today, as wrongly announced in a bulletin. This is for of a series of talks on interior decoration being given by Mr. Robertson.

CLARK ACCUSED AS SLAYER OF GEORGE SCHICK

San Diego, Cal., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—A search for evidence to solve the strange disappearance last February of George E. Schick, wealthy Kellaire (O.) coal operator and San Diego investment broker, today resulted in placing of a charge of murder in the first degree against E. Drew Clark for the alleged slaying of Schick.

A preliminary hearing has been set for Monday morning. Clark and his wife, Mae Drew Clark, are also held on charges of conspiracy to obtain by forgery the estate of the missing man and were awaiting trial on this count when the new charge was made public.

The district attorney's office has evidence, its attaches say, that Schick was killed in the home occupied by Clark on the rim of Mission valley. The prosecution also declares its evidence shows that the body was later destroyed and a partial confession of the killing made by Clark.

Schick disappeared from San Diego almost a year ago, on Feb. 8, 1923. He left behind him a mystery which has occupied federal and state officials for months until the arrest of Clark, a film actor in Santa Barbara, psychic in Seattle, furniture salesman in St. Louis, and a sheik in San Diego, and of his wife, Mae Drew Clark.

IRISH TO BURY DIFFERENCES AT BANQUET BOARD

American sympathizers of the Irish Free State and its opponents will dine together Monday night at a banquet in the Morrison hotel in honor of St. Bridgid. Mrs. Mary F. McWhorter will preside.

The Rt. Rev. Edward F. Hoban, auxiliary bishop of the Chicago archdiocese, will speak. Irish songs and toasts will feature the gathering.

HOTEL GUESTS FLEE FROM FIRE.

Scores of guests at the Lucerne hotel, Clark and Center streets, fled from the building yesterday afternoon, when fire broke out in a drug store on the first floor.

Don't Bother With Ice!

You Can Keep Foods Fresh and Wholesome in This Electric Refrigerator

EVERY DAY more women are learning this new way to keep foods fresh and appetizing. Better than they ever could with an ice box. And at less cost.

No iceman tracking in mud. No more food wasted because it could not be kept cold enough. No more running out of ice.

POLARIS, the automatic refrigerator, solves these problems.

It runs by electricity. When POLARIS comes into your kitchen you simply snap the plug into a socket—just as you connect your electric iron. No pipes, no drains.

You soon forget POLARIS is a machine. It operates automatically. It needs no attention. Our absolute guarantee covers that.

Even in the hottest kitchen POLARIS maintains a uniformly low temperature. The moment you open the door you can feel the stream of cold, dry air that circulates through the food chamber.

POLARIS makes little cubes of ice for table use, 20 at a time. Ready when you want them for dinner or between-meal refreshments. Freezes sherbets and ice cream, too.

LIBERAL TERMS make it possible for you to enjoy POLARIS in your home while paying for it. Don't be dependent on the iceman any longer. Prices on all models surprisingly low. Write now for full information.

Ask our Home Service department to help you choose the right size for your home. Four styles to select from.

Architects and builders will find our Contract department helpful in providing detailed information regarding apartment hotel installations.

HINDU AUTHOR TO ATTEND MEDILL SCHOOL CLASSES

The Medill School of Journalism yesterday celebrated a record day's registration by enrolling a young Hindu author among its students. He is Haridas P. Muzumdar of Bombay, India, and his book, "Gandhi the Apostle," is being used as a reference work by the Medill class in problems of contemporary thought. The volume is to be discussed at length by Jane Addams when she appears before this class, which is supervised by Prof. Baker Brownell.

Mr. Muzumdar is in this country to study American educational methods with an eye to establishing a college in India.

More than forty students registered during the day for the new Medill semester, which begins tomorrow. An added feature of the term is the appearance of a new Medill book, a revised edition of "Essentials in Journalism," by Director H. F. Harrington and T. T. Frankenberg. The introduction to the volume, which is a precise and comprehensive study of newspaper methods, was written by R. R. McCormick, co-editor of THE TRIBUNE.

CALL M'DONALD'S NOTE TO RUSSIA MASTER STROKE

Forces Reds to Play Game According to Rules.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Feb. 2.—Prime Minister MacDonald worked half the night on the Russian problem and he is continuing today preparations for a conference which must follow recognition and which he is anxious to begin at the earliest possible moment.

His form of Russian recognition is regarded here as a master stroke of diplomacy. He has given the Russians technically what they have been crying for and at the same time he has given away nothing. The note of recognition simply acknowledges the fact that the soviet government rules those parts of Russia which acknowledges its rule, leaving all details of future intercourse to be worked out in the future.

He has secured also by this stroke the technical reinstatement of all the old czarist treaties and agreements between Russia and England which must now be taken up one by one and examined, denounced or continued.

Russia Must Play the Game.

Russia is put on its honor to play the game according to the rules and if it does not do this the new British government will have the support of all but the out and out communists in formally severing relations.

Regarding the question of recognition before debt settlement, Mr. MacDonald is reported to have asked an official who objected to this course if he advised the severing of diplomatic relations with France and Italy because they had not paid and showed no disposition to pay their debts to Great Britain.

Italy May Sign Treaty.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

ROME, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—The British recognition of soviet Russia is the leading sensation in Italy. It generally is felt that Prime Minister Ramsay MacDonald has stolen a march on Premier Mussolini, who had proposed to sign a treaty with the bolsheviks Sunday or Monday. Italy had expected England to make commercial arrangements before recognizing the soviets, which Italy was prepared to copy.

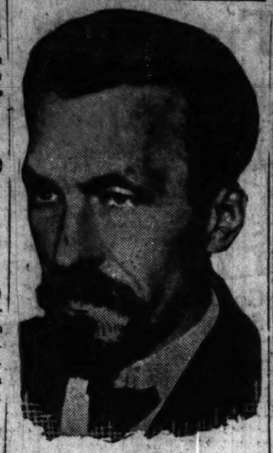
The proposed Italian treaty is based entirely on economic grounds. It is pointed out that England recognizes the bolsheviks on account of the friendly Socialist government which has come into power, whereas Italy hates the communists but cannot ignore commerce. Italy's treaty, according to well informed sources, will provide for Italian concessions in the Black sea, especially in coast traffic, and a large part of the shipment of soviet goods to Italy.

It also provides for a reduction of Russian tariffs on Italian goods. A mixed commission will superintend trade.

Russia Seeks Roumanian Parley.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

BUCHAREST, Roumania, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—The Roumanian government today received a proposal from the soviet government for a conference at Vienna to negotiate the political questions outstanding.

Lenin's Successor?



ALEXIS I. RYKOFF.

MOSCOW, Feb. 2. — [By the Associated Press.]—Official announcement of the appointment of Alexis Ivanovitch Rykoff as chairman of the federal council of commissars, in succession to the late Nicolai Lenin at the head of this dominant soviet body, is expected in well informed quarters to be made tonight at the first formal session of the new parliament.

It had been forecast that the announcement would be made to the federal council of soviets this afternoon but the congress closed its sessions after the election of the members of the two houses of the parliament, all on unopposed slates, without any mention of the succession to Lenin.

M. Churbar, chairman of the Ukraine council of commissars, and M. Orkalasvili, chairman of the Georgian council of commissars as assistants to M. Rykoff, Leo Kamenett as head of the council of labor and defense, and Felix Djerjinsky as head of the supreme economic council are also slated to be appointed tonight.

During this afternoon's session of the congress, M. Litvinoff announced the British recognition of soviet Russia, which was met with cheers from the delegates. Resolutions of greeting to the British government were passed.

MEXICO MAKES PUBLIC CLAIMS PACT WITH U. S.

Commission Must Settle All Debts in 3 Years.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—The general claims convention between Mexico and the United States, drawn up for the purpose of settling claims of citizens of the two nations against the two governments, was made public here today. It was ratified by the Mexican senate last night.

The convention was adopted only after the minority had received assurances that the convention would in no way affect agrarian and labor provisions of the Mexican constitution. The senate's action followed a long fight between adherents of President Obregon and Adolfo de la Huerta, now one of the leaders of the revolutionary movement.

Hague May Name Chairman.

The convention contains eleven articles. A résumé of the principal points follows:

Article 1 provides that all claims of citizens of the United States and Mexico, arising from various causes, except those arising from the revolution, shall be submitted for adjudication to a commission composed of three members who will make their decisions in accordance with principles of international law, justice and equity.

One member of the commission will be appointed by the President of the United States, the second by the president of Mexico, and the third will be appointed by mutual agreement. Should the two governments fail to agree, they will call on the president of The Hague tribunal to name the third member.

Article 2 requires the commissioners to meet within six months of confirmation of the ratification of the convention to effect an organization.

Article 3 sets forth the procedure to be adopted and states that both governments may appoint agents or attorneys to present claims to the commission. It states that a majority vote will constitute the decision of the commission.

Article 4 states that both governments may employ secretaries and others to help with the detail work of the commission, which must keep a complete record of its activities.

Must End Work in Three Years.

Article 5 provides that the commission must not refuse to consider any claims, while article 6 requires all claims to be presented to the commission within a year of its first official meeting. However, if satisfactory reasons for the delay are given, a six months extension may be granted. The commission must hear all claims within three years after its first meeting. Every four months the commissioners must render an exact account of their work to their respective governments.

Article 7 states that the contracting parties may present claims originating after the signing of the convention, but within the time limits prescribed in article 6.

By article 8 the contracting parties agree that the decisions of the commission shall be final.

Provides for Prompt Payments.

Article 9 provides that the two nations shall balance their claims against each other and the one owing the most must make up the difference in gold coin or its equivalent. The commission may decide that property or other rights may be restored to a claimant in addition to claims for damages. In such a case the commission is to fix the value of the property or right and the government affected has the option either of making restoration or a cash settlement. The government intending to make payment in cash instead of restoring the property or right must so inform the commission within thirty days and pay immediately. Should a government fail to make immediate payment the property or right is to be restored at once.

Article 10 states that each government shall pay the salary and expenses of its own commissioner, while the expenses of the commission, including that of the third commissioner, is to be divided. Article 11 provides that the convention shall be ratified by the high contracting parties in accordance with their respective constitutions.

The special claims convention, which provides for the adjudication of losses sustained through causes resulting from the Mexican revolution, was ratified some time ago. This convention, except that it deals specifically with the revolution, follows the lines of the general claims convention.

RECORD AWARD

MRS. A. J. GLENDENNING.

$100,000 AWARD FOR WIDOW OF A. J. GLENDENNING

Husband's Cousins Called Plotters.

Record damages of $100,000 were awarded by a jury yesterday to Mrs. August J. Glendinning from William Palmer and Thomas Davis, cousins of her late husband, Robert Glendinning.

The widow, in the trial before Judge David M. Brothers, charged false arrest, imprisonment and an attempt to "railroad" her to an insane hospital.

Full Sum She Asked.

The verdict, which has not been equaled in Cook county for several years, was the full sum asked by Mrs. Glendinning. The jury specified $75,000 as actual damages, and $25,000 as "vindictive" damages.

Attorney McKenzie Cleland, counsel for Mrs. Glendinning, in his closing argument to the jury, declared the defendants spirited her into the psychopathic hospital and sent her husband to the Garfield Park hospital, where he died, for "the sole purpose of gaining control of Glendinning's $2,000,000 estate."

Mrs. Glendinning testified that Palmer and Davis, with Mrs. Anna Garrow, a nurse, and Dr. Clarence Neymann of the psychopathic hospital, had taken her first to that institution and later to a sanitarium in Wauwatosa, Wis., where she was kept prisoner until February, 1920, after the death of her husband.

Clears Nurse, Alienist.

Judge Brothers previously had ruled that the widow had failed to make out a case against Dr. Neymann and Mrs. Garrow and exonerated them from her charges. The jury was instructed to consider the assessing of damages against the two remaining defendants, Palmer and Davis.

The defendants declared they believed Mrs. Glendinning had been mentally unbalanced and that they acted entirely in her own behalf. Testimony concerning Mrs. Glendinning's sanity was offered by both sides in the case.

Attorneys Hayes McKinney and George H. Grear, appearing for Palmer and Davis, entered a motion for a new trial that will be heard on Feb. 15.

Boys Free on Probation Nabbed as Radio Thieves

Stanley Sitla, 13 years old, and Frank Zebonk, 14, both on probation from the Juvenile court for theft of jewelry were again arrested by the police yesterday and charged with having stolen four radio sets, and quantities of wearing apparel. The boys both live at 24th street and South Albany avenue. The loot was taken from residents in the vicinity.

DIES AFTER STRANGE MISHAP.

Michael Beswinski, 26, 1950 West North avenue, an automobile mechanic, died yesterday in the Norwegian American hospital. He was injured several days ago when the handle of a giant jack slipped and struck his chest.

MEXICAN REBELS QUIT VERA CRUZ, REPORT STATES

BULLETIN.

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—(United Press.)—Two Americans, both of California, are being held for $10,000 ransom by Mexican bandits, according to a telegram received tonight by Mrs. William Simpson of Alhambra, Cal., wife of one of the men. The name of the other man is not known.

Nogales, Ariz., Feb. 2.—Vera Cruz has been evacuated by revolutionary troops and federal troops under Gen. Urbulejo have entered the rebel headquarters, according to unconfirmed railroad reports received here today and made public by Mexican Consul Joaquin Terrazas.

Obregon Forms Taxi Army.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1924: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Mexico City, Feb. 2.—The government today called on all taxi concerns to hand over their automobiles for the transport of troops for service on the Guadalajara front. The drivers will accompany the cars, stripping the city of taxi service. Some drivers are attempting to hide their cars to avoid service.

The Taxi Chauffeurs' union, one of the strongest labor organizations in the capital, has officially tendered its services to President Obregon. This move sustains reports that there will be heavy fighting on the Guadalajara front shortly.

Expect Battle on Lerma River.

The rebels will probably put up their stiffest opposition to prevent the federal troops from crossing the Lerma river at Ocotlan between Irapuato and Guadalajara. This ground is interesting because it has been used repeatedly as maneuvering ground for the Mexican military college for years and scores of officers on both sides are intimately acquainted with the strategic and tactical problems connected with it.

The former commander of the military school, Garrido Ramierez, who propounded tactical problems for these maneuvers, is now organizing positions for the rebels. Mexican officers are watching the developments with great interest to see whether the theoretical lessons taught them in peace time will prove out in actual operation.

Sees Revolt Ended in Week.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—The Mexican embassy issued a statement today declaring that the federal army in Mexico "expects to occupy Vera Cruz next week and bring the De la Huerta rebellion 'to a close.'"

"Esperanza, Orizaba, Lanza Grande and Canada Morelos are now behind them and there is no longer any obstacle in their advance upon rebel headquarters," the statement said. "In the series of battles on this front within the last week the rebels have lost approximately 50 per cent of their elements.

"From Orizaba federal troops are proceeding to Cordoba over the Mexican railway and toward Jalapa over the Interoceanic lines. The situation is moving satisfactorily on the western front. The rebels now have been forced to evacuate Morelia and have fallen back on Penjamo."

Save Governor from Reds.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

Tampico, Mex., Feb. 2.—Officials here blame soviet labor for an attempt made last night to kidnap the new governor, Pelayo Quintana, while he was at dinner in a downtown cafe. Prompt action by Gen. Lorenzo Munoz, chief of the Tampico garrison, in dispatching troops to the scene prevented what might have developed into a serious riot.

The Reds some days ago demanded that he declare himself in favor of all radical measures, but he refused to give them an answer, not having been sworn in yet.

Having already killed two senators the Reds figured that President Obregon's new governor was not sympathetic enough with their cause and they planned to give him a little reminder.

STATE LEADERS OF G. O. P. MEET HERE WEDNESDAY

Uninstructed Delegates to Be Approved.

BY PARKE BROWN.

A meeting of the Illinois Republican state central committee will be held in Chicago next Wednesday to ratify the plan of the party organization leaders in the state to back uninstructed candidates for delegates at large to the national convention.

JAMES W. GOOD. [Kaufe & Irving Photo.]

This action was taken despite dissatisfaction with the plan expressed by James Wood Good, western manager for President Coolidge. It was determined upon at a conference of about a dozen Republican leaders which lasted several hours yesterday.

Leaders Who Were Present.

Among those present were Senators McKinley and McCormick, Walter A. Rosenfield, chairman of the state committee and proxy for Lawrence T. Sherman, national committeeman; W. H. Boys, manager of the Essington campaign, and Chairman Homer K. Galpin, Charles V. Barrett, and George F. Porter as representatives of the Cook county organization.

The plan proposes to enter in the primary a slate of eleven candidates for delegates at large who will officially record themselves as having "no preference," but will bind themselves by a public promise to abide by the results of the presidential preference primary.

While it has not been formally presented to the Johnson organization, it is believed that Frank H. Hitchcock, manager for the California senator, is willing to let the award of these convention votes rest on the outcome in the state as a whole, to have them "go as Illinois goes," but ex-Congressman Good took a different position.

Hint of Threat.

It became known that he had named ex-Congressman George Edmund Foss, John G. Oglesby, former lieutenant governor, and George A. Barr, former state director of trade and commerce, as a committee to aid him in threshing out the matter to his own satisfaction.

This was considered as an implied threat to run his own ticket of delegates at large against the organization slate, but the Republican senators and their associates were so confident of the strength of their own organization that they agreed unanimously to go ahead with their original plan.

McCormick's Withdraw Name.

One of several reports concerning the causes of Good's action was to the effect that agents of the Deneen group had urged him not to accept an "all-McCormick" slate of delegates at large. When this was told to Senator McCormick he withdrew his own name from consideration and also that of his wife who had been discussed as one of the probable selections if the senator himself were omitted from the list.

The conference filled most of the place on its slate—headed by the names of McKinley, Sherman, Rosenfield, and Fred W. Upham—and will complete it in time to present it to the state committee on Wednesday.

Fight on Emmerson.

The conference also discussed whether Secretary of State L. L. Emmerson would be included in the McCormick-Essington-Brundage ticket. The decision was in the negative after Emmerson refused to indorse Essington publicly. It is possible that an opponent may be put into the race against Emmerson and that attacks on him will add to the fireworks of the campaign. A supply of explosives is said to be on hand.

Senator Johnson is due in town today for conferences in reference to the situation in Illinois and neighboring states, particularly those in which primaries will be held. Representatives of a number of these states will be on hand tomorrow.

McAdoo Men Not Discouraged.

From McAdoo national headquarters came informal but emphatic denials that there was any "downheartedness" in the camp as a result of the latest oil scandal disclosures. As one of the causes of good cheer the headquarters made public resolutions expressing confidence in McAdoo which were passed by the Fourth Ward Democratic organization. They were signed by Ald. U. S. Swarts, John P. Gibbons, and David Ryan Twomey.

HERO WINS $100

POLICEMAN RAY CRANE. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

CAPTURING TWO SLAYERS WINS POLICEMAN $100

Unusual courage displayed by Policeman Ray Crane of the detective bureau when he, single handed, fought and captured two murderers, causes Tam Taurman to award him its January $100 hero prize.

Crane and four brother officers in a squad commanded by Lieut. John Farrell were "covering" a house at 3622 Ellis avenue in which it was suspected Lucius Dalton and Henry Wilson, colored bandits, would attempt to find refuge.

Killed One; Wounded One.

When surprised in the act of robbing Frank G. Fodey in his meat market at 3429 South Chicago avenue on Jan. 7, Dalton and Wilson had opened fire upon Policemen Vincent Skiba and Joseph C. Lamb. In the hail of bullets Skiba was killed and Lamb seriously wounded, while the bandits escaped.

Upon information furnished by a suspect picked up in the search for the pair, Lieut. Farrell and his squad surrounded the Ellis avenue house. Crane was posted in a dark hallway on the first floor of the house, while his comrades took other stations on upper floors or in the rear of the house.

Just before dawn, Dalton and Wilson crept stealthily into the hallway. Crane observed that both were armed with heavy magazine revolvers. Without waiting to draw his own weapon or sound an alarm to the other policemen Crane sprang at the two men.

He Subdues Both.

In the struggle which ensued Crane was severely injured by the heavy blows from the butts of the guns wielded by the two colored men. But after fighting them from one end of the hall to the other and before any of the other policemen could come to his aid Crane had beaten the bandits into submission.

"When he disarmed these desperate men before they could shoot and kill him, Crane exhibited extreme courage, strength and ability," declared Chief of Detectives Michael Hughes in his report of the affair to Chief Collins.

"Dalton and Wilson had not only murdered one policeman and wounded another, but they were identified as the perpetrators of a score or more of robberies."

Honor Policeman Alexander.

Creditable mention is given to Policeman Irving Alexander of the South Clark street station, who on Jan. 20 shot and killed Joseph Meyers, an escaped convict. Alexander was taking Meyers into custody when the latter drew a revolver which he had concealed in his sleeve and engaged in a gun battle with the policeman.

HUNT ASSAILANT OF CHOIR SINGER, MORON'S VICTIM

A city-wide search was being made yesterday for a man, an alleged moron, who attacked Miss Esther Erickson, 28 years old, a stenographer, who lives at 3018 South Sangamon street, after forcing her into a basement at 3041 South Morgan street.

Miss Erickson was returning from choir practice at a neighborhood church when she approached the corner of 30th and Morgan streets.

"If you scream I'll shoot," the moron said. He then forced Miss Erickson into a basement.

The police found the young woman two hours later. Her clothes were torn, her hair was dishevled. She was taken to the Auburn Park hospital. She gave the police a description of her assailant.

TEN SORORITIES GET CASH FOR CHAPTER HOUSES

At least ten sororities at Northwestern university will be assured of houses in the near future, it was announced yesterday by President Walter Dill Scott. For several years the girls in the sororities have been working to raise $15,000 for each sorority. With this amount on hand the university will allow the houses to be started. The following sororities have filled their quota, it was announced: Kappa Alpha Theta, Delta Gamma, Alpha Phi, Alpha Xi Delta, Alpha Chi Omega, Pi Beta Phi, Alpha Gamma Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Omicron Pi, and Delta Delta Delta.

Hotel Guests Flee from Flames to the Street

A man was slightly burned and a number of guests of the Luzerne hotel, 2000 North Clark street, fled to the street yesterday afternoon when a fire broke out in the Luzerne pharmacy, on the first floor of the building. The fire started in the chemical room of the drug store following a slight explosion said to have been caused by the ignition of alcohol. The blaze was soon extinguished.

BEG YOUR PARDON!

After investigation by THE TRIBUNE it is learned that John M. Jenco, acting deputy sheriff of Will county, was not arrested in a recent raid made on a soft drink parlor in Joliet. The John Jenco who was arrested is a relative of John M. Jenco, but in no way connected with the sheriff's office.

RENO DIVORCE OF MRS. DE BOUCHEL IS UNDER FIRE

Atlanta, Ga., Feb. 2.—The decree of divorce obtained in Reno, Nev., by Mrs. Orezima De Bouchel of New Orleans, was not valid under the Nevada law and should not be recognized in Georgia, because it is "contrary to public policy," it was contended today by attorneys for Asa G. Candler, Atlanta capitalist, arguing before Judge Samuel H. Sibley in United States District court in the fourth day's trial of the $500,000 heart balm suit instituted by Mrs. De Bouchel.

"This divorce is illegal and would not have been recognized even in the state of Nevada, where it was granted," declared Attorney J. D. Thomson, chief counsel for Mr. Candler. "We shall further contend that even if valid in Nevada, it would not have been recognized in Georgia under the comity doctrine. We shall contend that any divorce obtained in a foreign state cannot be recognized here if it is contrary to public policy. We shall contend further that the ground on which it was obtained—that of non-support—is not a good ground in Georgia, and is not a good ground in Louisiana."

Attorney Harry Gamble of New Orleans, representing Mrs. De Bouchel, defended the validity of the divorce. He asserted that his client had established a legal domicile in Reno before obtaining the decree and her residence there was bona fide and in every respect in accordance with the Nevada law.

He argued that the decree should be recognized in Georgia under the constitutional provision of "full faith and credit."

Coolidge Presents Medal to Destroyer Commander

Washington, D. C., Feb. 2.—President Coolidge personally presented a congressional medal of honor today to Lieutenant Commander Walter Atlee Edwards of Philadelphia, who, as commander of the destroyer Bainbridge, displayed "heroism in rescuing 433 passengers from the French military transport Vinch Long, destroyed by fire in the Sea of Marmora, Turkey, Dec. 16, 1923."

The Story at a Glance

The Reason for this Sale

To clear our floors immediately of scores of artist-used pianos which have been returned to us from Music Halls, Recital Halls, Music Studios, Radio Studios, Clubs, Churches, Private Apartments, etc.

Class of Instruments Offered

Instruments selected from our stock by professional musicians because of their superior tonal beauty—Grands, Uprights, Player-Pianos, and Reproducing Pianos, in a variety of makes, including the celebrated Mason & Hamlin, the artistic Conover, the well-known Cable and the Hardman, official piano of the Metropolitan Opera Company.

Condition of Pianos

Splendid—many like new, for they have been played just enough to be well mellowed. Cases refinished and look like brand-new.

Price Reductions

All prices radically cut for quick clearance, offering savings upward to 30%. A wide range of prices to suit every purse.

Guarantees

Sold under the same guarantee as brand-new pianos.

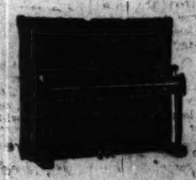
Terms of Payment

Even during this Sale all instruments will be sold on our regular liberal deferred payment plan. Delivery will be made upon receipt of a small initial deposit. Balance to suit your convenience.

THIS is indeed a rare piano buying opportunity—a chance to possess a piano chosen for its unusual musical charm by an artist who is a qualified judge—a chance to secure such an instrument at a very worthwhile saving in price.

As in previous years, this announcement of our Annual Sale will attract many piano buyers eager to secure an artist-used piano at a substantial price saving. The best bargains will be quickly spoken for. We urge you, therefore, in justice to yourself, to take advantage of this offering at once. Delay may mean disappointment. The sale opens tomorrow morning. Come early and have your choice of this wonderful array of unmatchable values.

For those who desire a brand-new piano, we offer these groups of instruments at special prices during this Sale.



Upright Special

A quality-built modern Upright Piano, from our own Factories, handsomely finished in genuine mahogany. Possesses a warm, mellow tone that you'll acclaim perfect. Priced this week at $395

Player Special

Here is a Cable-made Player of modern design and finish. The tone is clear and true and the player mechanism is unexcelled. The low price we ask for this unusually attractive instrument is only $595

Grand Special

This dainty Premier Grand requires little more room than an Upright. Has a rich, full tone equal to that of many larger Grands. Finished in English brown mahogany with satin finish, brass trimmings. A charming instrument $625

Merit

The public have a habit of rewarding merit. Invariably the great body of thinking people give patronage in large volume to that house which places worth-while quality and service first.

And it is interesting to observe that when you buy of such firms you pay no more than if you had purchased where quality might be doubtful.

Since 1886 Almer Coe & Company have been known to make and supply only glasses of the first quality, of assured accuracy and to price them moderately. Four conveniently located Almer Coe stores, each serving a large and growing patronage, bear evidence that the public have a habit of rewarding merit.

Always the best in quality but never higher in price

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Coming from behind in the second half Chicago downed Iowa in a shower of shots in a western conference basketball game here tonight, 31 to 18.

The Hawks got a fast start and at one time led the invaders 15 to 6, but in the second half the Maroon defense clamped tight and held the Hawkeyes to a lone goal, while Dickens and Alyea found the hoop with bewildering rapidity. Janse again starred for Iowa while Alyea caused the locals the most damage.

Alyea opened the scoring, but Iowa soared to a lead on shots from Laude and Hicks. Then Janse burst into the scoring with four baskets in as many minutes. Though the Maroon defense tightened the attack failed to work and Iowa led at the half, 15 to 13.

When the second half opened, the Maroons leaped into a long lead on baskets by Dickson and Barnes and when Iowa counter plays got in the Maroon had a long advantage they held to the end. Lineup:

GREENLEAF WINS TWO CUE TILTS FROM MATURO

Philadelphia, Pa., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Ralph Greenleaf, billiard champion and this city's representative in the National league, made it four straight victories over James Maturo of Brooklyn, by taking the two final games of their series today. In the afternoon the champion took his opponent's measure in ten innings, 100 to 49, while the night match also went to Greenleaf in twenty sessions, 100 to 59.

Myers Breaks World Markin Boston Games

Boston, Mass., Feb. 2.—One new world's record was established and another twice equaled in the thirty-fifth annual track meet of the Boston Athletic association here tonight.

E. E. [Laddie] Myers of the Chicago Athletic association, scratch man, cleared the bar at 12 feet 10 inches, setting a new world's indoor record when he won the pole vault. The best previous mark, 12 feet 8¼ inches, was established by Myers in 1922.

Carl Christiernsson of the Newark A. C. tied the world's record of :06 in the semi-final heat of the forty-five yards high hurdles and that mark was equaled again by Karl Anderson of the Illinois A. C., Chicago, when he won the final heat. Anderson collapsed after clearing the last hurdle, having broken his left ankle. He was taken to a hospital.

Ray Wins Hunter Mile.

Joie Ray, crack Chicago miler, wiped out the two defeats this winter at the hands of Lloyd Hahn when he raced home a winner over the Boston A. A. runner in the Hunter mile.

Hahn's best efforts failed to cut down Ray's lead sufficiently in the last lap, but the Illinois A. C. star was forced to set a new record for the Hunter mile in winning. Ray's time was 4:18 3-5. Ray's victory gave him a third leg on the trophy and permanent possession.

Murchison Is Victor.

Harvard defeated Yale decisively in their two mile relay. In another feature event, the forty yard dash, Loren Murchison of Newark A. C. won easily. Georgetown captured the Catholic college relay. Summaries:

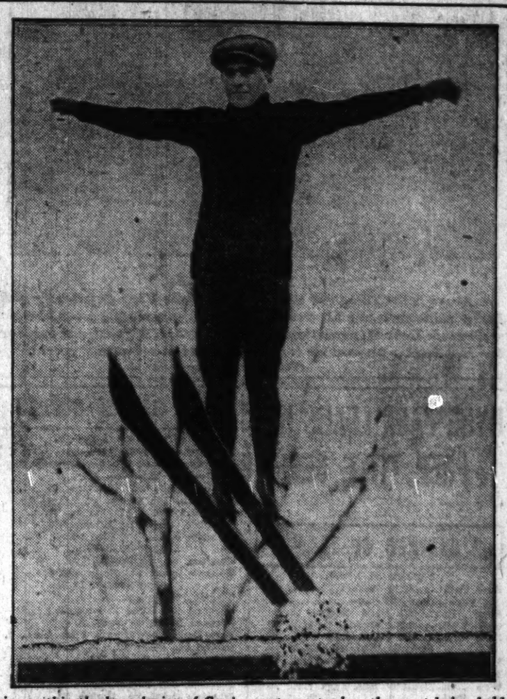
Toronto, Ont., Feb. 2.—Oscar Stanage, former Detroit catcher, has accepted terms to play with the Toronto International league club this season.

DEDICATING PALOS PRESERVE SKI SLIDE



For the first time in more than a decade there was some real ski jumping within the boundaries of Cook county yesterday, the meet being held at the county's new slide in Palos Park, a district in the southern section of the forest preserve. The picture on the left gives an idea of the height of the slide, while on the right Tarald Hoidalen of the Norge Ski club is seen in the air. The picture was taken just as Tarald, the winner of the meet, left the takeoff. Notice the snow he kicked off with his skis. For weeks county board employes had been gathering up and nursing that snow, flake by flake. If they hadn't there wouldn't have been a ski meet. [TRIBUNE Photos.]

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for The Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," Chicago Tribune. For today's question Harold V. Atwell, 1231 Stanton avenue, Whiting, Ind., was awarded $5.

The Question.

Should "stalling" by the winning team be permitted during the last few minutes of a basketball game?

Where Asked.

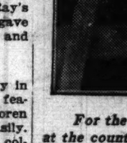
Central Y. M. C. A.

The Answers.

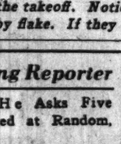
Burt L. Roetter, 5821 Magnolia avenue, private secretary —I feel that stalling should be permitted, and that it should be left to the aggressiveness of the opponents of the team for the position of the ball. I think the act of stalling really determines the skill of the team. About the easiest way to check it is for each man to immediately take the offensive and break up the play.

P. A. Leonhardt, director physical education, Y. M. C. A. —According to the rules as at present, stalling is considered good strategy, and it would seem that the interest of the game is best served by having the rules permit stalling on the part of the winning team in the last few minutes of the game. It is difficult to so word a rule that injustice will not be done to a team making an effort to play an aggressive game.

H. L. Gebhardt, associate physical director, Y. M. C. A.—Technically, stalling is all right. A man is entitled to hold the ball as long as he is able to do so. The rules specifically state that when a man is able to stall it shows inactivity on the part of the opposing team. As a matter of sportsmanship it is very poor policy.



William Weinberg, 1437 South Trumbull avenue, captain Y. M. C. A. basketball team—Stalling is not only permissible but it is a never failing indication that the team, as a whole, is using its head. Stalling at the proper psychological moment is the sign and token of intelligence.



V. E. Metzler, physical instructor, Y. M. C. A.—I recently saw two games lost by not stalling. Instead of using their time stalling they tried to make some more baskets. The opposing teams tied it up on account of fouls in the extra time. The rules permit stalling and, all things considered, I believe there is no occasion for a change.

CHAMONIX, France, Feb. 2.—[Tribune Radio.]—Chamonix tonight is waiting for the grand climax of the winter Olympic games — tomorrow's hockey clash between America and Canada for the world's amateur championship. The game promises to be the most spectacular and best played hockey battle ever staged on European ice. There is enthusiasm everywhere tonight in this winter sport capital, discussing in a dozen languages the probable outcome of the big games.

The Canadians still reign as favorites, but the betting around the big hotels has dropped from 3 to 1 and 2 to 1 a week ago to 7 to 5 tonight. Certain gamblers who gave long odds on Canada a few days ago are now reported to be hedging or seeking even money.

Both teams, after a light workout late this afternoon, were pronounced in "the pink of condition" and ready for the history making ice fight.

Select Belgian Referee.

"Our team has improved with every game, and I think with the American eight we will have an even chance to win," declared Bill Haddock, the American manager.

"We are in the best form and I am confident our team work will bring us victory," said Billy Hewitt, manager of the Canadians.

Haddock and Hewitt finally chose Paul Loicq of Belgium, newly elected president of the International Hockey union, to referee the title game. The agreement on Loicq followed a discussion of several hours, wherein the life history of half a dozen candidates was minutely reviewed and debated.

Tomorrow's game will be a struggle between the Canadians' flawless teamwork and the Americans' brilliant individual play. The Americans' hopes hang on Herb Drury, forward, and Clarence Abel, giant defense, both whirlwind skaters and crafty players, who have no superiors here.

The Swiss bobsleigh team miraculously escaped death this morning when their racing sled was hurled over the bank at a sharp turn during the opening trials in the Olympic competition. The Swiss sled was racing down at the death defying rate of sixty miles an hour when it failed to negotiate the curve of Kenwons—"Dead Man's corner." The sled shot over the top of the bank, hurtling the five occupants in all directions.

Swiss Rider's Leg Broken.

Alfred Guldener was tossed through the air nearly thirty yards, breaking his left leg in three places and receiving minor injuries. The other members of the crew escaped with only severe bruises and slight cuts.

Switzerland won the lead in the bobsleigh contest in today's trials, with Maj. Brooms, British entry, second; Belgium, third; France, fourth; the second British entry, fifth; and Italy, sixth. The competition will be completed tomorrow, when each entry will make two more descents.

Haug of Norway captured the eighteen kilometer ski race from fifty-three starters. Four Americans, Carleton, Haugen, Overbye, and Omtvedt, finished at the tail end of the procession of snow racers. Grottumsbraten of Norway was second; Niku of Finland, third; Maardelen of Norway, fourth; Landvik of Norway, fifth; and Hedlund of Sweden, sixth. The winner's time was 1 hour 14 minutes 3 seconds.

The four Americans entered in the ski race finished as follows:

Sigurd Overby of St. Paul, twentieth; 1:34:56.

Johnny Carleton, American Rhodes scholar from Dartmouth, thirty-first; 1:38:49.

Anders Haugen, Minneapolis, American national champion, thirty-fourth; 1:55:04.

Ragnar Omtvedt, Grand Beach, Mich., thirty-sixth; 2:05:55.

GOLF DICE.

ORIGINATING in Lake Forest, golf dice has traversed the north shore suburbs and reached the loop. Borrowing characteristics from both Indian dice and golf, it may be made the means of jingle or bank notes changing owners, according to the size of the stakes.

The implements are six dice. There are six hypothetical holes to be played, corresponding to the six numbers on the dice. Stakes may be either on the match or each hole, the latter method being more popular.

Let us start. The player with the "honor" tilts the dice box. Suppose he throws two threes, two aces, a four and a six. He has the option of electing the hole he will play first. Aces, except when Hole 9 is played, are "wild" and may be counted anything.

In the throw cited, the player naturally would choose Hole 3, for he has two threes and two aces, counting four threes. These dice he sets aside and places in the box the two remaining dice, which he must throw until they come up either a three or an ace. The number of dops to gain six threes [or aces] constitutes his number of strokes for the hole. Low score, of course, wins the pot.

No hole may be played more than once. On Hole 1, only aces count. Where the stakes are on the match, Hole 1 is the key to the score. The record so far as we have heard, for six holes is 24, whereas we have known one player to take 42 strokes for Hole 1—the aces simply would not fall for him. It's not a bad game. Try it some time.

Just a Little Pal Now.

I found you all alone,
A little sad and blue,
I tried to lend a helping hand,
And found a friend in you.

You told me all your troubles,
Sure of my sympathy;
We shared our joys and sorrows,
And the days passed happily.

You took me in your arms,
Tenderly kissed my lips;
'Twas then you won my heart,
But I did not tell you this.

We were so very happy,
'Till you met this other gal—
And though I love your dearly,
I'm just your "Little Pal."

Hoidalen Wins County's First Ski Tourney

PALOS SKI WINNERS

	Points.		Points.
Tarald Hoidalen	215	Alf Jansen	188½
Carl Ferguson	205½	A. Knapp	188
Knut Ornal	195½	S. Stedl	185
Einar Jensen	189	T. Wollebeck	184½

Longest standing jump, Alf Jansen.

BY FRANK HINMAN.

Tarald Hoidalen, one of the Norge Ski club's latest importations from the mountains of Norway, took first place yesterday in the ski tournament dedicating the county board's new slide in Palos park and gained a leg on the handsome trophy put up by the county commissioners in their activities to encourage winter sports. Carl Ferguson of the Grand Beach Ski club was second, while Alf Jansen of the Norgea, in addition to placing fifth, made the longest standing jump.

Despite the fact that the weather was everything good skiing weather should not be, the tournament was a big success, and the county board, of which Anton Cermak is the president, was congratulated from all sides. Between 4,000 and 5,000 people took a chance of getting stuck in the mud to attend the meet, and they joined with the jumpers and club officials in giving a vote of thanks to the board.

First County Meet.

The tournament was the first ski meet to be held in Cook county in more than a decade, and the county board has been working all winter to make it a success. For weeks crews of men were kept busy gathering up and storing the snow from recent blizzards, in anticipation of a thaw, so that the riders found plenty of the cold stuff on hand when they arrived.

Because of the warmth, however, they did not find the jumping easy. The snow was so soft they couldn't get any speed coming down the long slide, and the fact that the jumps under the adverse conditions averaged better than 80 feet indicates what may be expected when everything is right.

Jansen Jumps 98 Feet.

Jansen made the longest jump, 98 feet, and a number of other riders jumped well over the 90 foot mark, which augers well for some record breaking performances when conditions are favorable. After the jumpers had done their stuff the judges, Fred Bruun of the Norge club and Irving Larsen of the Norwegian-American A. A., suggested to President Cermak and other commissioners who attended the meet a number of minor changes, such as the digging out of the hill to make it steeper. These changes will be made in the summer.

The commissioners were highly pleased with the way the fans turned out, and they are already laying plans for the tournament next year. They will get together with the officials of the different ski clubs in an effort to get a date which will not conflict with other tournaments, making it possible for more of Chicago's famous jumpers to take part.

Today most of the riders who competed in the county meet will jump in the Milwaukee tournament.

SEATTLE BUYS 2 PLAYERS FOR RECORD PRICE

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Owner George Weiss of the New Haven baseball team today sold First Baseman Elmer Bowman and Centerfielder Frank Osborne to Seattle for what is said to be the largest price ever paid for two players by a minor league club. Weiss tonight declined to give the exact figure, but stated that Seattle outbid two major league teams for Bowman, who has led the Eastern league in batting for two seasons. In the deal Clyde Merkle of Seattle, former Penn State second baseman, will come to New Haven.

GIRLS WIN CAGE GAME, 106 TO 2

Bridgeport, Conn., Feb. 2.—What is thought to be a world's record score for girls' basketball play was made here today when the Bridgeport High school girls defeated the South Manchester High school girls, 106 to 2. Miss Waters of the local team tossed in 29 goals and one from the foul line for a total of 59 points.

BUCKEYES INVITE OXFORD TO INITIAL RELAY MEET APRIL 19

COLUMBUS, O., Feb. 2.—[United Press.]—Ohio State university athletic officials today cabled an invitation to the Oxford university track team to compete in the first Ohio relay carnival to be held in the new stadium on April 19.

The Oxford team is coming to this country to compete at the Pennsylvania university carnival, and as the Ohio carnival is to be held only one week earlier, it was suggested in the invitation that acceptance would only require that the team come to this country that much sooner.

RULES AGAINST NEWS WRITINGS OF NET PLAYERS

Expense Accounts to Be Closely Scanned.

TILDEN MAY QUIT

PHILADELPHIA, Pa., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Bill Tilden was in New York today telling friends here he would attend the annual meeting of the United State Lawn Tennis association.

"If the U. S. L. T. A. decides to bar tennis writers from competition next year I will quit competitive play," Tilden said before leaving for New York. "I do not see any harm in a man playing tennis, then writing about it. It does not interfere with his play, it does not hurt his opponent, or the game, and such a rule is a direct drawback to the sport. A tennis writer can do tennis considerable good by his articles. The younger element like to read such articles and I feel sure the tennis authorities are going backward instead of forward by taking action against tennis writers."

New York, Feb. 2.—The United States Lawn Tennis association at its annual meeting here today took steps to place the standards of the game on a plane of strictest amateurism when it voted in favor of the two resolutions offered by the amateur rule committee, one having to do with players writing tennis articles for substantial sums of money and the other with the paying of expense money to players.

The two resolutions were contained in the report of the committee and were voted on separately. Both proposals were discussed at length, and the first for over an hour before a vote was taken. The delegates voted almost eight to one in favor of barring from amateur competition players who write newspaper articles on the game for "substantial compensation," the actual count being 47,136 to 6,250.

Will Scan Expense Lists.

Most of the opposition was voted by Philadelphia, with 4,200 votes. Boston is understood to have voted against the proposition also.

The first resolution places a new interpretation on the amateur rule which will make it impossible for players to make a business of the sport and still retain their amateur standing. The interpretation does not go into effect until Jan. 1, 1925, because of the fact that a number of players have already entered into contracts for this year.

Under the second resolution any club desiring to pay the expenses of a player taking part in a tournament or match shall not pay the money to the player but shall pay it to the player's home club or sectional association or the national association.

No Talk of Tilden Row.

William T. Tilden, II., the national champion, who has expressed strong opposition to the anti-writing resolution, was not present at the meeting, nor, so far as it could be learned, was he in the city. Paul W. Gibbons, sectional delegate from the Quaker city, expressed the sentiments of his district, as well as of Tilden, and cast the entire vote for Philadelphia.

The anticipated controversy between Tilden and the Davis cup committee also failed to materialize. Julian S. Myrick, chairman of the committee, gave a conventional report in which no mention was made of the champion's criticism of the committee for its method of selecting the cup team and also for its directions to him to change his style of play during the doubles match of the challenge round last September.

Wightman Is President.

By an overwhelming vote the delegates banned the use of spiked shoes in tennis tournaments, except in cases where the tournament committee may permit them to be worn. There was a great deal of discussion on the proposition, in which it was brought out that a new crepe sole shoe has been found so satisfactory for use that there no longer is any necessity for the wearing of spikes.

It was pointed out that Johnston and Tilden both wore the new crepe sole shoes in winning the world's and national championships, respectively, and a letter was read written by Johnston in which he stated that he found the new shoe as satisfactory as the spiked.

The following officers were elected:

George W. Wightman, Boston, president; Jones W. Meserau, New York, vice president; Paul B. Williams, Utica, N. Y., secretary; Louis B. Dailey, New York, treasurer, Harry S. Knox, Chicago, R. J. Wysenck, Indianapolis, and R. Clifford Black, New York, were named delegates at large for two year terms. James C. Auchincloss, New York, Harry S. Walsh, Chicago, and Charles S. Garland, Pittsburgh, were named as the nominating committee for 1925.

Schedule Davis Cup Play.

Award of the Davis cup challenge round to the Germantown Cricket club of Philadelphia on Sept. 11, 12, and 13 featured the schedule of important tournaments adopted. The final intersone Davis cup play is scheduled for Sept. 4, 5, and 6, probably at Boston.

Under the agreement which the U. S. L. T. A. made with the West Side Tennis club at Forest Hills, N. Y., in connection with erection of the latter's new stadium, the national men's singles, held for the last few years at Philadelphia, will be shifted to the Long Island courts this year. The dates for this tournament are Aug. 29 to Sept. 1.

National Tourney Dates.

The other national championship awards, for none of which dates remain to be set, include:

Women's national singles and doubles, West Side Tennis club, Forest Hills, Aug. 11-16; national men's doubles and the national mixed doubles, Longwood Cricket club, Boston, Aug. 18-22; girls' national indoor, Seventh Regiment Tennis club, New York, in March; women's national indoor, Longwood Cricket club, Boston; national clay courts, Missouri Valley Lawn Tennis association; national municipal, Detroit; girls' hard court, California L. T. A.; intercollegiate and interscholastic, Merion Cricket club, Philadelphia.

Other important tournament dates fixed include:

Church cup series, to be held at Forest Hills, May 23 and 24, and the Rhode Island State championships, booked for July 7 to 12. The Olympic team exhibitions, Forest Hills, May 28, 29 and 31; Longwood Cricket club, Boston, July 14-19; Seabright, N. J., Tennis and Cricket club, July 23 to Aug. 2; Southampton, N. Y., Aug. 4-9; Newport, R. I., Aug. 11-16.

NEW TRIER BEATS MORTON IN PAIR OF TANK MEETS

New Trier High school swimmers, who last year won the Suburban league and Northwestern university interscholastic championships, yesterday took a double meet from Morton High at Cicero, the seniors winning, 37 to 22, and the juniors navigating to the front, 32 to 8.

In the senior meet the winners took five firsts in seven events, the plunge and 160 yard relay events going to Morton. Robertson, the ace of the Indian Hill squad, was first in the 40 and 100 yard sprints. Senior summaries:

Plunge—Won by Norton, Morton; Starrett, New Trier, second; Michalek, Morton, third. Distance, 58 feet.

40 yard swim—Won by Robertson, New Trier; Abbott, Morton, second; Taylor, New Trier, third. Time, :29 3-5.

60 yard back stroke—Won by Shattuck, New Trier; Abbott, Morton, second; Kennedy, New Trier, third. Time, :43 1-5.

100 yard swim—Won by Robertson, New Trier; Taylor, New Trier, second; Hall, Morton, third. Time, 1:04.

100 yard breast stroke—Won by Wray, New Trier; Thompson, New Trier, second; Carey, Morton, third. Time, 1:23 1-5.

Fancy diving—Won by Stirrade, New Trier; Hall, Morton, second; Rouda, New Trier, third.

160 yard relay—Won by Morton [Abbott, Evans, Sredl, and Hall]; New Trier, second. Time, 1:20 3-5.

CULVER SINKS SENN

Culver, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Smashing two local and one interscholastic record, Culver Military academy swimmers today took a dual meet from Senn High school of Chicago, 50 to 18. Graves of Culver took the hundred yard back stroke in 1:10 4-5, which betters the interscholastic mark. Hill of Culver made new local time. For Senn, Blankly made a spectacular finish in the 100 yard breast stroke and won the only first in the speed events for his team. Peterson of Senn took the plunge. Summaries:

40 yard free style—Won by McLellan [C.]; Cooper [C.], second; Beam [S.], third. Time, :31.

100 yard breast stroke—Won by Blankly [S.]; Rose [C.], second; Rein [S.], third. Time, 1:18 4-5.

Plunge—Won by Peterson [S.]; Dillon [C.], second; Hill [C.], third. Distance, 57 feet.

100 yard back stroke—Won by Graves [C.]; Bowron [C.], second; Knoesy [S.], third. Time, 1:10 4-5.

[illegible] dive—Won by Wofford [C.]; Rumph [C.], second; Kneeberg [S.], third.

[illegible] style—Won by Hall [C.]; Sloane [S.], second; Graves [C.], third. Time, 3:02.

220 yard free style—Won by Cross [C.]; Sanborn [C.], second; Komie [S.], third. Time, 2:55.

WESTERN TITLE ICE MEET FEB. 17 AT MILWAUKEE

ALVERNO RACES OFF

OWING to weather conditions the annual skating Derby of the Alverno A. A. scheduled for this afternoon at Humboldt park has been postponed indefinitely. Officials of the club have hopes of staging it within the next two weeks, providing the weather turns cold enough to insure skating.

The western outdoor skating championships were awarded to Milwaukee and will be held on Feb. 17 according to announcement made yesterday by Frank M. Kalteux, president of the Western Skating association. This action was taken by the board of control of the association and although the date conflicts with the international championships to be held in the east, enough local stars will make the trip to the Cream City to make the competition worth while for skaters of other cities.

Roy McWhirter of the Northwest Skating club, Eddie Reed and Harry Kaskey of the Alverno A. A. and William Steinmetz of the Norwegian American A. A. have been selected to represent the middle west in the international championships in the east. Kaskey and Steinmetz are now on their way home from France where they took part in the skating events of the Olympic games.

Farrell to Skate Junior.

Oneil Farrell of the Alverno A. A. has been selected to represent the district in the junior events. Although Farrell has been competing in senior contests, he is eligible for junior competition in the international title races because he is under 18 years of age.

The Western Skating association has opened negotiations with officials of the International Skating union to permit Eddie Murphy, Robert Reed and Alton James of the Alverno A. A. and Francis Allen of the Austin Columbia A. A., winner of this year's Tribune Silver Skates Derby, to enter the eastern competition. Frank J. Reilly, secretary of the Western Skating association, is carrying on the negotiations with international officials.

Allen Is Reinstated.

After Francis Allen of the Austin Columbia A. A. had made a public apology to the board of control of the Western Skating association, and to Robert Reed and the Opal A. A. for his actions in the final race of the Opal A. A. derby last Sunday, all action on the matter has been dropped and the skater will not be suspended from further competition this year.

LOYOLA FIVE BEATS ROSE POLY

After a tight first half, which ended in an 8 to 8 deadlock, Loyola university quintet last night forged to the front at its north side gymnasium and defeated Rose Poly of Terre Haute, Ind., 24 to 14. The basket shooting of Schlacks in the final period contributed much to the victory for Loyola. He netted five baskets. Lineup:

Woods and Waters by BOB BECKER

SALT WATER FISHING FURNISHES MANY SURPRISES.

FLORIDA KEYS, near Miami, Fla.—Sometimes surprises come thick and fast for the salt water angler who wets a line down here. Just when one thinks he has a fish all but landed perhaps a big barracuda or grouper steps in and picks off the prize for a meal, leaving the angler with just a fragment of his catch. This happened several times to us while fishing over the reefs east of the keys.

One morning we were bowling along in our little cruiser with a line out behind when whami a fish hit the bait like a ton of brick. It proved to be a fine big mackerel which is always welcome for both the commissary and the bait supply. We proceeded to rest in Mr. Mackerel when it shot out of the water and right behind it came a barracuda intent upon getting away with this fine fish which was dancing around before his nose.

We rested in as fast as we could but again the hooked fish jumped with the savage barracuda about a foot behind it. In a few seconds we felt a determined tug upon the line, then a pronounced change in the weight of our hooked fish. But no wonder. When we got the mackerel alongside he just wasn't! The barracuda could not be denied. Only the head of the mackerel and a small portion of its body was on the hook. The "old tiger" had just snapped his cruel jaws once and made short work of our fish.

Another time we saw a barracuda trying to get a yellow tail we had hooked. The yellow tail is one of the most beautiful fishes we have ever laid our eyes on. Shaped somewhat like a small mouth bass he has a brilliant yellow stripe down his sides ending on his tail in quite a splash of the same color. When fresh from the water they are beauties, graceful in shape, brilliant in coloring and somehow or other typifying the tropical nature of the finny tribes that frequent the gulf stream region in the Florida keys.

While trolling over the reefs near the stream we got into a school of yellow tails. One, two struck in quick order. Just as we were reeling in the first one it cleared the water like a shot with a barracuda right behind. Then ensued a race against death as that yellow tail tried to elude the relentless barracuda. But we fooled him as we snaked in that yellow tail in such short order that Mr. Barracuda didn't get a chance to work his big jaws.

You're conscious of this constant struggle for existence, the continual battle going on between the various forms of life in the ocean, after spending just a few days fishing along the gulf stream as all the time examples of the eternal scrap parade before your eyes.

But on one occasion we saw a grouper making it hot for a small barracuda. The latter was hooked and being drawn toward the boat when, out of the water he sailed with this grouper behind—the only time when we saw that old relentless slayer being put to rout.

And it seemed as if the smaller fishes were getting it from all sides. When not pursued by their enemies in the water the pelicans were attacking from above. The poor fish don't seem to know what peace is down here along the Florida keys.

MAROON TANK STARS DOUSE PURDUE, 49-19

Winning six out of seven first places and taking first in the relay, University of Chicago swimming team last night submerged the Purdue aquatic team, 49 to 19, in a dual conference meet in the University of Chicago tank. The Maroons also won the water basketball game, 9 to 6.

Prothéroe was the main cog in the locals' victory, winning firsts in 100 and 220 yard swims and taking part in the Maroons' relay triumph. Knipfash was the only Purdue man to outspeed any of the Maroons. He took the 150 yard swim. Summaries:

40 yard swim—Won by Van Deventer [C.]; Gilchrist [C.], second; Roth [P.], third. Time, :21.

200 yard breast stroke—Won by Hawkins [C.]; Lyons [C.], second; Phillips [P.], third. Time, 2:50 2-5.

220 yard swim—Won by Prothéroe [C.]; Pace [P.], second; Baugh [P.], third. Time, 2:40 3-5.

150 yard back stroke—Won by Knipfash [P.]; Hadley [P.], second; Shipman [C.], third. Time, 2:15.

100 yard swim—Won by Prothéroe [C.]; Van Deventer [C.], second; Roth [P.], third. Time, :50 4-5.

ENTRY BLANKS OUT FOR ILLINI RELAY CARNIVAL

Urbana, Ill., Feb. 2.—Entry blanks for the seventh annual indoor track carnival of the University of Illinois, to be held in the mammoth armory on March 1 were mailed yesterday to approximately 250 universities, colleges and high schools in the middle west.

The carnival has been featured by its record breaking performances, which is due largely to the fast clay track on the dashes and hurdles and the oval which measures six and three-tenths laps to the mile. Last year nine records in eleven of the eighteen events for the games were broken and seven of the established marks may go by the boards this season.

World's Record Tied.

In the 75 yard dash, the world's record of :07 2-5 has been tied four times by Schein of Missouri and once by Ayres of Illinois, while the world's record of :08 2-5 for the 75 yard low hurdles made by Waide Ames of Illinois stands, although it has been tied twice. Johnson of Michigan topped the hurdlers in :08, but the record was not accepted because the officials did not file the affidavits.

Three world's indoor relay records have been established during the course of the games. In 1922, Illinois hung up a one mile mark of 3:26 flat in the same year, Pennsylvania established a two mile record of 7:58 1-5. Last year the Illinois four mile team negotiated the distance in 18:17.

Harry Gill in Charge.

As it is Olympic year, none of the coaches will overlook any opportunities to give their charges all the competition possible.

Harry Gill, coach at Illinois, is in charge of the relays and is assisted by a corps of student managers. Competent officials will be selected and the all-around championships will be run in the afternoon of March 1 and the relay races and individual events in the evening, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

WIN FOR LAKE FOREST.

Lake Forest, Ill., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Lake Forest academy defeated Morgan Park military academy, 51 to 7, tonight. The work of Lake Forest boys was far superior to that of Morgan Park boys in the first but four points in the second half. In a preliminary Allandale Farm defeated Academy lights, 20 to 9.

SUDENBERG HURT JACK, BUT FIRPO HIT THE HARDEST

This is the last of a series of five articles in which Jack Dempsey, world's heavyweight champion, tells of his last five ring battles.

BY W. C. VREELAND.

"Luis Firpo hit me the hardest blow.

"But—

"Johnny Sudenberg gave me the worst mauling I ever received in the ring. He had me on the floor at least three or four times."

There, it's out—the identity of the man who gave Jack Dempsey his worst trouncing. Patrons of the ringside probably have made a thousand guesses as to the man who handed out that sort of treatment to the champion heavyweight of the world. With the Firpo-Dempsey bout still fresh in the minds of those who had witnessed it—the most terrific fight between big men in the annals of fistiana—it was natural that the man from Argentina was the one selected.

But Dempsey made it plain in the interview that, while Firpo hit him the hardest blow—a single punch—it was Sudenberg, a fighter scarcely known to the fans in the east, who hurt him worse than any other man that ever faced him. This was in the winter of 1915-16, when they fought ten rounds to a draw. It brought about a return match, which Dempsey won in ten rounds.

Jack Always Comes Back.

It was characteristic of Dempsey that every time he met a fighter the second time the decision in the return match was always in his favor. That showed that the champion not only kept improving in his boxing and fighting, but that he learned something—the weak points of his opponents. Fighters, for instance, like Jack Downey and Willie Meehan who earned decisions over him were subsequently beaten. "Fireman" Jim Flynn earned the unique distinction of knocking out Dempsey in one round. This was in 1917. But Dempsey evened up the score with the rugged, husky fireman, by knocking him out in one round a year later.

Another point that Dempsey brought out that is worth while recording at once was that the hardest blow he ever received was not the one which sent him crashing through the ropes, but the one that dropped him to his knees just after the fight started. Many of the reporters sitting at the ringside called that incident a "slip." They did not even mention that Dempsey had been hit. Here we have the statement from the champion himself that it was not only the hardest blow he received in that bout but the hardest punch he had ever received in his career.

Drops Dempsey to Knees.

In my report of the fight I mentioned how Firpo had spread his legs and swinging his right with all his might let drive at Dempsey's face just as the latter went crashing into the fighting zone. It was the first rush of the champion. The gong had scarcely clanged when Dempsey tore into Firpo. Bang! Firpo's right hit Dempsey on the left side of the face with terrific force.

Dempsey dropped to his knees, caught hold of Firpo's legs and body, and pulled himself to his feet. The blow followed so swiftly on the sound of the bell that a number of the ringside spectators were not prepared for what took place. They saw Dempsey rising toward Firpo and then his sudden collapse. They could not realise that he had been hit—he, the champion of the world—so soon in the battle. I was sitting beside Jim Corbett, the one time champion, and we were so situated that we had a good view of what had just taken place. As Dempsey dropped, Corbett ejaculated: "My God, right on the button!"

You will see later that Dempsey considered the blow that knocked him through the ropes a trifle in comparison.

Tells of Blow.

Jack was now in full action in the personal history of his last five fights in the ring. This was the most important battle of his career—the one with Luis Firpo. He started off in answer to the query: "Who gave you the hardest fight?"

"Well, I had so many tough fights before I became champion that it's hard to say which one stood out as the toughest. But I think, considering everything—I mean my frame of mind at the time as well as the frame of my jaw afterward—that Johnny Sudenberg gave me the worst mauling I ever received. He had me on the floor three or four times. I won that fight, but I can't remember when or how. Sudenberg certainly treated me rough. He gave me a fine pasting, but I got square with him and made him hit the resin many times.

"Since I have won the championship, including the fight with Big Jess for the crown, I'd say Firpo hit me the hardest blow by long odds. That was the first wallop he gave me. I had just started to rush him. As I went tearing in he sent over a whale of a punch. It almost sank me, I'll tell you and the rest of the world. It all but won the title.

Nearly Ruined Him.

"I don't believe I'll ever come any nearer to being knocked out than I did with that punch. It was almost touch and go with me. You'll remember I clinched and stalled after it landed and did everything permitted by the rules for at least a minute. If it had been a trifle lower and perhaps a few pounds harder, mayhap the title would be with Firpo in South America today.

"No, sir, don't you believe the fight experts who insist that my worst minute in the battle was when I went through the ropes. Why, I wasn't knocked through the ropes—I was bumped through 'em!

"I was in the position of a switchman being shouldered off a bridge by a slow moving, heavy engine. If you happen to run across those pictures of the fight just watch 'em closely. You'll notice that I didn't come back angry. I couldn't have been so badly hurt by that blow, could I? For right after I had been pushed out of the ring and had scrambled through the ropes again and was once more in the ring I sent the Wild Bull back to the pasture. He enjoyed the grass so much that he dug his face into it. And the experts will tell you that I all but lost the crown there and then. I'm telling you that the danger point was almost reached when Firpo stepped over his first punch."

Firpo Trusted to Luck.

Admitting that such was the record, the question was fired at Dempsey: "Somebody, a smaller and comparatively obscure fighter, could floor you repeatedly, why couldn't Firpo, by your admission the strongest man and hardest hitter in the ring, knock you through the ropes?" This query seemingly rasped the edges of the champ's temper just a trifle. He replied:

"Gee whiz, man! I knew more about boxing and ring strategy when I met Firpo than I did when I faced Sudenberg. Firpo didn't know how to follow up his advantage. He trusted to luck when he started to punch. He simply braced himself and let go. He hoped it would land, but he wasn't certain that it would.

"Honestly, I couldn't say just how the punch landed that dazed me. This, as I said, was the first blow of the fight. It hurt and jarred just as though some big wooden object—a beam or a log—had fallen on me. I saw stars. You'd know, if you've ever boxed, that a knockout doesn't hurt. It lands, and then—sleep. The victim feels no pain. That is the difference between a blow that hurts and a knockout. But, say, Firpo's blows hurt even when I blocked them with my elbows. Power, tons of it—that's what he has in his arms. He is as powerful as a gorilla.

Most Effective Punch.

"What's my most effective punch? A right to the jaw or a left—I haven't much choice. One is as good as the other. And, say, let me say that the fellows who wrote up that fight and said that I knocked Firpo down the first time with a blow to the stomach are all wrong. Left and right hooks on the jaw did the business.

"Of course, I shook him up with body blows, but a man might as well think of knocking down a horse by hitting him on the body as to put that hairy giant out with blows to the stomach. I have knocked fellows out with a punch to the stomach. But not Firpo. I knew it couldn't be done, so I didn't waste my time or strength trying to do so.

"It was generally reported that I threw away all my skill and resorted to roughhouse tactics when I fought him. I'll say right now I fought him according to a definite plan such as I have always mapped out previous to my fights. I size up my opponent and attack him in his weakest spot. Nobody can box with Firpo. He won't box. He fights. I like that.

"Am I willing to meet Firpo again? Certainly; why not? If he should show any improvement in his style of fighting when we meet again I'll be ready with a few new stunts, too. Here's one little rule that can't be tampered with if a fighter is to succeed: Be in prime physical condition, no matter who your opponent may be."

Concessionaire Loses Case Against Rickard

New York, Feb. 2.—David Lantinberg, who sought to enjoin Tex Rickard, boxing promoter, from selling service concessions in Madison Square Garden to a rival concessionaire, lost his case yesterday. Last year Rickard sold the privileges to Lantinberg for $40,000, and the suit sought to make Rickard renew the privilege for another year at the same figure.

Title at Stake Friday When Villa Boxes Marks

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Pancho Villa and Georgie Marks, the California flyweight, will battle for fifteen rounds in Madison Square Garden on Friday night, with the world's title at stake. Marks has been going big since his arrival here several weeks ago.

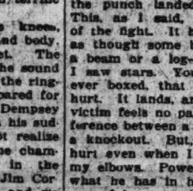
WHIST CARNIVAL.

THE twenty-sixth annual carnival of the Chicago Whist association will be held at the Congress hotel on Feb. 21, 22 and 23. Many visitors are expected from other cities and partners will be provided by the tournament committee for those who come unattended.



THE BIDDING.

Score—East and west, 10; north and south, 0. Second game, north and south having won the first.

East dealt and bid one no trump; south passed; west bid two hearts; north and east passed; south bid two spades; west three clubs; north three spades; east four clubs; and the bidding closed. North had the initial lead.

West secured ten tricks.

After the third trick it would appear inevitable that the declarer must lose one heart, two diamonds, and the queen of clubs. This would have been the result had the declarer been only an average player.

But west proceeded at once to create a situation which would compel south to lead up to the diamond suit in dummy or to lead a spade, which would enable the declarer to discard from one hand and trump from the other.

The most important play of the deal was the ruff of the spade at trick four. The declarer did not know or care which opponent held the queen of hearts after the sixth trick. If that card were in the south hand, west certainly had no objection to its being led, but he knew south could only lead one heart, after which it would not matter whether a spade or diamond was led.

The average player attaches little significance to the play or discard of small cards. With the good player, however, these apparently unimportant cards usually tell the entire story of the deal.

"Y" TEAM ON TOP IN CHESS LEAGUE RACE

Central Y. M. C. A. chess team, with an average of .938, is leading the Chicago City Chess league, closely followed by Sinai Center. The Y team's game with the Commonwealth Edison in the third round was postponed, however, and the standing, without this event, is:

	Won.	Lost.	Pct.
Central Y. M. C. A.	7½	½	.938

BADGERS EXPECT TO SEND CREW TO POUGHKEEPSIE

New York, Feb. 2.—[Associated Press.]—The University of Wisconsin has accepted tentatively an invitation to compete in the intercollegiate regatta on the Hudson river at Poughkeepsie June 17 for the first time in a decade.

This announcement was made by Maxwell Stevenson, chairman of the board of stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing association, after receipt of word from T. E. Jones, Wisconsin athletic director, that the Badgers, who competed in seventeen regattas without interruption from 1895 to 1914, "are confident of being represented this year."

SHEA WILL BEGIN DRILL TODAY FOR GOOZEMAN BOUT

Eddie Shea, west side Italian 122 pounder, who has been matched to meet Ernie Goozeman of Milwaukee at East Chicago on Feb. 11, has settled down to strenuous training at the Arcade. Aside from the gymnasium work, Eddie will take to the road every morning this week and do from three to five miles.

According to Larney Lichtenstein, who looks after the interests of Goozeman, the Milwaukee fighter will do most of his training at home and will not be in Chicago to finish his preparation until Thursday. Ernie has been fighting much lately, and needs but little work to put him in shape. Other fighters on the card are hard at work at various gymnasiums.

Battling Siki, the Senegalese light heavyweight who met Joe Lohman in Minneapolis last Thursday night, arrived in Chicago yesterday morning. Late reports had him headed south, and it is reported he had over $1,000 with him. He is scheduled to box in the east the latter part of the week, according to Manager Bob Levy.

Billy Wells, the English welterweight, was in Chicago on his way to St. Paul, where he will meet Dave Shade in a ten round bout Friday night. Wells worked at the Arcade and will leave for the Twin Cities tonight.

Bill McElwain Passes N. U. Exams; Still Eligible

Bill McElwain, ex-football captain and president of the senior class at Northwestern university, survived the mid-year examinations. It was announced yesterday. McElwain, who was reported to be skating on thin ice scholastically, had two "incompletes" to clear from the books, and the last condition will be removed on Monday. Poor health due to infections has kept the Northwestern gridder from the classroom for a fortnight, and may keep him from participating in future basketball games.

FIRPO'S CABLE HINTS BREAK WITH RICKARD

New York, Feb. 2.—Information received several days ago that Luis Angel Firpo, South American heavyweight, had broken relations definitely with "Tex" Rickard, the promoter who put him in the way of making $300,000, was practically verified here today.

Rickard would not admit that Firpo had declared him out on his future business dealings in this country, but he was willing to say that "it looks like some one has been knocking me to Firpo."

Until he received information that Firpo was seriously considering the offer of $250,000 to meet Harry Wills, made by a mysterious New York syndicate, Rickard did not give the subject much attention.

Then Rickard cabled Firpo to postpone any intention he had of closing with the syndicate until Rickard had an opportunity to present his best offer.

Firpo cabled back in words to the effect, "Don't count me in on any of your plans."

Rickard maintains that there was a clear understanding about the Wills fight before Firpo sailed. "I told Firpo," Rickard said, "that I would give him so much to fight Wills in South America, and so much to fight him in this country, and he said it was satisfactory. We did not sign a contract. He said his word was good, and I know and he knows also, that my word is good too."

McGRAW GROOMS FRANK FRISCH TO MANAGE GIANTS

New York, Feb. 2.—Frank Frisch is being groomed to succeed John J. McGraw as manager of the New York National league baseball club, of which he is second baseman, and probably will take over the reins when McGraw's contract expires in 1926, the New York Times will say tomorrow.

The Times has learned that Frisch has been appointed captain of the team to succeed Dave Bancroft, shortstop who was included in a trade with Boston by which he became manager of the Braves.

Apple of McGraw's Eye.

McGraw will be 54 years old when his contract expires, will have been in the game more than a quarter of a century, and will have spent twenty-four years piloting the Giants.

Frisch, "the Fordham Flash," has been the apple of McGraw's eye since he came to the team in 1919 from Fordham university, where he was a star all around athlete, being on the football, basketball and track teams in addition to the baseball squad.

He has been one of the main cogs in McGraw's machine since his first day.

Gets $18,000 a Year.

The prospective manager has now played but four seasons, yet his salary has been increased to a sum approximating $18,000, which is the highest ever paid to a Giant player, though McGraw himself is understood to get $60,000 a year, besides his dividends.

Frisch ran the defense last season while Bancroft was out of the lineup, and McGraw said the direction could not have been better. When he retires from active management, McGraw is expected to remain with the team in an advisory capacity, directing all trades, but to spend more time over business matters.

CAPT. BLACKMER MAY RETURN TO WILLIAMS FIVE

Williamstown, Mass., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The Williams basketball team may be strengthened by the return of Capt. Blackmer for the remaining games on its schedule, although the announcement was recently made that his services had been lost for the season because of an operation for appendicitis last fall. Blackmer has improved of late and if his condition continues to be so satisfactory he will probably hold down his old forward position. He is an Oak Park, Ill., boy.

NEWARK BALL CLUB TO BUILD NEW STADIUM

Newark, N. J., Feb. 2.—Formation of the Newark Stadium company, incorporated for $500,000, to handle plans for the construction of a new stadium for the Newark International league baseball club, was announced today. The incorporators are Michael McTighe, Corbett McCarthy and Milton Crowley. Present plans call for building of a temporary home this year with completion of a permanent stadium by 1925.

YES, SCOTT MAY SOME DAY NEED AN UNDERSTUDY

New York, Feb. 2.—Earle Coombs, recently obtained by the New York Yankees from the Louisville Colonels for $50,000, will be used by Miller Huggins as an understudy for Everett Scott, according to a communication received from Huggins by Secretary Ed Barrow today. Huggins is wintering at St. Petersburg, Fla.

LITSINGER ENTERS HANDBALL MEET

Edward R. Litsinger and Avery and Chester Brundage are among the crack Chicago handball players who have entered an open tournament now being arranged by Assistant Fire Marshal Michael J. Corrigan, to start March 1 at engine company 33, 59 East South Water street. An entry fee of $1 is charged and entries will close Feb. 15.

NEW YORK MILLIONAIRE BROTHERS ARE BEHIND LUIS FIRPO-WILLS BOUT

WHEN the Associated Press report from Buenos Aires came in recently announcing that Firpo had signed a contract to fight Harry Wills, those in touch with the mysterious syndicate revealed that the prime movers in the enterprise were two New York brothers, Monroe and William Gross, millionaire cloak manufacturers, who have become wealthy in the last half dozen years.

These brothers, who are twins about 28 years of age, have been enthusiastic followers of boxing. It was understood that the names of those associated with the Gross brothers in the enterprise would be made public later.

BIG LEAGUERS HERE IN INDOOR TILT TODAY

Three of Connie Mack's Athletics, Joe Hauser, Bing Miller, and Al Simmons, together with two American association players, Schack and Bauman, will play with the Ziegler Chocolates of Milwaukee this afternoon in an indoor game against the Jewish People's institute aggregation. This crack array, with other stars of the Cream City outfit, which holds the Milwaukee title, is one of the best indoor teams in the middle west.

Hamilton Crescent indoor team will play the Commonwealth Edison this afternoon at Hamilton gym. "Dick" Gormley and Millard will be named opponents.

OHIO PREPS MAY APPOINT BOSS LIKE LANDIS

Toledo, O., Feb. 2.—That a commissioner of interscholastic athletics with full managerial authority may be appointed by the Ohio High School Athletic association was announced by H. F. Swain, tournament manager of that body, at a meeting of the Northwestern district board of control here today.

BOATING CLUBS TO BACK HULL WATERWAY BILL

Peoria, Ill., Feb. 3.—[Special.]—Forty-five cities with a total of fifty-six boating clubs affiliated with the Mississippi Valley Power Boat association have endorsed the Hull waterway bill, according to an announcement today by A. T. Griffith, secretary of the association. The endorsement represents 20,000 members of the association.

OPERATION ON ACOSTA ANKLE

HAVANA, Feb. 2.—Merito Acosta, outfielder of the Louisville club of the American association, will leave Havana on Wednesday for Louisville to undergo an operation on his right ankle. He hopes the operation will enable him to play ball again next season. Acosta broke his ankle in a game last summer.

Dodgers to Take 38 to Camp; 15 Are Rookies

New York, Feb. 2.—[United Press.]—There will be thirty-eight ball players of all degrees in the Brooklyn Dodgers' squad at Clearwater, Fla., this year and fifteen of them will be new hands. The Dodgers are carrying fourteen pitchers, both rookies and regulars, provided all of last year's men sign their contracts without debate.

REOPEN WORK ON ACACIA GOLF COURSE SOON

BY JOE DAVIS.

Officials of the Acacia Country club are planning to resume work on the construction of the new eighteen hole course as soon as the weather will permit. The mild weather which prevailed up to the holiday season enabled the builders to make greater progress than was anticipated. If conditions are favorable the eighteen holes will be finished ahead of scheduled time.

The club which will be the home of Illinois Masonic golfers is located at Lyonsville, Ill., south of La Grange. For several weeks members of the club scouted for a site and finally the present location, famed in that section of the country as the Beckett farm, was purchased.

Ideal Location.

The location was found to be ideal, with the added attraction of having a fine residence surrounded by eight acres of land which Mr. Beckett, during the thirty years of his occupancy, transformed into a small park.

This was fine enough, but the members are just as enthusiastic over the prospects of having one of the best balanced courses in the Chicago district. As designed by William B. Langford it will measure 6,556 yards and have a par of 36—36—72.

Build Artificial Lake.

About 20,000 feet of water pipe have been laid and an artificial lake has been completed. The gates to the dam which forms the lake have been closed. The lake has a capacity of 3,000,000 gallons of water the year round for irrigation of the greens and fairways. There are 127 bunkers and as many sand traps. The majority of the greens are elevated and variegated in contour.

The course contains five dog leg holes, and only one hole, the fifth, where the player shoots into the sun. As this is one of the dog leg holes, the player really faces "Old Sol" on only one stroke. The holes and yardage, with par figures:

Hunter and Von Elm Win from Havers and Ockenden

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 2.—Willie Hunter and George von Elm, local amateurs, today defeated Arthur G. Havers, British open champion, and James Ockenden, Britisher holding the French open golf title, in a golf match, 4 up and 3 to go, at the California Country club in Culver City. The card for 33 holes was, Hunter, 123; Von Elm, 135; Havers, 128; Ockenden, 134.

MASONIC GOLF COURSE

Architect's plan of the new Acacia Country club golf course, work on which will be recommenced as soon as the weather permits. Work already has progressed to such a point that the architects assert that the whole eighteen hole course will be ready for play this summer. [Langford & Moreau, Architects.]

INDOOR TENNIS TITLE WON BY MRS. JESSUP

New York, Feb. 2.—Mrs. Marion Zinderstein Jessup, Wilmington, Del., won the final in the indoor lawn tennis singles in the invitation tournament on the courts of the Heights Casino, Brooklyn, today. Absent from competition for two years, she signalized her return by a remarkable victory over Miss Lillian Scharman, New York, No. 4 in the national ranking list. The score was 6—4, 6—3, 6—4.

The fast and steady driving of Mrs. Jessup combined with a marvelous display of court strategy brought her through. Miss Scharman made a gallant fight. In the first set Mrs. Jessup led, 5—1, on games, only to have her younger opponent almost overhaul her by the fury of her drives. Mrs. Jessup led, 4—3, in the second set after which she was outplayed.

HAWKEYES WIN GRAPPLE FROM GOPHERS, 23 TO 0

Iowa City, Ia., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Iowa trounced Minnesota in a Western Conference dual wrestling meet here today, 23 to 0. None of the Hawkeyes was in danger at any time, Capt. James of Iowa establishing the speed record for the year when he pinned Catanzaro with a reverse half nelson in :29¼. Seastrand of Minnesota created the sensation of the meet by matching his 153 pounds against Kraskis' 200 and giving him a hard won decision.

PURDUE BEATS OHIO

Lafayette, Ind., Feb. 2.—[Special.]—Purdue defeated Ohio in wrestling here tonight, the Boilermaker grapplers taking an 11 to 9 victory from the visitors.

Dye, of Purdue, and Steel, of Ohio, secured the only falls of the meet, pinning Glaeser and Hawkins. R. Turner, Borden and Rasmussen won decisions from the Boilermakers while Wright and Church were the Buckeye victors.

HAROLD GRANGE SEEKS JOB IN OUTFIELD ON ILLINI VARSITY NINE

URBANA, Ill., Feb. 2.—Harold Grange, the University of Illinois football phenom, is coming out for baseball. Grange is only a sophomore and so far has tried his hand at only one varsity sport. Close followers of university athletics are eager to see the Wheaton flash in action on the diamond.

The red-haired athletic earned sixteen letters in high school—four in each of the major sports. His best sport then—as now—was football, then in order came basketball, track, and baseball, but he will limit his college athletic activities to two sports. In baseball he will try for the outfield.

Grange competed in the interscholastic track meet at Illinois in 1920, 1921, and 1922. The first year he tied for first place in the high jump, was third in the 100 yard dash, and fourth in the 220-yard dash. The next spring he took two first places, copping the century dash in :10 2-5 and the broad jump with a leap of 21 feet 5¾ inches. In 1922, his senior year, he led the field in the 220-yard dash in :23 2-5 and was third in the 100-yard dash.

GUEST, OLD TIME BOXER, IS DEAD

Pittsburgh, Pa., Feb. 2.—John Guest, who as "Bilson Jack" fought 122 rounds in England with Jack Clifford before the advent of Queensberry rules, is dead at his home here.

Born in Bilson, England, seventy years ago, Guest came to America at the age of 30 years.

MAROON TRACK MEN SLIP PURDUE DEFEAT

Featured by the performance of Bruce MacFarlane of Chicago, who tied the gymnasium record in the 440 yard run at :51 3-5, Chicago defeated Purdue in a dual track and field meet in Bartlett gymnasium last night, 50½ to 35½.

Bourke and MacFarlane of Chicago were the individual stars. The former won the two mile run and was second in the mile. MacFarlane broke the tape first in the quarter mile and was second in the 50 yard dash. In addition, he ran on the winning relay team.

Summaries:

50 yard dash—Won by Lents [P.]; MacFarlane [C.], second; Maddox [P.], third. Time, :05 9-10.

50 yard high hurdles—Won by Brickman [C.]; Jones [C.], fecond; Hay [P.], third. Time, :06 4-5.

One mile run—Won by Abbott, [C.]; Bourke [C.], second; Farley [C.], third. Time, 4:31 2-10.

16 pound shotput—Won by Hotschield [C.]; Pence [C.], second; Rosberg [P.], third. Distance, 40 feet 1 inch.

Running high jump—Won by Russell [C.]; Pence [P.], second; Evans [P.], third. Distance, 6 feet 1 inch.

440 yard run—Won by MacFarlane [C.]; Pyott [C.], second; Young [P.], third. Time, :51 3-5.

880 yard run—Won by Edler [C.]; Gross [P.], second; Beck [C.], third. Time, 2:03 1-5.

Pole vault—Bushman, Purdue and Haines, Purdue, tied for first; Russell, Chicago, and Miller, Purdue, tied for third. Height, 10 ft. 10 in.

Two mile run—Won by Bourke, Chicago; Neff, Purdue, second; Levine, Chicago, third. Time, 10:23.

Relay race, 8-13 mile—Won by Chicago [Beals, Brickman, Jones, MacFarlane]. Time, 2:31 4-10.

HUESTON AND WESTON SPLIT.

Loraln, O., Feb. 2.—(Special.)—Tommy Hueston of Chicago and Charles (Cowboy) Weston of this city divided a pair of National Pocket Billiard games here today, Weston winning the first, 100 to 20, and the Chicagoan the second, 100 to 70. Weston went out in 21 innings for his win, and the second went 31 frames.

JACK DARAY TO BE GOLF PRO AT OLYMPIA FIELDS

From a field of 180 applicants, Jack L. Daray of Grand Rapids, Mich., yesterday secured the honor, being picked as professional to the world's greatest golf club, Olympia Fields.

The committee after several weeks' deliberation selected Daray, who will return to the neighborhood of his early labors in golf on April 1. He came up from Biloxi this week to confer with the club officials and will return tonight.

Began as Jockey.

Daray was born at New Orleans and at the age of 11 started exercising horses on the race tracks. He graduated as a regular jockey and rode at New Orleans and also at the Robey, Hawthorne and Washington Park tracks, but increasing weight prevented him from competing.

He then took a position as caddy master at Flossmoor, and later went to Ravisloe under Bob White. He next went to the Calumet club as assistant to Jim Foulis.

For the next two years he was with Armour & Co. in the audit and credit department. From there he went to the Ridge club for two years and then to the Highlands Country club of Grand Rapids, which he constructed. He has been there twelve years.

Winters at Biloxi.

For three winters he was at Gluffport, where he played with Woodrow Wilson. For the last seven winters he has been at Biloxi, in which club he is a stockholder and director.

The Olympia officials feel they are fortunate in securing such a capable man. Jack will have two or three assistants under him to coach the 1,000 members of the club.

So great is the interest in the indoor game that a series of interclub games will be played for a championship trophy under the Nassau system. At a meeting held at Bob MacDonald's school, the Chicago Indoor Golf association was formed with the following officers: President, Tom Walsh; vice president, C. M. Gifford; secretary and treasurer, Miss Helen Pemberton; directors, Bob MacDonald, Cliff Booth, George Dixon, and James Weager. Among the member clubs are Chicago Beach, Tavern, MacDonald's, Covent Garden, and Oak Park.

The executive committee of the Women's Western Golf association will meet tomorrow at the Continental and Commercial bank to select a course for the next championship. The most active bidders are the Hillcrest Country club and the White Bear Yacht club of St. Paul.

Chick Evans and Bob MacDonald yesterday defeated George Knox and Dewey Weber, 2 up, in a thirty-six hole match at The Fair.

Jole Finn of Jackson park, holder of the city championship title, won the men's January tournament at the Evergreen Winter Golf club, defeating A. Abern, 2 and 1.

Fred Eskridge and D. B. Nugent of Hickory Hills defeated W. Henderson of Beverly Ridge and F. E. Coyle of Ridge, 2 and 1, in the final of the team match contest.

H. L. Miller of Calumet won the Inaugural trophy prize at the Tavern Golf club, defeating Kenneth Hisert of Olympia Fields, 2 and 1, in the seventy-two hole final. Hisert, who formerly held the western junior title, held a lead of 3 up at the end of the first nine holes. Both players tied the course record of 76 in the first eighteen holes. In the women's division, Mrs. G. L. Hicks of Olympia Fields defeated Mrs. J. D. Moore of Jackson Park, 2 and 2, at seventy-two holes.

First round matches in the January tournament at Henrici's were completed yesterday, the winners being: F. S. Gilbert, Lincoln Park; W. S. Bell, Skokie; Art Sweet, Edgewood; Lawrence Field, Lincoln Park; R. Engberg, Lincoln Park; C. Hough, Sunset Ridge; E. T. Madden, Evanston Community; W. W. Ziegs, Westchester-Biltmore; R. B. Harbison, Olympia Fields; Bill Jackson, Olympia Fields; Harry Sorell, Garfield; Lee Thiltges, Calumet; J. C. Hartig, Green Valley; E. E. Vornow, unattached; F. L. Muenzinger, Great Neck, and Walter C. Crowdus, Dixmoor.

TO BATTLE FOR NEW CUE TITLE HERE ON FEB. 11

Another billiard title has been added to those already established in this section, that of the western amateur balk line championship. The first tournament will be staged at Mussey's room, starting Feb. 11. It is probable the field will be limited to six or eight players, and will include the winners of the Illinois and Wisconsin championships. Games will consist of 250 points and will be played each day at 3, 5, and 8 p. m. Entries close Feb. 6 with G. Raymond Collins, 833 First National Bank building, Chicago. The two leading players in the western amateur event will be eligible to compete in the national championship at Pittsburgh.

CHURCH MEET MARCH 18.

The annual track and field meet of the Church Athletic association will be staged at the Bartlett gymnasium, University of Chicago, on March 18. Ernest Langer of Wayland Avenue Congregational church has already lined up a strong team for the meet.

OLYMPIC FUND SOCCER GAMES SET FOR TODAY

Taking advantage of the improved weather conditions, local soccer teams have moved forward two games arranged for the purpose of raising funds to send the American team to the Olympic games. These games, originally carded for next Sunday, will be played this afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

In addition to the matches which will be arranged from time to time, President Peter J. Peel and Secretary W. R. Cummings are soliciting subscriptions, which can be sent to Mr. Cummings at 43 West 113th street, Chicago.

In the two games today the Bricklayers will meet the Canadian club at 35th street and Wentworth avenue and Pullman will tackle the Sparta Unions at 27th street and Kostner avenue. Several new stars will be seen in both matches.

After several postponements, the Swedish-Americans and Indiana Harbor will make another attempt to settle their match in the first round of the National Amateur Cup competition. The game is billed for Burnham Park.

Harvey and the Chicago F. C. of the district league will play their postponed game at 79th street and Drexel avenue.

The Thistle-Olympia game scheduled at 19th street and 47th avenue was postponed on account of wet grounds.

Four-Door Coupe
Six Cylinders

Five Disc Wheels and Nash Self-Mounting Carrier Standard

Unusually Attractive Time-Payment Plan

The Facts All Favor
The Nash Four-Door Coupe

There are fully a score of sound and self-evident reasons why this remarkable Nash model has advanced so swiftly and steadily to the front rank of America's most popular motor car values.

Its smart lines are unmatched in beauty! Internationally famous coachwork craftsmen built the body—distinctively original in design.

It is superbly appointed! Each article of the extensive equipment reflects the studied care and good taste of Nash designers.

It is solidly constructed! The framework is bulwarked by five rugged crossmembers.

The broad doors and windows are weather tight and rattle-proof.

It operates easily! A slight pressure disengages the clutch. The gears shift with smooth and noiseless certainty. The Nash-built bearings in the steering mechanism make parking in snug spaces simple.

It is extremely quiet and powerful! The Nash perfected valve-in-head motor responds with amazing alacrity and smoothness.

Fully to appreciate the overwhelming merit of this fine motor car requires but an hour at the wheel. Enjoy that pleasurable experience today!

All Nash Models Equipped with This Carburetor Stove

An automatic device adjusts the temperature of the carburetor with exact nicety to the demand of the motor at varying speeds.

It is this automatic control that enables the most complete vaporizing of gasoline at all times and accounts largely for the superb smoothness and economy of Nash performance.

STEINKE, GERMAN MAT STAR, NEW ATHLETIC GIANT

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Hans Steinke, the giant German grappler, who will meet Stanislaus Zbyszko, former heavyweight champion, in the main event of the wrestling show to be conducted by Ed White and Joe Coffey in the Dexter Park pavilion at the stockyards on Wednesday night, is undoubtedly one of the athletic giants of the age.

He is by far a larger man than Hackenschmidt, who lost the world's championship to Frank Gotch back in 1908. He is also larger than any of the challengers who have come to this country since Hack's defeat, despite the fact such men as Mahmout, Samson, Essen, Rouel De Rouen, and others were proclaimed giants by those who saw them in action.

Bigger than Willard.

An idea of Steinke's size may be gathered from the fact he is 6 feet 6 inches tall and weighs 275 pounds. He has a reach of eighty-five inches, which is much longer than that of Jess Willard, former heavyweight boxing champion. The German has a chest measurement of 56 inches. His biceps measure 18½ inches, waist 36, thigh 25, and calf 20. His shoe size is No. 12, double E.

Steinke is a much larger and better proportioned athlete than Ralph Rose, holder of the world's amateur record in the shot put at 51 feet. He is bigger all over than Pat McDonald, the New York policeman and weight tosser, and larger than either Willard or Firpo.

More than Physique Needed.

With all the natural advantages of a champion in his favor, it would appear that Steinke should have little trouble to beat any living man in a wrestling bout. However, it remains to be seen whether the German has that coördination of mind and muscle, the faculty to think and act at the same time. This has been the trouble with most foreigners, wrestlers particularly. They see an opportunity when it is too late and such may be Steinke's weakness.

Zbyszko, although a marvel for his years—he has passed the 50 mark—is only 5 feet 9 inches tall and scales 240 pounds. Under ordinary conditions the Pole would size up respectably against the average grappler, but there will be a vast difference in all measurements when the two men take holds at 10 o'clock on Wednesday night.

Should Be Good Match.

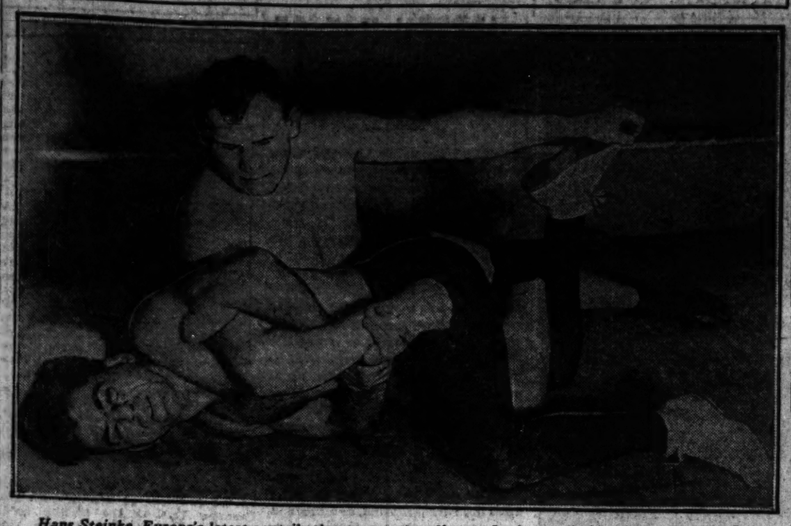
From all appearances, it should be a shooting match. Each has a lot at stake, and indications are it will be a long drawn out match. It was on April 3, 1908, in the same building, that Gotch won the world's heavyweight championship from Hackenschmidt, and that match lasted two hours and three minutes, with the Russian finally giving up after the men had been on their feet, pulling and tugging at one another, for almost the entire period. It was near the close, however, that Gotch picked up his opponent and slammed him to the mat with such force that the ring boards fairly creaked.

Three Other Matches.

Promoters White and Coffey will support the main event with three other matches which will be one fall struggles. Paul Martinson and Jim Dostal, local heavyweights, will open the show. This bout will be followed by Montana Jack McCarthy and Renato Gardini, while Yussiff Hussane and Pat McGill will be the principals in the other.

The show will open at 8:15 o'clock, and, regardless of the results of preliminaries, Zbyszko and Steinke will appear in the ring, ready to wrestle, at 10 o'clock. Charley Levine will act as referee of the main bout.

AN ATHLETIC GIANT



Hans Steinke, Europe's latest contribution to our wrestling ranks, is a veritable giant. The big German stands 6 feet 6 inches and weighs 270 pounds. He wears a No. 12 double E shoe, and his chest measurement is nearly five feet. Firpo, Jess Willard, Ralph Rose, and other giant athletes are small when compared to Steinke. The photo shows him training with Lew Bargandes for his match Wednesday night with Stanislau Zbyszko.

BICYCLE ROLLER TITLE RACES TO OPEN TOMORROW

Bicycle roller races for the Chicago and Mid Western championships will start tomorrow night at the Broadway armory with entries competing from five local clubs. Preliminaries over the half mile, the one and two mile distances, will be staged nightly at the Motorcycles, Bicycles and Accessory show, the finals coming Saturday night.

Chicago's star 6-day bike riders, Ernest Kockler and Carl Stockholm, will test their speed in a series of bike roller races, best two out of three heats, beginning Tuesday night at the armory. They also are scheduled for Thursday, Friday, and Saturday nights. This will furnish an opportunity of determining which is the faster sprinter of the two mates.

Clarence W. Wagner, who is due to arrive in the city tomorrow after a ride here on an old fashioned high wheel from Terre Haute, Ind., and will give daily exhibitions of home training on a bicycle roller.

PARKE PILOTS RINKEY TO WIN IN COMUS STAKE

New Orleans, La., Feb. 2.—The Greentree stable's Rinkey won the Comus handicap for 3 year olds and upward over a distance of three-quarters of a mile at the Fair Grounds here today. Jockey Ivan Parke was in the saddle on the winner, it marking his third victory of the afternoon. E. Cebrian's Mah Jong was second and Second Thoughts third. The winner covered the distance in 1:13.

The presence of Parke in the saddle made Rinkey the favorite, he being quoted at 7 to 5.

WOMEN PLAN BOWLING MEET HERE ON FEB. 9

Chicago's women bowlers will hold a tournament here starting Feb. 9. Mrs. Bee Quinn and Agnes Higgins, national doubles champions, will compete. Mrs. B. Dora, city champion, also is entered.

Park Grapplers in Tourney Here Tuesday

A wrestling meet will be held at Howard park Tuesday night between Feindel and Eckhart of the west parks and Seward of the north parks. The meet will be in charge of Adam Weismuller and Lou Talaber. The matches will start at 7:30.

ART THURNBLAD TOPS CITY ANGLE LEAGUE

BY JOE DAVIS.

Art Thurnblad of the Rainbow No. 1 room is again at the top in the Chicago Billiard league, with Charles Le Gros in second place. Heine Grauman held top place for a brief period last week, but a defeat by Kieckhefer sent him back to third. M. J. Carlin, who has been representing Roberts' room, will finish for the Kieckhefer Recreation room, taking the place of Leonard Kenney, who has moved to New York. Newman will represent Roberts.

Sam Walker's 43 inning game against Herschman and Ralph Kennedy's run of 8 were the high marks for the week. Standing:

Greenleaf in Lead.

Champion Ralph Greenleaf has too big a lead in the National Pocket league to be caught, but there is a hard fight on hand for the second position between Frank Taberski of Detroit and Bennie Allen of Kansas City, both former world's champions. Irwin Rudolph, the young New Yorker, who is fourth, will be here Wednesday and Thursday for four games against Tom Hueston. The standing:

Edouard Horemans and Dave McAndless will meet in two 300 point matches tomorrow at 8 and 8 p. m. at Mussey's Madison street room.

NOTES OF THE CUEISTS.

It took Scott seventy-one innings to dispose of Murphy [42], 48 to 29, in a three cushion game at Mussey's. Both had high runs of 4.

George Spears hung up a run of 200 at straight rail billiards Friday night, defeating Kennedy, 200 to 6, in two innings, at the Madison Square. Spears scratched in his first attempt and then wound up the match with his run of 200, unfinished.

FRANK JEROME'S KID BROTHER TO CARRY ON FAMILY NAME IN RING

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—[United News.]—The shade of Frankie Jerome will carry on in the ring. Frankie was killed by a blow on the head recently in a fight with Bud Taylor of Terre Haute, Ind., at Madison Square Garden.

Frank had a younger brother, George. He taught George all he could, and had been in George's corner in a few preliminary fights.

George has decided to carry on as a boxer. His mother and father, believing Frankie's death was a mere accident, do not oppose his return to the ring.

SOUTH SHORE VICTOR IN CLUB TRAP SHOOT

With a score of 482, South Shore yesterday won the third five man team shoot of the Chicago Country Clubs' league, held over the traps of the Onwentsia club. Glen View was second with 477 and Onwentsia third with 475.

Thompson Ross of South Shore had high net score of the day. He broke 93 out of 100 targets from sixteen yards. Walter C. Peacock of the same club turned in a score of 94 and Fred R. Carter of Onwentsia broke 95. According to conditions of the event, each contestant shot at 100 targets from sixteen yards, with added target handicaps. The well known shots were not given allowances and the excellent handicaps resulted in an interesting shoot. Fifty took part in the competition, but only the five high scores of shots representing the same club counted as a team total.

In the practice event at twenty-five targets, sixteen yards, Thompson Ross, W. C. Peacock and R. W. Keyes tied with perfect scores. In the shootoff Ross won with a total of 24, while Peacock broke 23 and Keyes 22. Summaries:

TEAM SHOOT.

South Shore—T. Ross, 96—6—98; W. C. Peacock, 98—6—96; R. H. Morse, 93—5—98; H. C. Bartholomay, 92—4—96; W. M. Simpson, 83—14—96. Total, 482.

Glen View—A. McNally, 93—3—96; W. S. Primley, 92—4—96; J. E. Quinlan, 90—6—96; F. McNally, 71—23—82. Total, 477.

Onwentsia—R. S. Harvey, 88—8—96; Fred R. Carter, 95—0—95; J. R. Baker, 87—5—95; J. H. Drake, 77—18—95; F. Lathrope, 89—5—94. Total, 475.

Exmoor—D. Boynton, 82—14—96; T. H. Sheridan, 78—17—95; T. Wyles, 84—10—94; R. E. Peacock, 53—11—94; G. W. Peck, 81—12—93. Total, 472.

Oak Park—H. Spear, 89—5—94; W. Jones, 82—12—94; W. Carr, 70—23—93; R. Carr, 78—14—92; H. Adams, 75—16—91. Total, 464.

LITTLE COPS SHOOT

W. E. Little, registering 48 breaks, yesterday was high gun at the Lincoln park traps in the 50 target event, shot from 16 yards. C. O. Armes, with a 22 total, took the 25 target distance handicap. In the 25 pair doubles Armes divided honors with Eric Hall, both shattering 39 birds. Leading scores:

50 targets, 16 yards—W. E. Little, 48; W. H. Miller, 46; C. O. Armes, 44; S. Canby, 44; H. C. St. Johns, 43; M. W. Loving, 43; E. Hall, 42; D. Zel, 42; U. J. Hermann, 41; E. F. Swift, 41; M. W. Graves, 39.

25 targets, distance handicap—C. O. Armes, 23; E. Hall, 23; W. H. Miller, 22; D. Zel, 21; H. C. St. Johns, 21; S. Canby, 20; E. F. Swift, 19; M. W. Loving, 13.

25 pair doubles—C. O. Armes, 39; E. Hall, 39; H. M. Bowler, 36; S. Canby, 32; D. Zel, 24; E. F. Swift, 23.

CLAIM BOYS' MAT TITLE.

Recent victories over the strongest kid wrestling teams in the city have led the American Boys' Commonwealth to claim the junior team wrestling championship of the city, and to agree to meet any grappling squad disputing this claim. Louis Newman, 1430 South Sawyer, is arranging matches.

IRVING PARK HAS EDGE AGAIN IN TRIB SHOOT

Irving Park Rifle club, again piled up a high score in the city championship rifle tournament for a leg on THE TRIBUNE trophy, increasing their lead over the Ridgeville club of Evanston to 23 points.

L. A. Millbrook of Irving and C. G. Hallett of Ridgeville, for the second week in succession turned in record scores of 197, the highest individual counts of the tournament. J. J. Schumacher, the Palos Park Scheutzen expert, now shooting with the Hamilton Club Snipers also shot 197.

Hamilton Club breezed through with another high team score of 947 and now holds fifth place by a comfortable footing due largely to stellar work of Schumacher, and S. D. Monahan who registered 191.

V. A. Partz of Irving, shooting consistently high in every match, again blazed forth another 193 and retains first over his team mate T. G. Lively by 6 points. With one more match to go it looks as though present standings for both teams and individuals indicates about the way the competitors will finish up. The standings:

MEYERS MAY MEET SANDOW FOR MAT TITLE

Johnny Meyers, claimant of the world's middleweight wrestling championship, and Challenger Sammy Sandow of California may meet for the title at the Star and Garter on Friday night. Art Moeller, manager of the theater, held a conference with the principals yesterday and submitted a proposition which appears satisfactory to both grapplers.

Meyers, however, requested a day to think the matter over and give other promoters a last chance to put in their bids. The champion insists that the weight be 158 pounds at 2 o'clock on the afternoon of the day of the contest, while Sandow wants a clause of give or take two pounds added. The Californian asserted it will be a difficult task for him to make this weight at such short notice.

"SYSTEM" BETS ON RIDER PARKE WALLOP BOOKIES

BY FRENCH LANE.

How the young jockey sensation, Ivan Parke, through his brilliant riding during the present winter season in New Orleans, has jolted the bookmakers of this country for thousands upon thousands of dollars has just been revealed by one of the big race operators in Chicago.

The killings have been made through a consistent betting system on the horses which Parke has been riding. It has been worked in practically every big turf center in America so successfully that a great many bookmakers have gone out of business as a result.

The fact that Parke has not hit a riding slump since racing opened in the south on Thanksgiving day, and that there have been few occasions when he was astride six losers in a row, has made the system possible. During the two months of winter racing he has averaged two winners daily.

Doubling Up System.

It is the age old system of doubling up, according to this Chicago bookmaker, who admits his bank roll has been dented considerably by its operation.

The player starts the day with a wager on the first horse Parke is to ride. If he loses, he doubles up on the next Parke mount, and so on until the diminutive Idaho kid brings one under the wire a winner.

Parke has won so often that it has made it possible for the players with short bank rolls to plug along with the system, to stay in the play and seldom if ever to quit the day a loser.

It is true that most of the horses little Ivan rides have come to be quoted at short prices. But fewer of them are at odds-on to win than at 2 and 3 to 1, and the system players have discovered, according to the Chicago bookmaker, that when the double up winner does go over it will, in a majority of occasions, pay better than even money.

May Get Money Back.

"One fellow started betting $10 with me on the first Parke mount each day. He then followed the system," the bookmaker said. "I don't believe he has quit a loser over two or three times since he started. But he plays for only one Parke winner daily and if that happens to come in the first race he takes his profits and I see nothing of him again until the next afternoon."

Then the bookmaker smiled and added, "Now he starts the day with a $25 or $50 wager. When Parke hits a slump I may get my money back."

While Parke's riding was a trifle more sensational and consistent during the first month of the winter season than during the last thirty days, a majority of the system players have sprung up within the last few weeks.

Recalls Fred Archer's Career.

England had just such a jockey craze during the brilliant career of Fred Archer which dates back from 1870 to 1886.

During those years when at the height of his success Archer would actually go through season after season winning one out of every three races in which he started. In sixteen years of riding in England he was credited with 3,084 mounts, out of which he had ridden 2,748 winners.

Once in the early eighties, during one of his sensational seasons, it seemed that all England was playing the Archer system of race wagering. It was this same double up system which has brought terror to Yankee bookmakers through Parke's numerous victories.

In the midst of Archer's long run of triumphs there came the inevitable slump. The great rider went thirty-three races without a victory. The panic that followed among the English system players rocked the country.

POJELLO TO MEET KILONIS IN MAT BOUT ON FEB. 12

Karl Pojello, the Lithuanian light heavyweight, and John Kilonis, the Norfolk, Va., Greek, have been signed to meet in the main event of John (Doc) Krone's wrestling show at the Ashland Boulevard Auditorium on Feb. 13. It will be a finish match, best two in three falls.

Promoter Krone closed the match after Kilonis had publicly challenged Pojello at a recent show held at the First Regiment armory. Although the Lithuanian will have an advantage in weight, the Greek believes he can pin him and has placed a substantial side bet on the result. Pojello will be trained by Charley Cutler. The latter, one of the best heavyweight grapplers in the country a few years ago, will stage a comeback, but his opponent has not yet been selected by Promoter Krone. Jack Reynolds, mat coach at Indiana university and holder of the world's welterweight title, will meet a worthy opponent. Hugh Nichols, the middleweight from Cedar Rapids, Ia., will also appear on the card.

U. S. Army to Reveal Radio Research Strides at Show

BY STEPHEN GILCHRIST.
[Radio Editor.]

While events in radio have been moving in the last two years with a rapidity that has kept even the "wizards" and engineers dizzy contemplating kaleidoscopic shifts in theories and practice, with a bewildered public choking on the diets of technicalities and hookups with which it has been surfeited, the next two months bid fair to be more crowded with developments than any similar past period.

Several large manufacturers are said to be preparing to spring some more "last words" in dynes and supers, although the report, pretty generally current among the "laiety," that they are getting ready to shuffle radio, as it is known, into the discard, is far from fact.

Until some other mode of treating signals is discovered, the present form of vacuum tube—although it will be improved in sensitiveness and stability—will continue the standby, and standard apparatus, such as condensers, variometers, variocouplers, transformers, and the like, will continue to function according to mood and to circumstance.

The big sensation evidently will come not from the manufacturers' laboratories but, if reports are correct, from the radio research division of the army, which boasts that its engineers are at least two years ahead of the commercial in development of apparatus.

To support this claim, the army has promised to stage a pretentious exhibit at a great radio exposition to be conducted in Convention hall, Washington, March 19-26, plans for which have just been completed.

Wide interest has been created in manufacturers' and dealers' circles by announcement of the army exhibit. While this exhibit may stimulate improvements in radio reception and transmission, army engineers admit that nothing like revolutionizing present day equipment is a prospect of the near future.

And if they are two years ahead, all may be deemed safe for that long a time.

Of course, no one expects that Maj. Gen. George O. Squier, chief signal officer, who is regarded as one of the world's greatest radio authorities, is to reveal any of the government's secrets worked out in the bureau of standards laboratories, but radio engineers do expect demonstrations at the show that will lend new stimulation to their own lines of research as well as to those conducted by amateurs.

The navy will exhibit a replica of the 300 watt radio transmitting station on the giant dirigible Shenandoah, which kept the department in constant communication with the big ship during her sensational gale-driven flight up the Atlantic coast in January.

President Coolidge is expected to participate opening night in the Washington show program.

Besides the government exhibits, the secrets of the modest appearing laboratory of C. Francis Jenkins, noted Washington inventor, whose creative genius has given to the world the motion picture machine and the even more remarkable apparatus which transmits pictures by radio, will be revealed publicly for the first time at the Washington show, Washington dispatches state.

The apparatus, according to the inventor, is comparable to a camera with lens in Washington and its photographic plate in Boston; with this difference, that the one lens in Washington may put its picture on ten, 100, or 1,000 photographic plates in as many different cities simultaneously, and at distances limited only by the power of the broadcasting station.

The first coin controlled radio receiving set ever created will be on display. This device, the invention of D. J. Richardson, will reveal for 5 cents what the ether waves are saying. It presents a number of unique features and differs from all other vending machines in that it assures prospective patrons that it is in working operation before they deposit a coin.

Preceding the Washington exhibit an exhibition is to be staked in Los Angeles, Cal., opening Tuesday and closing next Sunday night. This show is expected to be accompanied by the opening of a new class B broadcasting station in the southern California city.

Soon the daylight program via the ether will be as common and as widespread as the night broadcasting at present, with all high and medium power transmitters working the limit from breakfast time until the wee hours. Experiments conducted at WLAG, Minneapolis, Minn., and other notable stations have satisfied the broadcasters that daylight transmission in winter isn't nearly so difficult a feat as it had been regarded. WLAG daylight signals have been reported received in good volume and without fading in the northwest territory.

* *

Foreseeing the need of the broadcast station going to the program source instead of the source going to the studio, when land wires are not available, General Electric engineers at WGY, Schenectady, N. Y., have developed a portable transmitter which can be set up at any spot where it is desired to pick up a program. This transmitter, set to a frequency that cannot easily be picked up, will put the desired numbers on the air, to be received at WGY, amplified, and transmitted on 380 meters for consumption by the radioans tuning in.

Maj. Gen. George O. Squier.
[Chief Signal Officer, U. S. Army.]

Whoever is inclined to be doubtful that radio is a serious matter should contemplate Brooklyn. That borough has been for some time wrestling with the mob spirit manifest by a two circuit, three circuit, four circuit league, which has been descending in the dead of night upon the unorganized one circuit radioans and amputating their antennae just beyond the lead-in. Many a birdies' nest operator has wondered why local stations came in so weakly until he learned that he was operating merely on a lead-in. The newspapers have been stirred, the police have been prodded, but still the raids continue. Even owners of two circuit sets have been the victims of antenna operation. Evidently the night riders are equipped with direction finders, for the majority of complaints emanate from owners of audion and similar feed-back circuits.

Reradiation is a serious evil in crowded districts, where some roofs support as many antennae as can be crowded on without twisting more than half of them together. But the writer refuses to believe that it will be hard to overcome. When the operator of the average offending circuit learns that he can have greater selectivity with a carefully constructed two or three circuit set or with a stage of radio and that, skillfully handled, the non-reradiating set will cover just as much territory, the "squealers" soon will begin their march to the discard as a matter of course. A few changes in the wiring, another tube, and a little more apparatus and farther fields and clearer reception lie before, and peace spans the distance between the disturbing antenna and the suffering neighbors'.

WJAZ MacMILLAN BROADCAST IS HEARD IN SAMOA

Supplementing a cable received at the Zenith-Edgewater Beach broadcasting station WJAZ, a letter was received Thursday from Quincy F. Roberts, American, vice consul at Apia, Samoa, telling of the reception there of the program broadcast for the benefit of Donald MacMillan, explorer icebound in the Arctic, on the night of Dec. 19 last. The letter reads, in part:

"At approximately 7:35 p. m. Dec. 19, 1923, on a single circuit regenerative receiver with two stages of audio frequency amplification, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Flaherty and David Flaherty heard Chicago calling WNP. Dr. MacMillan was requested to authorize the signing of a petition from Germany in behalf of the Americans who attempted to capture Bergdoll. Then some musician went into a trace and gave an imitation of piano playing. Mr. Flaherty said this imitation was Paderewski's 'Minuet.' Other messages and music followed, but Apia's 12 kilowatt spark station drowned everything but a word now and then, chiefly 'Chicago.'

"Robert Flaherty, who was present at the reception of the Chicago messages, is familiar with the Arctic regions through his work filming 'Nanook of the North.' He is now in Samoa making a picture on Samoan life along the lines of 'Nanook of the North.' It is an interesting coincidence. The only man in Samoa who has been in the Arctic regions and knows MacMillan was one of the first in Samoa to hear messages for WNP."

MUSIC COMPETES WITH WOLVES IN FROZEN NORTH

Writing from the "land that God forgot," H. P. Bracken of Twin Falls, Ont., near James Bay, says in a letter of appreciation for a recent program from WEAF:

"When you came in it nearly deafened me and I began eliminating tubes until I had only the detector plugged in; could hear you most clearly; in fact, the clearest reception I had ever experienced.

"We are a hydro power plant on a frozen northern river not far from James Bay, bounded on all sides by dense forests, and it is only necessary to open the door to hear a wolf pack howling somewhere 'back of beyond.' The contrast made a splendid illustration of the progress of civilization."

FAN TURNS INVENTOR.

Until he invested in apparatus enough to make a radio set Thomas J. Kennedy of New York, formerly of Chicago, knew nothing of the new science. After some ed experience he settled down to "mastering" the game, to the end that he might construct a worth while receiver. Now he is known as the inventor of a bit of radio apparatus that is said to be meritorious. He is the son of Mrs. Mary A. Kennedy of 4322 Michigan avenue, a reader of The Tribune for the last fifty years.

Andy Gump Ready to Take the Air

After Sidney Smith, Tribune cartoonist, had spoken recently to the unseen audience of WLW, the Cincinnati broadcasting station of Powell Crosley, jr., listeners-in turned to pen and paper to let WLW know that they enjoyed hearing the creator of the Gumps as much as noting the pictured doings of the Gumps themselves. Hundreds of expressions of appreciation poured into the station, Mr. Crosley informs The Tribune, in a letter inclosing the above photograph. Mr. Smith is shown at left, with Mr. Crosley.

EYES OF THE PANAMA CANAL

EASTERN STATION HAS BOYS AND GIRLS' CLUB

MEDFORD, Mass.—A club conducted at station WGI has been named "The Big Brother club." Over 200 boys and girls are enrolled as active members at the present time.

"The Big Brother club" is not unlike the Boy Scouts and Camp Fire Girls in purpose and principle. It appeals to boys and girls from 9 to 12 years old, and according to the by-laws "any boy or girl owning or listening in regularly on any receiving set is eligible." The dues are one letter each week to "Big Brother." Meetings held nightly from 6 to 6:15, eastern time.

"The Big Brother club" plans to use its educational possibilities to conduct spelling bees, history lessons, simple problems in mathematics and geography. The lessons will be put out in simple story form so that the boys and girls will not be reminded they are being taught lessons, but rather listening to an interesting broadcast. The club has adopted the slogan, "Be Somebody's Big Brother Every Day."

AMATEUR LINKS SPINACH GROWER WITH MARKETS

Laredo, Tex., Feb. 3.—While transmission of market news by radio to farmers, stock growers, and remote business interests long since entered the commonplace, Texas has taken the first steps, it is believed here, by which a two-way service is maintained. The price of spinach raised in this section of the state is stabilized and the raisers given the advantage of knowing just what they should charge the consumer through a radio service connecting them constantly with the state bureau of warehouses and markets. Then these prices, which really are the farmers', are sent out.

To make the service successful it was necessary to secure the assistance of WCM, the University of Texas station, and the station of the signal corps at Fort McIntosh. With the help of these two radio units, the reports come in and are sent out from this city through S. T. Phelps, operator of amateur station 5MT, official relay station of the American Radio Relay league.

The value of the service was emphasized by the market bureau as follows: "We have not failed a single time to file the material with Austin on the wire here to the thirty-one stations from Boston to San Francisco that are listed on the circuit, and we notice that the spinach reports as issued by Washington carry the information daily just as it is filed here. It looks as though we were in a position to put across something big in radio. Already we have received considerable recognition for the consistant service we have been able to render through amateur cooperation.

Radio Primer

This department is a response to numerous requests by Tribune readers for a simple explanation of the fundamentals of radio essential to a knowledge of the functions of a receiving set. Each Sunday it will deal, step by step, with the various components of receivers.

1. Antenna.

If one will think of his radio set as an arrangement of electro magnets it will not be difficult to arrive at a fair understanding of the functions of a radio receiver.

Radio in all its aspects deals with a magnetic force, by means of magnets. The aerial, consisting of whatever form usable, is a magnet. It draws to it passing impulses sent forth from broadcast station transmitters, taking from them feeble bits of their energy by its magnetic properties, and changing these impulses into high frequency alternating current. This energy, playing about the antenna, seeking a line of least resistance, is attracted by the greatest known magnet, the earth.

On its way to ground, this energy, laden with the vibrations of voice or music, meets other magnets—the wire connecting various apparatus, the coils of whatever form or function, the telephone receivers, and, finally, the ground—whether there to be lost or whether to go on to some like cycle science has not yet ventured to state.

Antennas should be erected so as to be as free as possible of surrounding objects, and, if on a roof, as high as feasible from the roof. If high power electric lines or telephone trunk lines are nearby the antenna should be set as nearly to right angles to these as possible.

The lead-in, an essential part of the antenna, should be insulated wire for best results. This should be soldered firmly to the end of the antenna nearest to the receiver.

The antenna should have good insulators, preferably porcelain, at each end to separate it from its supports, thus making of antenna and lead-in a suspended magnet.

The farther below the antenna level the radio set is installed the better it will function.

EXPECT RADIO TO HASTEN USE OF WORLD TONGUE

Hartford, Conn., Feb. 2.—Owing to the growing interest in private communication among the nations of the world on short waves by amateur radio telegraph operators, officers of the American Radio Relay league have begun efforts to bring about communication through a common language.

Lack of intimate contact between citizens of this country and those of foreign nations has so far discouraged efforts of organizations to recognition of a common means of expression. It is possible that radio will bring about naturally and easily what propaganda has been unable to accomplish.

Short wave tests of the last few months, resulting in establishment of two way communication between amateurs in the United States and operators in France, Holland, and England, have done more than anything else to remove the elements of time and space as obstacles to intercourse between citizens of these countries.

With the idea in view of gaining general adoption of an international language at a time when private communication by radio among citizens of various nations is becoming commonplace, Kenneth B. Warner, secretary of the A. R. R. L., has written officers of foreign radio clubs asking for their approval of use by amateurs of either Esperanto or Ido, sometimes called Ilo.

Of the two he believes that Ido is decidedly the better for amateurs, both from a grammatical point of view and because of its vastly more extensive vocabulary. He states that the league is prepared to adopt the latter for amateurs, provided it has the approval of radio men in all of the other countries. Until then American slang must prove incomprehensible to foreign listeners.

[Central time throughout.]

CHICAGO

Beginning today the Chicago board of trade station, WDAP, will broadcast music from the Barton organ, played by Ralph Emerson, as a daily feature. In recent tests the music was broadcast very successfully, letters being almost unanimous in declaring that this organ sounded better than any other organ music heard recently on the air. The schedule of the organ concerts by Mr. Emerson follows:

MABLE SLOSS.

Today—6 to 6 p. m.
Monday—Silent night.
Tuesday—8 to 8:30 p. m.
Wednesday—10:10 to 10:25 p. m.
Thursday—8 to 8:30 p. m.
Friday and Saturday—10:10 to 10:25 p. m.

Another treat for this evening will be the program of WJAZ, with the Pasmore Trio as the leading card. These comprise: Mary Pasmore, violinist; Dorothy Pasmore, cellist, and Marie Sloss, pianist.

11 a. m.—KYW [536]. Central church services, Orchestra hall, D. F. F. Shannon, pastor.
5 p. m.—WDAP [360]. Barton organ recital.

Common Radio Terms Defined

Ampere—The practical unit of electrical current. The current produced by one volt, acting through a resistance of one ohm.

Volt—The unit of electromotive force (designated as E. M. F.).

Resistance—Opposition offered by any substance or body to an electrical current. This resistance converts a certain amount of the current into heat. The practical unit is the ohm.

Rheostat—Any device for regulating an electrical current through variable resistance by dissipating part of the current as heat.

RADIO WAFTS NEW ERA INTO LUMBER CAMPS

Life has been over for the lumberjack, accustomed to winter monotony in the frozen woods, says a letter from Hollister, Wis., nearest settlement to an isolated camp employing a large force of woodsmen.

"You cannot imagine," the letter reads, "what a radio means to these men in the woods. Mails are unstead and newspapers sometimes are seven days old when received. Lights are supposed to be out at 8 o'clock, but midnight generally finds the whole gang listening in. A prize fight is a great treat, but they will crowd around to get every word of a Sunday school session or church service. Soon their outfit is to be improved, although because of the camp's situation, they now hear stations from coast to coast."

Music Teachers, Theaters Join in Copyright Fight

BY THE PROGRAM EDITOR.

Theaters, movies, and music teachers have entered into the year old battle between the National Association of Broadcasters and the American Society of Authors, Composers, and Publishers over broadcasting of songs and music controlled by copyrights of society members.

While active participation by these new elements on the side of the broadcasters is in formative stage, steps also are contemplated by which the side that really is the most interested—the radio audiences—will have a chance to give expression to its views.

A report yesterday that the Zenith-Edgewater Beach hotel broadcasting station, WJAZ, had signed up with the society caused a considerable stir in broadcast and musical circles until it was learned that the announcement, emanating supposedly from the Chicago offices of the American Society of Authors, Composers, and Publishers, had garbled the facts sadly.

E. F. McDonald Jr., owner of station WJAZ and president of the National Association of Broadcasters, is authority for the statement that the fight stands, so far as the broadcasters are concerned, exactly as it stood a year ago, except that renewed "pep" has been injected by the society's inclusion on their side of some publishers of so-called classical music.

There are so many angles of interest to the radio public in this battle that it seems as if it should be approached from the beginning for the benefit especially of those who have joined the ranks of the listeners in since the first hectic phases in the early spring of last year.

While the public was revelling in an airful of jazz and near jazz the American Society of Authors, Composers, and Publishers presented demands upon the broadcasting stations of the country for payments, the sums to be fixed according to the importance of the station, for the privilege of putting on the ether songs and music copyright by members of the society. This was resisted.

Broadcasting programs were shattered pretty badly in quality for a time, and the quandary in which the stations found themselves when it came to arranging programs without the range of the society's copyrights led to a call for a meeting of radiophone owners. This was held at the Drake hotel April 25 and 26 last. After a representative of the American Society of Authors, Composers, and Publishers had outlined the demands the broadcasters voted them down on the ground that they regarded their "airing" of the copyright music without direct income in the nature of advertising matter.

Then the association was formed and the fight was on in earnest. The broadcasters made arrangements with "independent" publishers, composers, and authors whereby music and songs copyright outside of the American society would be turned over to the radio stations for public judgment as to merit.

Programs picked up in quality. The broadcasters entered into the new phase with an idea of demonstrating their contention that putting a song or score of merit on the air meant advertising—and they did. Several which took instantly with the public were "Three O'Clock in the Morning," "Dardanella," "Yes, We Have No Bananas" (wasn't that the limit, too?), and "Wonderful One." These and others became popular over night and large sales resulted.

Then the society played an unexpected card by bringing into their fold the writers and publishers of the new hits, although rights to use the hits continued with the broadcasters. For a time the battle raged, with favor on one side and then on the other, with the radio public totally unaware beyond scraps of information here and there of developments.

Followed another humorous phase. Under copyrights held by members of the American society came forth some supposedly jazzy numbers. In "Lucy's Sextette," the listener heard the Sextette from Lucia whipped into dizzy time; Liebestraum, by Liszt, was intended to itch the feet under the title of the "Wonderland of Dreams," with never an apology to Liszt, but with the credit to L. W. Abbott; Shubert's Serenade was booted along Syncopation alley with the exalting title of "Shoe Boot's Serenade Blues," and so on, through rags and waltzes, fox trots and steps.

What the aim of gathering the masters to the fold of jazzed copyrights held by the American society, the broadcasters were at a loss to discover until recently when the society renewed its demands, raising the ante to from $250 to $5,000 a year, graded according to a station's theoretical audience. With the society were joined some authors, composers and publishers of so-called classical music under copyright.

"It seems," said Mr. McDonald yesterday, "that they were determined to sew up even jazz lanes along which the masterpieces of the past might be led by ambitious broadcasters. The slaughter is terrible, but we hope to find sources for blues, rags and fox trots without making more uneasy the rest of Wagner, of Liszt or of Schubert."

Recently the field covered by the demands of the society has taken on still another new phase in the contention of the society that if an orchestra connected to a broadcast station played copyright matter in the dining room of a hotel it would have to pay the broadcast fee, whether or not the music was put on the air.

E. F. McDONALD JR.

It was this side of the matter, according to Mr. McDonald, which led to the report that WJAZ had signed up with the society and thus brought about the first break in the ranks of the broadcasters.

"With the expiration the other day of the contract of William Dewey, manager of the Oriole orchestra at the Edgewater Beach hotel with the society," Mr. McDonald said, "he was confronted with the new phase and a consequent increase in cost. However, Mr. Dewey signed up with the society.

"Of course, under this new contract, WJAZ could broadcast any music under the society's control played by the Oriole orchestra, but that is exactly what WJAZ is not going to do.

"Our station and those of other members of the National Association of Broadcasters will go on putting the work of the independents on the air. The public seems thoroughly satisfied with our programs, and we feel confident that we can make our offerings even better.

"That is the truth of the situation which gave rise to the claim that WJAZ had signed up. The fight, so far as we are concerned, was over when we first agreed with other broadcasters to resist the demands of the society. And we have reason to believe that the popularity of WJAZ in no wise has suffered."

There you are! Probably what the biggest side of the story is the public may find some way of expressing later. It always manages to do just that.

W. VA. STATION TRANSMITS FROM ONTARIO WILDS

Fairmont, W. Va., Feb. 2.—The common element of surprise, which is conceded to be one of the major fascinations of radio, was outstripped here when Edward C. Jones Jr., district superintendent of the American Radio Relay league, picked up his phones and heard a Canadian amateur station calling. Jones replied with his code transmitter.

The surprise came when the Canadian, located in northern Ontario, suddenly shifted from code to phone, and a voice from the air called: "Hello, United States 8SP, this is Canadian 3GC calling."

In a few minutes Jones, who is a merchant here, learned that he had communicated with a radio fan in the gold mining area so far north that the Canuck, instead of giving a town and street address, called out his latitude and longitude.

Jones had an added advantage. He could talk back, and he did. He has one of the finest transmitting stations in this section and has been copied repeatedly in England and France as well as many times by ships in the North sea, Pacific ocean and South American waters. Amateurs in Holland, Hawaii and Mexico have reported 8SP's signals.

Hastings (Neb.) KDKX to Add Program of Own

Station KDKX, the recently opened relay broadcast station of the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing company, located at Hastings, Neb., soon is to add a one night a week program of its own. Announcement of broadcasting hours will be made later.

KDKX has become immensely popular with middle west radio fans, who declare its modulation to be second to none, and numerous TRIBUNE readers have been writing in asking that KDKX be included in the Radio programs.

As the Hastings station is primarily a relay station for KDKA, the East Pittsburgh station of the Westinghouse company, the schedules of KDKA should be consulted.

LOOK TO "HAMS" FOR NEW IDEAS ON WIRELESS

"Assurance of success and future development of radio depends largely upon the continued world-wide interest of the amateur," said Owen D. Young, chairman of the board of the Radio Corporation of America, in a recent talk from WGY, Schenectady. "The amateurs of today will be the scientists and radio engineers of tomorrow. Not only from the great research laboratory, but from the little spare room in the attic and the old workbench in the cellar will come great new discoveries."

He might have added also that to the licensed amateur, more than to any other class, radio owes its tremendous strides of the last few years, and its almost unrealizable grip upon the public. Yet, strange to say, the Broadcast Listener, as a class, believes the amateur to be some sort of irrepressible pest whose main aim in life is to ruin whatever enjoyment the B. L. hopes to extract from radio. However, Amateur and B. L. have every interest in common, and rare the amateur who has any desire in transmitting other than to hang as close to his wave length as expert knowledge will keep him.

Ten years ago amateur experimenters in wireless were few. Today their name is legion and the middle west boasts its share of them. One of the finely equipped stations is 9AAW, presided over by W. E. Schweitzer at 4264 Hazel avenue, this city. 9AAW has been heard in Middlesex, Eng.; Refuge Harbor, Greenland; Hilo, Hawaii, and other distant points.

Mr. Schweitzer is superintendent of District No. 7, central division, American Radio Relay league, and vice president of the traffic division of the league. Four operators keep the station constantly on the air from 11:30 p. m. until daylight. On Mondays and Thursdays the station is cleared at 4 a. m. for WNP [McMillan's call] messages through this district. Assisting Mr. Schweitzer are R. C. Schweitzer, W. Stack, and Kerr North. Between 200 and 300 amateur messages are handled monthly.

One of Chicago's pioneers in the fireless game is C. H. Zeller, 5511 Warwick avenue, he having operated an amateur station since 1912. Besides his amateur work he has been an operator for the old Marconi company, the Radio Corporation of America, and in The Chicago Tribune foreign news service. He is now an instructor of radio at Lane Tech evening school.

MAXIM TO SEEK U. S. SIGNALS IN MEDITERRANEAN

New York, Feb. 2.—With one of the first private receiving antennas ever permitted a passenger on board a vessel bound for Europe, Hiram Percy Maxim, president of the American Radio Relay league, is at sea on the Belgenland of the Red Star line to make radio tests in the Mediterranean.

Mr. Maxim is in constant touch with league operators. Should he have difficulty in hearing messages from American amateurs when on the other side, arrangements have been made by which such communications will be transmitted first to England and from there relayed back to him by amateurs in this country.

The short wave receiving equipment which he is carrying was designed by F. H. Schnell, league traffic manager.

Eighth District Amateur Works British Operator

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Feb. 2.—In the last two months radio amateurs in one U. S. district after another have succeeded in establishing communication with operators in England, France, and Holland. Now the Eighth district rolls into line with the announcement here that B. P. Williams, operator of station 8ZAE in this city worked British 20D for an hour. This makes the fifth U. S. district in which amateurs have communicated with European operators. The others are the First, Second, Third, and Ninth.

INTEREST IN URUGUAY.

BUENOS AIRES—Keen interest in radio is developing in Uruguay. An increasing demand for apparatus is expected after the end of the hot weather.

Questions and Answers

This department is conducted to serve the radio public and, within space limitations, all reasonable questions of general interest will be answered in it. Persons desiring answers to questions not of general interest should send self-addressed stamped envelope for reply. The Tribune cannot, however, make any recommendations as to dealers, merits of manufactured radio sets, or the like. Write your questions plainly on one side of paper, and be brief as consistent with clearness. No questions answered by telephone. Address Radio Questions Editor, The Chicago Tribune.

Q. 1—I have a home-built Neutrodyne which "mushes" when local is tuned in full. 2—Local stations tune over several degrees of dials. G. P. T., Chicago. A. 1—Set improperly neutralized. If customary method has failed you, try adjusting neutralizing capacities with local station tuned in to maximum until mushing (regeneration) disappears. 2—Antenna undoubtedly too long. If more than 125 feet, including half length of ground and lead-in cut down or insert .00025 or .0005 fixed condenser in aerial.

Q. 1—Will you please tell me what the call letters WCOM (or WMOC) are? 2—Will you please send list of stations published last December? Mrs. G. P. S., Neodesha, Kas. A. 1—Neither call is at present assigned, according to government records 2—Revised list will be published shortly.

Q.—Is it really possible for crystal sets to receive DX? R. C., Decatur, Ill. A.—A well constructed crystal set with high antenna, free of interference, from 150 to 200 feet long, including lead-in, and with good ground, skillfully handled ought to bring in some powerful distant stations. Ordinarily, 15 to 50 miles is the range of crystal sets. Tube amplification may add slightly to this.

If This Be Fact, Rise Is Due in Pie Plate Prices

Necessity mothered another invention when Irving F. Hand of Washington, D. C., was forced to find an effective wavetrap to keep WGY of Schenectady, N. Y., tuned in while a powerful Washington station was operating. Mr. Hand is a Union college alumnus and WGY was broadcasting addresses by students and instructors of his alma mater. Writing WGY, he said: "I improvised a wave trap, using an oatmeal box 4 inches in diameter with thirty turns of wire in series with a condenser fabricated from two pie plates, separated by a piece of paper—and it worked."

1924 AUDIENCES SENDING IN MORE THANKS LETTERS

Figures made public by station WEAF, New York City, refute recently published assertions that radio audiences are not expressing in letters and postcards their appreciation of progress as was noted in the early days of broadcasting.

"A year ago," the statement says, "the average number of letters received at WEAF was approximately 200 daily.

"This number gradually increased in the early months of 1922, followed by a slight summer slump, which reached its maximum in June. These figures do not include letters received by artists directly.

"A gradual rise in the mail followed through the fall, some 300 letters a day being the average for October, nearly 500 for November, and 800 for December.

"The increase has become still greater during the first two weeks in January; nearly 25,000 letters were received from WEAF's audience commenting on reception of programs."

COOLIDGE AGAIN WILL BE HEARD ALL OVER U. S.

Again the voice of President Coolidge will be broadcast throughout the nation when he delivers an address on Washington's birthday in behalf of of the Rotary club of Chicago, the occasion being the nineteenth anniversary of the Rotary clubs of the world.

In addition to being heard in this country, Canada, and Mexico by voice, it is probable that the message of the President will be distributed to Rotary clubs throughout Europe through cooperation of the American Radio Relay league, the non-commercial organization of licensed amateurs. Arrangements looking toward sending of the full text of the Coolidge speech by telegraph from the Atlantic seaboard on 100 meters wave length are now under way with European governments. Official sanction is necessary in England, France, Italy, and Germany.

Besides probably "dit-dahing" the message across the Atlantic the Amateurs will send it by telegraph all over the United States, delivering copies to every Rotary club in the country.

The President will begin speaking at 10 p. m. [eastern time] at the White House. In the east stations WCAP [Washington], WEAF [New York City], and WJAR [Providence, R. I.], will be connected by land lines. Broadcasting from these stations will be received by stations extending from coast to coast and re-broadcast by them, thus eliminating long land lines from the east.

WJAZ, the Zenith-Edgewater Beach Hotel station, will handle the speech in this part of the country. Other stations engaged will be:

WLW, Cincinnati; KGO, Oakland, Cal.; WGR, Buffalo, N. Y.; KDKA, Pittsburgh, Pa.; WGY, Schenectady, N. Y.; WOAI, San Antonio, Tex.; WJAX, Cleveland, O.; KFI, Los Angeles, Cal. WOO, Philadelphia, Pa.; WHAS, Louisville, Ky.; WDAF, Kansas City, Mo.; WLAG, Minneapolis, Minn.; WSB, Atlanta, Ga.; WBAP, Fort Worth, Tex.; KGW, Portland, Ore.; WMC, Memphis, Tenn.; KSD, St. Louis, Mo.; and WOAW, Omaha, Neb.

George L. Treadwell, secretary of the Rotary club of Chicago, has charge of arrangements both for the broadcast by voice and by telegraph. He expects to be able successfully to push European negotiations.

RADIO STATION FROM ARGENTINA REACHES WORLD

BUENOS AIRES, Feb. 2.—President De Alvear recently inaugurated the international high power radio station at Montegrande, operated jointly by American, British, French, and German radio companies.

"Messages of greeting were sent to President Coolidge, King George, President Millerand, and President Ebert, and a general message was broadcast to the heads of all the other nations of the world.

The station in its completed form cost about $5,000,000. The ownership is vested in an Argentine corporation, the Trans-Radio International, equally controlled by the Radio Corporation of America, the Marconi Wireless Telegraph company, the Compagnie Generale de Telegraphie Sans-Fils, and the Telefunken company, which combined their interests here after the American and German companies had begun erecting separate stations.

Portable Radio Sets for This Police Force

Steps have beentaken by Westchester county, N. Y., authorities to employ radio as a means of making that part of the universe unhealthy for lawbreakers by means of radio. Arrangements have been made with station WRW, Tarrytown, N. Y., to broadcast ploice information and bulletins to bluecoats on post. Motorcycles will be equipped with receiving sets and a portable receiver for each patrolman is to be put into service.

KANSAS COLLEGE WILL OPEN NIGHT SCHOOL OVER AIR

Now we are to have the radio night school, according to advices to THE TRIBUNE from its Topeka, Kas., correspondent. Moreover, in this case the school goes to the majority of its scholars, reversing an old order.

The Kansas Agricultural college, which has inaugurated the plan, will broadcast lectures five nights a week from the college radio station, WTG. On completion of each course the radio students will turn in written examinations and will be entitled to the same credits as those who do home study by correspondence.

Broadcasting will be on a wave length of 286 meters. School sessions will begin at 7 o'clock (central standard time) each evening, except Saturday and Sunday, beginning Feb. 11.

"Our purpose in establishing the radio school," said Dr. W. M. Jardine, president of the college, "is to carry modern farming methods into the home of every farmer who has a radio set and is ready to study. There are approximately 39,000,000 farm homes in the United States, but there are only about 150,000 enrolled in all agricultural colleges of the country."

$15,000,000 for 1924 Road Work in California

428 Miles of Highway Completed Last Year.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—Highway construction contracts throughout the entire state for the year 1924 from bond funds will approximate $15,000,000. Funds for maintenance from the gasoline tax of 2 cents per gallon are expected to total $7,000,000, or approximately 50 per cent more than the sum paid for maintenance last year.

Construction completed and accepted during 1923 totals 428 miles of highway, 142 miles of which are grading and surfacing. Contracts are in force and bids are in for 346 miles of construction, of which 196 miles is grading and surfacing and 57 miles is reconstruction of pavement and grading.

According to estimates compiled by the Automobile club of Southern California, new highways constructed in this section during the year 1923 cost $3,444,594.

This figure does not represent the total value of work performed during the year, as a large number of contracts were awarded late in 1923 which were incompleted at the beginning of 1923.

An additional $428,767 was spent on bridges along the state and county highways. The total mileage added to the southland's improved highways during the year is approximately 135 miles.

Additional street paving work was done by the various towns and cities in southern California. The city of Los Angeles, for instance, during the year awarded contracts in the amount of $5,623,694. Road maintenance programs by the counties and cities aggregated more than $1,000,000.

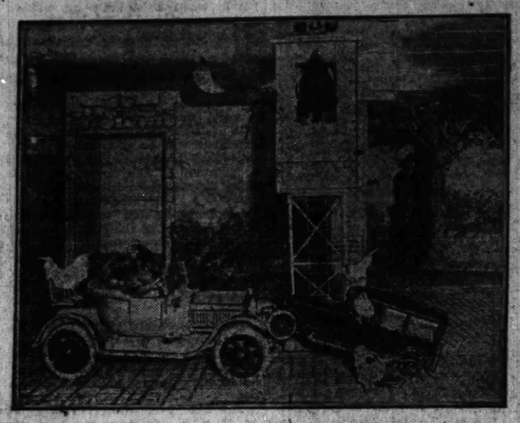
In connection with California's program of highway building it must be considered that while approximately one-tenth of the automobiles in the United States are owned here, the highways are used by an additional 134,000 cars that cross the border of the state annually with touring parties sent on seeing the sights.

Hence in addition to maintaining the largest automobile population in the United States, southern California is called upon to provide for the largest increase of motor vehicles assembling in any locality in the country.

Road contracts in eleven of the thirteen southern California counties were awarded during 1923 as follows:

Los Angeles	50.00 mi.	$1,529,436.59
Kern	9.62 mi.	248,577.77
Kings	1.00 mi.	16,000.00
Orange	23.46 mi.	485,823.62
Riverside	9.01 mi.	101,667.50
San Bernardino	2.00 mi.	61,582.00
San Diego	28.35 mi.	684,984.15
San Luis Obispo	.....	2,975.00
Santa Barbara	2.00 mi.	27,000.00
Tulare	10.00 mi.	158,304.30
Ventura	4.10 mi.	70,236.52
	139.48 mi.	$3,396,551.75

A YANKEE TRAFFIC LESSON



These chickens have learned not to cross the street except at intersections, but they haven't mastered the gentle art of running a car. They are feathered actors employed in the latest vaudeville act on the big circuits, and are engaged now in mastering the operation of modern traffic towers. [Underwood & Underwood Photo.]

Here Is the Latest Road Lore from Tribune Touring Bureau

ZERO weather and January blunder have failed in their object of keeping folks indoors, so far as Chicago motorists are concerned. The demand for highway information continues at an unusually heavy rate. The closed car company is out in force with the land of perpetual sunshine as its objective.

Following is the last minute bulletin on route conditions this winter, prepared by THE TRIBUNE touring department, in charge of Nina Baker:

Chicago to New Orleans.

Chicago-Danville—Two detours on the Dixie highway around bridges. Temporary bridges.

Danville-Vandalia—Good pavement.

Vandalia-Cairo—All hard surface except two miles just south of Vandalia.

Cairo-Memphis—One-third of this is dirt and very bad after rains. There is the advantage of taking a boat from Cairo to Memphis and south. The boats leave Cairo on the 6th, 12th, 18th, 24th, and 30th of each month.

Memphis-New Orleans—This is an all weather road and usually good. No detours.

Shipping rate is from $16 to $25. Train fare for passenger is $4.77.

Chicago-St. Louis, via Joliet and Bloomington—Two detours, one gravel, one oil-short.

St. Louis-Kansas City—Fair. Sixty miles concrete; 200 miles dirt; forty miles concrete.

Kansas City-Tulsa—The Red Star route. Or Kansas City-Muskogee—The King of Trails.

Muskogee-Dallas — Impassable at present. Tourists must go via Oklahoma City to Dallas.

Dallas-San Antonio—Bad between Temple and Austin.

Chicago to Los Angeles.

Chicago-St. Louis-Kansas City—Here the tourist has his choice of the Santa Fé trail or a more southern one. The Santa Fé trail across Arizona is not at all certain. From Kansas City they can go either via Tulsa or Dallas.

Kansas City-Tulsa—Here the tourist still has his choice of two routes.

Tulsa-El Paso—Reported good. No detours.

El Paso-Phoenix—The only road to use between these two points is via Las Cruces, Lordsburg, Rodeo, Douglas, Benson, Tucson, Florence, Mesa, Phoenix.

Phoenix-Los Angeles—199 miles will be bad. The only way to go is via Wickenburg, Salome, Blythe, Mecca, Beaumont, Riverside, and Los Angeles.

Dallas-El Paso—The Bankhead highway. Subject to weather conditions. Getting to Dallas will be about the worst.

Chicago to Florida.

Chicago-Indianapolis—Via Marshall is the only advisable way. Other roads are rough. This is all concrete but one and one-half miles on the National and the two small detours on the Dixie.

Indianapolis-Washington — All hard surface. There are eighteen mountain ranges which are slippery and chains should be used.

Washington-Petersburg — Macadam, concrete, good gravel, and sand clay.

Petersburg-Durham — Mostly sand clay. Dries rapidly.

Durham-Camden — Hard surface, gravel, and sand clay. One detour.

Camden-Augusta — Good sand clay and gravel with stretches of macadam. No detours.

Augusta-Macon—Good top soil with clay base, but does not get deep when wet.

Macon-Jacksonville—Best is via Valdosta and Lake City. The other way:

Chicago-Louisville — Concrete and gravel; two small detours and one small gap in pavement.

Louisville-Nashville—The worst of the trip to Florida. At present the detours north and south of Elizabethtown have been temporarily lifted. Several bad stretches.

Nashville-Huntsville—Asphalt and stone.

Huntsville-Macon—A stretch of dirt near Guntersville which is influenced by weather conditions; most of the remainder is sand-clay.

Macon-Jacksonville—Same as above.

Other Routes.

Birmingham-Mobile—Bad. Most roads in Alabama are in bad condition.

Birmingham-Memphis—Fair via Tuscaloosa.

Birmingham-Huntsville—Bad.

Birmingham-Montgomery—Bad.

Iowa City-Des Moines—All main roads rough but passable. Somewhat slippery.

Keokuk, Ia.-Austin, Minn.—Fair.

Austin, Minn.-Owatonna—Fair.

Owatonna-Minneapolis—O. K.

Freeport, Ill.-Dubuque—Concrete to within one mile of Lena, then gravel on in. Dirt from Lena to Route 20, then good gravel into Dubuque.

FOR FIRST AID.

Common yellow soap is the best material with which to make emergency repairs if the gas line springs a leak. The same applies to a leak in the water cooling system.

Dealers Consider Three Ways Out of Used Car Mess

CO-OPERATIVE steps undertaken by automobile dealers to reduce used car losses and "solve the used car problem," probably will furnish the most interesting session of the seventh annual convention of the National Automobile Dealers' association, to be held at Hotel La Salle, Chicago, Jan 28-31. This meeting is open to all dealers of the United States. Special reduced rates of fare and one-half have been granted by the railroads to members of the association.

Three plans that have attracted nation-wide interest in the last year will be discussed. The first of these plans, the "Appleby Motormart," will be discussed by James E. Appleby of Detroit.

By the Appleby plan the automobile dealer washes his hands of the used car as a part of his business. Instead all used car transactions are handled by a motormart, operated by the dealers without profit, where used cars are bought and sold, with a definite price for each used automobile dealt in. This plan was begun in Anaheim, Cal., last March, is in use in twenty-six Pacific coast cities, and it is expected that fifty or more cities in Michigan, Indiana, Illinois, Iowa, and Pennsylvania will be operating these markets as a result of the promotional work of the Chamberlain organization.

The second plan to be discussed will be the Atlanta statistical bureau, which has operated throughout the year. This is a bureau maintained by the dealers of Atlanta for the appraisal and buying of used cars at a definite price in the Atlanta territory. R. H. Martin of Atlanta will discuss the accomplishment of the plan.

The third plan to be presented will be the "green seal merchandising plan," developed by the dealers of Cleveland, O., and which has been operating for about six months. R. J. Schmunk of Cleveland will present this plan, which has as its characteristic feature the re-establishing of confidence in the used car as an article of merchandise by standardizing its mechanical condition and guaranteeing that the car is in the condition represented when sold under the green seal certification of the dealer association.

Keep to Left.

People walking along the highways at night are in far greater danger from autos than in the daytime. The driver at night cannot see dark objects well because of the constantly shifting lights from approaching cars. Sometimes the glare is so great that there is momentary blindness on the part of the car operator. The moral is: If you walk on the roads at night, keep to the left side for safety.

To Test Law.

Validity of the new Indiana law increasing automobile license fees is questioned by the secretary of state, Edward Jackson. His claims are based on the fact that the new law embraces two subjects, increase of automobile fees and distribution of inheritance taxes. This is alleged to be unconstitutional because one law is meant to cover only one subject.

The Mad House.

Paris, where 169,000 motor vehicles of all kinds circulate in the comparatively small area, is said to be the world's most horrible traffic example. There are speed laws and several traffic rules, but these are seldom heeded and parking of cars is permitted anywhere in the city.

A LONG TIME INVESTMENT

Every Dodge Brothers Sedan body is steel built throughout—sills, pillars, panels, frames and all.

This all-steel design—exclusively a Dodge Brothers feature—possesses certain practical advantages which recommend it most emphatically to the closed car buyer.

It reduces cost, assures a structural precision which is particularly evident in the snug fit of doors and windows, and results in a staunchness of construction which guarantees to the owner a long time investment—and a long time satisfaction.

Forecasting A Tremendous Spring Demand

739,626

more Ford cars and trucks were produced last year than the previous year, an increase of over 50 per cent.

In spite of this tremendous increase in production, it was impossible to meet delivery requirements during the spring and summer months when orders for 350,000 Ford Cars and Trucks could not be filled.

This year winter buying for immediate delivery has been more active than ever before—and in addition 200,000 orders have already been booked through the Ford Weekly Purchase Plan for spring delivery.

These facts clearly indicate that the demand during this spring and summer will be far greater than ever, and that orders should be placed immediately with Ford Dealers as a means of protection against delay in securing your Ford Car or Truck or Fordson Tractor.

All Chicago turns to the Knight!

THOUSANDS OF NEW ADMIRERS ARE WON AT THE AUTO SHOW

CHICAGO went to the Automobile Show—looked them all over—but lingered longer and admiringly around the Willys-Knight. Just to watch the crowds was to see what a big favorite Willys-Knight is among the people of Chicago.

Here were the cars of the nation in a panorama that made comparisons easy. Here were all manner of body designs—all types of engines—all the expected fanfare and bidding for attention—and yet, in the midst of it all, Willys-Knight captured the lion's share of interest.

Why? Simply this: The people of Chicago and America at large have heard a lot of very wonderful things about the Willys-Knight—largely from Willys-Knight owners. The word has gone the rounds that Willys-Knight has something under its beautiful hood that is the greatest prize and satisfaction in motoring—

An engine that actually improves with use! Willys-Knight is powered by the very same type of engine used in the finest cars of Europe—silently gliding sleeve-valves instead of pounding cams and noisy poppet-valves!

This remarkable engine gives you freedom from the common woes of ordinary poppet-valve engines. No valves to grind. No bother with carbon. Just sweet-running action as quiet as the rustle of silk—and a world of economy in permanent endurance.

Here is more satisfaction than most people believe an automobile can possibly deliver. Willys-Knight owners report 50,000 miles and more without a single need for a tool laid to the engine! And no Willys-Knight engine has ever been known to wear out!

Is it any wonder that Chicago people have turned to the Knight! Folks like to see—and want to own—a car that has the stuff in it to back up all the good things that are being said about it. If you didn't visit the Show—see Willys-Knight in the nearest dealer's showroom. Drive it. Get the thrill of its matchless performance!

Willys-Knight Models: 2-pass. Roadster $1175; 5-pass. Touring $1175; 7-pass. Touring $1325; 5-pass. Coupe-Sedan [Standard $1450, DeLuxe $1550]; 5-pass. Sedan $1795 [DeLuxe $1895]; 7-pass. Big Shows Bring Huge Increase in Auto Plant Plans

Motor Kings Make New Estimates of 1924 Production.

BY WHITCOMB WILLIAMS.

DETROIT, Mich., Feb. 2—With the three big automobile shows—New York, Detroit, and Chicago—off the boards, manufacturers and dealers are summing up the results and checking up on what they will be called upon to accomplish within the next eleven months.

Unanimously, they are of the opinion that collectively and individually a new record will be hung up, and are arranging their schedules accordingly. Some of the more optimistic leaders in the industry claim the five million figure will be reached during 1924, rather than less than four million, and will add that there is no good reason why the five million figure should not be exceeded.

Considering the two largest producers—Ford and General Motors corporation—we find that the minimum output of Fords is to be 2,550,000 units, and the minimum aggregate for the various units which make up the General Motors corporation, 1,250,000, or a total of the two of 3,800,000 cars.

Added to this will be the product of nearly 100 manufacturers on the general list, at least fifty of them with schedules calling from 2,500 to 300,000 cars, showing the 5,000,000 estimate not at all unreasonable.

Following is the automobile production estimates for 1924:

Ford	2,550,000
Chevrolet	750,000
Buick	285,000
Hudson-Essex	110,000
Overland-W.-K.	300,000
Dodge	250,000
Hupmobile	40,000
Rickenbacker	12,000
Studebaker	150,000
Oakland	75,000
Nash	75,000
Paige-Jewett	75,000
Cadillac	30,000
Gardner	17,500
Moon	25,000
Oldsmobile	72,000
Reo	62,000
Jordan	20,000
Chandler	22,000
Packard	30,000
Franklin	18,000
Dort	30,000
Maxwell	60,000
Chrysler	15,000
All Durant cars	200,000
Miscellaneous	125,000

No definite information has been given out as to the Ford production schedule, and probably none will be made. Recently Henry Ford stated that it was hoped that some time this year a daily output of 10,000 Ford cars and trucks will be attained. This figure, however, will not be reached for several months, if indeed at all. The daily average at present is around the 7,700 mark, but with the production facilities now already greatly increased the Ford daily average for the year should be better than 8,500 cars, and on a basis of 300 working days this would mean a total output of 2,550,000 Fords.

The Chevrolet company follows Ford in the number of cars produced, and is the largest of the G. M. C. units. Compared with an output in 1923 of 483,432 cars, this concern expects to reach a total production of between 750,000 and 800,000 during the present year. Other plants which will run into six figures are the Buick, Hudson-Essex, Overland-Willys-Knight, Dodge, Studebaker, and Durant.

Although a newcomer into the automotive family, the Chrysler expects to produce 15,000 cars during its first year. It received no small amount of attention at the automobile shows, and production is now under way.

In addition to the above named group there are a score or more which will build from 2,500 to 20,000 cars, but no data is available to warrant a special mention. Among the group is the Anderson, Stutz, Stearns, Gray, Peerless, Velie, Elcar, Haynes, Apperson, Rollin, Pierce-Arrow, Columbia, Auburn, Marmon, and Cole.

Dealers are in a strong position for the season just ahead. To a large degree the incompetent class of dealers was not able to stand the strain of strong competition and was obliged to go out of business last year, leaving the field to the better and legitimate type of automobile merchandisers.

Traffic conditions this winter are better than they have been for many years. Railroads are handling automobiles with but little delay, and the once necessary driveways are far smaller than for several years past. With the closing of navigation the extra burden fell upon the railroads, but with the first open channel both up and down the Great Lakes, automobile freight vessels will begin the moving of thousands of cars to Chicago, Milwaukee, Duluth, Cleveland, and Buffalo.

THE INQUIRING REPORTER

He's Out to Learn the Truth About Motordom.

The Tribune will pay $5 for each question accepted for the Inquiring Reporter to ask. Send name and address with your question to "The Inquiring Reporter," The Tribune, Chicago. For today's question H. L. Mayer, 4020 North La Vergne avenue, Chicago, was awarded $5.

The Question.

What interested you most at the Auto show?

Where Asked.

Auto show, Coliseum.

The Answers.

Si Mayer, secretary of police, city hall—Well, as president of the North Shore Motor club, I am at present most interested in the exhibits that have some relation to safety first measures. I am always on the lookout for instructive ideas that might be applied to the betterment of motor conditions.

Alfred Reeves, general manager National Automobile Chamber of Commerce, New York City—The attendance and the exhibit in its entirety, as evidence of a prosperous country which permits 15,000,000 of its citizens to own individual means of transportation that not alone saves time in business but can be enjoyed by every member of the American family.

Charles J. Ellias, 41 Convent avenue, New York City, cashier—The changes brought about by the general adoption in this country of the four wheel brake, also the introduction of the balloon tire. These two radical changes have created a new interest within the automobile industry and without. Another interesting feature is the improvements that will result in the conservation of gasoline.

Frank M. Stevens, 320 5th avenue, New York City, caterer—The crowds. It is really wonderful how the people year after year flock to see these shows, not alone in New York City but in Chicago. I saw the first auto show here at the Coliseum. That was in 1900, and there were eleven exhibits. What progress! This show is one grand panorama of achievement.

H. J. Rosenberg, Glencoe, Ill., merchant—The marvel of auto transportation is uppermost in my mind as you ask me the question. I will let others deal with the details. I really believe that we are too close to appreciate the wonders and the great things made possible by the introduction of the automobile in this country. That, to me, is the biggest exhibit in the show.

A new experience awaits you—ride on

Balloon Comfort Cords

These tires are twice as big as ordinary cords but inflated to less than half the pressure—that is the secret of their comfort. They fit present rims, last longer than ordinary tires and cost hardly any more.

Your first ride on these remarkable new tires will change your conception of motoring. Holes and obstructions simply disappear. Rough roads become boulevards.

Tests covering hundreds of thousands of miles indicate that the life of the car will be increased as much as 50%.

Yet these tires cost hardly any more than ordinary cords. Come in and see them.

Please send me promptly your free booklet on Goodyear Balloon Tires.

Yes, you can now have BALLOON TIRES
without changing wheels or rims

Here's great news for motorists who seek real riding comfort!

In addition to making balloon tires in the smaller diameter 20- and 21-inch rim sizes, Goodyear is prepared to furnish balloon tires to fit rims on most cars now in use.

In other words, you can put Goodyear balloon tires on your present car in most cases without the expense of special wheels and rims.

You can enjoy all the comfort and easy-riding advantages of the new, flexible sidewall, low-pressure tire at the very minimum of cost.

In approving balloon tires and offering them to the public Goodyear does so with a full and unsurpassed first-hand knowledge of their possibilities. For years, Goodyear test cars shod with these tires and riding as on great pillows of air, have been shuttling back and forth over roads of all kinds, under actual service conditions.

The Right Size for Your Car

This table shows you what size Goodyear Balloon Tires can be fitted to your present wheels and rims. In the left hand column are ordinary tire sizes; in the right hand column the Goodyear Balloon Tire sizes by which your present tires may be replaced.

30 x 3½*	inch	31 x 4.40	inch
31 x 4	"	32 x 4.95	"
32 x 4	"	33 x 4.95	"
32 x 4½	"	33 x 5.77	"
33 x 4½	"	34 x 5.77	"

*If present rims are clincher type, new straight-side rim tops (quite inexpensive) will be required. . . Full information regarding balloon tires in the smaller (20- and 21-inch) wheel and rim sizes is given in the complete booklet offered in the coupon above.

The experience gained in these and other tests has enabled the manufacture of a balloon tire that is tested and proved in every point of practical usefulness.

The results have been such as to justify in all ways the immense tide of balloon tire enthusiasm now sweeping the country.

The table herewith shows the sizes in Goodyear balloon tires that will satisfactorily replace ordinary tires on present wheels and rims.

For full information clip and mail the coupon at the top of this page; an authoritative booklet on the subject will be sent you promptly without cost.

Today as in years past, on balloon tires as on all other types, the name Goodyear stands for supreme quality and dependability

Illinois Shoots at at Five Thousand Mile Paving Mark

Club Gives Outline of Progress on Main Roads.

ILLINOIS now boasts 3,351 miles of paved roads, according to a report received by the Chicago Motor club from the state highway department; and this does not include pavements laid by counties, cities, and villages—only the bond issue and state aid systems.

Of this amount 1,011 miles of pavement was laid in 1923.

Up to Nov. 3, 1,163 miles of grading had been completed and 1,086 bridges built.

Contracts have been awarded for 619 miles of new pavement work, which will begin in the spring; also 281 miles of grading and 710 bridges.

By the end of 1924 Illinois should boast a total of 4,460 miles of bond-issue and state-aid roads in addition to pavements built wholly by counties and municipalities.

During the 1923 construction period as high as 120 concrete mixers were operating at one time, and at the high point as many as 9,750 men and 2,200 teams were operating. In one day the state contractors laid 2,017 feet of eighteen foot pavement.

Many of the main routes are either entirely or practically completed. Here and there will be found small detours where locations have not been definitely determined or where bridges, viaducts, or underpasses are being constructed.

A résumé of the paving conditions of some of the chief state thoroughfares is of interest.

No. 1—Chicago to Metropolis via Chicago Heights, Momence, Watseka, Hoopeston, Danville, Paris, Marshall, Mount Carmel, Carmi, Harrisburg, and Vienna: Completely paved past Marshall; remainder under contract for paving or grading and a few spots of paving completed.

No. 2—Beloit to Cairo, via Rockford, Dixon, Mendota, La Salle, Wenona, Bloomington, Decatur, Pana, Vandalia, Centralia, Du Quoin, and Carbondale: Paved Beloit-Rockford; grading contract awarded Rockford-Dixon; nothing from Dixon to Wenona; some paving and contracts awarded for most of the way from Wenona to Decatur; grading contracts let Decatur-Vandalia; pavement completed Vandalia-Cairo except three small sections.

No. 4—Chicago to St. Louis via Joliet, Dwight, Bloomington, Springfield, and Carlinville: All paved except a section entering Springfield.

No. 5—Chicago to East Dubuque via Elgin, Marengo, Belvidere, Rockford, Freeport and Stockton. Grading contracts let to Elizabeth, nothing Elizabeth to East Dubuque.

No. 6—Chicago to Fulton, via Geneva, DeKalb, Rochelle, Dixon and Sterling. Completely paved.

No. 7—Joliet to Rock Island, via Ottawa, La Salle, Princeton, Sheffield and Geneseo. Paved completely except from Spring Valley to Princeton; grading contracts finally awarded Spring Valley-Depue and paving contracts let Depue-Princeton.

No. 10—Danville to Quincy, via Champaign, Decatur, Springfield, Jacksonville and Pittsfield. Paved completely to Pittsfield except between Jacksonville and Winchester, for which contracts have been awarded; nothing from Pittsfield to Quincy.

No. 11—National Old Trails route, Marshall to East St. Louis: completely paved.

No. 15—Mount Carmel to East St. Louis via Fairfield, Mount Vernon and Belleville: Paved with the exception of half a dozen spots, most of which are under contract.

No. 17—Momence to Lecon via Kankakee, Dwight and Wenona: Paved to Dwight and from Wenona to Lecon; remainder nothing.

No. 18—Chicago to Princeton via Aurora, Oswego, Sandwich, and Mendota: Paved to Sandwich; remainder nothing.

No. 19—Northwest highway, Chicago to Harvard via Des Plaines, Barrington, and Woodstock: Paved to Barrington except a few spots, nothing Barrington to Woodstock, paving contracts let Woodstock to Harvard and to state line.

No. 20—Waukegan to Woodstock via McHenry: Paved to Polo, contracts let for remainder and a few spots finished.

No. 21—Milwaukee avenue, Chicago to Antioch via Libertyville and Grayslake: Pavement completed except four small stretches.

No. 22—Lincoln highway, Dyer, Ind., to Lake Forest via Chicago Heights, Joliet, Plainfield, Aurora, Elgin, and Dundee: Paved to Dundee except two gaps, one east of Joliet and one between Plainfield and Aurora; nothing Dundee to Lake Forest.

No. 24—Peoria to Springfield on St. Louis route, via Pekin, Green Valley and Mason City: All paved.

No. 25—Joliet to Fairfield via Kankakee, Gilman, Paxton, Champaign, Mattoon, Effingham, Flora, and Louisville: Paved past Champaign except small gaps between Joliet and Kankakee, between Gilman and Paxton and out of Paxton; remainder largely under contract.

No. 29—Sheffield to Burlington, Ia., via Kewanee, Galva, Galesburg, and Monmouth: Paved Sheffield - Galesburg, except two or three spots; contracts let remainder.

No. 39—Bureau to Peoria, on St. Louis route, via Henry and Chillicothe; All paved.

No. 43—Sheridan road-Chicago to Wisconsin state line via Lake Forest and Waukegan: All paved.

Good progress is being made in marking the state roads, and by the time the 1924 touring season rolls around Illinois roads will be marked even better than are those in Wisconsin and Michigan. State routes 1, 4, 5, 6, 15, 19, 21, and 42 will be marked through Chicago to the corner of Jackson and Michigan boulevards, where the mere suggestion will be needed.

UNCLE SAM SHOWS 'EM HOW

How Uncle Sam spends his billion a year for better roads and why next year will see 50 per cent added to the highway budget, was shown graphically at the annual Good Roads show in this exhibit arranged by the U. S. bureau of public roads. The clay figures and tiny models are an exact replica of a modern building unit laying a section of standard, 18-foot concrete road. Interest in highway technicalities these days is illustrated by this audience, caught in the photographer's flash. From left to right they are: Miss Pearl Maupin, A. M. Nielson, Mrs. V. Paige, Mrs. A. M. Nielson, and A. T. Rhodes.

Invading Europe.

There are 108 British makes of passenger cars and seventy-seven foreign makes on the market in England, France leading among the latter with thirty-eight, and the United States taking second place with nineteen. It is estimated that fully one-half the cars in use in Great Britain are of foreign manufacture, principally American, French, and Italian.

NO CONGESTION.

According to the figures of the Royal Automobile club of Spain there were 60,194 automobiles in Spain at the end of June, 1923. Madrid and Barcelona had 10,890 and 10,005 cars respectively.

Worth Remembering.

When repairing a chain, gears, or other units which consist of different parts, do not place a new section with another badly worn member. Noise will result and the new part will not give good service. It is best to install all new parts.

Friendship Tour to Mark Opening of Southern Road

PINEVILLE, Ky.—An interstate friendship tour, starting from Pineville March 3, following the assembling here of motorists from Kentucky and states to the north, has been planned for the formal opening of the best north-south highway through Kentucky. The road already has been opened to traffic, and many tourists en route to Florida have praised the route as the best now in use.

The road is known as Friendly Highway Route "A," extending from Michigan to Florida, passing through the Cumberland section of Kentucky, eastern Tennessee and following the established highways south from Asheville, N. C.

The decision to open the highway was reached at a meeting in the Continental hotel here attended by bankers, members of the Pineville Kiwanis club, and officials of the Western Carolina Motor club, who, with other bankers and Kiwanis clubs, have made possible through travel between Cincinnati, Lexington, Knoxville, and Asheville to Florida points this winter. R. E. Samuels, president of the Kiwanis club and cashier of the First State bank, was named chairman of the committee to invite representation from cities north of Pineville.

One object of the tour as outlined will be to acquaint the business men along the Friendly Highway Route "A" with its conditions, scenic attractions, and demonstrate to them that it is the shortest route from the middle west to Florida points, and that it now is in better condition than any other route by which the 300,000 tourist cars now in Florida may return to the north and middle west March, April May, and June of 1924.

WORK-BENCH WISDOM

BY ERWIN GREER.

TO every motorist sooner or later there comes the unpleasant experience of stepping on the starter button and instead of the merry whirr of turning gears, being greeted by stony silence. It is scarcely remarkable that this occurs, indeed the wonder is that the starter holds up as well as it does under the abuse that it receives at the hands of the average car owner.

The starter system embodies the following units: A storage battery, the cables that connect the battery with the rest of the system, a switch for bringing the starter into action, and as a general thing the frame of the car, which is used to return the current to the battery after it has turned over the engine.

In cases of starter failure the first thing to suspect is the battery, which supplies the current that operates the starter. Once a week during the active running season the battery must be filled to level with distilled water. The acid solution should be tested at these times with a hydrometer, showing the specific gravity of the solution. If this has fallen below 1,200 the battery is away below charge and must be recharged without delay. If the battery is permitted to become dry or to fall so low in charge that it cannot turn over the starter the cause of the failure is at once revealed.

The next things to suspect are the cables that connect the battery with the starter by way of the switch. While the trouble here is not so frequent, nevertheless insulation may wear through, setting up shorts that drain the battery and prevent the starter from doing its work. Occasionally also the switch goes out of business, but if the battery is proved to have adequate current and the cables are all right, examine the switch.

Sometimes the starter motor itself goes out of business through mechanical failure or lack of lubrication. The starting motor is generally lubricated from the engine on one end and by a small oil hole in the other. The engine lubrication is automatic, but the oil hole requires a drop of oil every 500 miles of running. In some cases both ends of the starting motor depend on oil holes for lubricant.

The brushes and commutator of the starting motor do not need oil; in fact, if oil gets on these parts it is likely to stop the motor from operating. In this case the oil may be cleaned off by holding a small piece of fine sandpaper against the commutator while the motor is running.

Everyone Agrees—
Rickenbacker is Right

No Vibration

4 Wheel Brakes

Enthusiastic and instantaneous endorsement was the response to that epoch-making announcement of "Nothing Else to Buy."

Factory advises us that orders are pouring in, and we are warned that demand for Rickenbacker Cars will exceed the possible supply, so we can expect only our quota.

That's the most eloquent endorsement of this latest Rickenbacker policy—a "Fully-Equipped Car."

You know what we mean, of course—a car that as it comes to you, and at the advertised price, is so completely equipped with every desirable safety factor and convenience that there is left for you, "Nothing Else to Buy."

That announcement made by Rickenbacker at the opening of the New York Show, created a sensation almost as great as had previous epochal improvements first announced in Rickenbacker cars.

It was as great an innovation in its way as were the Vibrationless Motor, the Two Fly Wheels, the Automatic Air Cleaner, Disc Steel Wheels, Cradle Springs and 4-Wheel Brakes.

Until Rickenbacker set this new standard—this higher code of selling ethics—you used to pay extra for such necessities as front and rear Bumpers, Automatic Windshield Wiper, Disc Steel Wheels, Motometer, Wind Wings, Car Heater, etc., etc.

When you had paid for your car, you had only begun—you still had to pay $150 to $250 more before your car was complete.

Since January 1st, included as "standard equipment" in Rickenbacker cars are the following:—

Bumpers—front and rear; Folberth Automatic Windshield Cleaner; Moto-Meter; Moto-Meter Wings; Moto-Meter Lock; Transmission Lock; Ignition Switch Lock; Drum Tire Cover; "Stop" light; "Pipeless" Car Heater; Rear View Mirror; Shock Absorbers. Closed Models have Vanity Case and Clock. Open Models—Bevel Plate Windshield Wings—and all models have 4-Wheel Brakes, of course.

You are entitled to all these things and at the advertised price of any car—for Rickenbacker has included them without changing prices of closed models, and on open models at considerably reduced prices.

But accessories alone do not make a car.

So even did you obtain all these "extras" you still could not hope for Rickenbacker performance, or low upkeep, unless that car also had all the advanced engineering features which have made this car famous.

Rickenbacker is first choice of men who know most about automobiles, and when you learn all there is to know about this car no one could sell you any other at any price.

But, considering the nation-wide popularity and demand for Rickenbackers, you must not delay if you would ensure reasonably early delivery.

We are now taking orders for spring delivery—and a limited number for immediate—or as soon as we can get them.

So we suggest you place your order early—now—if you would avoid disappointment.

You'll never be happy till you do own a Rickenbacker.

Motor Makers Get Behind Chicago Highway Program

For "Saturation Point" in Narrow Roads and Streets.

BY J. L. JENKINS.

BETTER roads were linked with industrial profits closer than ever before in transportation history during the twenty-fourth National Automobile show, which closed yesterday. Heads of the mammoth industry whose product has in twenty-five years changed the complexion of national life admitted that the future of their business rests with the capacity of movement offered by American streets and country roads.

They agreed that this capacity alone marks the "saturation point" in automobile production and use, and took a direct interest in the new campaigns which are now succeeding the original national movement to build the country's system of interstate pavements.

Following as it did the annual convention of the American Road Builders' association, which framed the general highway program for the coming year, the auto show served to center highway transportation activities in Chicago. It brought the city into the limelight of transportation interest and left it with the implied duty of leading the new roads campaign.

"Even from a selfish industrial standpoint," declared Walter P. Chrysler, one of the most prominent of automotive engineers, "the question of more and better roads is the most important. The limit of the automobiles that can be produced and sold in America today is governed by the country's highway and street capacity. The building of wider roads and the elimination of congestion in cities has become an industrial problem of the first water, and Chicago's proposal to double the width of the main paved arteries within a 100 mile radius of its center is one that should have the support of every man interested in the manufacture and sale of cars."

E. S. Jordan, who has been identified with the traffic safety movement in a national way for years, found an added interest in the Chicago road extension plans.

"The automobile is now the symbol of transportation in America," he said. "It will increase its usefulness at a pace equal to the improvement of its operating facilities. Of course, every manufacturer realizes the importance of immediately improving these facilities. With 14,000,000 cars running we are still thinking of streets and roads in terms of the horse and buggy, and if Chicago, through a sweeping and spectacular highway extension campaign, can show the country how to use its automobiles to their last degree of service, the automobile industry as well as the country at large will have a debt of sternal gratitude to pay the city."

Motor executives agreed that the plan to double the width of such roads as Roosevelt road, the Dixie highway, the Grant highway, Sheridan road, and other main arteries which form terminals in Chicago for highway traffic of the state is the logical solution for many traffic problems. They added that it should lead to the early segregation of passenger and freight traffic, and, linked with the Chicago plan for boulevard and street extension, will serve to reduce automobile accidents throughout the Chicago district.

Save Paris Gowns.

To prevent mud being splashed during wet weather a splashless automobile wheel has been designed in Paris. The device consists merely of a circular brush mounted on an axle of the wheel extending nearly to its circumference. The brush acts as a guard to receive the mud thrown to the side by the tire.

Inspect Fuel.

In England gasoline is sold to motorists in two gallon cans. The petrol goes through a system of rigid inspection and the purity is absolutely assured and the measure guaranteed.

Construction Cost.

The average cost per mile for road construction in the United States, according to statistics from the bureau of public roads, since 1916 has been $16,675, not including the cost of right of way or of bridges.

SIMPLIFY TAGS.

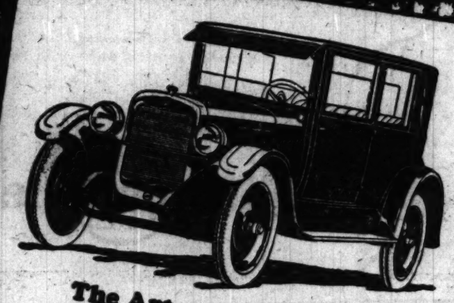
Connecticut will use letters of the alphabet in 1924 to denote certain sections of the state, thus minimizing numerals and rendering the license easy to remember.

New Columbia Sixes on the Famous All Feature Chassis

As Introduced at the Automobile Show

The Artcraft Phaeton

A new five passenger open car with new radiator design, new hood and body lines. Beauty of finish and detail that you never expected within $1,000 of its price. And with this beauty comes exceptional roominess and comfort, plus proved performance. And with this beauty comes fine leather. Very complete equipment, plus proved ing steel wheels. As fine a car as you will ever care to own—and without the extravagant size and weight that cause high prices.



The Artcraft Semi-Sedan

An entirely new Columbia body type, providing every Sedan advantage together with light weight and lower cost. Rear seat is wider than in most open cars, with lots of legroom for the tallest passenger. Front seat tilts forward. Doors are very wide—no twisting to get in and out. Instead of hanging a trunk on behind, a roomy luggage compartment is built in—more convenient and better looking. Interior finish, fittings and equipment are richly substantial, complete and artistic.

The Artcraft Sedan

New body lines, new coach work and new finish, in color combinations of rare beauty. The upholstery is heavy mohair plush—the best body cloth obtainable. Body hardware and fittings are the same type and quality as in many $3,000 closed models. Steel wheels, heater, rear-view mirror, windshield wiper, visor, locked-type robe rail, dome and parking lights are included in equipment. The Artcraft Sedan is as fine a closed car as can be built and still be a practical closed car for the average family.

COLUMBIA Six Artcraft Models are built and priced to provide the finest possible coachwork, finish and detail, together with complete comfort and unusual roominess, in a light, sturdy, compact Six at a very attractive price. Hydraulic Four Wheel Brakes are optional equipment at small extra cost. So are the new Balloon Tires.

Beneath these beautiful new bodies is the famous All-Feature Chassis—unchanged save for minor refinements, since its successful introduction over two years ago. No such recognized quality of mechanical construction has ever been offered, before or since, in a car so moderately priced.

You are invited to become better acquainted with the new Columbia Six without delay. Stop in at the showroom of the Columbia dealer nearest you. See these beautiful cars, ride in them, drive them. Decide for yourself how needless it is to pay more than Columbia prices—and how false an economy it would be to pay less.

FARM AND GARDEN

Farm Bureau Has a New Angle on Co-op Marketing

Lay Foundation by Teaching Farmers Principles of Group Selling.

BY FRANK RIDGWAY.

STEREOTYPED, nation-wide cooperative marketing plans designed to fit farmers' needs of all sizes and shapes, have been laid aside, at least for the present, by the American Farm Bureau federation's executive committee. Trying to cast all of the local coöperatives into one mold would be about as unbusinesslike as a hatter trying to fit a 6⅛ size hat on a man who ordinarily wears size 7¼.

With renewed effort the federation expects to start the ball rolling with the idea that it will enlarge just as a snowball gets larger and larger as it is rolled over in a field of moist snow. As soon as a new coöperative marketing department director can be appointed to lead the movement, the bureau men will roll up their sleeves and go out to help the farmers organize their community, county, and state selling organizations with the idea of bringing them all into a national association whenever they are ready to conduct their business on a big scale.

Help for Each Locality.

They will begin at the bottom and lay a rock foundation by teaching farmers and their children principles of group marketing that are foreign to the individual bargaining system. There are many problems in production that producers of several commodities must meet before they are able to sell collectively, and the workers of the bureau expect to take all of these things into consideration.

Fundamentally the executive committee of the farm bureau, in drafting its coöperative marketing policy, recognized that each community has its own peculiar difficulties to thrash out before it can start, and the plan is to build up a department in the head office with information that will be of value to every locality. The doors will be thrown open so that impartial service can be given to all coöperative associations, "presupposing an harmonious working relationship between the department of coöperative marketing and the department of organization in the national farm bureau."

Government Backs It.

Perhaps the most deeply rooted feature of the American Farm Bureau's attempt to play the part of the wheel horse in developing producer owned marketing machinery is that the government and the agricultural and vocational schools are backing it. The bureau's officials point out that the organization is peculiarly fitted to render an impartial and valuable service to producers, because it is able to use "all available services of the government, state and nation, and because of its contact with colleges and universities, its freedom from all political, sectarian, and other like influences."

There is a close interlocking of the farm bureau and the government through the Smith-Lever federal law which provides for the county agent system that is dovetailed into the county farm bureaus. There is also a close contact with the government through the extension work carried on by agricultural colleges. Still another friendly and effective means of fostering the coöperative movement is through the aid of the federal vocational teaching system provided for in the Smith-Hughes law.

Courses in Marketing.

Colleges, high schools, and consolidated schools are establishing courses in marketing, all a part of the big scheme to put over the producers' coöperative method of selling. The vocational schools will teach coöperative marketing to the farm boys and girls between the ages of 14 and 21; agricultural schools will teach it to boys above high school age, while county agents will work directly with farmers and their wives. There will be a practical lesson on coöperative marketing given to boys and girls who raise club calves and pigs and sell them collectively.

Sensationalism is lacking in this method of building where the aim is to develop a loyalty in communities, giving farmers a chance to study their own conditions and find out whether they have their products properly prepared for a coöperative market. It is a kind of system that is often unpopular with those who like to see big things done over night.

Assumes No Obligations.

In urging conservatism in the financing of local coöperatives, the bureau announces that its policy will be not to assume any direct financial obligations whatsoever for or on behalf of any "coöperative organizations."

TABLOID MARKETING HISTORY

Below are the various steps taken by the American Farm Bureau federation during the last four years in its attempt to lay a solid foundation upon which farmers of this country are to build a coöperative marketing system that will stand the test.

1920.

1. Originated national commodity marketing conference idea.
2. Held national grain conference, July 23 and 24.
3. Held national live stock conference, Oct. 5.
4. Held canning crop conference, Oct. 22 and 23.
5. Held wool conference, Nov. 4.
6. Appointed grain marketing committee of seventeen.
7. Established department of coöperative marketing.
8. Named permanent wool marketing committee.
9. Worked for packer regulation bill.
10. Proposed national coöperative marketing bill.
11. Fought for passage of truth-in-fabric bill.
12. Supported emergency tariff.
13. Took part in hearings on federal farm loan act.

1921.

1. Appointed farmers' live stock marketing committee of fifteen, Jan. 3.
2. Appointed, Nov. 15, first board of directors of the National Live Stock Producers' association.
3. Appropriated $10,000 to begin work of producers.
4. Appointed farmers' dairy marketing committee of eleven.
5. Employed secretary-treasurer of committee as salaried director of dairy division.
6. Backed U. S. Grain Growers, Inc.
7. Held national fruit marketing conference, April 5.
8. Appointed fruit growers' marketing committee, 1921, Sept. 1.
9. Developed coöperative wool pools in eighteen states.
10. Indorsed coöperative cotton marketing plan of the American Cotton Growers' exchange.
11. Participated in tobacco marketing conference.
12. Called a sugar beet conference.
13. Gave direct dairy marketing assistance to eighteen states.
14. Made preliminary study of coöperative poultry and egg marketing.
15. Gave special assistance in Chicago milk marketing territory.

1922.

1. Legalized coöperative marketing by securing Capper-Volstead law.
2. Maintained wool pools and secured aid in satisfactory tariff on wool.
3. Sponsored intermediate credits bill in congress.
4. Supported filled milk bill.
5. Supported single standard of 80 per cent fat for butter.
6. Worked for elimination of speculation in grain futures.
7. Protected farm products in tariff.
8. Set about reorganizing U. S. Grain Growers, Inc.

1923.

1. Rendered direct assistance in twenty-one states in marketing.
2. Helped secure uniform state marketing laws.
3. Aided dairy coöperatives in twelve states.
4. Developed national plan for marketing potatoes.
5. Aided eight states in potato campaigns.
6. Developed national plan for marketing onions.
7. Assisted in organizing Indiana Farm Bureau Onion Growers' exchange.
8. Held national egg marketing conference.
9. Appointed national egg marketing committee.
10. Fostered live stock marketing through National Live Stock Producers' association.
11. Backed up Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc.
12. Championed intermediate farm credits act.
13. Championed warehouse act.
14. Stood for Capper-Tincher grain control act.
15. Assisted in placing U. S. Grain Growers in position to market grain.
16. Held a national cabbage marketing conference.
17. Held a western sugar beet growers' conference.

Dairymen's Jottings

Dairymen in many sections have clearly demonstrated within recent years that one of the best ways to increase the size of the milk check is to improve the quality of their product. Increased consumption is made possible they find by testing herds and keeping barns and vessels clean. Lower bacterial counts soon begin to show; it doesn't take long for the consumer to find that the milk supply has been improved in his town, and there is a tendency to buy more. For example, the dairymen's association at Quincy, Ill., increased the use of milk 25 per cent in eleven months by improving the quality of milk and rendering a better service through coöperative marketing.

Farmers who have been convinced of the true value of a good sire in the breeding of live stock also have begun to find it pays to have a good rooster in the flock of chickens. It is necessary to get new blood at least every two years.

The bureau's active coöperative marketing history goes back four years. A glimpse at the record shows the constant effort made to lay a solid foundation through a study of various farm products and the request for laws, both state and national, that would make coöperative marketing legal.

Co-op Increases Price.

Farmers in Carroll county, Ill., received from 4 to 5 cents a pound more for their butter fat last year by selling it through their own organization than they were offered by local creamery stations. They sold approximately $116,000 worth of poultry, butter and eggs in 1923 through the Mount Carroll Coöperative Creamery company, Inc., which was established two years ago. This is a $30,000 increase over the first year. The company paid a 7 per cent dividend to its stockholders at the end of the year and voted a patronage dividend of ½ cent on each pound of butter fat delivered to the creamery. The dairymen brought in 160,000 pounds of butter fat during the twelve months and received an average of 46.8 cents a pound for it, or 4 to 5 cents more than the local creameries offered them. The patronage dividend amounted to about $800.

Illinois Orchards Grow.

Six hundred carloads of fruit and vegetables were shipped to ninety-eight towns in twenty states from Illinois orchards and gardens last year through the Illinois Fruit exchange, a coöperative organization of farmers with headquarters at Centralia, Ill. The products of this organization are distributed through the Federated Fruit and Vegetable Growers, Inc. Both organizations are fostered by the farm bureaus. The exchange will hold its annual meeting at Centralia Feb. 19.

Iowa's Corn Champion.

George Steen of West Liberty, Ia., is Iowa's 1923 corn breeding champion. He is winner of the fourth Iowa corn yield contest held recently at Ames under the coöperative supervision of the Iowa State college and the Iowa Corn and Small Grain association. Ninety-nine others competed for the honor. Mr. Steen won with Reid's Yellow Dent, which yielded 68.57 bushels to the acre under average farm conditions.

Back McNary-Haugen Bill.

The McNary-Haugen bill, now before congress, was indorsed by the executive committee of the Illinois Agricultural association at its last session held at the Chicago headquarters a few days ago.

Corn Belt Faces Seed Shortage

Farmers throughout the corn belt are becoming restless over the seed corn situation this spring. The unfavorable weather conditions last season resulted in cribs being filled with corn that will make poor seed. Much of the crop throughout Illinois, Iowa, Missouri, and Indiana was soft and the farmer who failed to have an early maturing field or some corn left over may expect a thin stand this spring.

L. K. Ellsberry, seed corn expert at Mason City, Ill., in a letter to THE TRIBUNE, says it is too early to say how serious the condition is, but without a doubt many Illinois farmers will have to plant inferior seed because of the low vitality of all crib corn at the present time.

The farm adviser in Mr. Ellsberry's county says he does not believe there is enough seed corn in his county for more than 10 per cent of the acreage. Similar conditions exist in other communities in this and other corn belt states.

In making germination tests for farmers in various parts of the corn growing area of the middle west Mr. Ellsberry has had an opportunity to get a closeup of the seriousness of the situation and is finding that many samples have such a low germination percentage that the corn is unfit for planting.

"Tests of two farmers' samples came from our germinator this morning; one showed a germination of 66 per cent, the other 59 per cent," he said. "It would be useless for these farmers to try to sort seed from cribs where these samples were taken. So few farmers realize the conditions that we are suggesting you give general publicity to these facts."

Mr. Ellsberry believes that the threatened seed corn scarcity could be greatly relieved if cribs of old as well as early maturing new corn were located and germination tests made. The corn that shows a germination percentage of 90 or more should be saved for seed, he said.

Cherry in Such Demand the Tree Must Grow Faster

THE establishment of wineries in homes and the constant search of orchards and vineyards for fruits that can be used in the making of beverages tend to add greatly to the popularity of the cherry in the backyard and commercial orchard. The cherry tree is called upon to produce fruit for a variety of purposes. It will not be a surprise to orchardists if there is a shortage, despite the fact that cherries are the most widely known tree fruits in the temperate zone.

There is an increased use of them in pies, as a flavor for ice cream, as a preserve in restaurants, hotels, and delicatessen shops, as well as the home. The new demand in wine making presents a problem to horticulturists. Many Europeans who now live in this country came here with a knowledge of making wine from cherries. They also distill a spirit from the fermented fruit pulp which is called "kirschwasser," or cherry water.

Speeding Up Production.

The problem begins with the nurserymen who are asked to produce a quick maturing, low growing, cherry tree that will bear in the shortest length of time within two or three years after it is set in the nursery. Two years is a long wait for the man who has his winery ready to operate, but the old fashioned method of producing cherry trees from seedlings would keep him waiting three or four years longer.

Tall cherry trees like those that once grew on the Chesapeake peninsula, with trunks bigger than the body of a draft horse and branches that shot into the air so high and wide that they fill all out of doors, requiring a fifty foot ladder to pick the fruit from the top branches, have been thrown into the discard. Producing a small tree that uses the plant food in producing fruit rather than maintaining a relatively large amount of wood is the aim of nurserymen today.

Graft Buds to Suckers.

The common method of propagating cherry trees in Europe as well as this country has been by grafting the buds on stock produced from seed. There is another method now used by a few nurserymen—the buds are grafted to stock produced from suckers cut from the roots of mature trees. While this latter method is not new it has not, until recently, attracted much interest as a system that could be used extensively in commercial growing. The great handicap to this system is the natural scarcity of suckers. Nurserymen who are using this method are gathering the suckers from orchards all over the country in order to get suckers in any quantity.

Henry C. Klehm, a nurseryman at Arlington Heights, Ill., has in his orchard twenty-seven acres of bearing cherry trees produced by grafting the buds on suckers instead of using stock produced from seed. He collects the suckers by digging them from orchards in various parts of the country. Suckers are the sprouts that spring from the roots of mature trees. A six or eight inch segment of the root is removed with the sucker when it is dug in the fall. These are set in rows and allowed to grow until the next summer and the buds are grafted on in July.

Saving Three or Four Years.

The buds may be cut from an old Richmond cherry tree, which is a common sour cherry found in almost every orchard or back yard. It is an early variety, hardy, and produces a good crop of fruit of medium size light red in color. Bud grafting is used to change the variety.

The buds remain dormant for the first year. The following March Mr. Klehm cuts off the head of the stock which stimulates the growth of the bud. The tree is grown in the nursery for two years after the head is cut off in March, and it is then ready to be transplanted in the permanent orchard. In about two years after the trees have been set in the orchard they will begin to bear, while trees produced in grafting the buds on seedlings take from five to six years to bear, according to Mr. Klehm, an official of the Illinois Nurserymen's association.

The New Club Sedan

The First Car of Its Type with Plenty of Seating Room, Leg Room, and Knee Room for Five; and Plenty of Luggage Space

Surpassingly beautiful, this new Hupmobile Club Sedan; but its far-reaching superiorities are revealed only when you open the doors.

You will be delighted to see the generosity of the seating space for five, and the leg space, especially in the rear compartment.

You get into the rear, or leave it, through the rear door, without disturbing anyone else and without squeezing, crowding or tilting a seat.

You get into the front or leave it from either side—a fixed, restful seat the full width of the car.

The trunk at the rear is big. Under the straps you can carry tent and blanket rolls for a camping tour, golf clubs, and many things not of a size to go into a trunk.

Far from the least of the satisfaction this car will give would be the fact that it is a Hupmobile, rich in all the virtues of longer life, greater reliability and lower costs for which the Hupmobile is so noted.

See this latest advance in cars of this popular type.

MASONS SEEK $5,000,000 IN TEMPLE DRIVE

More than 6,000 Masons and members of the Order of the Eastern Star are canvassing the city today for $5,000,000 to erect a new Masonic Temple building on West Randolph street, on the site now partially occupied by the Colonial theater.

Ground for the building will be broken May 1, and it will be twenty-nine stories above the sidewalk, making it one of the most imposing buildings in the loop.

Theater in Connection.

A theater will be operated in connection with the building when it is finished.

"The new structure will be one of the finest monuments in the loop," Elmer E. Beach, president of the United Masonic Temple corporation and past grand master for Illinois, who is in charge of the erection and management of the building, said yesterday. "It will be the finest fraternal building in America, will fill a long felt want, and stand as a monument to Masonry forever. The corner stone will be laid May 1."

There are 150,000 Masons in Chicago and 70,000 members of the Eastern Star. The entire membership has been allotted to the several teams, who will make a canvass of the city within the next week.

First Report Tomorrow.

Tomorrow the first report meeting will be held at the Hotel Morrison, where a huge score card has been placed to daily record the standing of the teams. Campaign leaders said yesterday that they hoped to see the $2,000,000 mark topped by Monday. More than $400,000 has already been subscribed by voluntary subscriptions, officials announced.

John F. Gilchrist, vice president of the Commonwealth Edison company, is campaign chairman, and Olof Gates, a member of Ashlar lodge of Masons, is campaign director.

Mrs. Effie Coombs Watkins, the grand matron of the Eastern Star for Illinois, and Mrs. Nettie Kenner, grand secretary of the state chapter, are leaders of the work in the women's drive. The drive will end Feb. 11.

CHICAGO'S AUTO SHOW SMASHES GOTHAM RECORDS

Chicago's twenty-fourth national automobile show closed at 10:30 last night with an attendance record for every day of its run exceeding that of the New York show this year.

Samuel A. Miles, veteran show manager, after making the first check, announced that the 1924 exposition is by far the biggest of any held in Chicago since the industry began its annual review of automotive progress. Both Thursday and Friday crowds exceeded those of any former show.

John R. Eustis, director of the fine car salon at the Drake, which closed at midnight, also reported all attendance records broken during the week.

Jewelers Seek Return of Gems Charged by Koretz

A petition to recover $16,000 worth of jewelry from Leo Koretz' receivers was filed yesterday by Lewy Brothers, State street jewelers. They allege that Koretz had an unlimited account with them, frequently taking out articles of jewelry for approval. The last things taken out were neither brought back nor returned, they say. Mrs. Koretz already has turned over two diamond bracelets to the receivers.

With outside interests taking about the same number as the fresh arrivals on the week-end hog session, making the total shipments from Chicago last week the largest in more than two years, the hog market closed on a firm basis, as high as at any time since the previous Saturday. Prices were largely 10c under a week ago, both the top for full loads, and average prices at $7.20 and $7.05 respectively at the close, standing 10c below a week ago. A short load of 297 lb fancy butchers sold to a yard trader at $7.25.

Shipping orders favored better grades of 190@220 lb averages, neglecting the lighter weight pigs at the recent decline. Mid-week losses in most branches were regained, with the spread in prices as narrow as at any time of the season. Daily top prices this week ranged at $7.05@7.35, with daily averages at $6.90@7.05.

Hog receipts last week at 287,800 were among the largest in several years, being 4,000 above previous week's arrivals, 65,300 larger than a year ago, and 56,800 above the ten year average. Shipments from Chicago at 103,600 were more than 35 per cent of the week's arrivals.

Hogs Are Coming Heavy.

The estimated average weight of hogs in Chicago last week was the heaviest of the year thus far at 223 lbs, being 3 lbs heavier than the previous week, 5 lbs lighter than a year ago, and 8 lbs above the ten year average. Last week's general hog prices were practically the lowest since the middle of December, with the week's average at $7.00 standing 10c under previous week, $1.25 lower than a year ago, and $4.15 under the ten year average.

Bearish influences in the dressed beef trade, especially the low priced pork, which curtailed the demand for cattle on hoof, naturally checked the marketward movement of stock last week. Barring holiday periods, only one week since last March was credited with fewer cattle than during the last week, when only 52,700 arrived. Shippers took more than third of the week's supply.

With nearly 8,000 fewer cattle on sale than the previous week, better grades advanced largely 25c. Butcher stock closed strong to 25c higher for the week, while bulls sold 15@25c lower, and calves unevenly $1.00@1.50 down. Commoner grades in all classes were weak. The week's average price for beef steers at $9.35 equaled that of the previous week, but was 45c above a year ago and $2.00 higher than two years ago.

Sheep Sell High.

Prices paid for aged sheep during the last week averaged $7.80, the highest average since May. Top yearlings were the highest since July at $12.10, while feeding and killing lambs sold the highest in four months' time at a top of $13.75 and $14.50 respectively. The week's average lamb price at $13.70 was 30c above that of the previous week, 20c lower than a year ago, and 60c above the ten year average.

The smallest sheep receipts since December partly offset the weakness caused by narrow outlet for dressed stock last week although only part of Thursday's decline was regained at the close. Late sales were 10@15c under the week's high time, but ruled 25@40c higher than the close of the previous week.

Receipts at Chicago for Monday are estimated at 19,000 cattle, 69,000 hogs, and 20,000 sheep, against 12,337 cattle, 86,823 hogs, and 21,643 sheep a week ago and 13,928 cattle, 43,633 hogs, and 11,957 sheep a year ago. Next week's receipts are estimated at 53,000 cattle, 260,000 hogs, and 70,000 sheep, against 54,594 cattle, 306,017 hogs, and 66,378 sheep a year ago.

More Corn Leaves Farms; Best Run in Months

Morn corn left the farms and country elevators last week than any time in months, due to advanced prices. Primary markets received 9,761,000 bu last week, or the largest arrivals at this time since 1922. With that exception, receipts were the largest for the last week in January in years. Of all grains arrivals were 20,461,000 bu, a gain of 3,721,000 bu for the week and a decrease of 1,611,000 bu from last year. Wheat receipts increased for the week, but were under last year. The run of oats were the smallest since 1921.

Chicago received 5,025,000 bu grain last week. This was 32 per cent more than the previous week and 3,000 bu less than last year. Corn receipts of 3,120,000 bu enlarged 1,176,000 bu for the week, and were 437,000 bu more than last year. Oats made a small gain for the week and a loss from last year.

CANADA OFFERS SOME LESSONS TO NEIGHBOR SAM

BY SCRUTATOR.

Politicians who have been telling American farmers that their troubles are owing to the railroads, should be asked to explain why the Canadian farmer, with government owned railroads showing deficits which make it impossible for them to be paying interest on any "watered securities," are yet complaining of high freight rates on rail and sea.

Internationalists, who have been trying to capitalize farm distress in this country by laying the farmers' ills on the tariff and our refusal to pool our finances with Europe, have filled the west with argument that the tariff duties on American farm products are fraudulent and do not protect. They should be asked to explain why Canadians complain that we have shut Canadian farmers out of our markets.

Probably we could always get a better perspective on our own problems by looking northward more often. The two countries and their peoples are so nearly alike that comparisons have far greater value than international contrasts or similarities usually possess.

Many Canadians are now urging a more consistent imitation of our tariff policy. There is no doubt that Canada's tax, revenue, debt, and market conditions can teach us a great deal. Of late we have been most interested in booms. As pointed out in this column before, Canada's new orientation on liquor is closely related to revenue problems. Her tax burden drove home the absurdity of turning government revenue over to bootleggers, while causing additional government expense by creating fiat crimes.

Provincial governments which have gone wet are enabled to ease the tax burden on industry, but this increases the spottiness of Canadian business from province to province. That a "sales tax" has been no panacea for Canada and would probably do less for us than its advocates think is suggested by the complaint of Canadian manufacturers' associations, farmers' organizations, and labor bodies against their present system, which is charged with pyramiding costs from raw material to the consumable article.

It seems that the later revisions of the tax have caused the most complaint. Originally it does not seem to have worked so badly, but, as revised, it is charged with increasing the cost of living.

Resolutions of the executive council of the Canadian Manufacturers' association declare that no other tax presents such difficulties of administration, and that it is becoming almost impossible to collect.

If it is hard to collect in Canada, what would be the condition here, where we are finding it ever more difficult to collect even an income tax, except from people on salaries subject to reports from the source?

Recent Canadian political history ought to reassure American business men who persist in ignoring our own more remote history and look upon farmer unrest as something new or revolutionary.

The radical farmer revolt in Canada seems to be passing away even before any startling improvement of the farmer's condition has set in.

It appears to have gone to a point where the farmers expected their leaders to cash in with something more substantial in the way of relief than promises. Naturally they could not make good on their implied program of something for nothing, and sentiment began to swing the other way.

The same thing is inevitable on this side of the line, but may be longer coming because in this country the farming industry was apparently inflated more by war conditions and more closely geared up to a war market than our manufacturing and transportation industries. In Canada there was probably less difference in the degrees of war inflation, and, as we have seen, the country as a whole, was burdened with as much overhead, a condition we experienced a third of a century before.

INVESTORS GUIDE

Answers are based upon information which THE TRIBUNE believes correct, but beyond care in securing it THE TRIBUNE assumes no responsibility.

Investors Must Protect Themselves.

In previous articles we have urged security holders to unite to protect their investments. The necessity of such action on the part of holders of railroad securities seemed especially imperative when the radical group in congress, headed by Senator La Follette, was attempting to force a lower valuation of railroad property in order to reduce the amount of net earnings the roads would be allowed to earn.

The danger of such a program to the investor in railroad securities as well as to business in general was obvious. With the railroads permitted to earn a limited per cent [5% per cent at that time] on their valuation, and few of them able to earn that, it was evident that, if this valuation were largely reduced, the earnings would have been insufficient to enable the roads to meet their obligations to holders of their securities.

The effect would be not only to impair the value of investments in these securities, but to impair also confidence in the safety and dependability of sound rail securities, so that the public would cease to furnish the millions necessary to maintain the roads. With the railroads crippled, the business of the entire country is bound to suffer, depending as it does so largely on the railroads to move its goods and supplies.

All branches of industry must have capital. The only way capital can be obtained is through the sale of securities to the public. If the public's confidence is shaken in the securities of any industry it will refuse to furnish the required capital, without which the industry cannot continue.

When investors unite to protect their investments they are accomplishing not only that, but are protecting also the industries which are essential to the prosperity of the country. We are glad to note that at last investors are beginning to make their views heard in congress.

If it is true that industry must have a ready market for its securities in order to raise sufficient capital to enable it to prosper, it is equally true that, if from any cause industry is prevented from prospering, the investor suffers from the impairment of his securities.

The danger of large capital being driven from productive business into tax-exempt securities through excessive surtaxes on large incomes is a serious menace to business prosperity and, so, directly concerns the investor. Investment securities suffer as the industries they represent suffer.

Investors have begun to make themselves heard in congress when they feel that their investments are being threatened. We suggest that holders of securities in all lines of industry protect their investments by writing to congress and urging fair treatment for invested capital.

COTTON MARKETS

NEW YORK, Feb. 2.—COTTON—A better tone existed with more disposition on the part of traders and the dry goods and mill interests to buy while selling pressure was more limited. Exports are large and are expected to be for some time. Liquidation has been heavy and is regarded as over, and there is more disposition to take the buying side on breaks. Closing trades were at net gains of 24 to 41 points. Prices follow:

OAK PARK—ILLINOIS
$625,000 First Mortgage 7% Serial Gold Bonds—New Issue

ONCE IN YEARS comes a First Mortgage Bond issue like this, so fine in every particular that in eighty-nine years of experience we cannot recall its superior. In fact it is one of the most desirable issues this House has ever offered.

Security: The land and building mortgaged to secure these bonds consist of the ground with a total street frontage of 532 feet and the three story and English basement building containing 111 apartments of three, four and five rooms each.

The Largest and Finest in Oak Park

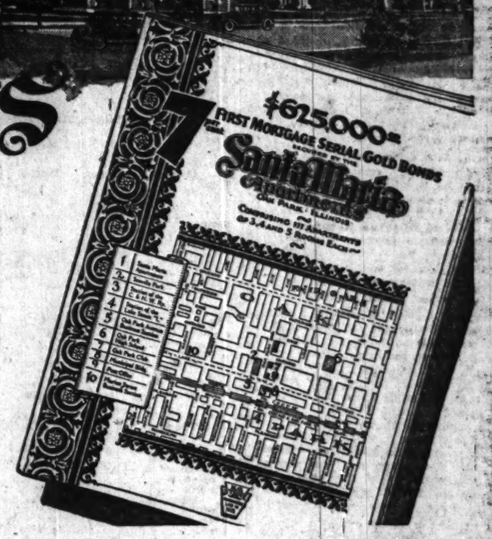
The Building: Sets a new standard for apartment buildings in beautiful Oak Park, which already has many desirable structures of this kind. In outward appearance, as our illustration shows, it will be like a great chateau of red brick and terra cotta, in the attractive and luxurious architectural style known as Flamboyant Gothic.

The suites are to be large, light and airy. The living rooms average 12 by 20 feet. Dining rooms are 12 by 17, bed rooms 10 by 14 feet.

Location: The southeast corner of Oak Park Avenue and Erie Street. In Chicago and suburbs no better apartment location exists.

Rental Income: In earnings behind the bonds this issue excels. This building will earn four times as much money as the owner will require to pay the bond interest on the entire issue, before any of the serial bonds are paid off. These earnings will also retire the serial bonds and still leave a large surplus as a margin of safety.

Bear in mind, too, that under our system these earnings are mortgaged for the bondholders just as surely as the land and building. Under the Trust Deed the owner of the property must deposit each month with H. O. STONE & CO. a sufficient portion of his earnings to pay both principal and interest to the bondholders when due.



TO SHOW what we think of these bonds, we have tried to prepare a circular worthily presenting this—our latest issue. If you think of bond literature as hard to read, "cut and dried," here is an eye-opener! Send for this and see how interesting and beautiful a bond offering can be made, how strongly it will appeal to you, whether or not you are a bond buyer. We would like to place this circular in the hands of every investor and everyone who thinks of buying a bond. It is unique. You owe it to yourself to see it.

SUPERIOR BONDS like these merit your consideration, if only to serve as your standard for future investments. For your savings and surplus now awaiting investment, we know of nothing so completely desirable.

NEW SEASON TOP FOR SEPTEMBER WHEAT IS MADE

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Heavy profit taking was on in the grain markets and caused a sharp recession after September wheat had sold at $1.10¾, a new high for the season. However, wheat finished with a net gain of ¼@¼c. Corn was off ¼@½c, oats were ½c lower to ½c higher, and rye was ½@⅝c lower.

New high levels for grain this season were made during the last week and, despite heavy profit taking, at times a good part of the upturn was maintained. Final trades as compared with those of a week ago showed wheat 2¼@3½c higher, corn up ½@⅝c, oats, ½@1½c, and rye, ¾@⅞c. Provisions were weaker, with lard 2¾@27½c; ribs, ⅞@1½c, and bellies, 5c lower for the week.

Large Trade in Wheat.

There is a steady increase in the outside interest in wheat, with much new buying in small lots in the July and September. Had it not been for the extensive week-end profit taking and evening up, the market might have done better. The undertone was firm throughout the day. May finished at $1.11¾, July at $1.10⅝, and September at $1.10⅜.

Liverpool Leads Advance.

Strength in sterling exchange more than offset the decline of ½@½d in the price of wheat in Liverpool, and that market has been showing relatively more strength than Chicago. As compared with the finish on Jan. 2, May wheat here is up 4½c, while March in Liverpool has gained 2½d, and May 4¾d.

The upturn in March abroad is regarded as striking in view of the bearish reports on the world situation. Demand for cash wheat here was less active, with premiums lower at May price to 3c over for No. 2 hard, and 1½@2¾c over for No. 2 red. A cold wave has developed in Alaska, but no material change in weather conditions in the wheat belt is expected for some days.

Longs Sell Corn Freely.

Commission house longs were free sellers of corn, which had a depressing effect, but the offerings were absorbed by a new set of bulls and May received aggressive support under 80c and closed at 80¼@80½c. July was 80%. With the exception of cables reporting a need of rain for the new Argentine crop, the situation showed little change. Country roads were reported as in bad shape owing to the mild weather and the movement from the interior is only fair. Local arrivals were 373 cars.

Oats Close Near Bottom.

Those who had attractive profits in oats were inclined to take them, owing to the liberal upture of late, and this proved too much for the commission house buying, making the finish within a fraction of the bottom, with May at 49¾ and July at 47c, but the undertone was distinctly firm.

Rye was dull and there continues to be an absence of export demand, which is needed to stimulate new buying.

Packers Sell Lard.

Packers were on the selling side of lard, which more than offset buying by houses with New York cotton all connections, and the finish was 10@17½c lower. Ribs were 7½c lower and bellies 4c higher. Liverpool lard closed 3d@1s lower. Packing of hogs at Chicago for the season to date is 3,072,000, against 2,345,000 last year. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Sales of 300,000 bu Manitoba wheat 30,000 brls Canadian flour, and 50,000 bu corn were reported at the seaboard, the wheat going largely to the United Kingdom and the flour to Hamburg. Premiums on Manitobas at the seaboard were generally 1c better.

Chicago handlers sold 35,000 bu wheat, 50 000 bu corn, and 60,000 bu oats to the domestic trade.

Buyers of cash wheat here refuse to follow the full upturn in futures, and for the week No. 2 hard was off about 2c, and at the last was quoted at May price to 5c over. No. 2 red was 1¼@2¼c and No. 3 red 1@1¼c over the future. Receipts, 34 cars. Outside markets were generally unchanged.

Offerings of cash corn were about equal to the demand and the basis here was about unchanged with No. 3 mixed 2¼c yellow, ¾@2¼c, and white, 1¼@1½c under May. Receipts, 272 cars. Outside markets unchanged to 1½c lower.

Demand for cash oats remains fairly good, with the basis unchanged at May 46 ¼c over for No. 2 white and May to ½c under for No. 3 white. Receipts, 94 cars.

WORLDS·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

Although there was week end profit taking in wheat and corn at the last, causing moderate recessions from the top prices, sentiment remains bullish, particularly on wheat while on corn it was more mixed, owing to anticipations of a liberal increase in receipts, with estimates around 500 cars here on Monday.

Spreading operations between Chicago and Winnipeg wheat markets, with purchases here and sales in the northwest, widened the premium for Chicago May wheat over Winnipeg to 5¼c. There is some talk of it going to 10c. As the spread widens the interest in the trading apparently increases.

The red book, issued by Howard Bartels & Co., publishers of the Daily Trade Bulletin, is out for 1923. It has all the important grain and crop statistics for the last year, with interesting comparisons.

Those bullish on corn are not scared at the prospects of a larger movement for the time being, regarding it as not likely to last more than a week or so, and possibly not that long. Those who led the buying on Friday were less active yesterday, while the selling was a little more aggressive.

"Country offerings of corn were reported somewhat liberal," said Jackson Bros., "with the bulk coming from Illinois and northwestern points. Missouri river markets also had a fair increase in receipts. Corn acts draggy, and so long as receipts continue liberal and the off grades meet an indifferent demand, the market undoubtedly will encounter increased selling pressure on bulges."

A good sized line of wheat was sold in Minneapolis yesterday by the North Dakota and Montana farmers' pool. It had a weakening effect on that market. Some had it that a large line of Canadian wheat had been sold there.

"A record of exportable surplus of grain is expected, with prices slightly better than last year," says an Argentine cable to Kinsell's News. The Argentine minister of agriculture in a forecast of the crops estimates wheat at 7,057,000 tons, linseed 1,606,000 tons, oats 1,100,000 tons, barley 275,000 tons, and rye 115,000 tons. Late cables say the corn crop has had insufficient rains.

WANTED A MAN

with the following qualifications:

At least one year bond sales experience.

Under thirty years of age.

A self-starting, persevering worker.

Willingness to work long hours when an issue is "breaking."

Such a man can make a valuable connection with a large, financially responsible company, in active association with bond houses and banks; at a salary and commission limited only by his ability. Not bond selling or advertising, but a line kindred to both.

Give full particulars—your letter will be treated in strictest confidence.

The New York Times.

New York, Feb. 2.—[Special.]—The further advance of sterling exchange was the outstanding movement on today's financial markets. The rate got to $4.36⅛, an advance of 13⅝ cents over the previous week's closing and of 18 cents over the low point of January.

For this somewhat violent recovery in the last two weeks the explanation is that sterling had fallen 19 cents since the general election of December and 30 cents since October, wholly on rumors or predictions which have been unfulfilled. The franc again failed to move up today with sterling, which probably illustrated again the interesting position of the speculation in that stock.

Stocks Dull and Steady.

Transactions on the stock exchange today were the smallest of any Saturday but one in 1924, and as a rule the day's movement of prices was negligible. Even the "oil stocks" reacted quietly, notwithstanding the greatly increased tension at the inquiry in Washington. There was an incidental movement, highly speculative, in the low priced shares of certain less prosperous railways. This presumably was based on the talk of congressional pressure for consolidation of the weak roads with the strong. This, however, had no effect on the general market.

Comparison of today's closing stock market prices with the closings of the week before gives a curiously confused picture, net advances for the week of 3 or 4 points occurring side by side with net declines of similar proportions.

Bond Prices Show Strength.

The bond market, on the other hand, shows a great predominance of net advances, running in good securities to 2 and 3 points. Such strength of investment securities is natural in the period after the "January disbursements."

The striking feature of today's weekly statement of the New York clearing house banks was an increase of $76,276,000 in loans and of $130,193,000 in net demand deposits. Time deposits decreased $35,287,000. A surplus of $3,211,000 has replaced last week's deficit of $10,124,000 in reserve. Details of the statement, with comparisons, follow:

MID-CONTINENT CRUDE OIL GETS ANOTHER BOOST

Bartlesville, Okla., Feb. 2.—A new price of $1.15 a barrel for oil of less than 39 degrees gravity was announced today by the Prairie Oil and Gas company, an increase of 25 cents. Other companies immediately posted a similar price. At the same time a change was announced in the grading of oil by which the scale was reduced 3 degrees, making the range from below 39 degrees to 39 degrees. Five grades intervene between the extremes and the price varies from $1.15 to $2.00 a barrel, as against $1.15 to $1.75 previously.

Texas Oil Also Boosted.

Corsicana, Tex., Feb. 2.—Mexia and Corsicana crude oils were advanced 25 cents per barrel by the Magnolia Petroleum company here today. Under the new rate Corsicana light and Mexia crude are posted at $1.85 per barrel and Corsicana heavy $1.60. The Humble Oil and Refining company also posted an increase of 25 cents a barrel for Currie, Powell and Mexia. The range of prices for crude oil now is $1.15 to $2.00.

"Don't Worry, Daddy, I Can Get the Jewett in Here Nicely"

WOMEN, and men, too, like the convenient size of the New Jewett Six. Jewett tucks itself into handy places that bulkier cars must pass up; converts parking problems into parking opportunities. Its wheel turns easily, thanks to ball-bearing steering spindles.

The New Jewett's tremendous power comes from its big 50 h. p. Paige-built motor. Cylinders are 3¼x5, giving 249 cubic inches piston displacement. This is 40 per cent more than some "light" sixes. An ocean of power is yours in the New Jewett! And it stays quiet because the motor is high-pressure-oiled, like the big Paige and other top quality cars. Two gallons of oil per minute are forced through all main bearings and connecting rod bearings.

A Sturdy Six

Jewett is not a "light" six. Touring car weighs 2805 pounds—400 pounds more than "light" sixes. It has Paige-Timken axles, front and rear; all-steel universal joints; 6-inch-deep frame.

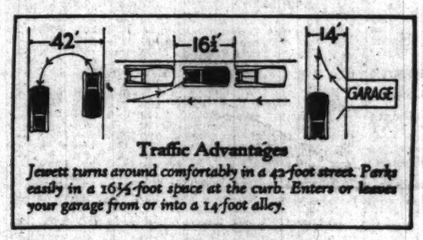
In spite of Jewett's extreme weight and strength, its ample power gives it the advantage in power for weight. Power for weight governs performance. Jewett has a cubic inch of motor displacement for every 11¼ pounds of weight. In certain "light" sixes each cubic inch of motor must pull 13.5 pounds—13.7—12.8—14.3—not one but will be sluggish compared with Jewett.

Match This Performance!

This advantage in power for weight accounts for Jewett's amazing performance. Drive it from 2 to 60 miles an hour, or more, in high; take most any hill in high; pick up from 5 to 25 miles an hour in 7 seconds, in high. Try that with any other car!

The New Jewett Six is unique. In all the world no car like this. It's true. Jewett combines mechanical superiorities and advantages no other car possesses. It is approached only by cars costing $700 to thousands more—and then at the sacrifice of convenience and economy. For Jewett sells for but $1065.

Drive the Jewett. Let your wife drive it. Women love its easy-acting clutch, its easy gear changing. Come in today.



Traffic Advantages

Jewett turns around comfortably in a 42-foot street. Parks easily in a 16½-foot space at the curb. Enters or leaves your garage from or into a 14-foot alley.

How Jewett Six Compares With Costlier Cars

Eleven well-known larger sixes have smaller motors than Jewett. Their prices are $1535, $1790, $1185, $1650, $1675, $1795, $1495, $1335, $1485, $1295, $1590. To get a car the equal of Jewett's power for weight you have but two choices—one car costing $420 more, another costing $685 more, than Jewett—these choices, or $5000 cars.

Furthermore, no other six under 119 inches wheelbase weighs as much as Jewett. To buy a car equalling Jewett's weight for length, equalling Jewett's 249 cu. in. motor, and equalling Jewett's power for weight—all the world offers you but four choices—a Paige—a car at $1750—a car at $5000—a car at $7000.

Grown-up Modes Interpreted for Growing-up Girls

by Corinne Lowe

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—No, the clothes line is not drawn tightly between 4 and 40! Both ages share equally in the new fabrics, the up to date trimmings, the novel details of cut which fashion has decreed for a particular season. And in the race for simplicity it is doubtful which contestant wins—grandma or 6 year old Anne. Certainly the former is burdened by no handicap.

As an evidence of our changed conception of the best method of clothing the younger generation, one need look no farther than the models displayed on this page. What an abyss of sentiment yawns between these frocks and coats and those lumpy plaids which, with their accompanying penalties of pigtail and pinafore, were imposed upon our own innocent childhood! Yet, although these models drawn here are full of the variety of effects borrowed from adult modes, although they defeat so thoroughly our old impulse to make every little girl look exactly like her next door neighbor, they conflict not at all with that hallowed theory, "Children should never be overdressed."

At the left we find, first of all, a delightful little frock of tan kasha, designed for the girl of from 5 to 9. Nothing could illustrate more ably our renunciation of that horror of the '80s and '90s, the wool frock with the skirt gathered on to the waist in great chunks of material. That the child of this age is quite apt to be chunky herself, and that she should wear clothes to minimize rather than intensify this effect, is recognized in the straight line cut now sponsored so universally. But here behold how the straight line is diversified!

To start with, the back of the dress moves around to the left side, where it is held by two buttons. To balance this effect, on the other side occurs an impressive pocket heading a group of plaits. Thus, of course, we demonstrate that the amiable adult habit of making our dress take sides is not prohibited for the younger sister. Indeed, many of the juvenile modes designed for spring show this contrast between left and right. To define the pockets of this model is used the same brown and tan plaid wool material which forms cuffs and collar and lines the jaunty cape. This cape, by the way, is detachable.

To keep silk alpaca from children would, naturally, be as cruel as to keep them practicing at the piano an hour and five minutes instead of an hour. From the moment when the world of fashion became preoccuped with this fabric little girls have been participating in all its benefits, and it has been used notably in the popular boyish two piece frocks. These frocks for spring come not only in the dark tones but in numerous vivid colors—Lanvin green and yellow being especially favored. They show the customary white linen collars and cuffs, leather belt, and silk tie. Many mothers prefer this type of frock in silk alpaca rather than in the jersey or kasha jersey which is so often employed. Right now let it be said, too, that the boyish two piece garment is stressed constantly in all collections for the girl of from 6 to 16.

Silk alpaca is exploited with particular fervor for girls' spring coats. Second from the left we show a wrap of this fabric for her of from 6 to 12. The shade employed is Lanvin green, with which contrast the white pipings on pockets, cuffs, and two tier cape. This white is of the crepe de chine used for the lining.

For a girl of identical age is the saucy little short unbelted jacket which we show next. This is composed of a soft wool material in cocoa tint, through which runs a broken stripe of dark brown. The scarf collar renders unnecessary any attempts at trimming, and the simplicity of the wrap is echoed by a smart cloche of tan felt encircled by brown suede. This cloche matches exactly in tint a tan velours straight line frock which is trimmed from neck line to hem with a band formed by appliqued brown suede. Such appliqued effects are more popular than ever before in the realm of children's clothes, and the range of their selection embraces almost every fabric. It goes without saying, however, that the novelty of suedine applique on voile has not escaped the watchful eye of the child's designer.

For the little summer frock that fits into almost every hour and every occasion voile still remains a favorite. Voile, however, is nowadays almost as sophisticated as the child's mode itself. There are the tissue weaves with a cluster of dots, the dropstitch kind, the printed variation, and the ratine voiles. For the adornment of the more elaborate type of dress in this material lace is often chosen, and lately I have noted quite a great deal of the ecru tint. This looks especially well with green, which, by the way, is used more extensively than ever in the fashioning of the small belle's wardrobe.

I do not care for lace on children's clothes nearly so much as I do for some other types of trimming. This prejudice of mine does not, needless to say, extend to the party frocks of net and batiste, for these depend upon lace, embroidery, and all sorts of elaborate handwork. For the simple morning or afternoon frock, however, it seems to me that smocking, hemstitching, or some use of contrasting material possesses infinitely more charm.

Typical of that simplicity of trimming found in the models shown by the best children's specialty shops is the pink voile third from the right. This binds each tier of the skirt and each fold of the bertha with white organdy and adds yet another tint in the blue belt of grosgrain ribbon. It is unnecessary to say that tiers are just as vital a part of juvenile modes as they are of grownup ones. And as for the bertha, this detail is ubiquitous. More fitful in their appearance, but none the less firmly entrenched in fashions for girls, are such features as apron fronts, godets, and all sorts of panels.

The model I have just described is for the girl of from 8 to 14. She who is the beneficiary of the model to the extreme right is from 10 to 14. This frock is also of voile, but it is destined for the more elaborate occasions. An afternoon garden party or the usual summer evening festivity—such dress-up times the designer had in mind when he hemstitched and feather stitched in yellow an exquisite quality of white voile. As are quite a few of the dressy models for the growing girl, this one is unbelted, and its straight line is broken only by the dainty ruffles bound in the yellow grosgrain ribbon which drops its long streamers from the left shoulder.

Of course, the girl's type must be considered quite as conscientiously as that of her older sister. For example, this last mentioned frock would never do on the thin child—the kind who, in the novels, always grows up so radiantly beautiful. For her one would select some of the charming models for evening wear which repeat in their tulle or taffeta the snug little bodice and full skirt of the adult mode. I have seen such models for girls of not more than 8 or 10, and the result is more than a mere slavish imitation of the grownup fashions. It is really adorably quaint and pretty.

Now, as during past seasons, the backbone of the wardrobe for the girl of from 4 to 16 is the simple little frock of linen, chambray, or gingham. This is usually made with white linen collars and cuffs, and finished with smocking. This type of handwork has outlasted any novelty of elaboration, and wherever one sees the children of rich and fashionable New York one observes a whole-hearted devotion to smocking.

Black smocking is practiced a great deal. In this connection I recall a frock of lavender and white gingham seen not long ago. It was smocked in black, and the ebon note was echoed in buttonholing which finished short sleeves, round neck line, and hem.

And, by the way, while we are speaking of gingham, there is a great deal of jazzing-up of that familiar childhood theme. Among the novelties observed nowadays are ginghams with a ratine check.

Practically all frocks of linen, gingham, and chambray belong to the tailored ilk. They turn their backs on such frills and furbelows as apron fronts, panels, and tiers, and leave to the lighter tissues, such as voile and batiste, the meringue of feminine fancies. Two piece effects are, as I have said, constantly sought in such tailored models, and these are developed either with the aid of leather belt or of the band about the blouse. Sometimes the latter is laced, as is also the skirt, with contrasting color.

For the small girl, bloomers retain the devotion based on years of experience with the superiority of this item over the skirt which it supplanted. Nowadays bloomers are sometimes incorporated even with dressy little models of taffeta, and in this case they receive touches which identify them with the accompanying skirt.

The spring suit for her of from 12 to 16 is a faithful replica of the boyish model which has scored such a success with her older sister. And for the shirtwaist accompanying it one may find a youthful version of the familiar shirt bosom model.

THE POTTERS

by J. P. McEvoy

PROLOGUE.

Pa Potter has acquired a new importance around the house . . . as foreman of the jury in the Johnson-Smiggs breach of promise suit, he is possessed of much juicy information which he is sworn not to discuss . . . the Sphinx was never more sphinxer than Pa, despite Ma's insistent and almost piteous curiosity . . . meanwhile Pa's job at Rankin's, as coördinator of all the warring departments, is being held open for him; and Mamie is madly rushing the preparations (and expenses) of her marriage with Red . . . well, that's the way it is in this comical world: if it isn't one darn thing, it's something worse.

SCENE I.

The Potter living room. Paw has finished worse than usual in the nightly free-for-all for the evening paper . . . Ma is reading the reports of the trial aloud to Pa, who, mindful of his oath, is trying not to listen; Bill is bedeviling the interminable radio; Mamie is waiting for Red—she might just as well get in practice now, while Junior is listening with pained amasement to the results of Bill's radio engineering . . . all in all, a happy family group, especially if you do not happen to belong.

RADIO (after a few preliminary screeches):
Ya-aah ya-aah, woo-ooo waaaaa eeeeeee bluk bluk!

BILL (excited):
Listen, Pa, I'm getting Texas.

"Take a little interest in your child when he asks you something."

PA (listlessly):
Sounds like somewhere else to me.

RADIO (out of nowhere):
And little Johnny Tortoise said, "Hello, Jimmy Rabbit," and Jimmy Rabbit said, "Hello, Johnny Tortoise," and then what do you suppose Johnny Tortoise said, dear children?
(At this point five hundred thousand children fall asleep.)

JUNIOR (without enthusiasm):
Who Jimmy Rabbit, daddy?

PA (wearily):
How do I know? Why the devil aren't you in bed long ago?

MA (mechanically):
Take a little interest in your child when he asks you something, why don't you? Listen to this. (Reads.) "'I loved him, I loved him. I loved him,' sobbed Miss Johnson bitterly, and the tears bedewed her lovely eyes." Is she really pretty, Pa?

PA (too old a bird to be caught with such chaff):
Naw, I don't think so. I guess not. I didn't notice. Anyway, I told you I can't discuss the trial with anybody, not even you.

MA (bridling):
There must be something back of all this so-called secrecy of yours. Looks pretty strange to me. Looks to me like——

RADIO (in maddening paternal accents):
And then what do you suppose Johnny Tortoise said to Gertie Gartersnake, dear children? (One million more children turn over in their innocent white cribs . . . happy souls; of such is the Kingdom.) I will tell you what Johnny Tortoise said . . . bzzzaah blah blah whingggg!

BILL (excited):
Listen, Pa, I'm going to try for Minneapolis now.

PA (bewildered):
Well, whathadevil do you want me to do about it? Give you a kiss when you get it? Give me a rest!

MA (gloatingly):
Listen to this, Pa. (Reads, oblivious to Pa's protests.) "My Great Big Beautiful Sheik."

MAMIE:
That's good!

BILL:
Yes, yes, go on.

MA (reading juicily):
"I am cuddled here, all alone in our big chair, hungering to be in your arms. I can see our little love nest just as I will fix it up for you, with a big comfy davenport in front of the fireplace and a big chair for you to sit in and smoke and read, and a little chair for me, where I can sit and sew and look at you evenings."

BILL:
Har! har! that's good! Yes, she will!

MAMIE (chagrined):
That's the very way I planned our living room, Red and I.

PA (aroused):
You did!

MAMIE:
I sure did. She copped my idea, that's what she did.

BILL:
Dear sister, you must pray every morning never to have an idea. It would give you congestion of the brain.

MAMIE:
Is that so?

BILL:
There! The brilliancy of that last comeback proves it. "Is that so?" How clevah!
(Oh, for a Nobel prize, to be given each year to the sister who has exterminated the most pestiferous brother!)

MA (savoring the words lusciously):
"And we'll have a snooky little sun parlor with natural reed furniture. I hate those stained things, don't you?"

MAMIE (astounded):
Just what Red and I were saying!

PA (half to himself):
Maybe Red is one of those Smiggs guys. I'll give that fellow twenty years, if I can. Teach 'im a lesson, luring sweet, innocent girls with promises of marriage and then deserting them, right at the altar, you might say.

MAMIE (incredulously):
You don't mean to tell me you think Red is like this Smiggs? Ugh! what a name!

BILL (oracularly):
Y'never can tell. Boys will be boys. And, anyway, how do you expect to keep Red under the ether all your life? You better marry him before he wakes up.

MAMIE:
I wonder how you'd look once with your mouth shut.

PA (wearily):
I think this whole family would look better for trying it a while.
(Certainly a great cosmic truth, phrased with epic simplicity.)

SCENE II.

The furniture department . . . living rooms, bedrooms, dining rooms, all huddled in shining disorder, waiting to be born . . . imagine the furniture stork, who must choose between the Louees and the Chippendales and the sturdy Windsors (be careful there, brother, don't sit down so sudden on it), the vastly over-overstuffed, the penitential Missions, each hard angle good for the customary seven years and seven quarantines . . . and here come Mamie and Red, babes in the polished wood, so to speak . . . No, that one isn't so good.

RED (to polite salesman whose voice has one of those golden oak finishes . . . why girls leave home . . . why chauffeurs shoot hosts . . . just a real good voice):
We want to furnish up a flat.

MAMIE:
A tiny one, the size of that.
(Indicates model furnished apartment, which exactly duplicates all the other model furnished apartments in the world . . . this is better known as "quiet conservatism in taste" . . . all right, pass.)

SALESMAN (waving hands magically and speaking in throaty tones):
If it's furniture you're seeking,
If it's furniture you crave,
Honest style and work enduring
From the cradle to the grave,
We have honest wood and workmen,
We have sturdy goods with snap
For the woman who knows just what she wants
And the keen, home making chap.
(So far, so good . . . Mamie obviously impressed . . . she is one of "the women who know just what they want.")

"A tiny one, the size of that."

"I'll give that fellow twenty years, if I can."

and yet only with the greatest difficulty can distinguish between something awfully simple and something simply awful.)

Now, here's a lovely mahogany suite,
Chiffonier, dresser, and beds, complete,
For only one thousand and——

MAMIE: Yes, but, you know,
Our flat has an in-a-door . . . isn't it so?

RED (taking cue):
Oh, yes; and the dresser is built in, too.

SALESMAN (breathing heavily):
But your dining room, now . . . here's something quite new—
China closet, table, chairs, and buffet—
For——

MAMIE: But we won't need all that, at least not right away,
We've only a breakfast nook, simple and cute,
And the table's built in, and the cabinets, to boot.

SALESMAN (wildly . . . it was not like this in the olden days . . .):
But your living room . . . here is a wonderful suite,
With davenport, arm chair, and rocker, complete;
And here's some bookcases, they're really quite new——

MAMIE:
They're nice, but they've built in our bookcases, too,
And such great big pieces would crowd our small space—
We'll have a real tiny but comfortable place.

SALESMAN (desperately):
Can I sell you a table for the kitchen?

MAMIE (brightly):
Why, no; you see, that's built in, too, and the kitchen cabinet 'neverthing. (Salesman passes out.)

(And that's that—until next Sunday.)

RECOVERING THE GOLDEN GLINTS IN YOUR HAIR

It May and Should Be Done Without Acquiring Artificial and Sophisticated Shades

"I AM a blonde. My hair is getting darker all the time. What can I do to keep it light?"

Daily I hear that plea for the recovery of the golden gleam of youth! One of the saddest of the seven stages of woman is when an old childhood friend trips her up on sweet old recollections, with a "My, but your hair has got much darker. It used to be such a heavenly flaxen blonde."

The other six sad epochs, it may be remarked in passing, are when a half dozen of the friends of your teens and the less triumphantly inject a merry tone into "My, how fat you are getting!" it requires a stout heart, indeed, to answer that with a "O, Min, I am awfully glad to see you." A rounded figure doth not the heart make stout!

This is an aside, merely.

Back to the golden era of youth and hair.

The small flaxen haired miss in your home, or she of the daffodil curls, or the one with light amber tresses, is due for a more marked change in hair color in later years than the "bricktop," the Titian, the brown haired, the mouse dyed or the varying shades of black locked little women. It is nature's way. Why, we know not. Except that every seven years we all possess new hairs, new skin, with the process of renewal so gradual we are not cognizant of it until one day we look in the mirror and discover all is not gold that glittered in its youth.

But we cannot ask too much of nature. We cannot expect to revel eternally in the golden halo of early youth. One can do a certain amount to stay the processes of time. But you can't stop the hands altogether. A deliberate attempt to thwart old nature's game gives us the pitiable picture of a 40 year old face under a head peroxided to compete with a 15 year old natural blonde.

Shampoo Most Important.

However, a blonde may still remain a blonde, but should never hope to be the little fairy she once was in the home.

No other shade of hair requires quite so much attention as to cleanliness. None requires greater care in shampooing. Nor in the choice of soap used. Soaps strong in alkali will damage the color as it will no other shade of hair.

In the shampooing a good pure soap or shampoo should be used, and when one is discovered that is right for the hair, it is the brand to cling to.

In the shampooing of any colored hair, first reduce the soap or shampoo, if you use a prepared one, to liquid form. Even with the shampoos on the market it is usually necessary to bring the water to a boil in order to dissolve the soap particles thoroughly, even though the shampoo box fails to give these instructions. Two washings with soap and water and three or four rinsings are invariably necessary to free the hair of every particle of dirt and grease. This is particularly true of the blonde one. And the rinsings to get every bit of soap out are urgent. I recommend from personal experience the use of a spray for the rinsings and that the water be fairly warm and used until there could possibly be no doubt but that the scalp and hair are immaculately clean.

For any of the varying shades of light hair, a final rinse in camomile tea is recommended. You can buy a package for 10 cents. Take half of this small package and cover it with boiling water and let simmer for five minutes. Strain off and add to the last rinsing water.

Cautious About Peroxide.

Recently I met a young woman of Swedish extraction, well on in her twenties, who has preserved that lovely blondness characteristic of the race. She informs me that after washing her hair thoroughly, always having used a good castile soap, she rinses it finally in water to which this preparation is added: One-half teaspoonful ammonia, one tablespoonful of vinegar, three drops of peroxide, and the juice of one-half lemon. Be remarkably cautious about the peroxide—not to let it exceed the couple of drops. My informant has been using this for years now and there is no hint of that ugliness that excessive peroxide gives.

A tablespoonful of vinegar added to the rinse water is recommended for the red head to bring out the high lights.

Borax, which is frequently used by blondes in the hope of preserving the purity of its shade, is not advised because its frequent use gives the hair a strawish texture, like excessive use of peroxide.

Do It with Eggs.

Unless the blonde one's hair is very oily, which requires soap and hot water, and one's financial rating will permit, the egg shampoo is an excellent method of shampooing. No soap at all is used with this. Even with eggs at 60 cents a dozen it is not such an extravagance if the beauty of the hair is thus preserved, do you think? You take six or eight eggs, beat both white and yolk together and thoroughly. Wet the hair in warm water and be careful in this shampoo to use only warm water, not hot. If the water is too hot the egg sticks to the hair. After wetting the hair, rub the egg over the top pretty generously and scrub it well into the scalp and through the hair.

Instead of sticking the head into the bowl keep adding water from it to the head slowly, not to dissolve the egg lotion until the hair is well rubbed. Then rinse thoroughly. This makes the hair light and fluffy, and is recommended for red heads and gray haired persons as well as the silvery and golden blondes.

I remember a couple of years ago meeting a girl about 18 who possessed the most gorgeous blonde head of hair I have ever seen. Her mother told me she had always shampooed her daughter's hair and had never used anything but this egg shampoo upon it.

For the white haired woman who would have that distinctively lovely clarity of tone the touch of bluing is best. The French bluing is the better thing to use. And the water should be no bluer than a clear sky blue. If too much is added to the rinse water it gives a stringy look, an uneven whiteness.

Haste and Hot Irons.

And here is a tip for the white haired and the gray haired woman: If you have your hair marcelled, demand that the iron be not too hot. Often you will see such heads of hair quite well groomed, but with yellowish tinges to the hair, which are invariably given by a hot iron in the hands of an operator in a hurry to get the woman out of the chair and the next customer in. Another thing is not to let the strands of hair about to enter the jaws of the curling iron be twisted or rolled. Let the hair be taken straight by the iron.

There are many beauty parlor people who have built up reputations on the excellent materials they use and the care they give the individual. But, unfortunately, with the high rents and labor costs, work has to be hurried in many, and there is used materials that work the quickest rather than the best. Know what kind of stuff goes into the shampoo liquid that goes on to your head. Some of these conscienceless places boil up the cheapest soaps and add ammonia or borax or other softeners to the preparation, regardless of the need of the individual head.

Black haired persons should never use a preparation with ammonia in it. A good, pure soap and warm water is all they require. Ammonia, it must be remembered, has bleaching power, and when used on blonde hair has to be used gingerly and with ingredients which counteract.

Now about henna. I don't know who is responsible for the red movement in this country, unless it is the pure discontent and restlessness of the times. But why any one with the complexion of entirely different species wants to put herself to the test of a henna pack is beyond me. So rampant is the red urge that one is asked as a simple matter of course, in a number of beauty institutions, if one wants the henna touch. And it is recommended often with utter disregard to the individual face and consequences.

The Red Movement.

However, I suppose if I had not been born under the red lantern myself I would be following the leader with the same disregard for a harmonic whole. I do quite as foolish things in other directions. So why should I appoint myself crown dictator? My argument is, however, that black hair or blonde hair in itself is beautiful. Light brown hair and dark brown hair are equally lovely when eyes and skin are their perfect natural complements. It is mixing the breeds that makes the mongrel. In the series I ran on the twelve most beautiful women in America recently, only two out of the twelve were red headed. The others were blondes, brunettes, light brown haired, and dark brown haired. So why the henna urge?

If there is one time when you want to know what is being applied to your scalp, it is when the pack or rinse is suggested to you or invited by you.

The rinse really is not bad if the henna preparation is free from mineral dye; but that is something you want to be sure of. In fact, the pure henna leaves steeped, the liquid applied to the hair and scalp, is known to be of certain restorative value. It gives a gloss, and if the color is diluted to be the shade of blonde or red hair of the individual, I should advise it where toning up seems necessary. Only, however, when there is no detrimental dye added.

Henna is a distinctly red preparation in its pure stage. To match up with black hair or other distinctive shades it has to be treated. And in all fairness it must be said, too, that there are treatments that are legitimate. Unfortunately not all are, and that is why you get that hard, sophisticated tinge with not infrequently a purplish glow, ruinous to any complexion. Another thing about using henna rinses and packs with disastrous effect is that it is not infrequently used after a shampoo with soap strongly alkaline, and also when the hair has not been thoroughly rinsed.

Beauty Answers

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY

What's your beauty ill? Too fat? Too thin? Shy on hair? Oily hair, oily skin, freckles, pimples, or blackheads? Flat chested or flat footed? Write to me. I have a tonic, a diet, or a set of exercises for what ails you, and you're welcome to them and to all the advice I can give you. If you wish a personal reply send a stamped, addressed envelope. Address Antoinette Donnelly, The Tribune, Chicago.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

JESSICA: WANT A SAMPLE diet for a day? To help you make up your mind to reduce? You know the old story about the mind half made up and how it gets you nothing? Well, anyway, if you don't like this one, it isn't as though I cannot give you some others if you are one of the kind who has to be coaxed along into a more youthful figure:

BREAKFAST.

Grapefruit or orange juice
Poached egg on dry toast
Coffee with boiled milk; no sugar

LUNCHEON.

One bowl of vegetable salad [combination]; toss with vinegar dressing; if you must use oil, then very little.
Bran muffin
Tea with lemon. A baked apple if still hungry. No cream

DINNER.

One bowl broth; broiled steak; string beans; spinach; [any two green vegetables you wish to substitute]
Sliced oranges or stewed or baked apples or pears or fruit compote.
Demi tasse

Not so hard to take, do you think?

MUCH OBLIGED: SPARE TIRES that's what they call those great rolls of fat which bulge over the corset and under the arms. And you do not spare 'em, can't you? Here is an exercise to begin with: Stand erect with arms extended full length from the shoulders. Describe circles with hand and arms; small ones at first, increasing their width until you have a wide one. Do this ten times. Start the backward movement of hand and arm for the first ten. Then relax a minute or two. Begin with 2 forward movement. You will feel a pull in the muscles underneath the fat, and if they groan it is only because you think it about time some one lifted their burden. I have a couple of other exercises I would like to have you send for with a s. a. e. But in the meantime do this religiously, and several or three times a day. You don't need to be afraid of a blowout. You may be sore, but what's a little thing like that if you can let your arms hang gracefully one of these days?

HARRY: WEAR WARM SOCKS and loose shoes. Keep your feet dry. If you get your feet chilled, do not warm them over a radiator or by a fire. Wash the feet nightly in cold water, rubbing them while in the water so as to get up a glow. Dry with a soft cloth. Grease them well. Some people use kerosene for chilblains. Some apply simple grease. Some use 2 per cent salicyclic ointment. The essential is thorough greasing. Or plunge the feet frequently into cold water containing salt or a little ammonia, or bathe with kerosene oil. Dry thoroughly and rub gently. Dust with talcum powder. Do not wear woolen socks, and keep away from heat. Paint with two coats of iodine, allowing the first coat to dry before applying second. Or wash the feet in a warm solution of washing soda; dry; paint the affected area with a mixture of two parts beeswax and three parts olive oil.

H. D.: DANCING LESSONS WOULD help tremendously. I should take them, if I were you. Then, too, for weak ankles I have a set of exercises I would ask you to send for with a stamped, addressed envelope. Do them, in addition to the dance steps.

THIRTY: ONE THING SURE IS if you do not do some kind of exercise and do it daily, not spasmodically, after you are 30 you cannot retain the mental and physical efficiency and compete with youth. The business failures in either sex, as a rule, are those who overlook the importance of this daily rejuvenation. Men and women who are let out to make room for younger competitors are those who have lost the zest of youth with the added years. In this day and age, this is a totally unnecessary and inexcusable loss. I have a set of exercises called "My Youth Preserver," which I should recommend to you and to every business woman—particularly those who do sedentary work—to be done every single day to help you in maintaining the efficiency—both physical and mental—demanded of the worker. Send s. a. e. for it, won't you please?

Stomach Comfort for Good Eaters

No Sour Risings, Gassiness, Heartburn and Distress of Indigestion if You Follow Meals with Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets.

Smiley-Wileys

Owing to the enormous popularity of the SMILEY-WILEYS, we are increasing the prizes. Every one that is printed in The Tribune will win a prize, the amounts to be as follows:

First, $10; second, $5; third, $3; fourth, $2, and $1 for every additional one we publish.

A SMILEY-WILEY is just a little two-line jingle, two lines that rhyme and that make people laugh. You can write one. If you never have, try. If you have, and it hasn't been printed, try again.

Write about anything you like. Just make it funny and catchy. Address SMILEY-WILEYS, The Tribune, Chicago. No manuscripts returned.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

Every Gray Hair a Sign Post of Age

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantage of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhance its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Either prepare the recipe at home or get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," which is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of folks recommend this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully; besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it, drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two; its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Few Gray Haired Spanish Women

Women of Spain have glorious hair, radiant, glossy and luxuriant. Seldom do you see a young gray head.

AU REVOIR—NOT GOOD-BY.

SOMEWHERE IN FRANCE.

MY Dearest: It is dark—the darkest night we have had since we've been here. It's so dark that the rays of the lantern by which I am writing here in this little dugout seem constantly to fight a losing battle against the overwhelming darkness.

And yet it is light when I close my eyes—light as the afternoon of a June day, with the sun shining on the red of an old station, in the midst of the green of a world young once more with the summer. For on an afternoon in June, a soft, sweet day in that most lovely of all months, my every thought is centered. Yes, on the sight, beloved, of the loveliest girl in the world, as she stood smiling bravely through her tears, with a light in her eyes which told the man who was leaving her that he was taking with him a big and perfect love—the center of her being. Ah, the sweetness of that picture, the beauty of that girl, as she stood bravely facing that farewell.

weeping softly, yet smiling, as if to show the world that she was fully as brave as the man who was bidding her good-by.

The emotion of it came over the man as he watched her. He marveled at the wonder of it all—that so divine a creature should have given him her heart.

Darling, we go over the top tonight. It will be my first experience, but I am not afraid. For since that June day it has come to me more and more clearly that death cannot part us. A love as strong as ours can never be blighted by mere physical parting.

I must go, dear. My darling, I pray I may live to return to you, and yet if in this battle I fall I thank God that it will be with the confidence that you will be brave through it all; that you will not feel our love has been lost; that you will feel, as I do, that the years of waiting will but enhance our meeting in heaven.

Do you remember how I used to sing to you, "When You Come Back"? Sweetheart, I want you to recall particularly the last verse, and remember that we, too, shall have our "glowing dawn," and even though not in life, our reunion will be a "great song of ecstasy divine."

I find it hard to release my pen. Not good-by, but au revoir!

JACK.

Careless Shampooing Spoils the Hair

Soap should be used very carefully, if you want to keep your hair looking its best. Many soaps and prepared shampoos contain too much free alkali. This dries the scalp, makes the hair brittle, and ruins it.

The best thing for steady use is Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo, which is pure and greaseless, and is better than anything else you can use.

Two or three teaspoonfuls is sufficient to cleanse the hair and scalp thoroughly. Simply moisten the hair with water and rub it in. It makes an abundance of rich, creamy lather, which rinses out easily, removing every particle of dust, dirt, dandruff and excess oil. The hair dries quickly and evenly, and it leaves the scalp soft, and the hair fine and silky, bright, lustrous, fluffy, wavy, and easy to manage.

You can get Mulsified cocoanut oil shampoo at any drug store. It is inexpensive, and a few ounces will supply every member of the family for months.

How to Be Happy Though Married

By DORIS BLAKE

The Success of the Woman in the Home Can Be No Greater Than Her Physical Equipment.

SOME medical man recently was quoted as prophesying that the generation of mothers which shall emerge from the marriages of the present day young women hazards ill for the health of their offspring.

"Their nervous equipment is being strained to the breaking point with the modern complexity of living and little is being done to rebuild them for their future responsibilities," he said.

In an examination of nearly a thousand girls in the swimming and gymnasium classes of a Chicago institution, the perfect score was set at twenty points. No single girl made the score. Most of the girls averaged about thirteen. And nearly as many flaws as entrants were enumerated in the report.

The foundation of a happy and successful life, trite though it be as a reminder, is physical well being. Eugenically speaking, it is obvious that perfect organic functioning is even more necessary in women than in men, the lack of it in mothers being more immediately detrimental to the race.

Physical training of boys is better taken care of than girls. As a general thing, boys can be depended upon to provide their own exercise, while girls have to be coaxed into it.

As one authority pointed out, "Vigor in boys is inherent, in girls it must be, to a certain extent, at least, cultivated."

The rush of modern life afflicts girls, consequently, with nervous exhaustion much more readily than it does the men.

The life of a woman in the home demands of all things patience and calm. Her success, therefore, as a woman in the home is no greater than her physical equipment.

Mrs. Beatrice Forbes-Robertson Hale, who has made an exhaustive study of the young womanhood of America, suggests a nation-wide movement inaugurated by the women's clubs, the teachers' associations, and the parent-teachers' associations to overhaul the physical training of girls, particularly in adolescence, that they may be more perfectly equipped for the bigger life ahead of them.

She suggests at the beginning a committee of doctors, physical training experts, and teachers of games and dancing be appointed to issue a report which would concisely sum up the best known methods for the general physical training of girls, as apart from boys. This report could be the standard by which home and school training could be gauged. This to eliminate the hit and miss methods of schools and communities which result in some girls being muscularly overdeveloped and some hardly developed at all.

Mrs. Hale further suggests, following this report, the organizing groups might lay down, for our general guidance, certain rules to be followed by adolescent girls. The following she offers as a basis for discussion:

No dancing, or other parties, during term time, later than 9 p. m.

No dancing during the holidays later than 11 o'clock for girls over 16, or 10 o'clock for those under 16. No theaters, except matinées, during term time, and no moving pictures later than 9:30, which should be bedtime.

No soda fountain eating or drinking whatever. Candy only once a week.

No heels over half an inch in height to be worn, and heelless ballet slippers to be correct for dancing.

No transparent stockings and low pumps to be worn out of doors in the winter months.

No low-necked evening gowns to be worn before 18.

At least half an hour daily of games in the open air to be obligatory during school hours when in health and when the weather permits.

At least an hour and one-half of brisk walking, not strolling, to be obligatory during the holidays, or when games cannot be played.

High school gymnasiums to be kept open, under supervision of an expert, for a couple of hours daily during the holidays, to be used for exercise during bad weather, or to supplement outdoor exercise.

No stimulants to be taken before 18, including coffee.

A very strong Girl Scout movement to be inaugurated in every community, to which it shall be considered socially correct and patriotic to belong.

Absolute simplicity and comfort in dress, including the dressing of hair with the prohibition of face powder and rouge, to be correct, and breaches of this observance to be discouraged by withdrawal from the transgressor of desirable invitations.

A comprehensive course in physiology and hygiene to be made obligatory wherever not already so.

A course in voice production to be likewise obligatory, since the high pitch of the American woman's voice and the habit of talking unnecessarily loudly throw an unrealized strain on the nervous system of talkers and listeners. A low voice is not only an excellent thing in a woman; it is a means of conserving force.

Finally, strict adherence to the ordinary rules of health as laid down by any family physician to form the basis of class and graduating marks in high schools.

These rules do not imply an unattainable ideal, as Mrs. Hale says. Most of them are in force in the best boarding schools and in the finest American homes. If such rules, or better ones worked out by experts, were not only adopted in all our forward looking communities but adhered to, say ten years, in Mrs. Hale's opinion, we should have at the end of our test period a generation of young girls infinitely superior in physical poise and endurance to our present average. "It could be done," concludes the author. "We have the intelligence and the organization. We lack only the conviction and the will."

The trouble with average American parents is that they are too loving, indulgent and pathetically anxious that their girls "should enjoy themselves while they are young"; "have a better time than we had at their age." They do not want them to be out of things. So, from love, or weakness, or both, parents spend money on their girls, stimulate their taste for fatiguing pleasure, and weaken their physical and moral endurance. They provide them sophisticated pleasure in place of wholesome play. It matters more, seemingly, what frocks the girl wears, what parties she attends, what admiration she excites during her 'teens than that she have a good digestion, controlled nerves and healthy tastes. Only by the latter is she able to face the adversities and responsibilities that she is bound to encounter in the future.

Doris Blake's Answers TO LOVE PROBLEMS

Have you a perplexing love affair on which you need the counsel of a friend? Write to Doris Blake, The Tribune, Chicago. If you wish a personal reply, please send a stamped, addressed envelope.

This department appears every day in the Daily Tribune.

He Wants Time.

"Dear Miss Blake: I have been going with a young man for nine months. He has told me he loves me, but since I have asked him when we were to engaged he told me I would have to give him time to think it over, as he only likes me. Will you please tell me what to do, as I love him and it is so hard to give him up?

"B. M. G."

Perhaps you've gone and spoiled it all now, B. M. G., with your intensity of purpose! But it is hard to know just when not to say the word which may upset the whole bucket of dreams, isn't it? I really don't know in your case whether it were not just as well to have the showdown right there and then. Perhaps he is one of those creatures of impulse, upon whom cold reflection sits unhappily. Anyway, dear, you would better leave it to him now to rekindle the flame, if the fates so decree.

Owe an Apology.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am 19. I met a girl of 17 about six months ago. I have corresponded with her during that time. I have taken this girl out twice, and the last time I was with her I kissed her by force. She said she wouldn't speak to me after that, but she did. That night I left her in a good mood. Some of my boy friends tell me to leave her alone. I respect this girl and esteem her above many other girls whom I have met. What would you advise me to do? Shall I leave her alone, as my friends say, or write to her again? PAT."

The cheek of you, Pat, asking a girl to kiss you the second time out! Guess I had better write to your mother and tell her to take her son Pat in hand and teach him a few things about showing his respect for a nice girl. In the meantime, Patrick, you write the girl a note of apology. You can tell her she was so blooming irresistible you forgot yourself—but in future you will try to restrain the impulse.

Cold Glance Did It.

"Dear Miss Blake: I am a girl of 16 and in love with a young man with whom I have little to do. Sixteen and in love! But it is not my fault. It is he who made me love him by his cold glance. His smile makes my heart leap. Sometimes he passes me by without even that much. I love him. How can I make him pay? TIPPY."

How can you make him pay for the cold glances that shiver your brain? Don't you think that would be a terrible practice to establish? Can't you see a whole army of fleeing gents not daring to cast an eye in any other direction than the one in which they are running? Of course, he might bring a counter suit for the damage done to his cold orb by the sight of you. Come to think it all over, Tippy, I guess there's no denying 'tis the woman must pay if she has your kind of heart.

Practical and Fancy Needlework

BY CLOTILDE

THIS smart spring hat is made of a golden brown satin straw braid, with a side crown of lilac and gold ribbed taffeta. There are made flowers of the same silk and small grapes of velvet.

Select a small frame with the brim measuring one and one-quarter inches in width. The braid is about three-quarters of an inch wide and it takes about twelve yards of that width—and a little less if the braid is wider.

The edge of the brim is bound with the braid—beginning to sew it on in the middle of the back, and to finish it, lap it well and hem down securely.

The outside of the brim is covered with the braid put on so it runs up and down—the diagram shows how—and of course one continuous piece is used without cutting. It is stitched to the edge of the brim just above where the braid turns to make the loop. This makes the loops soft in appearance.

The inside of the brim is covered with the braid, starting in the back and sewing the braid around and around until the brim or facing is covered. The running stitch is used for this.

The rest of the braid is used for the top of the crown. Measure up from the bottom of the crown all the way around, about four inches, marking at close intervals all the way around. Start sewing the braid on in the middle of the back, sewing it first on the penciled line, then around and around until the crown is covered. A fine draw thread in the lower edge of the braid makes it possible to draw the braid so it will fit smoothly. As the center of the top of the crown is reached a hole must be punctured, and the end of the braid slipped through and firmly fastened on the under side.

The side of the crown is covered with a bias strip of the taffeta, measuring seven inches. Measure the distance around the top and bottom of the crown that is to be covered with this silk, then stitch the silk together so it will fit the crown. Two tiny cords are put in the top and two in the bottom of the silk, and then the silk is slipped in place on the hat, and the threads that hold the cords in place are pulled up to fit and fastened. This makes the silk fit easily and prettily.

The flowers are made of different colors. They are cut three inches deep and twelve inches long. Join them and run five small cords up and down, making them about two and three-eighths inches apart. Turn the upper edge back and use a buttonhole stitch, using angora wool or embroidery floss.

Gather them around the bottom and draw up and place on the hat in morning glory effect.

There are five flowers—one gold, one blue, one green, and two red. The grapes are made of green, rose, and henna velvet, or scraps of any pretty shades of velvet. To make the grapes cut a two and one-half inch circle, turn the edge back and put a draw thread in. Fill with cotton and pull the thread up tight. Make a few stems by winding cords with either gray angora or green embroidery floss.

Haley's Magnesia-Oil the scientific way to fight Acidosis and Constipation

If you are afflicted with sour stomach, have chronic indigestion; if your breath is bad and you suffer with heartburn—remember these are Nature's warnings that you must help her fight Acidosis.

Most of us eat too much and exercise too little. That means poor digestion—too much acid in the stomach. Acidosis, the name science gives to this condition, is the forerunner of 75% of all sickness. Don't let Acidosis get you in its grip.

Science Discovers New Way to Bring Relief

Physicians have long recommended milk of magnesia as the safe neutralizer of stomach acids. But milk of magnesia unaided was not enough to win the fight against Acidosis. Another co-agent was needed to help the body cast off waste poisons quickly.

The need for this agent led to the discovery of a scientific method of emulsifying milk of magnesia and pure mineral oil.

Haley's Magnesia-Oil is the name of this wonderful new discovery. It acts quickly and brings welcome relief. The milk of magnesia counteracts the harmful poisons and the mineral oil, by lubrication, brings about easy, natural elimination.

Haley's Magnesia-Oil is absolutely harmless. It may be given to infants, mixed with their milk, without the slightest danger. Your own doctor will recommend Haley's if you ask him. Stop at your druggist's today and get a bottle. Trial size 35c; economical family size $1.00.

Quick Relief from Constipation

Get Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets

That is the joyful cry of thousands since Dr. Edwards' produced Olive Tablets, the substitute for calomel.

Dr. Edwards, a practicing physician for 17 years and calomel's old-time enemy, discovered the formula for Olive Tablets while treating patients for chronic constipation and torpid livers.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets do not contain calomel, but a healing, soothing vegetable laxative.

No griping is the "keynote" of these little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablets. They cause the bowels and liver to act normally. They never force them to unnatural action.

If you have a "dark brown mouth", bad breath—a dull, tired feeling—sick headache—torpid liver—constipation, you'll find quick, sure and pleasant results from one or two of Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets at bedtime.

Thousands take them every night just to keep right. Try them. 15c and 30c.

The Famous Kratz Laundryette Electric Washing Machine

VACUUM CUP PROCESS WASHER

Centrifugal Dryer, does away with a wringer and also does away with the need of stationary tubs. The most successful washer of its kind. Will whirl a tub full of wash dry in one minute; will whirl dry enough to iron in ten minutes' time. Will come in mighty handy in nasty or real cold weather, when you won't have to get out and hang the wash on the line and take it off again. With this washer there is no need to put your hands in the water. We sold this washer with good success for several years and recommend it very highly.

We also sell the Kratz Oscillator, the Kratz Cylinder, the Woodrow, the Geyser Kitchenette Washer and the Cataract. Cash or easy terms.

First Authentic Styles—New Spring Millinery

THROUGH a special arrangement with Gage Bros. & Co., we have secured the models which were shown in the famous Gage Pageant of Fashion. Many of these creations were exhibited at the famous Bal Directoire in Paris. The Directoire mode has inspired many of the designers this year—it depicts fashions famous during that colorful interlude between the Reign of Terror and the rise of Napoleon.

Original Models—Direct from Such Famous Parisian Milliners as—

Maison Lewis — M. Germaine — Madame Louison — Madame Suzy

Maria Guy — Georgette — Jeanne — Suzana Talbot

Vassaline Villetard — Evelyne Varon — Martha-Yerkes

Rose Descat — Eliane — Marguerite & Leonie

French dolls, dressed with the original gowns and hats worn at the Bal Directoire in Paris, together with the new spring modes which were inspired by them, are being shown in our State street windows.

A New Way to Tell Your Fortune

By Napoleon's Book of Fate

WE trust our readers are getting absorbing entertainment from consulting the great Napoleon's Book of Fate—the ancient and mysterious Egyptian "Scroll of Man's Fate" whose thirty-two grand questions of life we are now publishing.

But there was a time when even the greatest men and women of the world asked these and similar questions only with serious purpose in mind.

As an illustrious example take Alexander the Great.

Some time prior to his departure on his great Asian campaign which brought him undying fame Alexander went to the famous oracle of Delphi to learn his future, if possible, but unfortunately he arrived there on one of those days when the sanctuary was shut.

In his disappointment he entreated the priestess to mount the tripod from which she delivered her oracular utterances in answer to the questions put to her, but she steadily refused, pleading that the law forbade her.

Alexander, naturally impetuous, became impatient, with repeated refusals and drew the priestess from her cell, and while he was conducting her to the sanctuary, she exclaimed:

"My son, thou are invincible!"

Strange to relate, while Alexander did not ask the oracle a single question through the priestess, it was the right answer to the matter he had in mind, and he went away thoroughly satisfied as to the result of his visit to Delphic shrine.

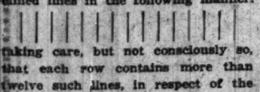
The seventh and eighth grand questions of life are printed today, and the thirty-two possible answers to them.

SEVENTH GRAND QUESTION OF LIFE.

Will the Friend I Most Reckon Upon Prove Faithful or Treacherous?

How to Get Your Own Answer.

Fix in your mind the question, to the exclusion of all other things. Then, thinking of it alone, with pen or pencil set down five rows of upright or inclined lines in the following manner:



taking care, but not consciously so, that each row contains more than twelve such lines, in respect of the number of the signs of the zodiac.

That is, you must not count the lines in each row as you make them, but you must abstractedly guide pen or pencil across the paper, so that the number of lines in each of the five rows, while more than twelve, shall be entirely without design so far as you yourself are consciously aware.

Having thus set down the five rows, you then count the lines in each row, to learn whether the number is odd or even.

Perhaps the count will show the first line to be odd, the second and third even, the fourth odd, the fifth even; you then belong to the class of mankind represented by the sign of odd, two evens, odd, and even.

But no matter what your five lines show as to odd or even, beginning with the first line and going down, there is an answer to the grand question of life that is meant especially for you.

You will find the answer you seek under the sign of your particular combination of lines of odd and even.

Bear in mind that only once you must ask any particular question—only once, in the above manner, must you set down the five rows of lines to learn your class combination of odd and even lines for that question. But with each new grand question of life you must set down the five rows of lines in order to learn your class or sign for that question.

When you have asked all thirty-two grand questions of life in this manner as they are published and have found the answers, you will then know your fate in full as it is set down in the great Napoleon's Book of Fate—the ancient and mysterious Egyptian "Scroll of Man's Fate."

THE ORACLE'S ANSWERS.

If you belong to the sign of:

Five Odd: "Place not thy confidence so much even in a friend as to put a weapon in his hand which he may in future turn upon thyself."

Even, Four Odd: "Be exceedingly cautious in the choice of thy friend."

Odd, Even, Three Odd: "Try thy friend before thou trustest him too deeply."

Two Odd, Even, Two Odd: "Thy friend will assuredly prove faithful to thee."

Three Odd, Even, Odd: "Be thine own friend."

Four Odd, Even: "Trust not even a friend with a secret which ought to remain within thine own breast."

Two Even, Three Odd: "Show thy friend by good treatment of him that it is his interest to be faithful to thee."

Odd, Two Even, Two Odd: "Wrangle not with thy friend about trifles, else thou mayest forfeit his assistance in matters of great import."

Two Odd, Two Even, Odd: "Reckon not much on the friendship of any man."

Three Odd, Two Even: "Sad is his fate who relies solely on the friendship and good will of others."

Two Odd, Even, Odd, Even: "If a man protesteth never ceasing friendship to thee, at least doubt his sincerity."

Odd, Even, Odd, Even, Odd: "Rely more on the actions than on the promises of thy friends."

Even, Odd, Even, Two Odd: "Friends are so scarce that when found they are to be valued above all price."

Odd, Even, Two Odd, Even: "If thou art joined with another in a compact to act wickedly, expect not that he will prove faithful to thee."

Even, Two Odd, Even, Odd: "If thou expecteth that a companion in wickedness will prove a faithful friend thou art deceived."

Even, Three Odd, Even: "Choose thy friends only from among the virtuous and fear no treachery."

Three Even, Two Odd: If thou expecteth thy friend to be true, be true to him."

Odd, Three Even, Odd: "When thou askest advice of thy friend relate not to him thy story by halves, lest in concealing the matter from him thou suffer in the end."

Two Odd, Three Even: "One act of disinterested friendship should cancel the remembrance of a thousand foibles."

Odd, Even, Odd, Two Even: "Let not interested persons have so much power over thee as to cause distrust or discord between thy friend and thee."

Odd, Two Even, Odd, Even: "When thou hast proved thy friend thou mayest truly trust and value him."

Even, Two Odd, Two Even: "If thy friend hath in one circumstance proved deceitful trust him not a second time."

Even, Odd, Even, Odd, Even: "If thou seest the man whom thou callest thy friend carry himself deceitfully or dishonestly toward others deceive not thyself by thinking that he will be faithful to thee."

Two Even, Two Odd, Even: "Honesty is the only bond of true friendship."

Two Even, Odd, Even, Odd: "Rely not on those self-styled friends who, like summer flies, buzz about thee in thy prosperity."

Even, Odd, Two Even, Odd: "Give out that thou art poor and see how many or what friends will run to serve thee."

Four Even, Odd: "The man who boasts the most his readiness to befriend thee will in adversity be the first to desert thee."

Even, Odd, Three Even: "Avoid laying too great a tax on the patience of thy friends; this is the way to preserve them."

Two Even, Odd, Two Even: "Consider well ere thou tellest thy secret whether thy friend can keep it."

Three Even, Odd, Even: "Never trust those men who swear friendship to thee over the cup of drunkenness."

Odd, Four Even: "Beware lest the honeyed words of the hypocrite and the deceiver betray thee into danger."

Five Even: "The grip of the hand, the kiss on the cheek, and the vow of friendship over the flowing bowl are but as the words traced on the sand of the seashore; trust them not."

EIGHTH GRAND QUESTION OF LIFE.

Does My Dream Portent Good Luck or Misfortune?

THE ORACLE'S ANSWERS.

If you belong to the sign of:

Five Odd: "Thy nightly visions portend good fortune to thee."

Even, Four Odd: "Thy dream signifieth that thou shouldst bestow some of thy goods on charity."

Odd, Even, Three Odd: "The interpretation is that thou shalt receive an epistle of importance."

Two Odd, Even, Two Odd: "Thy dream portendeth ill luck to thy enemies."

Three Odd, Even, Odd: "It signifieth that thou must take heed to avoid danger."

Four Odd, Even: "The interpretation is that if thou observeth any blemish in thine own conduct, thou shouldst lose no time in correcting it."

Two Even, Three Odd: "It signifieth that thy conduct requireth amendment."

Odd, Two Even, Two Odd: "Good luck will befall thee."

Two Odd, Two Even, Odd: "It importeth kindness and charity to thy poor friends."

Three Odd, Two Even: "It portendeth danger if thou art not cautious."

Two Odd, Even, Odd, Even: "It signifieth that thou oughtest not to trust another with affairs which thou canst manage thyself."

Odd, Even, Odd, Even, Odd: "It importeth that if thou dost procrastinate, evil will attend thee."

Even, Odd, Even, Two Odd: "It signifieth a speedy marriage."

Odd, Even, Two Odd, Even: "The signification is increase of riches."

Even, Two Odd, Even, Odd: "It portendeth death among thy enemies."

Even, Three Odd, Even: "The signification is disaster among thy foes."

Three Even, Two Odd: "Thy dream sayeth be diligent in thy business."

Odd, Three Even, Odd: "Thou wert desired in thy vision to give some of thy superfluity, in charity, to the poor."

Two Odd, Three Even: "Thou wert told in thy vision that thy present undertaking will prosper if thou art cautious and vigilant."

Odd, Even, Odd, Two Even: "Thou dreamest of a wedding soon to take place."

Odd, Two Even, Odd, Even: "Thy vision portendeth that gifts will be made to thee."

Even, Two Odd, Two Even: "It sayeth that favors will be conferred on thee forthwith."

Even, Odd, Even, Odd, Even: "It signifieth prosperity to thee and thine."

Two Even, Two Odd, Even: "It sayeth, Let not the next opportunity escape of advancing thy fortune."

Two Even, Odd, Even, Odd: "It signifieth a gift from a far country."

Even, Odd, Two Even, Odd: "It importeth health and happiness."

Four Even, Odd: "It signifieth recovery from illness."

Even, Odd, Three Even: "It saith thou hast enemies who are endeavoring to render thee uphappy."

Two Even, Odd, Two Even: "It signifieth that thou wilt soon hear agreeable news."

Three Even, Odd, Even: "It signifieth plenty of everything which gold can purchase."

Odd, Four Even: "It warneth thee to beware of danger."

Five Even: "It portendeth a happy union between a man and a woman who have long loved each other."

MEN'S FASHIONS

AN AFTERNOON RECEPTION AT SHERRY'S.

This department will be glad to answer any questions regarding men's fashions and the correct thing to wear on different occasions. Address communications to A. T. Gallico, The Tribune, Chicago. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for personal reply

BY A. T. GALLICO.

NEW YORK. — [Special Correspondence.]—While the chances of any one's asking most of us to a formal afternoon reception are low, it is not improbable that this might happen. The reason we state them as being low is that most of us are too busy to take in any afternoon functions.

Be that as it may, receptions are going on in most every city, day in and day out, as the celebrities drift in and almost any morning you may find an ominous square, dignified looking envelope nestling beside your breakfast plate, which when opened will inform you that Mrs. Whatsername, whom you vaguely remember having met somewhere, sometime, requests the pleasure, not to mention honor, of your presence to meet Señor Thingumbob, at 4 p. m., at, let us say Sherry's, R. S. V. P. and all that.

You may have no desire to meet Señor Thingumbob. You feel that you will have nothing of importance to communicate to him when you do meet. Nevertheless you will go. Why? Because some woman will make you.

The end of the battle will sound something like this. "Wellifido go, what'll I wear?" And there is where we step in. If you can decide in your own mind what you will do with your hands and feet and tea cup, not to mention conversation, when you get there, we will see to it that the underbutler doesn't swoon when you remove your topcoat and display your costume.

To this end, we paid a visit to Sherry's during an important reception to report upon what the man who goes to formal afternoon receptions wears in the way of afternoon attire, as well as topcoat and hat.

The foyer at Sherry's is a first class hunting ground for well dressed men. For the victim enters from the outside world, topcoated and hatted according to the styles of his fancy, pauses and looks around long enough for one to make a feverish note or two, and then, mounting a short flight of marble steps, he disposes of his outer garments and reveals himself well dressed—or not.

The outer garments themselves were for the most part either Chesterfields or the dark blue guards' coat, the latter more often when an ordinary business suit was worn, while with the cutaways the Chesterfield or plain unbelted box coat was worn. The top hat was not uncommon as an accompaniment of the cutaway, while the derby came in for a good share of popularity as a headpiece.

But when the outer coat and hat were shed, much of variety in clothing was brought to light. The formality of the attire of three-quarters of the men present would have done good to the hearts of the advocates of dress formality for men. The quantity of striped trousering and coat tails was sufficiently greater than the simple sack suit effects to say that the formal day dress is by no means dying out. When man wants to deck himself out he does it, regardless of a certain group of dressers who would like to ignore the fine points of formal dressing, and feel that a soft collar and a soft wrinkled shirt front is good enough to wear when taking a formal cup of tea or coffee.

Taking the gathering at Sherry's as a sign, we can report that the use of the short jacket with striped trousers, this combination to take the place of the cutaway, is coming into more popular favor. We noticed a number of these outfits at the reception under discussion. One wore with his a striped blue and white shirt, the stripes running horizontally, and a collar to match, with black and white four-in-hand tie.

Another man wearing the jacket and striped trousers wore the white plaited bosom shirt which is always in good taste. He wore a wing collar and bow tie of dark blue, with narrow white stripe running horizontally through it.

Among the cutaways both the black and the oxford reported for action. In some cases the waistcoat matched the coat, and was usually edged with white. But in many cases the waistcoat was one of the fancier varieties. Only two or three men wore the trousers to match the cutaway coat, the striped ones of gray and white or black and white being the favored fashion.

White stiff linen shirts, or white plaited bosoms with black and white or plain gray ties, were most numerous with the cutaway outfit, although there is no law which says that the well dressed man shall not introduce a little color into his costume. The trouble is that so many men are afraid of using color for fear of committing a crime in the name of color harmony that they keep on the safe side of black and white and grays, which sometimes becomes the uninteresting side.

What's Wrong Here?

Answer below.

ANSWER TO WHAT'S WRONG HERE

Do not repeat to others criticisms you have heard about them. The practice is a sure road to unpopularity.

Stop Rheumatism with RED PEPPER

When you are suffering with rheumatism so you can hardly get around just try Red Pepper Rub and you will have the quickest relief known.

Nothing has such concentrated, penetrating heat as red peppers. Instant relief. Just as soon as you apply Red Pepper Rub you feel the tingling heat. In three minutes it warms the sore spot through and through. Frees the blood circulation, breaks up the congestion—and the old rheumatism torture is gone.

Rowles Red Pepper Rub, made from red peppers, costs little at any drug store. Get a jar at once. Use it for lumbago, neuritis, backache, stiff neck, sore muscles, colds in chest. Almost instant relief awaits you. Be sure to get the genuine, with the name Rowles on each package.

A single teaspoonful of DR. CALDWELL'S SYRUP PEPSIN Will restore good humor

Mothers!! Apply Common Sense

THIS is the era of the prevention of disease and sensible people do not wait until sickness has actually come before remedying the trouble. The crowded hospitals everywhere are sad examples of the results of neglect. Be especially watchful of children. Restlessness, lack of normal appetite and feverishness usually indicate constipation. Stop it that instant with a spoonful of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin and you will have prevented real sickness. Mrs. Ida Williamson of 1637 Pine St., Long Beach, Cal. and Mrs. Lou Brawley of Self, Ark., never have illness in the family because of their prompt use of Syrup Pepsin.

A Great Family Laxative

It may be difficult to decide just what medicine to use out of the many that are offered, but it would not be if you knew the facts. There are laxatives, cathartics, purgatives and physics, and they vary in their reaction on the system. Naturally, the stronger the medicine the more it shocks the system, so wise parents never give anything but a laxative to children. Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin is a mild laxative, a vegetable compound of Egyptian senna with pepsin and desirable aromatics, and so appreciated that it is now the largest selling preparation of its kind in the world, over 10 million bottles being used annually. The formula is on every package.

Three Rules of Health

Purchase a bottle of Syrup Pepsin at a drug store and always keep one in the family medicine chest. Give it to anyone from infant to grandparent, for it is safe, and the cost is less than a cent a dose. You can keep a family healthy with just this simple medicine. Give it for constipation, torpid liver, indigestion, biliousness, headaches, colds and other evidence of bowel obstruction. Dr. Caldwell, who was a practicing physician for 47 years and who originated this formula, had three rules of health that he found very effective among his patients and which you can follow with great benefit: Keep the head cool, the feet warm, and the bowels open.

If You Want to Try It Free Before Buying—"Syrup Pepsin," 517 Washington St., Monticello, Illinois.

I need a good laxative and would like to prove what you say about Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin by actual test. Send me a free trial bottle. Address to One Cent Plus.

A certain business man, happening to glance through his morning paper at an early hour saw stamped goods advertised at 1 cent. Thinking of a surprise for his wife who had remarked that she wished a lot of pieces to embroider he went to the store.

He noticed a 1 cent sign on a table and seeing a group of women at one end got in the scramble, emerging with about 100 pieces.

The clerk looked surprised and inquired if he wished all the articles.

He was emphatic that he did, until the bill of $89 was presented. He had reached the right table but had the 89 cent section, and not in the 1 cent sale as he thought. L. J. J.

Once Too Cautious.

Mother has always warned me to beware of strangers who might speak to me. So I have always been careful, but once it was a mistake.

I entered a movie alone one night, and took an inside seat. When my eyes became accustomed to the darkness, I saw I was sitting next to a young man who was talking to some friends who were sitting behind him. One of them leaned over and said something to me which I did not understand. I turned my head, and pretended not to hear.

The one next to me then said loudly: "You are sitting on our hats." B. R.

Coming with News.

A man friend of mine was in the hospital, and was not allowed to see any one but his relatives. I was anxious to see him.

When I arrived at the hospital, his door was closed, so I timidly knocked at the door. A stern faced woman answered my knock. I took it for granted that she was a hospital matron, so when she asked me whom I wanted to see, I told her I was the young man's sister.

She looked at me, and said in an unpleasant voice: "I am glad to know you, I am his mother."

I found the hall steps in a short time. H. E.

Not So Good.

My college chum had bragged of my handiness when it came to housework, and so when I visited him and his bride I tried to live up to my handy reputation by offering to run the carpet sweeper over her rugs on housecleaning day.

Everything went fine until I accidentally elbowed into a Japanese vase and broke it. This unnerved me, so that I just lost confidence, and while still apologizing for the broken vase I jammed the back end of the stick of the carpet sweeper straight through a beautiful panel glass door of their bookcase, shattering it to pieces.

Nobody ever spoke of my handiness after that. I offered no further assistance with any of the tasks, and left as soon as I could politely do so. M. A.

SULPHUR CLEARS A PIMPLY SKIN

Apply Sulphur as Told When Your Skin Breaks Out

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms or body is overcome quickly by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur and use it like cold cream.

THREE VEGETABLES

BY WALTER WELLMAN

Just as a test of her ingenuity, Mabel has taken the names of three vegetables and, using all the letters in their names, has spelled the names of six objects, which she has pictured for you. The names of the vegetables begin with C, C, and T. See if you can reverse the process she used, and again spell the names of the vegetables, using all the letters used in spelling the names of the objects shown.

SCHOOL DAYS

Start with any letter and move to the right, left, up, down, or diagonally in any direction. See how many names of schoolo studies you can spell out in this way and then you will know what studies little Mabel is taking this year.

IN THE FAR EAST

Add and subtract the names of the objects and have, as a result, the name of a country in the far east.

Answers in last column.

SCHOOL PUZZLE

Add and subtract the names of the little articles and have, as a result, the name of a famous American.

Wonderful Adventures of the Dog Club

THE GRAVELPITTERS HAVE A LANDSLIDE

By Raymond Kelly.

ALL the Gravelpitters were sitting around the fireplace in the cave that night. It was a drizzly-drozzly sort of a night, too; just like the Tuesday before a Monday after that Wednesday we were talking about before. At any rate, they were all there and were all happy and busy, which is much the same thing. Bull Bailey was cobbling a worn place in his last summer's muzzle; Granger, the collie, was getting a burr out of his ruff; Toodles, the lop eared poodle, was eating some frapped sardines that Wiggler the monkey had just served to him, and Ginger, the fox terrier, was telling a bedtime story.

"It was a wild night," said Ginger, "and the waves were dashing high. Out in the storm tossed bay, the tired oysters were moaning sadly in their sleep."

"Oysters don't get tired and they don't sleep and they don't moan," interrupted Toodles.

"How do you know?" Ginger retorted. "When were you an oyster?"

"When you were a clam," Toodles came back at him.

"Blump!" came a wet sliding sound just at that minute. "Blump!" It came again, and every dog jumped to his feet in fear and excitement. Even Carlo, the big St. Bernard who was president of the club, seemed more than a little worried, and you couldn't blame him, either, for something almost awful had happened. The side of the pit had slipped, and the door of the cave was all covered up with sand. The Gravelpitters had been intending to put a framework around that door so that couldn't happen, but they hadn't, and it had, and there you are, and there they were.

Carlo was the first to speak. "Pups," said he, "we're up against it. We're landlocked and sandlocked. We have food and water for four days, and fresh air comes down our chimney, but it will take us a week to dig the sand away from that door. I guess we'll all be pretty thin by the time we get out of here. However, we have good paws, and we'll make it somehow. Let's start digging."

So all the Gravelpitters went dogfully to work, and they made the sand fairly fly, too, for the first half hour. But then they got tired, and, pup by pup, they all stopped to rest a bit and eat a bite. That was when Bingo and Wolf noticed something no one had thought of before.

"Say, Carlo," said they. "What are we to do with all this sand we are digging away from the door? It will fill up the cave, and then we shall have no place to stand while we dig the rest of the way."

"Why, we'll stand where we take the sand from," Carlo answered.

"Yes, but loose sand takes up more room than tight sand does," objected the grizzled old police dog, and Carlo looked more worried than he had before, while poor Toodles began to howl at the top of his lungs. Toodles had good lungs, too.

But just as every dog was about to join in and help Toodles with his howling, Wiggler the monkey jumped up on the table and began to beat on a tin pan with a pudding spoon, which made so much more noise than Toodles could that even he stopped howling to listen. As soon as they were all quiet, Wiggler put the pan on his head and began to speak.

"Dogs," said the little monkey, "I have long, long, longed to be a hero, for that is where a monkey shines. Now my chance has come. I will save you. You may cheer me, but not too loudly, as it might make me vain. I should much dislike to be vain. So all the pups cheered as quietly as possible; in fact, so quietly that they couldn't be heard at all, which pleased Wiggler a great deal and made him tell his plan. It was a clever plan, and next Sunday you shall see for yourselves how it worked.

Several boys came to borrow our bob-sled one day when the coasting was fine.

"You'll be careful not to break it, won't you?" I said, warningly. "And please bring it right back."

"Say, if we break it," replied one of the children earnestly, "we'll either pay for it, or mend it, or buy you a new one—that's guaranteed!"

E. C. B.

Cousin Hadley came over to Elnora's with the ostensible purpose of showing off a new sweater.

Elnora took one glance and called out to her mother: "Guess who's here all sweatered up." E. L. R.

"Did you have a nice Christmas?" I asked Laurie.

"O, yes," he replied. "I got two or three things I didn't order." C. L.

"Bobbie," said his mother. "I've always told you to have a place for everything and now you are looking for your little wagon."

"Well," replied Bobbie; "I have a place, but it losted me." Mrs. E. B.

Janice was having a hard time keeping brother Jack from spoiling her tea party.

"O, Jack!" she shouted. "You may be an awfully sweet baby, but you make me frattic!" C.

Alice had learned the story of Columbus at school, and was telling it to her mother.

"An' his ships were named the Nina, the Pinta, and—and——"

"Santa Maria," prompted her mother.

"Yes, and the queen's name was—was——"

"Isabella," suggested the mother.

"Mother," demanded Alice, with sudden suspicion, "have you ever heard this story before?" E. C.

Bobby and his mother were having dinner at a restaurant.

After watching his mother eat only the filling of her pie, Bobby, all excited, exclaimed, "Mamma, mamma, why don't you eat the skin of the pie?" M. D. K.

At a marionette performance in which the story of little Red Riding Hood was presented, after the killing of the wolf by the woodman, the announcer came out and said, "Well, you have just seen the wicked wolf get his, and nobody's sorry." A childish voice piped up, "I is." A. W.

Some of the neighbor children come to me to have their loose teeth pulled. One day my daughter, Adeline, was playing with her chum, Eva, and I entered the room.

Adeline said, "Mother, don't come in here; Eva is afraid of you."

"Why?" I asked

Adeline said, "You pull children's teeth and that hurts." L. J. P.

ENGLISH BISCUIT TYPES.

ARE you a collector, Mistress Housewife, of plates or pitchers, beads or baubles of some sort?

I am suggesting an interest for you that can make of you a most highly sophisticated and cosmopolitan, yes, an international person, and it will not lumber up your house except in a temporary way. Gather English biscuits, and a cunning knowledge of them. You have no idea how far it will lead you.

You will learn how to entertain at teas and suppers, no matter where your lot is cast. You may learn geography, history, manners, esthetics, and even something of poetry by gaining a specific knowledge of this picturesque food product. It may even inspire you to learn how to make fresher and so more delicious sorts of your own.

There is no end of signs that a rebirth, a renaissance of food culture, is at hand. It will presently be most up to date to be a cultivated person in foods. It will cost you some money at first, but not much effort, to become cultivated in this one branch, biscuits, and then it may cost you less money and more effort if you take up the business of making these dainties yourself. In either fashion you gain, but you can become deftly accomplished when you take the second course.

"Good Captain's Biscuits."

First and last, a good many people have asked me for a cracker recipe, and I have not been quite satisfied that I had a real one, but lately I have twice printed a recipe for yeast biscuit which I consider most palatable things, and just now I have tried Eliza Acton's (1868) recipe with the above title. It reads: "Make some white flour into a smooth paste with new milk; divide it into small balls; roll them out, and afterward pull them with the fingers as thin as possible; prick them all over and bake them in a somewhat brisk oven from ten to twelve minutes. These are excellent and wholesome biscuits."

And here is my adaptation: Take one cup of sifted bread flour and one-eighth teaspoon salt. Sift into a bowl and make a little crater in it. Pour into this crater one-third cup of the top milk from a newly arrived bottle (on which the cream has not risen or separated from the milk), stir until you have a dough, and then knead with a spoon, and finally with the hand, until the dough has none of that granular feeling that bread flour has. Then knead on a board until the dough is as smooth as a well kneaded yeast dough, and roll out.

Cut in rounds, prick, and bake in a genuinely hot oven that will give little brown blisters in ten or twelve minutes and give a crisp cracker. But be careful here, or it will get too brown. I did not find it in any particular use to pull them out thinner, and I am not sure that wetting the top of them before they were put in the oven did any good. I think these may be buttered and sugared as the yeast biscuits I make are, but just plain, freshly made, they are more delicious than anything you can buy in a box—because fresh.

Butter Biscuits.

The English rave over their butter biscuits (petit beurre), and well they may, considering that they keep so well; but fresh ones, of course, have just as much more character as fresh bread has above the best kept stale bread. I mean to adapt Eliza Acton's recipe for "Threadneedle street biscuits" some day, but I want to get a dimpled sheet of iron and a certain square stamp before I do. The recipe reads much like a cookie recipe, except for the beating, and this beating direction you will find in other recipes when the mixture is of flour and water only, like beaten biscuit.

This particular recipe reads: "Mix with two pounds of sifted flour of the best quality three ounces of good butter, and work it into the smallest possible crumbs; add four ounces of fine, dry, sifted sugar, and make them into a firm paste with new milk; beat this forcibly for some time with a rolling pin, and when it is extremely smooth roll it the third of an inch thick, cut it with a small square cutter, and bake the biscuits in a slow oven until they are crisp to the center: no part of them should remain soft."

That is a good definition of what an English biscuit is—something no part of which should remain soft. Even the sugar and cream fillings are not really soft, for, like candy, they harden in time.

The Word Biscuit.

The word biscuit is really one of the most cosmopolitan of eating words, undoubtedly originating in Italy, if not in Palestine, but in the modern spelling entire French. (The French pronounce it bis-kwee.) No knowing how far back it was taken to England, where it has been made more of than in all the rest of the world put together. While we have been limiting the word "to the limit," the English, with the help of their manufacturers, have been expanding it to include an astonishing list of cakes made in a great variety of ways.

Varieties of English Biscuits.

Sponge or Savoy biscuits (the latter name shows the ancient or Italian origin), macaroons (also from Italy), wafers, meringues, plain, unsweetened, and pricked or dimpled and brambled cakes, sweetened and stamped, ginger nuts so like our own ginger snaps that you would say they were that, beaten biscuitlike rounds, and in general many sorts of these of the nature of the old fashioned hardtack or ship's biscuit—all relatives of what we call a cracker. Boxes of these latter are often labeled "assorted cheese," not because they are cheese flavored, but because they are served with cheese.

Biscuit Shapes.

In shapes there are fingers, squares, strips, and ovals, rounds, and many others. Pound cake batters, as well as sponge cake batters, go to make some while many are made of cooked doughs or of a meringue soufflé mixture piped into flower shape or oddity. They are bathed in chocolate, iced in colors, or sprinkled with chopped nuts. They are filled and have often several wafer thin layers with fillings.

Biscuit Making Equipment.

The equipment for making these things includes cutters and stamps, pastry, or forcing bags with a variety of points, paper cases, strips of special papers and molds. But by studying the great Francatelli's recipes we find that certain sorts of biscuits are often cooked in a sheet, then cut in strips or squares, and served at once. Besides Francatelli's recipes you can find help from Escoffier and from many lesser English cook books.

Patriotism and English Biscuits.

The Manchester Guardian weekly began some time ago to run the most entertaining food advertisements I have ever seen. These looked like two column articles each time, and had such headings as "Biscuits as Food," "The Perfect Biscuit," "The Sociable Biscuit." Of course, these were patriotic or British in the extreme. One of the articles tells how the biscuit has permeated English life. Everybody praises it. And then there follows a succession of pictures of business men, club men, out of door men, children in the nursery, hunters, sailors, explorers, peasants, and poets, and lovers delighting in their own special way in it. And then this:

"First of all the triumph of the biscuit is a British triumph. England is the land of the perfect biscuit, and holds the secret of it." Next follows the explanation why British wheat is best for biscuit, and then the statement that America cannot make an ideal biscuit. "She can produce a 'cracker' because it happens that American flour is suited for that limited idea of a biscuit. The old millers, bearing "grand old English names," make biscuit flours. And then "the very ovens in which biscuits are baked, whether they be gas ovens or coal, have their individuality, and give the secret touch of perfection only to certain forms of biscuit. Biscuits baked mechanically without regard to essential quality of flour and subtle changes in baking must miss the ultimate perfection sought by the best firms. That is why a research laboratory is an essential department of the biscuit factory."

From my own experience in buying a sort of biscuit made by a famous old house on the continent of Europe, I should say it was losing out in world traffic because of careless work in the baking only.

Ingredients in Biscuits.

As to the ingredients of biscuits, there is a perfect rhapsody on the subject in the articles in question which begins: "Biscuits are the poetry of food. And to follow each little sonnet and lyric from the choosing of its ingredients to its elaboration and ornamentation is an esthetic experience. Everything in association with biscuits has this suggestion of poetry. Flour from the mellow fields of mid-England, sugar from vivid Jamaica, butter from the luscious pastures of New Zealand and Australia, currants from classic Greece, sultanas from oriental Smyrna, but both of which must be picked and washed, glacé cherries from the orchards of sunny France, all handled by white robed men and maids, and cooked to heavenly brownness by clean fire."

The currant biscuit called a Garibaldi was the object of picturesque satire during the war by the British Tommy because of the "ominous black specks." Now the currants are not mixed haphazard with the dough as then, when those on the surface got overcooked, but a layer of currants is pressed between a sandwich of dough, then "rolled into unity. The perfect Garibaldi is in reality a fruit sandwich."

HOW TO ORDER YOUR CLOTILDE PATTERNS.

Write your name and address plainly on dotted lines, giving number and size of each pattern you want. Inclose 10 cents in stamps or coin (coin preferred; wrap it carefully) for each number, and address your order to Clotilde, CHICAGO SUNDAY TRIBUNE, Chicago.

How to Use the Patterns

SO many of the one piece dresses have been and still are made with kimono sleeves that pattern No. 1851 seems quite different. The long lines will be good on the woman with a full figure, and the slender woman or girl will also find it a becoming design.

The pattern has a full length back in one piece, and a right and left front—the right lapping well over toward the left side. The set-in sleeves are cut in one piece, and may be made long and close fitting, or as short as one may choose. If made long, the close fit is achieved by means of a dart, reaching from the wrist to just below the elbow on the outside part of the sleeve. The line of this dart is the same as the outside seam of a two piece, close fitting sleeve. This is one point to look after in using the dart.

See that the sleeve doesn't show any twist after the seams are basted together. The edges of the dart seam are rather bias, and must be handled carefully. It would be better to pin the seams together and then hold the sleeve up to see how it looks. The outside fold must be entirely smooth. If the smallest part of a twist shows, unpin the dart seam, shift the parts ever so slightly, and pin again.

Satin back crepe would be a good material for a dress made by this pattern, and the seams should be pressed open, after being bound. Silk binding ribbon is the best to use, and it should be run on by hand. It mustn't be held too tight, or it will make the seams draw.

The neck, front of waist, and skirt may be finished with a binding, using bias lengths of the dress material, or anything else that may be preferred.

Pattern No. 1875 will make a pretty dress for a girl. The waist and skirt are cut separately, the skirt being attached to an underwaist.

The blouse is a slip-on, to be made with long sleeves, the lower edge being set into a narrow wrist band; or if made the shorter length, they are finished with turned back cuffs.

The skirt is cut in one piece and may be box plaited or gathered. To return to the blouse for a moment. The sleeves are cut with the raglan shoulder and a piping may be used in setting the sleeves into the waist with good effect. The waist is cut down enough at the neck so one can get into and out of it quite easily, and the edges are faced and turned back to meet a small collar.

Alpaca will be especially good this spring, and blue, brown, or gray will make up prettily. A dress of this kind hardly seems to need trimming, but, if one chose, some hand embroidery would be effective, using two or three contrasting colors. Around the bottom of the blouse and around the sleeves a band design done in cross stitch would not be tedious, and the result should be pleasing enough to pay for the time and trouble.

Pattern No. 1469 is one that will doubtless appeal to many women who do their own work. It is a one piece dress, opening in the front. The back is cut in one piece, and there are two fronts—the right front lapping well over the left.

The under arm seams gore out toward the bottom, making the lower edge, for size 36, measure about 1¾ yards.

There is a shoulder dart on each front—a particularly desirable feature for a woman who has a full figure. Patch pockets, belt, turned back cuffs, and collar all help to make the dress attractive.

One of the small checked ginghams, with pockets made of a plain color, would be pretty, and a small embroidered design on the plain material would add to its attractiveness.

BUILT ON A TERRACE.

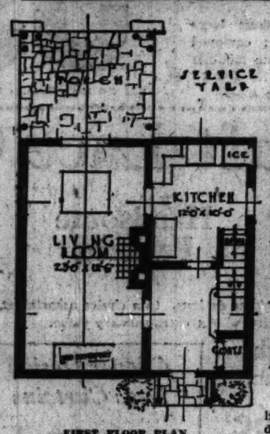
STANDING out in pleasing contrast to the trees and bushes surrounding it in a delightful landscaping arrangement, is this handsome five room stucco house. It is built on a terrace, adding another note of distinction. A curved walk leads up to a flag stone payed porch, with woolen columns flanking the entrance door. Capping the columns is an artistically curved porch roof. A trellis on each side completes the inviting entrance.

Just inside the door is a goodly sized stair hall with a coat room. To the left is the combination living and dining room, 28 by 12 feet 6 inches wide. Windows and doors are cleverly arranged so as to provide a maximum wall space for the furniture in this room. A large central brick fireplace with a red quarry tile hearth is the decorative keynote. Fireplaces have come into their own within recent years, and no home of this kind is complete without one, as it constitutes a decidedly cheerful center for family life.

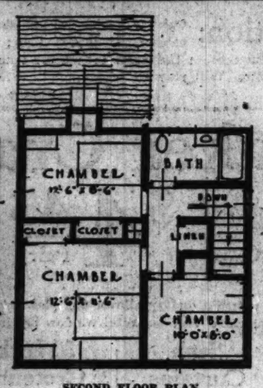
Dispensing with a formal dining room accomplishes a number of interesting things which help to reduce the cost of construction of the home, and also simplifies housework. The same chairs which are used for dining purposes may do duty for the living room. Having the two united into one large room makes occasional entertaining much more enjoyable. A blazing log in the fireplace adds charm and zest to any affair.

The architect, John Barnard of Boston, Mass., who designed this attractive little home, has arranged the living room so that it looks directly out through French windows to a formal garden, surrounded by a closely clipped hedge of barberry or other shrubs. Beyond it is a vegetable garden, but for a city house, no doubt, the garage would be placed in the rear end of the lot, making some other landscaping arrangement necessary.

It should be observed that there is plenty of space alongside of the house so that a driveway connecting the garage with the street could be built. In this connection the recent development of the attached garage suggests another way of handling the situation. In view of the fact that the ground is terraced the garage could be built beside the house and directly connected with it, so that it could be entered without going outside of the building. All that is necessary is to excavate that portion of the basement to the left of the building, erect a concrete wall up to the grade, and continue the walls about two feet higher, putting on a sloping roof to conform with the rest of the building. The driveway can then run from the street down grade until it reaches the garage at the level of the basement.



FIRST FLOOR PLAN.



SECOND FLOOR PLAN.

The kitchen is laid out to promote housekeeping efficiency. It has three doors and a window, so that it may be readily ventilated. The sink is placed directly under a large window. On one side of it is a built-in cupboard, running from floor to ceiling, and on the other is the ice compartment arranged for outside icing. The range is placed in the opposite corner of the room, so that the chimney stack used for the fireplace may also carry off the waste gases from the kitchen range. Double swinging doors with a glass upper panel connect the kitchen with the dining portion of the living room. Another door leads directly into the stair hall, making it convenient for the housewife to answer the front door without going through other rooms.

Mr. Barnard has placed three bedrooms on the second floor. Two of them are of fair size and the third could be used as a guest room or for a children's bedroom. These rooms are located in corners of the buildings with windows on two sides making them delightfully sunny and airy. Ample clothes closets are provided for each of the two larger rooms. There is a linen closet in the hall just off of the bathroom.

A laundry, storage room, coal bin, and heater are located in the basement. The coal bin is separated from the other rooms by dust tight partitions, and although these are not shown around the heater they, no doubt, would be advantageous in preventing dust and ashes from penetrating into the space devoted to the laundry. A large space is set off for the storeroom. Probably it would be better if a window could be provided for this room so as to keep it at suitable temperature for the winter storage of vegetables.

For the exterior of this home, Mr. Barnard has specified cement stucco on metal lath over wood frame, the final coat of stucco to be of white cement. The roof is sea green slate, the shutters gray green, and the wood finish ivory white. A home of this type could be built by the man with an income of approximately $3,000 a year.

J. R. R.: Paint the wicker pieces jade green, with trims of black, and use flowered cretonne, in which ivory, black, jade and dull green, and mulberry predominate.

It may be you have some discarded article which has not, moreover, the usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send article to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant, and send direct.

THE JOY OF GIVING.

HERE is an idea which will help many who'd like to do something for the poor of Chicago, but don't see how they can:

Last week we heard from a woman who had come through years of struggle raising a family on scanty means. She hasn't much now, for that matter, but her children are grown now and able to help her a bit, as well as care for their families, and life is considerably easier in every way.

One might think she would spend the time enjoying herself, by way of evening up for her earlier hardships. Not so, however. Remembering her struggles and how welcome a helping hand would have been, she does what she can for others. We heard from her because she had run across a regular treasure trove of discarded garments in a friend's house, and wanted measurements so she could make them over to fit different needs. And a wonderful help it was to several families who hailed the made over garments as Godsends!

That's one example of how we can help when we haven't much to give. Here is another, told in a letter, that already has worked tremendous good for a hard worked mother:

"I am a young business woman, enjoying a modest salary, and I want to do my share. Will you give me the name of some mother with a baby for whom she cannot buy milk in sufficient quantity, or a mother whose children need an outing but who cannot take them herself? Or perhaps there is some crippled child who is unable to attend school. I am trained for teaching and could help him in my spare time."

And here is a letter which gives the spirit of it all:

"Mrs. G.'s plight seems so appealing that her difficulties should be of short duration. Although having troubles of my own and demands numerous, I feel a small donation for benefit is a necessity, and accordingly remit 50 cents, which will help a trifle. I am indebted for the privilege."

Think of that, my friends, particularly if you think 50 cents a small sum—and think especially of the last sentence. That sums it up. This friend of the poor is buying happiness—for others and also for himself—and if he could buy more, you may be sure he would. He and the others know the joy of giving—what a pleasure it is to feel that others are finding life brighter and more hopeful because of what you have done. So look over the cases below—and let me know happiness you can give others—and yourself—this week!

Needs Gas Range.

"I wonder if there is any one in this big city who has a discarded kitchen gas range. I have none, and am in need of one. I have a family of children and have been making out as best I could. I would appreciate help in this way as I have had a great deal of trouble lately and am not financially in a position to buy a stove. "N. B. F."

Who will help Mrs. N. B. F. with a gas range? Surely some of you are thinking of getting a new one in the spring. Please do it now, and give her the old one.

Husband Out of Work.

"Will you please try to help me out? I'm soon to have a newcomer and I haven't a thing ready. My husband is sick and cannot work. He hasn't worked for a long time and we have a lot of expenses. I hope some one has a dress for me also, size 40.

"Mrs. H. M."

Offering of Books.

"I have some boys' and girls' books and some novels to give away. They must be called for at once. C. A. C."

Here's an alluring book offering.

An Offer of Records.

"We have some used records that we will be glad to send to any address that you may care to give us. They will give some one a pleasant half hour now and then. F. W. D."

Thank you. We will have many applicants—but first come, first served.

More Than Their Share.

"I am writing in behalf of a neighbor who is greatly in need of bed coverings. There are six children. The father has been in the hospital, and when he came home the mother took sick. And now the baby is recovering from pneumonia. They have sold most of their things to get coal. They haven't a rug on the floor, and are living in a cold flat. The father is working, but he only makes a little, and to keep eight on his pay is hard. I hope some kind friend has some castoff bed covering to give to keep them warm, or some old rugs. T. M."

Misfortunes never come singly—and they have certainly not come singly to this family, so let several of us bring them good things in numbers, too—some rugs and some warm clothing and some bedding, please. Who will be the first to offer help?

They Love Music.

"I am interested in work among the shut-ins and the children of tenement houses. I know of two children, both of poor parents, who have a strong inclination for music. If some one could pass on one of those small folding telescope organs, which the children could carry back and forth to their homes, it would be a great blessing to them. I will gladly teach them one evening each week, and will also use the organ occasionally to cheer up the old persons living nearby. C. F. T."

I think C. F. T. is talking about an accordion, don't you? If you have one, will you help her to help others, please?

Hasn't Warm Clothing.

"I wonder if any of your readers would have any discarded clothing for a boy 4 years old, especially a warm coat. I take care of this little lad while the mother works, and as she doesn't get much she can't afford to buy much clothing. I do all I can for her, but I have children of my own. I could fix over anything for him. The weather is cold and he hasn't warm clothing. Mrs. J. C."

CORNS

Lift Off—No Pain!

Doesn't hurt one bit! Drop a little "Freezone" on an aching corn, instantly that corn stops hurting, then shortly you lift it right off with fingers.

Your druggist sells a tiny bottle of "Freezone" for a few cents, sufficient to remove every hard corn, soft corn, or corn between the toes, and the foot calluses, without soreness or irritation.

Can YOU Suggest a Name For This New Weekly Magazine?

Actual Size of Magazine

$25,000 FOR A NAME!

Most Remarkable Offer in Magazine History

5¢

Beginning ROMEO IN MOON VILLAGE by George Barr McCutcheon

Announcement

In the Spring the publishers of The Chicago Tribune will issue a new Weekly Magazine of national circulation for men, women and children. It will be printed by the new Coloroto process. Until a name has been selected it will be referred to as The Coloroto Weekly.

$25,000.00 in cash is offered for a name for this new Magazine. The competition is open to everybody. (See conditions.)

An Extraordinary Offer! $25,000.00 in Cash for a Name for a New 5¢ Weekly Magazine!

THE Publishers of The Chicago Tribune, The World's Greatest Newspaper, and THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper, make this amazing offer:

$25,000.00 in cash prizes will be paid to the three persons who, in accordance with the conditions, submit the best suggestions for a name and sub-title or slogan for a new 5c weekly magazine soon to be published—1st Prize, $20,000.00; 2nd Prize, $4,000.00; and 3rd Prize, $1,000.00.

Can you suggest a name? The offer is open to every man, woman, boy and girl. It does not matter where you live. Just write your suggestion on the coupon at the right or on a separate sheet of paper. If you have already sent in one suggestion—SEND ANOTHER. You may submit as many names as you wish, but each must be mailed in a separate envelope.

The new magazine will be published by the publishers of The Chicago Tribune. It will be a magazine for everybody—men, women and children. It will be a BIG Magazine—64 pages to start. It will be sold on newsstands throughout America at 5c.

The new weekly will contain the finest FICTION—short stories and serials by well-known authors. It will contain PHOTOS—pictures of people and events from all over the world. It will contain FASHIONS and PATTERNS, FUN for the children, EDITORIALS by brilliant writers, SPECIAL ARTICLES by leaders of thought.

The new magazine will be the only magazine in the world printed in FOUR-COLOR ROTOGRAVURE—a process invented, developed and patented by The Chicago Tribune. (This process is the same as is used for printing Rotogravure Sections of newspapers Except That It Is In Four Colors, which permits the reproduction of any painting or scene in nature in natural colors.)

A name is wanted for this new weekly. Can you think of a good name—one with a meaning? Read the conditions. Then jot down your suggestion on the coupon or on a separate sheet of paper and send it in. A simple idea may bring you a fortune.

$25,000.00 Must Be Won. Address All Suggestions, "Names," Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill.

THE CONDITIONS:

1. A name is wanted for a new 5c weekly magazine soon to be published by the owners of The Chicago Tribune, The World's Greatest Newspaper, and THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper. The public is invited to submit suggestions. $25,000.00 in cash prizes will be paid to the three persons submitting the best suggestions in accordance with these conditions—1st prize, $20,000.00; 2nd prize, $4,000.00; and 3rd prize, $1,000.00.
2. This offer is open to every one except employes of The Chicago Tribune and THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper, and their families. It does not matter where you live.
3. Suggestions may be submitted on coupons published for convenience or on a separate sheet of paper of any form. Contestants may submit as many suggestions as they wish, but each must be mailed in a separate envelope and in good faith. Name and address of contestant must appear on each entry.
4. Each suggestion submitted must contain the following:
   (1) A name for the magazine.
   (2) A sub-title or slogan. (For example, the slogan of The Chicago Tribune is "The World's Greatest Newspaper.")
   (3) A reason in 100 words or less telling why it is believed the suggestion submitted is best. (A letter will do.) Such words as printed on coupon, "I believe my suggestion is best because, will be counted if submitted, but need not be used.
5. Originality of thought, cleverness of idea, clearness of expression, conciseness, neatness, accuracy, and form will count. The name and sub-title must not conflict with those of any other magazine.
6. The judges will be a committee appointed by the Publishers of the new magazine, and their decision will be final.
7. In the event that more than one contestant submits the same name, slogan, and reasons for considering his suggestion the best, as the name, slogan, and reasons awarded a prize, and such name, slogan and reasons are submitted in an equally clear, concise, neat, and accurate form, a duplicate prize will be paid to each such tying contestant.
8. All manuscripts and ideas submitted in this contest (or competition) become the absolute property of the Publishers and may be used in whole or in part by the Publishers as they see fit without consideration. No manuscript will be returned. The right is reserved to alter or revise the winning entries, if necessary, for use.
9. Contestants need not purchase The Chicago Tribune or THE NEWS, New York's Picture Newspaper, to compete, as they may be examined at the offices of publication or at Public Libraries free of charge.
10. To facilitate matters names should be submitted AT ONCE. Names may be submitted every day, but no names will be considered after midnight, March 31st. No responsibility is accepted by the Publishers for the loss, delay or non-delivery of any entry. Proof of sending will not be considered as proof of receipt.
11. Acceptance of these rules is an express condition of each entry.
12. All entries must be mailed to "NAMES," Post Office Box 1539, Chicago, Ill., or, if you reside in the East, mail to "NAMES," Post Office Box 195, City Hall Station, New York City, N. Y.

"THE BEST PHOTOPLAYS OF JANUARY.

CALL OF THE CANYON	THIS FREEDOM
GENTLE JULIA	TO THE LADIES
BLACK OXEN	THE COURTSHIP OF MYLES STANDISH
A WOMAN OF PARIS
THE MAIL MAN	THE GOVERNOR'S LADY
APRIL SHOWERS

By Mae Tinee.

GOOD MORNING!

Thank heaven, today's the day I can lean back placidly and, conning from my writings (get that?) of the month, touch lightly here and there on the photoplays that most impressed me. If I had to write something where I had to THINK——!

LOIS WILSON who had one of the leading rôles in "The Call of the Canyon."

"THE CALL OF THE CANYON," made from a Zane Grey story, gave the new year's list of attractions a grand boost. You found it, I'm sure, a sincere and convincing photoplay. You reveled in the scenery. You saw through the eyes of a soldier (impersonated by Richard Dix) just how America's abandon might impress that soldier who, having fought and NOT died, returned to his native country with the ghosts of hideous experiences in his memory. An impressive photoplay that will be remembered a long time by those who saw it.

"APRIL SHOWERS" was pretty good entertainment, though it wasn't long on direction. Colleen Moore and Kenneth Harlan were featured, and I reckon many a feminine heart beat a bit more quickly over one Danny O'Rourke with his loves and his fights and his disappointments and his victories. Miss Moore was the sweetheart in the case—one Maggie Muldoon, who loved her Danny true, but whose love affair was most tempestuous.

"GENTLE JULIA," from a Booth Tarkington story—not so good as most Tarkington stories—was the fairly amusing chronicle of a girl who played a prominent part in the heart affairs of her small town belle aunt. "Gentle Julia." I found that it pleased optiences who were not inclined to be too critical.

"THIS FREEDOM" was better than the book written by the gentleman who put over so successfully "If Winter Comes." The latter was a wonder as book and picture. Chaplin Strikes Oil Right in the Midst of Hollywood

By Mildred Spain.

LOS ANGELES, Cal.—[Special Correspondence.]—The rain has come to Hollywood, adding gloom to the report that five big studios are moving out of town.

The rain has come to stariand, but most of the stars are in the east, and most of the others stay at home.

Nothing new in Hollywood boulevard but the Club Petroushka, where there is a delightful foreign atmosphere emanating from dried herring and cabbage soup.

MILDRED HARRIS,
formerly the wife of Charlie Chaplin.

And because of the Club Petroushka Charlie Chaplin has had to make newspaper statements that he doesn't drink or smoke. Just like that.

It all came about with Charlie's inviting Mary Miles Minter and Mr. and Mrs. Carey Wilson to dinner at the club on Sunday night. The Prince and Princess Narichkin were entertaining Nicholas Dumaev, the author, and Jascha Heifetz at the table adjoining the movie stars.

Mildred Harris, née Mrs. Chaplin, entered with C. C. Julian, A. C. Julian, Peggy Brown, and another girl.

C. C. Julian, a prominent oil promoter, called Charlie a few names, and Charlie answered by flooring Mr. Julian.

Then a bright little movie girl cried:

"Why, Charlie has struck oil!"

Now, we aren't going to print an engagement rumor about Chaplin and Mary Miles Minter, for Charlie has been deeply interested in Estelle Taylor of late.

When Estelle was at a dinner party at Mack Sennett's home Chaplin kept the phone ringing to ask her to come to his party.

Miss Taylor has left for Fresno for the week-end—so, more of that romance later.

Gossip of the Photoplay World.

Romance has been stealing all the subtitles lately. Carl Miller and Nita Naldi have been seen everywhere together since her arrival. Miss Naldi isn't an admirer of Hollywood and is staying in Los Angeles at the Biltmore.

Ann May and C. Gardner Sullivan may announce their engagement later. And then there is Carmel Myers, who is escorted by Joseph Jackson, the playwright.

Mary Pickford, Doug Fairbanks, and Tom Geraghty have been in Catalina the last week, sailing and mountain climbing. "The Thief of Bagdad" opens in New York the first week in March, and Mary and Doug will be there. After that Egypt and perhaps the orient.

Bebe Daniels left for New York with her mother, Mrs. Phyllis Daniels, and the assurance of a splendid starring contract after playing opposite Rudolph Valentino in "Monsieur Beaucaire." Bebe's drawing room was filled with orchids and candy and smiles—and a tear or two, as Bebe was leaving her best friend, Marie Mosquini, and a beautiful new home in Commonwealth avenue.

Sir Grauman's Metropolitan theater had a birthday on Saturday, and Sid invited all his star friends to the reception and charity benefit. Every one was short-changed at the box office window to help destitute German children. Lew Cody was there, and Antonio Moreno. Pola Negri, in a long white coat, white turban, and high white boots, came with Charles Eyton. Nita Naldi, who came with Carl Miller, was in a studio costume of hoop skirts and a towering white wig. Barbara La Marr, in sophisticated black, with a white and black walking-stick, took occasion to give invitations to her party at the opening of "The Eternal City."

Barbara's first night was a social as well as an artistic

Here Is Simple Music That Heightens Drama

By Edward Moore.

SOMETHING worth the careful attention of those who would write a grand opera and those who like to attend grand opera is on exhibition in Chicago. It occurs in "Œdipus Rex," now being presented by Sir John Martin-Harvey and his company at the Great Northern.

Not that the play is in the least like grand opera as one is accustomed to think of that exotic entertainment. Temperamental stars, lavish orchestra, press stories of unexampled expenditure, all are absent. Yet it manages to project effects that any grand opera producer would be glad to equal.

SOPHIE BRASLAU,
soloist with Chicago Symphony orchestra this week.
[Copyright: Mishkin Photo.]

Historians of music tell that when opera first began to be evolved some three centuries ago, its originators, Peri and Monteverde and the rest, had a definite theory of linking their productions directly with the drama of classic Greece. Later composers wandered so far from the theory that they were never able to get back to it. Even when Ruggiero Leoncavallo used this same "Œdipus Rex" as a libretto for an opera—Titta Ruffo appeared in it a few seasons ago at the Auditorium—he apparently had only a faint idea of what to do, and Sophocles' drama was impressive in spite of the music rather than because of it.

Yet the present performance of the play has its dramatic effects greatly intensified by music, and this though the means are almost unbelievably simple. A small male chorus sings, moves gravely about, and falls into poses, and a few instrumental notes come from behind the scenes. W. H. Hudson and Einar Nilson are the composers. No concessions are made to musical adornment; the means used are reduced to positive meagerness. Yet one understands the words of the chorus in its deliberately archaic chants; there is a distinct thrill in a trumpet call, though the trumpet is both off stage and off pitch; enormous impressiveness in the distant rumble of a drum that marks the departure of the King of Thebes. It is what grand opera ought to be and generally is not.

For emotional and dramatic musical effects do not necessarily depend upon huge organizations or massed complexity of writing or vast volume of sound. They depend on how they are proportioned and contrasted, and what relation they bear to the actual drama. This is the secret of dramatic music. It is worth the study of any composer.

Concertized Opera Wins Place.

Because of little space and many musical events, there was little opportunity to comment earlier in the week on the opera in English performance at the Chicago theater. It had many points of interest and, considering that the box office was forced to stop selling tickets at the same time that the performance began, it has made an unmistakable place for itself. In the first place, Sunday noon would seem to be about as unfavorable an hour for music as any that could be picked out in the entire week, yet here is an enormous theater filled to complete capacity and compelled to refuse further admissions.

Those who were inside saw orchestra, chorus, soloists, and conductor on the stage. There were no costumes and no scenery. The opera was given in what is called concert form, and cut at that. Still, the performance went over. It had its deficiencies, as even its most ardent adherents would admit, but it also had a great merit, that of sincerity. There was no condescension about it, no pose of bringing light to

None the Less a Star, Even Though She Lacks the Title

By Burns Mantle.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.] — Katharine Cornell seems to have the certain subtle something that makes great actresses. She only started three years ago, and when she first came to Broadway to play a minor rôle in "Nice People" about all she had to help her was a wide acquaintance with the profession and a pleasant speaking voice.

The wide acquaintance grew from the fact that her father is a theater manager in Buffalo, and her pleasant voice she probably inherited from her mother. Anyway, she was out of "Nice People" and playing the lead in "A Bill of Divorcement" before we knew it, and last season she came pretty near taking "Will Shakespeare" away from the excellent company that played it.

KATHARINE CORNELL plays the heroine in "The Way Things Happen."

Now she is not even featured in a new Clemence Dane play called "The Way Things Happen," but she is no less certainly its star. Which goes to prove that not much can stop a gifted youngster once she can lay hold of opportunity to capitalize her gifts.

Miss Cornell is not pretty. Probably none of the neighbors ever advised that she go on the stage. Externally at least, she is not at all the actress type. And yet she has more of the Duse quality than any of the other younger women of the stage.

In "Why Things Happen" her rôle is conventionally emotional. She is a sort of glorified drudge, adopted by her mother's friend and brought up in a fine family. She loves the son of the household, who continues to look upon her merely as his foster sister. And she sacrifices her honor in act two to save him from going to jail.

And yet there is not a hint of commonplace emotionalism in the Cornell performance. She feels character sensitively and beautifully. And she has the gift of projection. Which is what makes great actresses great.

The noble British hero in this play refuses to accept the heroine's aid, and goes to jail to shrive his soul. Which helps to bring him into the last act in a sufficiently chastened spirit to recognize his great love.

It isn't much of a play. Probably Miss Dane wrote it while she was a little hurt about the failure of "Will Shakespeare." But it gives Miss Cornell a chance, and that is worth considerable to us. Tom Nesbitt plays opposite her.

A Triumph in Spite of Laryngitis.

The Forty-fourth Street theater, which seats eighteen hundred people, and a lot of them on the first floor, is not exactly the place an actor with laryngitis would choose for his American debut. But the choice was forced on Arnold Korff last week.

Korff comes from Cincinnati, via Berlin, Vienna, and Munich. Born in the Ohio town, his parents took him back to the fatherland while he was still too young to protest, and kept him there until long after he got into long pants. By that time he was an actor and did not care much where he lived.

There came a time, however, when Korff decided that he wanted to act in America, and he began perfecting his English for such an eventuality. His chance came when Brock Pemberton engaged him for a Pirandello comedy, originally called "Henry IV." but afterward changed to "The Living Mask," because the public insisted upon believing "Henry IV." was Shakespearean and heavy.

He rehearsed "The Living Mask" assiduously and with fine enthusiasm, and then when the opening night came his doctor told him he could not act. He had laryngitis and must rest his throat.

Korff insisted on going on, however, and got through

Their Attention Has Been Called

By Frederick Donaghey.

LETTERS come to ask why Chicago is deprived of so many entertainments that divert, gladden, and uplift the inhabitants of New-York. . . . "My attention has been called," writes Arthur T. Unger, "to a paragraph in THE TRIBUNE saying that the Moscow Art Players are not to be brought back. That is bad enough; but, what of the following plays? All of them were successes in New-York, some were performed elsewhere, and none is announced, so far as I can learn, for this city." And Mr. Unger appends a list of twenty-three titles, involving two seasons of Manhattan activities in the drama, with the Barrymore Hamlet, the Cowl Juliet, "Rain," and some of the Theater Guild's pieces stressed as major deprivations.

WALTER WOOLF
He's a baritone and a hit in "The Lady in Ermine."
[Moffett Photo.]

Other communications are in kind, and bear evidence that the writers are in distress, in dismay, or in disgust. . . . "My attention has been called," says Miss Maria Rathenau, "to an article by a New-York feuilletonist,—a Mr. Broun, I think,—who says that plays which please Chicago invariably fail to please New-York, and plays which fail in Chicago always succeed in New-York. Is it that articles of the kind influence the managers in sending plays to this city?"

This is signed An Ex-Professional:

If, as I am told, the producers are afraid of Chicago, they have their impatient greed to blame. They put on a play in this city, and whisk it away unless they get not later than the middle of the first week a box-office verdict promising duplication of New-York prosperity. They do not wait until theater-goers learn about the play, but seem to think that the fact of its having been a success in New-York is the best of reasons for our knowing on the jump whether we want it in Chicago. . . . If the producers would be patient for two or three weeks, their plays, if worth while, would get results here.

And so-on, including some that are bitter in reflections on the community, some that cause the blushes to mount, and some that regard THE TRIBUNE as slack for that it does not urge the ticket-buyers into attendance on what are called "the better things."

What We Miss Matters Little.

It is easy to sympathize with the ticket-buyer who takes to heart the disadvantages of non-residence in New-York, and not easy to share his belief that his disappointments classify as calamities. To be feverish about the theater is to be foolish about it. Here in Chicago, we miss ever so little that is of consequence, as things of the theater go: what is missed matters little, after all.

The answer to the questions raised varies with the case. Mr. Gest, their importer, has relented as to the Moscow actors, as was told in yesterday's issue. Mr. Barrymore is of an eminence to say when, if at all, he shall perform here as the Dane. Miss Cowl, greatly in favor with Manhattan, thinks it unwise to run away from a community which holds her Juliet to be nearly as important as Miss Marilynn Miller's Sally. "Rain," I am credibly informed, is still high in the list of Broadway's best sellers, although it has been on view there more than fourteen months; while the Theater Guild, as I recently explained, is local to New-York, and admirably gelid as to the æsthetic longings of other municipalities.

None save Miss Rathenau and Mr. Broun, himself, remembers his thin bid for laughter,—although it is quite pos-

THE OUTLINE OF SCIENCE

EDITED BY Professor J. ARTHUR THOMSON

A PLAIN STORY SIMPLY TOLD . . . . . VII.—FIRST PLANTS AND ANIMALS; BEGINNINGS OF BODIES; EVOLUTION OF SEX

HOWEVER it may have come about, there is no doubt at all that one of the first great steps in organic evolution was the forking of the genealogical tree into plants and animals—the most important parting of the ways in the whole history of nature.

Typical plants have chlorophyll; they are able to feed at a low chemical level on air, water, and salts, using the energy of the sunlight in their photosynthesis. They have their cells bound in by cellulose walls, so that their opportunities for motility are greatly restricted. They manufacture much more nutritive material than they need, and live far below their income. They have no ready way of getting rid of any nitrogenous waste matter that they may form, and this probably helps to keep them sluggish.

Animals, on the other hand, feed at a high chemical level, on the carbohydrates (e. g., starch and sugar), fats, and proteins (e. g., gluten, albumin, casein) which are manufactured by other animals, or, to begin with, by plants. Their cells have not cellulose walls, nor in most cases much wall of any kind, and motility in the majority is unrestricted. Animals live much more nearly up to their income. If we could make up an animal and a plant of equal weight two fractions showing the ratio of the upbuilding, constructive, chemical processes to the down breaking, disruptive, chemical processes that go on in their respective bodies, the ratio for the plant would be much greater than the corresponding ratio for the animal. In other words, animals take the munitions which plants laboriously manufacture and explode them in locomotion and work; and the entire system of animate nature depends upon the photosynthesis that goes on in green plants.

As the result of much more explosive life animals have to deal with much in the way of nitrogenous waste products, the ashes of the living fire, but these are usually got rid of effectively—e. g., in the kidney filters—and do not clog the system by being deposited as crystals and the like, as happens in plants. Sluggish animals like sea squirts which have no brains are exceptions that prove the rule, and it need hardly always be said that the statements that have been made in regard to the contrasts between plants and animals are general statements. There is often a good deal of the plant about the animal, as in sedentary sponges, zoöphytes, corals, and sea lilies, and there is often a little of the animal about the plant, as we see in the movements of all shoots and roots and flowers, and occasionally in the parts of the flower. But the important fact is that on the early forking of the genealogical tree—i. e., the divergence of plants and animals—there depended and depends all the higher life of the animal kingdom, so to speak of mankind. The continuance of civilization, the upkeep of the human and animal population of the globe, and even the supply of oxygen to the air we breathe depend on the efficient laboratories of the green leaves, which are able with the help of the sunlight to use carbonic acid, water, and salts to build up the bread of life.

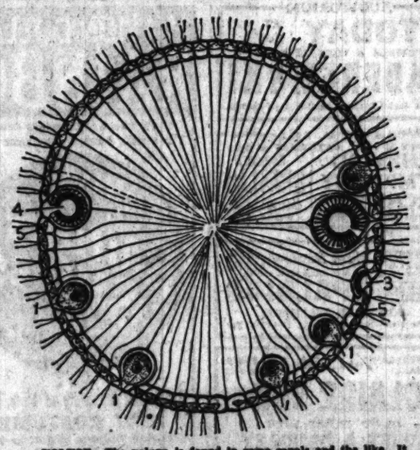
The Beginning of Land Plants.

It is highly probable that for long ages the waters covered the earth, and that all the primeval vegetation consisted of simple Flagellates in the universal open sea. But contortions of the earth's crust brought about elevations and depressions of the sea floor, and in places the solid substratum was brought near enough the surface to allow the floating life to begin to settle down without getting out of the light. This is how Professor Church pictures the beginning of a land vegetation—a momentous step in evolution. It was perhaps among this early vegetation that animals had their first successes. As the floor of the sea in these shallow areas was raised higher and higher there was a beginning of dry land. The sedentary plants already spoken of were the ancestors of the shore seaweeds, and there is no doubt that when we go down at the lowest tide and wade cautiously out among the jungle of vegetation only exposed on such occasions we are getting a glimpse of ancient days. This is the forest primeval.



VOLVOX.—The volvox is found in some canals and the like. It is one of the first animals to suggest the beginning of a body. It is a colony of a thousand or even ten thousand cells, but they are all cells of one kind. In multicellular animals the cells are of different kinds with different functions. Each of the ordinary cells (marked 5) has two lashes or flagella. Daughter colonies inside the parent colony are being formed at 3, 4, and 2. The development of germ cells is shown at 1.

Animals below the level of zoöphytes and sponges are called Protozoa. The word obviously means "first animals," but all we can say is that the simplest of them may give us some hint of the simplicity of the original first animals. For it is quite certain that the vast majority of the Protozoa today are far too complicated to be thought of as primitive. Though most of them are microscopic, each is an animal complete in itself, with the same fundamental bodily attributes as are manifested in ourselves. They differ from animals of higher degree in not being built up of the unit areas or corpuscles called cells. They have no tissues, no organs, in the ordinary acceptation of these words, but many of them show a great complexity of internal structure, far exceeding that of the ordinary cells that build up the tissues of higher animals. They are complete living creatures which have not gone in for body making.

In the dim and distant past there was a time when the only animals were of the nature of Protozoa, and it is safe to say that one of the great steps in evolution was the establishment of three great types of Protozoa: (a) Some were active, the Infusorians, like the slipper animalcule, the night light (Noctiluca), which makes the seas phosphorescent at night, and the deadly Trypanosoma, which causes sleeping sickness. (b) Others were sluggish, the parasitic Sporozoa, like the malaria organism which the mosquito introduces into man's body. (c) Others were neither active nor passive, the Rhizopods, with outflowing processes of living matter. This amœboid line of evolution has been successful: it is represented by the Rhizopods, such as Amœbæ and the chalk forming Forminifera and the exquisitely beautiful flint shelled radiolarians of the open sea. They have their counterparts in the amœboid cells of most multicellular animals, such as the phagocytes which migrate about in the body, engulfing and digesting intruding bacteria, serving as sappers and miners when something has to be broken down and built up again, and performing other useful offices.

A PIECE OF REEF BUILDING CORAL, built up by a large colony of small sea anemonelike polyps, each of which forms from the salts of the sea a skeletop or shell of lime. The wonderful mass of corals, which are beautiful, are the skeleton remains of hundreds of these little creatures.
[From the Smithsonian report.]

The Making of a Body.

THE great naturalist, Louis Agassiz, once said that the biggest gulf in organic nature was that between the unicellular and the multicellular animals (Protozoa and Metazoa). But the gulf was bridged long ago when sponges, stinging animals, and simple worms were evolved, and showed, for the first time, a body. What would one not give to be able to account for the making of a body, one of the great steps in evolution! No one knows, but the problem is not altogether obscure.

When an ordinary Protozoon or one celled animal divides into two or more, which is its way of multiplying, the daughter units thus formed float apart and live independent lives. But there are a few Protozoa in which the daughter units are not quite separated off from one another but remain coherent. Thus Volvox, a beautiful green ball, found in some canals and the like, is a colony of a thousand or even ten thousand cells. It has almost formed a body! But in this colony making Protozoon, and in others like it, the component cells are all of one kind, whereas in true multicellular animals there are different kinds of cells, showing division of labor. There are some other Protozoa in which the nucleus or kernel divides into many nuclei within the cell. This is seen in the Giant Amœba (Pelomyxa), sometimes found in duck ponds, or the beautiful Opalina, which always lives in the hind part of the frog's food canal. If a portion of the living matter of these Protozoa should gather round each of the nuclei, then that would be the beginning of a body. It would be still nearer the beginning of a body if division of labor set in, and if there was a setting apart of egg cells and sperm cells distinct from body cells.

It was possibly in some such way that animals and plants with a body were first evolved. Two points should be noticed, that body making is not essentially a matter of size, though it made large size possible. For the body of a many celled wheel animalcule or rotifer is no bigger than many a protozoon. Yet the rotifer—we are thinking of hydatina—has nine hundred odd cells, whereas the protozoon has only one, except in forms like volvox. Secondly, it is a luminous fact that every many celled animal from sponge to man that multiplies in the ordinary way begins at the beginning again as a "single cell," the fertilized egg cell. It is, of course, not an ordinary single cell that develops into an earthworm or a butterfly, an eagle, or a man; it is a cell in which a rich inheritance, the fruition of ages, is somehow condensed; but it is interesting to bear in mind the elementary fact that every many celled creature, reproduced in the ordinary way and not by budding or the like, starts as a fertilized egg cell. The coherence of the daughter cells into which the fertilized egg cell divides is a reminiscence, as it were, of the primeval coherence of daughter units that made the first body possible.

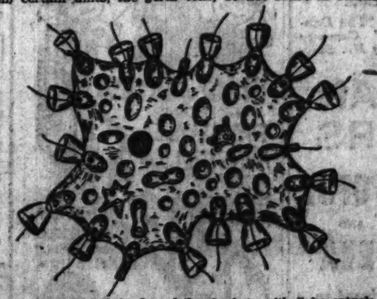
The Beginning of Sexual Reproduction.

A FRESH water hydra, growing on the duckweed, usually multiplies by budding. It forms daughter buds, living images of itself; a check comes to nutrition and these daughter buds go free. A big sea anemone may divide in two or more parts, which become separate animals. This is a sexual reproduction, which means that the multiplication takes place by dividing into two or many portions, and not by liberating egg cells and sperm cells. Among animals, as among plants, a sexual reproduction is common. But it has great disadvantages, for it is apt to be physiologically expensive, and it is beset with difficulties when the body shows great division of labor, and is intimately bound into unity. Thus, no one can think of a bee or a bird multiplying by division or by budding. Moreover, if the body of the parent has suffered from injury or deterioration, the result of this is bound to be handed on to the next generation if a sexual reproduction is the only method.

Splitting into two or many parts was the old fashioned way of multiplying, but one of the great steps in evolution was the discovery of a better method, namely, sexual reproduction. The gist of this is simply that during the process of body building (by the development of the fertilized egg cell) certain units, the germ cells, do not share in forming ordinary tissues or organs, but remain apart, continuing the full inheritance which was condensed in the fertilized egg cell. These cells kept by themselves are the originators of the future reproductive cells of the mature animal; they give rise to the egg cells and the sperm cells.



PROTEROSPONGIA.—One of the simplest multicellular animals, illustrating the beginning of a body. There is a setting apart of egg cells and sperm cells, distinct from body cells; the collared lashed cells on the margin are different in kind from those farther in. Thus, as in indubitable multicellular animals, division of labor has begun.

The advantages of this method are great. (1) The new generation is started less expensively, for it is easier to shed germ cells into the cradle of the water than to separate off half of the body. (2) It is possible to start a great many new lives at once, and this may be of vital importance when the struggle for existence is keen, and when parental care is impossible. (3) The germ cells are little likely to be prejudicially affected by disadvantageous dints impressed on the body of the parent—little likely unless the dints have peculiarly penetrating consequences, as in the case of poisons. (4) A further advantage is implied in the formation of two kinds of germ cells—the ovum or egg cell, with a considerable amount of building material and often with a legacy of nutritive yolk; the spermatozoon of sperm cell, adapted to move in fluids and to find the ovum from a distance, thus securing change provoking cross fertilization.

The Evolution of Sex.

ANOTHER of the great steps in organic evolution was the differentiation of two different physiological types, the male or sperm producer and the female or egg producer. It seems to be a deep seated difference in constitution, which leads one egg to develop into a male, and another, lying beside it in the nest, into a female. In the case of pigeons it seems almost certain, from the work of Prof. Oscar Riddle, that there are two kinds of egg, a male producing egg and a female producing egg, which differ in their yolk forming and other physiological characters.

In sea urchins we often find two creatures superficially indistinguishable, but the one is a female with large ovaries and the other is a male with equally large testes. Here the physiological difference does not affect the body as a whole, but the reproductive organs or gonads only, though more intimate physiology would doubtless discover differences in the blood or in the chemical routine (metabolism). In a large number of cases, however, there are marked superficial differences between the sexes, and every one is familiar with such contrasts as peacock and peahen, stag and hind. In such cases the physiological difference between the sperm producer and the ovum producer, for this is the essential difference, saturates through the body and expresses itself in masculine and feminine structures and modes of behavior. The expression of the masculine and feminine characters is in some cases under the control of hormones or chemical messengers which are carried by the blood from the reproductive organs throughout the body, and pull the trigger which brings about the development of an antler or a wattle or a decorative plume or a capacity for vocal and saltatory display. In some cases it is certain that the female carries in a latent state the masculine features, but these are kept from expressing themselves by other chemical messengers from the ovary. Of these chemical messengers more must be said later on.

Recent research has shown that while the difference between male and female is deep rooted, corresponding to a difference in gearing, it is not always clearcut. Thus a hen pigeon may be masculine, and a cock pigeon feminine. The difference is in degree, not in-kind.

triumph. Sounds press-agenty, doesn't it? But, really, every one in Hollywood was there. Barbara, who came with her husband, Jack Daugherty, and Eugene O'Brien, Paul Bern, and Lew Cody, was in a Callot gown of pink and blue charmeuse. The skirt was caught up in the front with narrow ribbons of the material and tied tightly to form the waist line. A strand of pearls was wound around her left arm.

Agnes Ayres was in peach georgette, heavily embroidered in crystal beads. Nita Naldi wore lustrous black and ruby rings and bracelets. Mary Astor's auburn hair and red-brown eyes were effectively contrasted in a gown of white lamé with crystal paillettes and a cape of gold and gold lace. Jacqueline Logan was in green and silver.

Pola Negri wore a tiara of diamonds and sunburst of pearls with a diamond center. Her gown was of white satin and pearls.

Shirley Mason, who came with Bobby Agnew, was in peach georgette and gold lace. Viola Dana was in gold moire, with gold slippers and stockings.

Bill Hart, Dimitri Buchowetzki (Pola's new director), Marie Prevost and Kenneth Harlan, Francis X. Bushman and Beverly Bayne, Conway Tearle and Adele Rowland, Frank Mayo, Billie Dove and Irvin Willat, Alleen Pringle, Rod La Rocque, and George Fitzmaurice and Louise Fazenda were also guests of Miss La Marr.

Louise Fazenda had her twenty-fifth birthday on Friday, and called in everybody at Warner Bros.' to share in an informal luncheon in her dressing room.

Things of the Theater, and the Persons Thereof

dicle that all the managers in New-York told him at the time that it was what is called there a wow. . . . And it may be that An Ex-Professional's letter is an unwitting explanation of why he is an ex-professional. The manager who ventures here with a New-York success is justified in deciding that it is accepted or rejected on a basis of its first half-week. Mr. Miller, quick to discern that we are not interested in "The Changelings," cuts his rope. Miss Reed's management finds hope in the night-to-night taking at the gate, and stays on.

Those We Neglected.

The more candid managers tell us that we are uncultured in our playgoing as compared to the New-Yorkers, and prove it by the figures of their actuaries. They point out that we remain away from superior exhibitions that have entranced the other metropolis, and thus provide reason for the impression that we care only for the ruder, the simpler, and the less cerebral divertissements of the stage.

They say what is true when they tell that we ignored "Androcles," "Liliom," "Loyalties," "A Bill of Divorcement," and other items. We paid small heed and less money when the Moscow actors were here last year. The Chauve-Souris didn't do so well; and there is room any night at "Œdipus Rex." We are all right, they say, on "Lightin'," "The Fool," "Abie's Irish Rose," and the théâtre of William T. Hodge, but a bit backward on the Russian Opera, the Ballet Russe, Duse, and other matters designed for the sophisticates.

And, so far as I can see, there isn't anything helpful that may be done about it.

THIS-AND-THAT

Kaufman and Connelly's new piece, "Beggar on Horseback," is to be performed to music by Deems Taylor. . . . Their musical comedy, "Helen of Troy [N.-Y.]," is withdrawn from performance because, the management explains, its run is too speedy for communities other than Manhattan.

Mr. Kaufman is working on a new play in collaboration with Miss Edna Ferber, the novelist.

Mrs. Thyra Samter Winslow is making a stage-version of her novel called "Picture Frames." . . . As Thyra Samter, the author was at one time a reporter for THE TRIBUNE.

The organization of box-office men of Chicago theaters will give their annual dance Wednesday night, after 11:00 o'clock, in the Hotel Sherman.

Edward Shedlon, not so active in recent seasons, is to have a new play tried out by Stuart Walker. . . . Samuel Shipman's most recent play is called "Cheaper to Marry."

Emmett Corrigan is to appear in a new piece by Jerome K. Jerome called "The Soul of Nicholas Snyders." . . . Martin Harvey is seriously thinking of coming back next season to do "The Only Way."

"The New Poor," in which Lyn Harding has been acting, is in the discard, although the Manhattan critics called it immense. . . . Cosmo Hamilton wrote it; and, for that reason, there was talk of bringing it hither, where his "Scandal" was regarded as quelque-chose.

John Barrymore, having explained that he is too tired to play his scheduled Chicago engagement in "Hamlet," says he will take his company to London and play there. . . . The Hattons, who have been out in Los Angeles writing movies, are again to be represented on the stage: their new one is named "The Lady-Killer."

Miss Marjorie Rambeau, whose New-York run in "The Road Together" was cut to one night because she mispronounced "thermometer," is told she may find sanctuary and salary in the two-a-day.

James J. Corbett is to impersonate John T. King, the phantom philanthropist of the Anti-Saloon League litigation, in a sketch to be inserted this week in the Follies; that is, the New-York edition. . . . The Chicago edition will be on view three weeks longer, making an engagement of nine weeks instead of the ten announced.

"New Toys," in which Ernest Truex was expected to come to Chicago, has been tossed into the alley; and he is looking for another piece. . . . If the actors go on strike next Summer, says Mr. Ziegfeld, he will take Eddie Cantor in "Kid Boots" to London.

Miss Phoebe Foster, who was here a year ago in "Captain Applejack," is to have the principal feminine part in Max Marcin's "Silence," among the new plays named for an early Chicago showing. . . . "The Show-Off," by the chap who wrote "The Torchbearers," is to have a Manhattan hearing this week.

Reinhardt to Stage a Musical Play.

When Max Reinhardt returns in the autumn he will, he says, stage two pieces, one of which will be musical. . . . Among his notable successes in Berlin was a revival of Offenbach's opera-bouffe called "Orpheus in the Underworld"—a piece of rich fun which survives in this country only through the tune of its famous can-can.

Reinhardt, before sailing, said he would stage "Outward Bound" in Berlin and Vienna. This English play is listed among the hits, if not the successes, now in New-York.

Madame Simon, who acted in Chicago in "The Return to Jerusalem" early in 1913, is back in the United States, and is to perform in "Open House," by Samuel Ruskin Golding. . . . She meant nothing to the public when last in this country.

Another comedy from the Hungarian is "Fata Morgana," by Ernst Vajda; the Theater Guild of New-York is to stage it there. . . . The Guild's production of Shaw's "Saint Joan" is a popular success, by all accounts.

Johnny Dooley, regarded hereabout as killingly comic, was boo'd the other night in London, where he performed in a piece called "The Three Graces." . . . The movie-men are to make films of "Aren't We All?" and "Tarnish," New-York successes of the season. Although the latter hasn't been acted elsewhere, $75,000 is paid for the screen-rights.

"Rust" is a new play: Robert R. Presnell, once of Chicago, wrote it. "Saturday Night," also his, is another. . . . "The Dust-Heap," by Bernard J. McOwen, is a third.

Miss Queenie Smith, an unknown who caught New-York's fancy in "Helen of Troy (N.-Y.)," is to go into "Pat," by Bolton, Wodehouse, and Kern. . . . William Kent and Jack Donahue are to be the comic fellows of the piece.

Miss Doris Keane, here last year in "The Czarina," and Jacob Ben-Ami, looked upon by many as a great actor, are co-stars in "Welded," a play by Eugene O'Neill in which Miss Barrymore was expected to appear.

Miss Hazel Dawn is mentioned as an addition to Mr. Belasco's list of stars. . . . So also is Miss Helen Menken, who has been playing in New-York in "The Seventh Heaven" for the last fifteen months.

Al Jolson, under a new contract with the Messrs. Shubert, is said to receive $5,000 a week and fifty percent of the profits. . . . Also, it is told of him that he will be paid $10,000 a disc, with a minimum of twenty-four discs a year, for each record made by him.

Channing Pollock, whose "The Fool" is among the inexplicable pastimes of the American people, announces a new piece, "The Enemy." . . . Tillie Durieux is to spend what is left of the season acting in German, and in the Autumn will come after us in English.

Barney Bernard, still paired with Alexander Carr in "Partners Again," is to have a new play by Montague Glass. . . . John Drew is said to be asking $3,500 a week for the two-a-day, with $2,750 bid by the magnates.

Memo Benasi, who won some attention here as leading-man in Dusé's four performances, is to go into the movies with Pola Negri. . . . A new play, "The Marionette-Man," has been tossed into the garbage-can after a week's trial.

THEY'RE IN TONIGHT'S NEW PLAYS

MISS MYRTLE SCHAAF
[White Photo.]

Miss Schaaf comes to sing the title-part of "Caroline," and is,—at least, in such important employment,—new to us. The bulletin sent hither by the management says she has been of the Metropolitan Opera, and that Antonio Scotti, a good picker, thinks well of her future. If the photograph be faithful, Miss Schaaf is worth looking at.

MISS SYDNEY SHIELDS
[Lewis-Smith Photo.]

Miss Shields returns to perform as the comely object of a bad Chinaman's malefic wiles in "Mr. Wu," in which Walker Whiteside is the bad Chinaman. She is among the well-known actresses who play what in the jargon of the stage are called "leads"; and she was with Mr. Whiteside when he made his Chicago run in his own play of "The Hindoo."

New Playbills

OPENING TONIGHT:

"Caroline" [Garrick]: An operetta made over from the German by Harry B. Smith and Edward Delaney Dunn, with music by E. Kunneke and Edward Rideamus. The locale in the adaptation is Richmond (Va.), and the period soon after the War of the Rebellion. The piece has had a run in New-York City, where nice things were printed about the tunes. The cast announced includes Miss Myrtle Schaaf, J. Harold Murray, Harrison Brockbank, Miss Viola Gillette, Miss Violet Carlson, Rupert Darrell, John Wheeler, Miss Lizzie B. Raymond, and Ben Linn.

Walker Whiteside in "Mr. Wu" [The Playhouse]: The well-known star in the title-rôle of a play he has never acted in Chicago, although a decade ago it engaged his talents in New-York. It is by H. M. Vernon and Harold Owen, English dramatists; and it was the subject of a long London run before the world-war. Mr. Wu is a Chinese mandarin who undertakes to avenge the defilement of his daughter by the son of an English magnate. Miss Sydney Shields, Miss Lucille Husting, David Bellbridge, and Harold Vosburgh are of the cast. The locale is in and near Hong-Kong.

OPENING THURSDAY NIGHT:

Martin Harvey in "The Breed of the Treshams" [Great Northern]: The English actor-knight in a piece classifying as romantic melodrama in which he has acted for many years in Great Britain. Although the play is the work of American writers, Evelyn Greenleaf Sutherland and Beulah Marie Dix, it has never been acted in the United States. The period of the tale is that of Great Britain's civil wars; and the part acted by Mr. Harvey involves him in swordplay, scenes of derring-do, and the excitements one associates with the scamps of the stage who have true nobility of heart. . . . Mr. Harvey will continue his interesting revival of Sophocles' "Œdipus Rex" through the first half of the new week.

MONDAY, FEBRUARY 11:

Margaret Anglin in "A Woman of No Importance" [Blackstone]: A revival by the well-known star of one of Oscar Wilde's four comedies of English society in the early Nineties. She has acted in it elsewhere, but never in Chicago. . . . Miss Anglin implies that she may give other plays in the course of her engagement.

SUNDAY, FEBRUARY 17:

Mary Ryan in "Red-Light Annie" [Princess]: Return of another well-known star, with a play which is said to have been among the popular successes when she performed it in New-York. The piece is by Norman Houston and Sam Forrest.

Inquiries Are Invited

From Mail Order, Proprietary and General Advertisers Interested in More and Better Business

Personal Representative of Charles C. Green, Prominent New York Advertising Agency Chief, Now at Hotel La Salle

Mr. Douglas Wakefield Coutlee, Director of Mail Order Division of the Charles C. Green Advertising Agency, Inc., New York, will be at the Hotel La Salle February 4th, 5th, and 6th, where he will be glad to receive telephone or written inquiries from Chicago advertisers who are seeking increased sales at lower costs.

Book Publishers who sell by mail will be interested in learning how we reduced the selling cost of Theo. Audel & Co.'s books from 35% to 18% and increased their volume of sales.

Proprietary Medicine Concerns could learn something to their profit from the inside story of our success with such proprietaries as Gude's Pepto-Mangan, Odol, Neutroids, Endazoin and others.

Musical Instrument manufacturers might well adapt to their own lines the idea that has increased Hohner Harmonica sales 75%.

General Advertisers in every line can get a definite check on our advertising, merchandising, copy and sales ability, as well as an indication of the type and character of accounts we are serving by studying the campaigns of Wiss Cutlery, Krageuter Pliers, Mueller's Macaroni, O'Keefe's Ginger Ale, Nu-Bone Corsets, Kroydon Golf Clubs and other notable successes.

Why Odol Chose Green

"Gentlemen: This is to advise you that after careful consideration of the various advertising agencies soliciting our account, your agency has been selected because of our belief in your practical experience, which should well qualify you to put into effect productive advertising plans for us. Very truly yours, Odol Chemical Corporation, (signed) R. D. Jackson, President."

Inquiries Invited

Advertisers of reputable products in every line are invited to inquire about the complete service available through this fully accredited and progressive agency. Your letters or telephone inquiries will be welcomed and handled in a prompt, confidential manner. No obligation, of course. Merely an offer of service—and more business. Please address Mr. D. W. Coutlee at the Hotel La Salle, February 4th to 6th, or write him at headquarters, 15 West 37th St., New York.

None the Less a Star, Even Though She Lacks the Title

the first two acts nicely. Then his throat closed up and he had a hard time with the last act, in spite of which the evening was a good deal of a triumph for him. He is a good actor, a forceful actor, and he played a part rich with dramatic opportunities. Did you ever know an actor who was not good playing crazy men?

The hero of this yarn has been balmy for twenty years. Ever since he fell from his horse and bumped his head on a stone while he was getting ready to impersonate Henry IV. of Rome at a masquerade ball he has believed he was Henry himself. His friends and relatives have humored him to the extent of building an imitation court around him and dressing his attendants according to his fancy.

Now alienists are going to try to cure him by duplicating as nearly as possible the situations leading up to his accidental bump on the head. And just about the time they have the stage all set the crazy man throws off his living mask and confesses that he has been saner than any of them for years, inasmuch as he has been sane enough to remain insane and thus escape disgusting contacts with a world of hypocrites.

After which he exposes one woman as a fickle and shallow flirt who betrayed his love of her in the old days and stabs the libertinous gent who was her partner in the affair. Which starts him upon such a raving for revenge that the attendants forcibly restrain him.

Thus we leave him, without any particular reluctance, either mad or half mad. Ernita Lascelles and Warburton Gamble are prominent in Mr. Korff's support.

Interesting Character Study.

The night following "The Living Mask" party Mr. Pemberton, who is an active and honest experimentalist in the theater, produced another one called "Mr. Pitt." This by Zona Gale, and taken, in part at least, from her novel called "Birth."

It is a pleasant little native comedy, not altogether sound as to its psychology, it seems to me, but fairly interesting as a character study. Pitt is the inarticulate underdog with a good heart and a sweetness of spirit that irritate in place of inspiring the respect of his friends.

As a canvasser for canned fruits he meets a small town girl at the height of her grief over the loss of her father. His sympathy charms her and she needs a man to help straighten out her affairs. So she marries him.

But that night in Chicago she knows she has made an awful mistake. Not only is Pitt a poor fish, but he won't even try to swim. He can't dance, he says ain't, people laugh at him, and he favors the old fashioned or exposed toothpick manual.

For a year she sticks to him, and then she runs away with the trombonist of a traveling jazz band, taking her week old baby with her. The trombonist, however, objects to the baby Stealing a man's wife—that's all right. But his kid—that's something else again. So Mrs. Pitt takes the baby back home and runs away again—alone. And poor old Pitt never sees her after that.

Twenty years later he comes back from the Klondike with $125,000, but all his prayers to be different are still unanswered. He just can't talk and act like other folks. Even now his grown son, back from Harvard, is ashamed of him.

Pitt has too many virtues to be thus generally misunderstood. His kindness and generosity and deep love of humanity in general, capped with his fighting determination to overcome his timidity and awkwardness, make it difficult for the audience to believe that he could possibly continue such a boob as he is made out to be.

Hence the play is not as convincing as it should be. The cast, however, is excellent. Walter Huston gives a splendid performance as Pitt, and Minna Gombell is sweetly inconsistent as Mrs. Pitt.

Antoinette Perry, widow of Frank Freuauff of Denver, returns to the stage as one of the minor principals in "Mr. Pitt." When David Warfield was in his first year in "The Music Master" Miss Perry was his leading woman. As Antoinette Freuauff she has been prominent in New York and Newport society the last several years, and her return to the stage is something of a surprise to her friends.

"Justifies His Existence."

The day after Henry Miller offered "Fanshastics" at the Miller theater, Bobby Welch of The Telegram (who hates like everything to be called Bobby), mentioned its kinship or humor with "The Merry Wives of Windsor," calling it "The Merry Wives of Old New York."

And the day after that H. M., being a quick one to see a point, changed the title of "Fanshastics" to "The Merry Wives of Gotham." And yet there do be those who argue that dramatic critics are practically a total loss.

"Fanshastics" that was, "The Merry Wives" that is, has another interesting bit of history. The wives in it are presumably twin sisters who were taken as infants in arms from a St. Anne orphangae in Ireland forty-three years before the play opens.

One of the infants, named Anne, was brought to America by the actress who adopted her, and later married a Knickerbocker aristocrat named De Rhonde. The other, named Annie, brought up by a Killarney farmer's wife, married O'Tandy of that county, who also came to New York, and in 1873 was a sort of land jumper around the goat pastures at 69th street and 5th avenue. The fact that O'Tandy built his shanty on a De Rhonde lot is the circumstance that brings the twins together again, though neither suspects the relationship.

When Laurence Eyre wrote the play some months back he passed it first to Mrs. Fiske, thinking she would be lovely as the aristocratic Anne De Rhonde. And Mrs. Fiske thought so, too. But she wanted Laurette Taylor to play the Irish Annie, and Laurette was in no mood for a co-starring venture at the time.

So, as it fell out, the parts went to Grace George and Laura Hope Crews, and they are doing beautifully by them in Mr. Miller's production.

Cast Saves It.

There is a nice point for discussion developed by this play. After the sisters meet, the one a washerwoman, the other an artistocrat, they feel an instant bond of sympathy which neither can exactly explain. They see things alike, particularly humorous things, which takes in husbands. And each immediately catches the other's point of view. "It's really fantastic," declares the polysyllabic Anne De Rhonde. "That's what it is," agrees Annie O'Tandy, "it's fanshastic."

Drawn into the realty war of their respective mates, these merry wives maneuver the situation until everything is clear again. Then the O'Tandys decide to go to Chicago to live, and the De Rhondes resume their social activities in New York. This parting of the sisters, with no one but the author and the audience having any idea that they are sisters, is one of the moving scenes of the play.

As entertainment "The Merry Wives" is a bit sluggish with sentiment and slightly wild in its two acts of melodrama. But it has been beautifully staged and cast by Mr. Miller, and its chances of success, I should say, are fair to middling. Arthur Sinclair, who came over with the Irish Players, plays O'Tandy, and Burton Churchill, the late Gen. Lee, is the De Rhonde.

Critic Names Last Month's Best Pictures

makes it such a funny picture. And so true to life, said the lady writing.)

"A WOMAN OF PARIS." So much has been said of this picture, Charles Chaplin directing, for a change, brings Edna Purviance his former leading woman, back to us as a star. With great artistry he takes little or no plot and, it might be said, putting one—no dog whatever makes a great and thrilling and true to life photoplay.

* *

"THE COURTSHIP OF MYLES STANDISH" is of more value as a chronicle of early Pilgrim days than anything else. The courtship itself doesn't develop until the film is almost over. The picture is well done, but too long.

* *

"THE MAIL MAN" I liked because it was human and thrilling and well acted. Ralph Lewis and Johnny Walker did some great teamwork.

"TWENTY-ONE." Fine picture with a fine cast. Richard Barthelmess and Dorothy Mackaill were the lovable and piteous youngsters in the leading rôles.

* *

"THE GOVERNOR'S LADY" was made from the David Belasco stage success and, as a picture, I think it "repeated." Jane Grey as the "lady" I loved.

And now, saki she, cockadoodledoo. I'm through LONG before I had to be through!

See you tomorrow!

Ask Me! Ask Me!

E. M. M.: A letter will reach Miss Normand if sent to her in care of the Mack Sennett studios, Hollywood, Cal.

R. D. C.: I'm always glad when I can help you out. Alan Forrest appears in "Long Live the King" as "Nikky." Remember? He was married to Ann Little, but is now the husband of Lottie Pickford. He was at one time leading man for Mary Miles Minter. He is to appear with Mary Pickford in a coming picture. He was educated in Cleveland, O. As regards your other question, I do not know. Entirely welcome.

CONSTANT READER: Don't blame you for wanting her picture. Write to Miss Rich, care of the J. K. McDonald Productions. Send 25 cents. Photographs cost money to the photograph-ee, you know, and when a star is being continually requested to oblige—well—if you want the picture I'd send the quarter, if I were you.

LINCOLN 4: Welcome, Stranger—EUT—go easy!

R. W.: Well—Montreal calling! That's nice! I'm so glad you like the column. We'll try to print her picture just to oblige you. I agree with you that she is pretty. Also clever. Write again some time.

S. J. C.: The name of "the fair one" you refer to was Maud Wayne. You ask me and I'll ask you.

Voice of the Movie Fan

Kicks, Boosts, Hopes.

Dear Miss Tinée: A lot of things have been piling up since you have heard from me, so here I am again! I am going to express a kick, a boost, and a hope. Here goes!

I saw nine of the fifteen photoplays you elected as 1923's best and, without carefully considering any of your choices, I am inclined to agree with you. But—it's a mighty big but.

What were the features that made "Ponjola" one of the hallowed ones? The plot was a hackneyed one, the acting only mediocre, and—most important of all—it was absolutely boring. Give us poor actors, give us punk directing, give us terrible photography, but please give us entertaining stories. Whatever might have been the good features of "Ponjola," it was entirely ruined by an absolutely impossible plot. I'm sure that any one of the month's best pictures could surpass it by several lengths. So much for that.

I can't find enough praise for "Boy of Mine"—a good, straightforward picture, presenting a true portrayal of life as it exists in some American homes. It was superbly acted and directed. Moral: Why go all over the globe hunting for material for good motion pictures when our own homes furnish the best stuff anyhow?

Just now I'm all het up about "Stephen Steps Out." I am quite sure Douglas Fairbanks Jr. is headed straight for that elusive little spot called success. Don't you think so? Here is one picture that proves it does not take love interest to make a picture snappy and brimful of entertainment. If you ever see R. H. L., please tell him he is a wonderful actor, but he lugged too much slim space.

I hope that 1924 will see the production of more pictures like the latter two, and I hope we will see a great deal more of Ben Alexander. I think he's a peach! I hope also that "Merton of the Movies" will get into the movies with Glenn Hunter in the title rôle. And that's all. SEVENTEEN.

Giving Joseph a Hearing.

Dear Miss Tinée: Does the public really know a good actress when it sees one?

Even if Gloria Swanson can wear beautiful clothes and draw a large salary, she can't act. Tell me, who could act in such gowns? It would be impossible.

There are many actresses on the screen who are really actresses. Take for instance, the case of Mae Busch. She is what one would call an actress, but she is never given the right part. The only part that suited her was in "The Christian." She was wonderful in it.

Another good actress who was not getting good parts is Bebe Daniels. I would like to add that she is my favorite. Those all star cast pictures were ruining her. Now I hope she will be able to get good plays.

And listen, Mae, Bebe is the perfect Juliet. You would have known it this before if you had seen her in "Singed Wings."

I have an awful lot to say for a 15 year old "Qu'en pensez-vous?"

J. A.

[Editor's Note—I'll say you know what you like, anyway, Joseph! That's something!]

Here Is Simple Music That Gives Dramatic Effects

dark places, but an honest effort to project operatic music as clearly and well as circumstances would permit.

For this reason, quite sufficient in itself, the performance meets a need, and Conductor Nathaniel Finston will in all probability continue the series from time to time. Future events may possibly turn out to be a few high spots from operas whose length forbids their being given in anything like complete form. "Il Trovatore" might be one. "Hansel and Gretel" is another possibility, a charming work with music good enough to stand by itself and not in need of much cutting.

Symphony Looks Forward.

Boston approves the singers of the Civic Opera company, but found only languid appreciation of the season's having started with "L'Africana," which was much the same verdict that was given when this echo from the past appeared at the Auditorium. The Civic Opera bases its future operations on Patrick Henry's opinion that we can judge the future only by the past, and its list of operas for next season will, on Mr. Insull's authority, conform thereto. The theory works sometimes, if not invariably. But one is inclined to wonder what sort of programs the Chicago Symphony orchestra would be giving if its plans were held to such a course. What would result from thirty-three seasons of the orchestral equivalents in time and musical development of Verdi and Donizetti? Maurice Ravel would be a daring experiment, and the young composers of modern England would be entirely unheard.

Mr. Stock announces as one of the features of this week's programs the Granados Symphonic Poem, "Dante." It calls for contralto solos as well as orchestra, and Sophie Braslau will sing them. She also will give voice to "Gerechter Gott," from Wagner's "Rienzi," and five songs with orchestral accompaniment by Moussorgsky. The orchestra will also play the overture to Gluck's "Iphigenia en Aulide," a new "Indian Rhapsody" by Carl Busch, and Tschaikowsky's "Francesca da Rimini," the last named as a companion piece to the Granados work.

Here and There in Music.

Mrs. Frederic Shurtleff Coolidge, the sponsor of the annual Berkshire chamber music festivals, has presented to the library of congress the composers' autograph scores of the works that have won prizes in the international competitions preceding the festivals. In connection with the gift, Mrs. Coolidge also offers three recitals in which certain of the compositions will be played. These will take place on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday afternoons of this week at the Freer Gallery of Art, Washington. The Festival quartet of South Mountain, the Elshuco trio, and the Lenox quartet will appear, assisted by Harold Bauer, pianist; Lionel Tertis, violinist; George Barrère, flutist, and others.

One of the most entertaining features in connection with jazz music is the development of jazz language that goes to herald it. Here is a specimen, culled at random from the announcement of some recently released records. Perhaps it has solved the problem of transmuting music into words, though this department admits some difficulty in ascertaining just what happened:

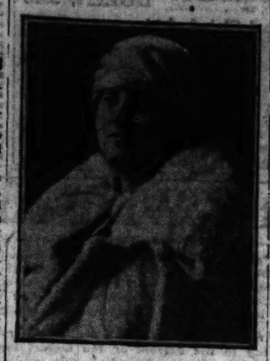
"A bold, almost heroic introduction passes on to the verse done in brisk tempo to a spanking after beat with few instruments doing fatigue duty. The first refrain is played as a chorale by the exclusive saxaphone portion of the orchestra, with rhythm pronounced and the banjo pushing up from the depths. The scoring throughout is orderly. The cornet pleads his chorus with all the fervor to be found in a noble romantic sonnet, while the violin counters with ornate arabesques. It is a dignified dance music and unmistakably Lyman."

The choir of the First Methodist church of Irving Park will present a Gounod program this afternoon at the church. "Gallia" and "By Babylon's Wave" will be sung. The organist and director is Robert J. Gomer Jones. Solo parts will be sung by Kathryn Witwer, Eulah Cornor, H. W. Stoller, Dr. Howard Lagerquist, and M. D. Strong.

The music department is cheered by finding on a notice of a recital program by Tito Schipa at Pittsburgh that "Una furtiva lagrima" is translated "A furtive tear." Membership in the said team is not particularized, but the announcement called 3,500 people together to hear Mr. Schipa sing.

The Chicago Artists' association will give its annual frolic and dance in the assembly hall, Fine Arts building, on Tuesday evening. "The Sheik's Daughter," or "All for Love," will be presented. Proceeds are to be devoted to the educational fund.

IN RECITAL.



EDITH MASON.
[Copyright: Moffett Photo.]

She is better known in this part of the world for her achievements in opera than in concert, but in the intervals when she is not portraying operatic heroines she sings recitals as well. She has appeared in recitals here and in New York this season, in both of which she received critical as well as popular commendation.

Music Notes

Mr. Paderewski's recital program this afternoon at the Auditorium will be different in detail from that of last Sunday, but much the same in character. It includes the Bach-Liszt Fantasia and Fugue in G minor, two sets of variations—one by Haydn, the other, Brahms' on a Paganini theme—the Beethoven Sonata, op. 31, No. 2, Mozart's Rondo in A minor, a Chopin group, and the Mozart-Liszt Fantasia on "Don Giovanni."

The New York String quartet will make its first visit to Chicago this afternoon at the Blackstone. Its members are Ottokar Cadek, first violin; Jaroslav Siakovsky, second violin; Ludvik Schwab, viola; and Bedrich Vaska, cello. Its assignments here will be Beethoven's C minor, op. 18, No. 4; Dvorak's F major, op. 96; two short pieces by Joseph Suk, and two sketches by Eugene Goossens.

Joseph Schwarz, engaged the other day for operatic appearances next winter, will give fifteen performances during the season. It is quite likely that he will repeat the same part of "Rigoletto" and Iago in "Otello," in which latter, though neither Italian nor Anglo-Saxon, he displayed brilliant insight into both Verdi's music and Shakespeare's drama. He will also sing the three baritone rôles in "The Tales of Hoffmann," and is being held in reserve, in case there should be German opera, for "Tannhäuser" and "Parsifal."

Claire Dux, soprano of the Chicago Civic Opera company and of concert fame, will be the guest artist in appearances with the Swift & Company male chorus at Orchestra hall on Feb. 12. The chorus is composed of about seventy-five voices. D. A. Clippinger is the conductor, Edgar Nelson will be the organist, and Adalbert Huguelet the accompanist.

Twenty-seven members of the Civic Opera company's ballet signed a few days ago this letter to the president of the company:

"We, the undersigned, members of the Chicago Civic Opera company, wish to express our appreciation of the work Mr. Bolm has done with us and for us, his interest in our welfare, and stimulating interest for greater improvement in our work. His untiring efforts at all times to promote a higher standard of art in the ballet has been a redounding and abiding credit to the Chicago Civic Opera company.

"We furthermore wish to state our sincere and deep regret that Mr. Bolm will not be the creator of the ballets and the ballet master for 1924-'25. For each individual of the ballet it will be a personal loss not to be a co-worker with such a leader, and for the public the loss is fully as great. We again express deep and sincere regret."

A comment from the Philadelphia Public Ledger on Mr. Stock's recent visit there as guest conductor:

"He showed himself even more convincingly than when he appeared with his own Chicago players, some years ago—a leader of mind and heart, of deep reverence, of inspired intuitions. He takes his firm stand with those who think more of the music for its own sake than of the glory of him who directs it, who may easily allow himself to become archpriest in a cult of hero worshipers, to his own detriment."

The Straight Silhouette Lines Call for the "Wrap-Around" Corset

—Third Floor—Dearborn Street—

Fashion follows the "stage." Do you see large hips, enlarged waistlines or over-busted women on the stage, in the movies or otherwise? Or do you see the same graceful, slender figures you have always seen, but softly corseted, with the corset perfectly fitted to their individual figure requirements? They wear the Warner "Wrap-Around"—"You Wrap it and Snap it." It gives them that easy, soft, graceful look. Warner's "Wrap-Around" is a corset built upon an entirely new principle.

They are made of fine, firm brocades and coutils and narrow sections of fine, firm elastic that extend from the top to the bottom of the Corset and that stretch only enough to let you "wrap it and snap it." Your admiration will kindle the moment you try on the "Wrap-Around." Sizes up to 40 in models to fit all figures, and we fit them without extra charge.

We are having a tremendous demand for these cleverly designed garments. Warner's "Wrap-Around," style 115, as illustrated, for the plump figure; very low-topped; comes just a trifle above the waistline in the back to avoid that "cut in" feeling; has two sections of elastic so placed that it insures a very straight back; wide graduated front clasp with two riveted hooks below, has an extra hip shield that gives a very smooth, unwrinkled hip; six hose supporters; sizes to 40, at..... $5

Warner "Wrap-Around," style 153, as illustrated—note how beautifully the closed back fits—14 inches long—it comes down under the figure, with hose supporters so arranged that the pull is in just the right place to give a very smooth back. We especially recommend this model for the woman who has given up her corset for a time and wants to get back into corsets again; sizes to 35, at..... $3

Space prevents describing the various styles of "Wrap-Arounds" shown in the illustration, but come in tomorrow and have one fitted to your figure. Choice at..... $2 and up to 7.50

THE BEST JOKE I EVER HEARD

What is the best joke you ever heard? If you'll write it out and it is published, $1 will be paid. No manuscripts returned. Address Best Jokes Editor, The Sunday Tribune, Chicago.

Puzzling.

First Freshman—I can't find a pin. Where do they all go to?

Second Freshman—It's hard to tell. They're pointed in one direction and headed in another. V. L.

As One Deaf.

"Is it possible to confide a secret in you, Jill?"

"Certainly, Jim. I will be as silent as the grave."

"Well, then, I have pressing need for two dollars."

"Worry not, my friend. It is as if I had heard nothing." D. H.

Not at All.

Doctor—You are slightly morbid, my dear lady. You should look about you and marry again.

Widow—O doctor, is—is this a proposal?

Doctor—Allow me to remind you, madam, that a doctor prescribes medicine, but he doesn't take it. D. R.

Case of Necessity.

Madge: "Would you marry a man to reform him?"

Mabel: "I suppose I shall have to. There isn't one of them who suits me the way he is now." I. M.

Good News and Bad.

Miss—My models wrote to my husband saying she would make nothing more for me until the account is settled.

Rae—And what did hubby do?

Mae—He sent her a letter of thanks. J. E.

Give and Take.

Blank—My daughter's musical education has been quite a profitable venture.

Rank—Really?

Blank—Yes, I managed to buy the houses on either side of mine for less than half the value. M. F.

This Was Why.

Cicero was being tried in court for beating up his chum.

When asked by the judge why he did it, he replied. "'Cause he done called me a rhinoceros a year ago."

"Why did you wait so long to get even?" asked the judge.

"'Cause I ain't nebber seed no rhinoceros till yestiddy." W. H. R.

Well Taken Care Of.

"Why not buy an encyclopedia?" insisted the book agent. "It can tell you anything you want to know."

"Don't need it," replied the busy man. "I have a son who has just been graduated from high school." A. K.

Liked the Limelight.

Little Sam was sitting on the stairs watching a violent thunderstorm with evident delight.

"What yo' all doin' out in the rain?" called his mother.

"O, mammy," he cried, "I was a sittin' heah and the Lawd done took a flashlight of me!" F. S.

Three of a Kind.

Two men, upon returning home after a rather hilarious night out, could not agree as to whether it was the sun or moon that they were looking at up in the sky. Finally after disputing for some time they noticed another man approaching and decided to have him settle the argument.

One of them asked: "Is that the sun or the moon up there?"

He said, "Well, friends, I don't know. I'm a stranger in this town myself." R. M.

Only Too True.

Owner—Here, what are you doing? Don't you know you're not allowed to take fish out of this water?

Angler (three hours without a catch)—I'm not taking them out. I'm feeding them. G. J. K.

VAUDEVILLE WIT

RIALTO.

Sid Hall & Co.:

"I went into a restaurant last year, and they served sugar in salary envelopes."

"Well, it will be some time before anybody begins serving salaries in sugar barrels."

"Did you notice all the new one dollar bills in circulation?"

"Yes, but they don't seem to accomplish much more than the old ones did."

"When is a woman old?"

"The conceited never, the unhappy too soon, and the wise at the right time."

"I hear you have an actor employed on your farm."

"Yes, and he's a mighty good actor, too. He's such a good actor that I thought he was really working the first week he was on the farm."

"My ancestors were people with brains."

"Too bad you were disinherited."

"What do you mean by telling Mabel that I'm a fool?"

"Well, I'm sorry—was it a secret?"

"Don't you admire the man who says the right thing at the right time?"

"Yes, particularly when I'm thirsty."

"Who was that neglected looking little boy with dirt all over his face? Is he the child of the noted astronomer?"

"Yes, and he should go home and tell his father that he doesn't need his telescope if he wants to see spots on the sun."

Why Shorthand at Gregg School Means Better Pay and Greater Opportunity

1. Gregg School is the pre-eminent business school of America. It is the Home of Gregg Shorthand, the system more widely taught than all others combined. Instruction is superior—progress is individual.

2. The demand for Gregg-trained men and women always exceeds the number of graduates. Gregg Secretaries and Stenographers therefore get preferred positions at far better beginning salary than the average income of young people. They are paid more because they are trained to earn more.

3. As a stenographer-secretary you will be placed in daily contact with executives. Here your ability will be recognized and rewarded with promotion. The records of thousands of Gregg graduates who have succeeded in generous measure prove that the secret of success is written in Gregg Shorthand for thousands of others.

64-Page BOOK of FACTS, FREE

Call, write, or telephone for our Book of Facts. It pictures and describes Gregg School and our courses in Shorthand, Bookkeeping, Commercial Teaching, and Court Reporting. It will not obligate you to find out what a short course at Gregg School will do for you. We do not employ solicitors.

Short Course—Good Pay for Every Graduate

We offer you a highly skilled training in the remarkably short time of 5 to 7 weeks (in day classes), with a position immediately thereafter—a position where you get an average of $40 to $60 per week, where the work is ideal, where you are permanently independent, and where there are many unusual avenues of advancement.

Day and Evening Classes Start Tomorrow
Evening Courses, 13 Weeks' Duration

So many new COMPTOMETERS are installed every day, and so many operators are promoted that we receive an average of over $25 personally per month for operators. These positions are permanent, because operators are always in demand. That means steady employment and steady advancement for you—the reward of the specialist.

Business experience is not necessary, but girls with some High School education are preferred. The work is easily learned, the course is short, the tuition fee is very small, and we make no charge for locating our graduates in positions. NEWS OF THE RELIGIOUS WORLD

Episcopalians Open Conference Here Tomorrow

By the Rev. W. B. Norton.

THE Episcopal diocese of Chicago will begin tomorrow, continuing to Thursday evening, the annual convention and conferences. The opening event will be a dinner at the Auditorium hotel, Michigan avenue and Congress street, at 6 p. m. The speakers will be Bishop Charles P. Anderson of Chicago on "The Work of the Diocese" and Bishop Arthur W. Moulton of Utah on "Missionary Work in the West."

On Tuesday the convention and conferences will be held at Epiphany church, Ashland boulevard and Adams street. Corporate communion for delegates and visitors at 8 a. m., breakfast in Chase house at 9, and business session at 10:15 in the church. Conferences will be held on Tuesday and Wednesday afternoons.

On Tuesday evening conferences will be held from 7:15-8:45 and at 9-9:45 there will be given a liturgical pageant, "The Feasts of Light," the Rev. Morton C. Stone, director. On Thursday at 11 a. m. the woman's auxiliary will meet at the State-Lake building for the annual meeting and election of officers.

Community night programs are being given at 7:45 in Willard Memorial Methodist Episcopal church, Euclid avenue and Harvard street, Oak Park, the Rev. T. R. Greene, pastor. This evening the Rev. Fred D. Stone will speak on "The Battle Fields of Peace."

THE REV. FRANK E. DAVISON.

The Rev. Frank E. Davison will begin today the pastorate of the Austin Boulevard Christian church, Austin boulevard and Superior street, Oak Park. The Austin boulevard church was dedicated less than one year ago, and is one of the best churches of the denomination in the Chicago area. The Rev. Mr. Davison graduated from Butler college in 1914, and later attended the divinity school of Yale university. He held pastorates in Spencer and Sheridan, Ind. He was then called to the Englewood Christian church, Indianapolis, and from there he comes to Austin boulevard.

A lecture illustrated with colored pictures from photographs taken by the speaker of people and scenes visited by him in India will be given today at 4:30 at the Emerald Avenue Presbyterian church, Emerald avenue and Marquette road, the Rev. R. D. Hughes, pastor, by the Rev. W. B. Norton.

A course of lectures on "Modernism" will be given on Tuesday evenings, beginning next Tuesday evening, at 7:30 in the Harper Memorial library, Midway plaisance, between Ellis and University avenues, under the auspices of the divinity school of the University of Chicago. The lectures are open to the public and will be as follows: Feb. 5, "What Is Modernism?" Dean Shailer Mathews; Feb. 12, "The Experience of God in Modern Life," Prof. G. B. Smith; Feb. 19, "Jesus Christ and Modernism," Dean Mathews; Feb. 26, "The Modern View of the Bible," Prof. J. M. P. Smith; March 4, "A Modern Faith in Life Beyond Death," Prof. T. G. Soares; March 11, "The Function of the Church in Modern Society," Prof. C. T. Holman.

"The Core of Common Sense Religion" will be the subject of the address this evening at 8 at the Sunday Evening club at Orchestra hall by Dr. Arthur Holmes, professor of psychology, University of Pennsylvania. Clifford W. Barnes will speak at 7 o'clock on "What Jesus Stood For." The Imperial quartet will sing at the 7 o'clock meeting.

The third annual banquet of the Lutheran brotherhood of the Chicago conference of the Illinois synod of the United Lutheran Church in America will be held in Association auditorium, 19 South La Salle street, on Feb. 20 at 6:15 p. m. Chorus singing by the brotherhood will be a special feature. As the national meeting of the brotherhood will be held in Chicago next fall, there is special interest in the banquet. Prof. M. L. Stirewalt of Maywood, John F. Kramer of Mansfield, O., first federal prohibition commissioner, and Dr. S. S. Waltz, executive secretary of the brotherhood in America, will be the speakers.

A conference on missions will be held this afternoon at 2 o'clock at Techny attended by approximately 100 young women of the Chicago Mission club representing several nationalities in ancestry, Poles, Slovaks, Czechs, Lithuanians, Italians, Austrians, French, German, and Irish, but all of them naturalized Americans. Next year will be the golden jubilee of the Society of the Divine Word at Techny, and the meeting today will take action in preparing for the celebration. The mission club works in many ways in promoting missions.

The Rev. Frederick Schwager, S. V. D., will celebrate next Tuesday at St. Mary's mission house, Techny, Ill., the silver jubilee of his ordination to the priesthood. Father Schwager has been a pioneer in the promotion of missions. He studied in early life in the mission house of St. Michael, Steyl, Holland, with the intention of becoming a missionary priest. He, however, was called to teach in the mission college. In 1919 he took part in calling a mission conference in Dusseldorf. He came to the United States last year and now resides at Techny. He urges the introduction of the scientific study of missions in university courses as a legitimate department of the curriculum.

Founder's week will be observed by the Moody Bible institute beginning tomorrow morning at 9 and continuing through next Friday. Among the speakers will be Prof. J. Gresham Machen, Princeton university, author of "Christianity and Liberalism;" the Rev. Harold Paul Sloan, pastor of the Central Methodist Episcopal church, Bridgeton, N. J., author of "Historic Christianity and the New Theology;" the Rev. Leander S. Keyser of Springfield, O.; Dr. Paul Harrison, medical missionary to Arabia; the Rev. Henry W. Frost, director of the China Inland mission; the Rev. Harry L. Strachan, the Argentine, South America; the Rev. Alexander Sprunt, Charleston, S. C., moderator of the Presbyterian church in the United States; the Rev. W. Talbot Hindly, London; the Rev. Louis Entzminger, Sunday school expert, and Miss Sara Wray of New York. Friday will be missionary day. Tuesday will be especially Dwight L. Moody day.

At the North Shore congregation, Winnetka, L. A. Mischkind, rabbi, the topic next Friday evening at 8:30 will be "Lincoln and American Mythology."

The choral evensong at St. James' Episcopal church, Cass and Huron streets, which has been omitted while the church was undergoing repairs and redecoration, will be resumed today at 4 o'clock under the direction of John W. Norton. Master Reginald C. Walker and Master Edward Burkhardt will be the special soloists. Mendelssohn's "Hear My Prayer" will be sung.

Dr. Preston Bradley will preach this evening at 7:45 at the Norwood Park Methodist Episcopal church, Nickerson and Hood avenues, the Rev. M. E. Weisenberger, pastor. This is one of a series of special speakers Sunday evenings at the church.

Accept with his compliments the perfect Tooth Brush

Designed by 4,118 Dentists

WHEN Andrew Albright, Jr. gave to the world his famous Rubberset Shaving Brush, he established a new era of shaving comfort which has never been surpassed.

Men will tell you that.

Now he has done a still more wonderful thing. He has produced a perfect toothbrush, which has many hygienic advantages heretofore unknown to toothbrush construction.

But he could not do it alone. Mr. Albright first called to his aid no fewer than 4118 dentists who gave him their ideas of what constituted a perfect toothbrush, based on their wide professional experience. Then, over a period of many years, Mr. Albright made countless experiments resulting in this brush which has all the sound principles advanced by those 4118 dentists—a brush which is the last word in this important department of brush hygiene.

The Result

The individual bristle tufts of the Albright Toothbrush are wedge-shaped, so that they reach in between the teeth and into every crevice. In like manner all the tufts form a wedge so that the brush will reach and clean every surface of every tooth without missing the hard-to-get-at teeth in the back of the mouth.

Every bristle is of the finest quality and is guaranteed by the Rubberset Company to STAY IN—not a bristle can come out. Every one remains in place and always on end to do its particular part in insuring really clean teeth day in and day out.

The tufts are so grouped that a simple rinsing thoroughly cleans the brush. No foreign matter remains among the bristles in which germs may breed to be carried into the mouth. Every brush is packed in a sealed sanitary envelope and inclosed in a protecting carton.

Watch Teeth Stains Vanish —While You Wait!

No more dark, discolored, spotted or tobacco-stained teeth. Bleachodent Combination cuts, only few cents and removes unsightly stains at once—often in only three minutes! Leaves teeth flashing white, lustrous, clean. Recommended as quicker, surer, safer than old harmful, dangerous scouring. Fine for children's soft, sensitive teeth. No effect on enamel, as its mild ingredients are intended to act only on surface stains—not on enamel. Bleachodent Combination contains Bonil to loosen stain coats and special paste which gently removes them. Paste keeps new stains from forming. Be sure to ask for Bleachodent Combination. MONTEREY PENINSULA

You'll Want This California Book!

Peter Clark MacFarlane—one of the most popular of authors—bought six copies of this book to give to friends. You may have a copy free.

It is an authoritative treatment of this historic and romantic Monterey Peninsula of California. You are taken back to the days of Spanish missions, romance, and revelry, when here was the first state capitol.

Then you are shown the Peninsula of today—homes—businesses—diversions—flowers—all. If you contemplate a trip to California at any future time—this book will prove valuable to you. Send for it NOW and KNOW why illustrious people from Robert Louis Stevenson to Samuel G. Blythe have chosen this as their home.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

Chicago's Oldest Episcopal Parish Awaits New Rector, Dr. Duncan Browne

By Mme. X.

THE pace is slackening, the music is slowing down, the lights are growing dimmer, the flowers are fading, the merrymakers are departing. In short, the gay season of 1923-'24 is decidedly on the wane. Nevertheless, there are some gayeties ahead and several weeks will intervene between now and Ash Wednesday which, technically speaking, closes society's formal round of entertainments. Lent comes in on March 5, which is about as late as it ever can happen. Easter is always the first Sunday after the first full moon after the spring equinox. This permits of quite a wide variation in dates for this, the church's holiest celebration.

Ash Wednesday this year marks the arrival in Chicago of a more than usually important Episcopal church dignitary, the Rev. Dr. Duncan Browne, at present of Denver, Colo., but going to be rector of one of our oldest churches, St. James, on the corner of Huron and Cass streets. The first Christian services held in Chicago were, of course, those celebrated by Père Marquette and other French missionary explorers in the seventeenth century. But no churches were built here until 1833, when the Baptists erected a plain wooden, two story building for their worship on the corner of Franklin and South Water streets. That same year the Catholics, under Father St. Cyr, a French priest, organized a parish and built a church on the not faraway corner of Lake and State, where now stands a big movie palace. This church had the first bell that ever called Chicago worshipers to service.

The First St. James.

The Presbyterians soon followed with a meeting house for their services. Here in October, 1834, the St. James Episcopal society met to hear the Rev. Palmer Dyer preach and hold service. After this John H. Kinzie, son of Chicago's first white settler, provided this youthful congregation with a home in a building he owned on the corner of Kinzie and State streets. The Rev. Dr. Hallam was the first pastor of this society.

In 1836 Mr. Kinzie gave to this organization land on the southwest corner of Kinzie and Cass streets on which to build a church. The church and nearby parsonage, built and furnished, cost all of $19,500, a pretty big sum at that time, and proud were those first trustees and wardens that this debt was entirely wiped off the slate at the end of the first year. This church was considered one of the most ornamental in Chicago. It was Gothic in style and of wooden construction.

This was followed a decade or so later by a brick building with a tall spire on the same location. And shortly before the fire of 1871 the St. James folk began a beautiful new church on the present site on the southeast corner of Huron and Cass streets. The charming tower of this new building and the side walls stood up stark and gaunt after the three days' holocaust, and were used as the skeleton of the new church which rose from the ruins soon afterward.

St. James is the oldest of the Episcopal parishes in Chicago. From the beginning it was supported by a group of the best known of our early citizens, whose descendants still are pillars of the church, though the intervening decades have changed the character of the congregation as the tide of business has invaded that neighborhood and driven residents farther north. But the descendants of Joseph T. Ryerson, William Houghteling, Frank B. Peabody, Mahlon D. Ogden, Henry Towner, and Rollin Larrabee still are interested in the fortunes of the parish and of the fine old church itself, which is one of the oldest and most picturesque landmarks of the north side.

Rumseys Early Supporters.

Some of the early supporters and founders of St. James', families whose names were long associated with the destinies of this church, have disappeared from the city's directory. Among these were the once numerous and well known Rumsey family, the two brothers, George and Julian Rumsey, who built what were then considered two of the handsomest houses in Chicago side by side on Huron street, just across the way, to the north of the then new church. It used to be said that if you attended St. James' church and if you sat on the Rumseys' front doorstep, you might consider yourself in Chicago society. Otherwise, there was some doubt of your social position.

But all this is ancient history: there are no more Rumseys left in Chicago. But the children and grandchildren of some of the other early founders of the church are still deeply interested in the welfare of this relic of Chicago's past, and are rejoicing in the fact that a man of fine character, great initiative, unusual talents, and high purpose like Dr. Brown should have accepted their call to come and rebuild the usefulness and power of this parish. He will arrive here with his family on Ash Wednesday, and his first service will be to inaugurate this year's six weeks of fasting and prayer.

Dr. Brown is the latest in a long line of distinguished prelates who have directed the activities of St. James' parish. Among them were the Rev. Arthur Brooks, brother of the famous Phillips Brooks of Boston; Dr. Samuel Harris, afterwards Bishop of Michigan; Dr. Frederic Courtney, later Bishop of Halifax and now rector of St. James' church in New York; Dr. Floyd Tompkins, now in Philadelphia, and Dr. William Vibbert, at present at the head of a fashionable New York parish. Dr. Brown's immediate predecessor was Dr. James S. Stone, who retired a year ago and is now pastor emeritus of St. James' church.

Among the present influential and devoted friends of this church and its work are the sons and grandsons of some of its early supporters, such as Augustus S. Peabody and his nephew, J. Lawrence Houghteling, son and grandson of F. B. Peabody. The latter is heir on both sides of his family to his present place among the trustees, as he is a son of the late James L. Houghteling, one of the most ardent churchmen of his time, and grandson of another devoted member of St. James', the late William Houghteling. The sons and grandsons of the late Joseph T. Ryerson, Edward L. Ryerson, his three sons, and Joseph T., Donald M., and Edward L. Jr., are likewise among the most disinterested and devoted of those who today help to guide and shape the destinies of this fine old parish. Others likewise interested in it are Mr. and Mrs. Watson Blair, Franklin MacVeagh and his son, Eames MacVeagh, Mr. and Mrs. George S. Payson, and Mr. and Mrs. F. T. West.

Delightful Musical Evenings.

As this column has stated before, there is no more choice and delightful way in which to entertain more than a dinner tableful of people than by an evening musical. There have been several such gatherings this season, rather more than in previous winters. The Civic Opera company's artists make this form of entertainment more possible than in other communities where they have no such galaxy from which to draw. Early in the season that tuneful heir to Caruso's laurels, Tito Schipa, enchanted a fashionable audience at a musical that Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Patterson gave at the Blackstone. Ten days ago Mme. Muzio and M. Ansseau gave a delightful program at a large party given by Mr. and Mrs. Insull at the Drake.

Last Monday evening Dr. and Mrs. Wilhelm L. Baum asked about 150 of their friends to meet Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Schwartz and hear the former sing a varied program of songs in different languages, among which his native tongue, Russian, prevailed. Mr. Schwartz is a recent addition to the Chicago Civic Opera company's roster, and promises to be a vivid and interesting personality. He is especially exciting when he sings his native music. Then all that you expect of that wonderful people, the brilliant fire, somber passion, and other emotional and original qualities seem to be best expressed.

His wife, who received with Mrs. Baum, is a most attractive personality. Her regular features, charming smile, a certain dignity out of the ordinary among us Americans, and her stunning jewels made her the object of all eyes that evening. She was a rich widow of New York when she married the tremendously alive and alert Russian artist. They make a striking looking couple and if, when they return to us next winter—he has been engaged, I believe, by our opera company—they decide to go out into society, they will attract much attention. I hope they will be social factors; we need a more cosmopolitan atmosphere than we have nowadays.

Edgewater Club to Celebrate Its 12th Anniversary

By Kate Webber.

At its meeting next Thursday, the Edgewater Catholic Woman's club will celebrate its twelfth anniversary, with a program reminiscent of its founding. The history of the growth and accomplishments of this organization should be encouraging to clubs even younger, whose members are struggling toward a goal of worth while achievements.

On Feb. 7, 1912, six women gathered together to organize a club for effort along educational, philanthropic, and social lines. Today the club has a membership of 600, a history of achievement, and the promise of a splendid future. It is a member of the state federation and the Tenth district. A drive for 1,000 members by April 1 is on at the present time.

The club has passed the experimental stage and occupies an enviable position among the clubs of the north side and of the city, being recognized as an agency for all that pertains to the moral and civic interests of the community. It sponsors the best in education and the arts, and gives financial support in as great a measure as its budget will allow.

The welfare department is the special pride of the club. Specific aid is given the De Paul day nursery, the Travelers' aid, and the Mary A. Home for Girls. This year the members have given their time and energy toward the erection of a conservatory at the Edward Hines Jr. Memorial hospital, where the ex-service men who are physically and mentally ill may forget themselves in the growing of living things.

Serious problems which are championed by the members include the laws affecting women in industry, the child labor amendment, as well as all efforts pertaining to the enforcement of laws.

The auxiliary to the club numbers about 200 women, whose work is similar to that of the parent organization. The members maintain a ward in Cook county hospital, give parties for children at the various day nurseries, and give their attention to other branches of welfare work. This year they are forming the First Voters' league in readiness for the April primaries and the elections of 1924. Miss Marion Abele is president of the auxiliary.

Officers of the club are Mrs. E. O. Brooks, president; Mrs. Paul O. Young and Mrs. T. Anthony Kreuser, vice presidents; Mrs. Thomas L. Malzacher, recording secretary; Mrs. Joseph W. Story, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Frank E. Nibbe, financial secretary; and Mrs. Kennis Brannock, treasurer.

DOWNTOWN CLUBS

CLUB ETHICS

By Maude Swalm Evans

THE conversation at the club luncheon table turned to husbands.

"I'd have to give up my job if it wasn't for my husband," confessed the treasurer. "He seems as much interested in the club as I am, and he's always willing to help me when the work piles up or the figures get too difficult."

"Mine never takes any interest in my club work," contributed another. "He has a tolerant air toward all women's clubs—a sort of 'if you must play, run along' attitude. He considers his golf club far superior to my club—much more vital to human accomplishment and existence."

"At least, he doesn't object to your belonging or holding office, the way mine does," said a third. "He still has the archaic belief that a woman's place is in the home. I stayed there as long as my children were small, but now that they're away most of the time when they're not eating or sleeping, I'm giving myself a chance."

"My husband belongs to so many men's clubs that it wouldn't be good taste for him to say anything about my being a joiner. And let me tell you, girls, judging from his talk, any disagreements we have in our clubs are mere love pats compared with those the men have in their organizations."

"My husband is the biggest booster of women's clubs you ever saw. He says a man's a fool who doesn't encourage his wife to belong to a club, or force her to it if she doesn't show an inclination that way. His reason? He says a woman who is giving her time and thought to club work is too busy to notice her husband's faults."

"My husband always does just as I wish him to and he always lets me do just as I wish," bragged the only unmarried one at the table.

On "The Objective in Punishment." On Wednesday at 10 o'clock Mrs. May Wood Simons will lead the legislative study class, with the subject for study "Work of the Federal Government." On Thursday at 11:15 o'clock the class in public speaking will be conducted by Prof. Bertram G. Nelson. The music study class will meet on Friday morning as usual.

Educational opportunities for the modern girl and how she may make the most of them will be discussed by Miss Grace A. Day and Miss Mabel E. Stone of the national board staff of the Y. W. C. A. tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at central branch, 59 East Monroe street. Miss Day and Miss Stone are in Chicago for a fortnight, making a study of the general and religious education problems of the Chicago association. They also will speak at the Hyde Park center on Wednesday evening, and will be guests at a dinner at central branch preceding the meeting.

at the Casino was made the occasion for still another musical program of a charming quality when Mme. Claire Dux, also of our opera company, sang delicious songs in a delicious way, to the manifest joy of every one present. Previous to that the election of officers and the executive committee had taken place. Few changes were made in the personnel of those running this extremely valuable and interesting organization. Mrs. Arthur Meeker was reelected chairman, with Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, founder of grand opera in Chicago, honorary chairman.

The Mesdames Julius Rosenwald, John Alden Carpenter, John Borden, and Jacob Baur were elected vice chairmen; Mrs. Frederick Upham resigning as one of the vice chairmen because of the work entailed on her by accepting the place at the head of the women's board of the Children's Memorial hospital left vacant by the death recently of Miss Martha Wilson. Mrs. John H. Winterbotham was reelected corresponding secretary, with Miss Carolyn Hazard as assistant secretary; Miss Mary Waller was again elected recording secretary, and Herman Waldeck was also reelected treasurer, while once more Mrs. Jacob Baur accepted the chairmanship of the most important committee in the organization, that of the box selling committee, and Mrs. A. F. Callahan that of the scarcely less important students' bureau committee. An unusually representative and numerous executive committee consisting of sixty-four members was also returned to office by a rising vote. Mrs. Meeker, the chairman, presided with much grace and charm, in spite of the fact that she wore her arm in a sling, having broken it the preceding Sunday when she slipped on an icy pavement, an accident to which she referred with smiling insouciance. The work of the organization both in the direction of selling the boxes and in giving over 1,000 musical students an opportunity to hear opera during the winter is of great value and is also unique in the history of grand opera.

Still another musical is on society's calendar, and that is one which Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Bissell are giving this evening at the Cliff Dwellers, when the program will be by Messrs. Maier and Pattison, the well known American pianists. This is an uncommonly interesting musical partnership. Both are young and natives of this country. They had most of their musical training in Boston. When we entered the world war they volunteered and saw service in France. The war over, they returned to their career in this country. They are famous from one end of the country to the other because of their two-piano programs, which are said to produce a remarkably sonorous and beautiful effect.

Honoring Mr. Andrews.

Another entertainment which will bring a number of people together today is a luncheon which Mrs. Arthur Ryerson is giving at her charming house on Lake View avenue in honor of her distinguished house guest, Roy Chapman Andrews. Mr. Andrews is one of the most interesting scientific men in the public eye just now. Even before he headed the expedition which discovered in Mongolia one of the richest deposits of the remains of prehistoric animals ever laid bare by the enterprising investigator, he was a remarkable and interesting personality.

When but a lad in his teens he decided he wanted to be an archeologist, and with this idea in mind presented himself to the New York museum of archeology asking for a job. In answer to queries as to what he could do, he had to admit he was not an accomplished scientist and, therefore, was set to work at sweeping out the offices. This he did for some time. At that period the head of the institute was making an immense plaster reproduction of a sperm whale, a strange creature with an eye in its stomach (a mighty worth while place for an eye it might be for many of us who are careless in our diet)

The scientist died while the whale was still unfinished. No one knew how to complete the work until young Andrews volunteered to do it. He was successful in the strange task, and was promoted from sweeping the floor to more important labors which have in the course of time developed him into one of the world's foremost explorers and scholars in his line.

Tracking the long buried dinosaurs to their ancient lairs is not only an intricate job, but one fraught with adventure and danger. Mr. Andrews has had many an exciting moment in the last three years which he has spent in western China and Mongolia. He has now installed his wife and his household goods in an old Chinese temple in Peking. Mrs. Andrews has made herself one of the most popular hostesses in that hospitable community. Mr. Andrews' favorite recreations are hunting and playing polo. He belongs to a country club also domiciled in an elderly temple called "the temple of the lively insects." For insignia the members of this club wear these same lively insects embroidered on their sleeves.

Authority on Asia.

We Chicagoans really don't need to go out to see the world, though many of us would not for anything be deprived of this delightful pursuit. Most of the famous folk of today come our way sooner or later, and we are much more apt to meet and converse with them if we stay at home than if we go forth among the nations of the earth, where we lose most of our identity.

A celebrated authority on matters connected with central Asia and with Persia especially is arriving in Chicago tomorrow. He is Sir Percy Sykes, a soldier and scientist, a rather uncommon combination. He is a great authority on matters Persian as, on and off, he has spent more than thirty years in that little known country and in central Asia in various military and civil positions. He has traversed the remoter regions of that part of the world alone and with mounted troops. In 1893 he was the first European to cross the great Persian desert in the footsteps of Marco Polo, the Venetian explorer of the thirteenth century. In another journey later he elucidated the march of Alexander the Great. He founded consulates where up to that time there had never been any such, and he served on the boundary commission that delineated the frontiers of the Persian and Indian empires.

After serving until he was wounded in a yeomanry regiment under Lord Methuen in the Boer war in 1901, he returned to Persia, where he was appointed consul general and resided in the sacred city of Meshed, where Haroun-Al-Rashid is buried. He was one of the guardians of the remoter confines of the British empire during the world war, confines where some of the most spirited, but least known, chapters of that conflict were written in bloody battles and isolated camps. In the winter of 1918, when the allied forces were fighting what seemed for a time like a losing campaign, Brig. Gen. Sir Percy Sykes was in Shiraz standing off and outnumbered by hordes of well armed central Asiatic tribesmen officered and financed by the Germans, a serious predicament which was relieved by the loyalty of Indian troops who came up to his rescue from the south.

He is traveling on a lecture tour in this country now, and will be entertained tomorrow evening by some members of the executive committee of the English Speaking union at a dinner at the Fortnightly clubhouse on Bellevue place. Among those who are giving this dinner are the president of the society, Laird Bell, and Mrs. Bell, Mr. and Mrs. Horace Bridges, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Scott, Mr. and Mrs. Russell Tyson, Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Marquis, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Reckitt, Cyrus H. McCormick, MacPherson Holt, and Frank Loesch.

Arts Club Ball Feb. 22.

Not all the balls are over yet. What will undoubtedly be one of the most picturesque and gayest affairs of the winter will be the Arts club Napoleonic ball to be given on Washington's birthday at the Palmer house. This will be the last big entertainment held in this historic old hostelry before it is pulled down to make way for a bigger, more splendid hotel. The Arts club has given its two other big balls in that delightful and quaint old salon with the fine columns and the black and white marble floor.

The first was the Lincoln ball in 1917, when Richard Henry Little impersonated so successfully the martyred President. All the women present wore costumes of that period wherein hoopskirts and sloping shoulders were striking features, while the men appeared either in the uniforms of the civil war or in the long, tight pantaloons, tail coats and flowing whiskers which were fashionable at that time. The second big ball given there by the Arts club was the Victory ball in 1919, when the guests wore the costumes of some one of the allied nations side by side with whom our troops had fought during our part in the big war. We were still in that exalted frame of mind which carried us through those two years at which we now look back with such amazement and incredulity, and the pageant of the allies, which was the principal feature of the ball, was brilliant and thrilled us all enormously.

What promises to be a more than usually interesting series of three lectures (and this column is no "fan" for lectures) is announced by the Illinois Society of the Colonial Dames of America. It is to be given at the Fortnightly rooms on Monday mornings in February. The first one, on Feb. 11, will be by Maj. Vivian Gilbert, who entered Jerusalem with Gen. Allenby. His subject will be "The Romance of the Last Crusade." On Feb. 11 the well known journalist and writer, Edward Price Bell, will talk on "Some Observations on the 'Dead' League." The third and final lecture will be given by the famous explorer and world-wide traveler, Rosita Forbes, who was the first white woman who ever crossed the Sahara. She calls her talk "The Secret of the Sahara." If she is half as striking and interesting as she looks in her pictures, she will give quite a thrill to us quiet, unadventurous stay at home folk.

Giving Us What We Want.

Altogether, it does not seem necessary for us Chicagoites to go far afield to come in contact with the bold and enterprising spirits of today. Here we have Roy Chapman Andrews, Brig. Gen. Sir Percy Sykes, Maj. Vivian Gilbert, Edward Price Bell, and Rosita Forbes knocking at our doors, each desirous of giving us what we want to hear, descriptions of inaccessible parts of the globe.

By the way, the proceeds from this last named set of lectures will go, say the Colonial Dames, to their "Americanization work, in the training and developing of the new citizens in the ideals and principles of our country." Could there be a better object for such a body of loyal American women?

* *

Along similar lines is the work done in the Red, White, and Blue club, an organization which has its headquarters in a cosy little clubhouse on Wade street. The board backing and supporting it had its annual meeting at Mrs. J. G. Coleman's on Thursday afternoon, at which the chairman, Mrs. Coleman, and her committee were reelected. Besides Mrs. Coleman, among the officers are Mrs. Frank C. Letts, vice chairman, and Mrs. E. S. Beck, treasurer. The report of the benefit performance and the fund raised in one evening's entertainment showed that the club had profited sufficiently to complete payment on the new clubhouse and to make it such a place inside and out as will best serve the interests of the children to whom belongs.

Lovers of Music.

Ignace Paderewski, whose benefit concert for the Illinois Children's Home and Aid society last Sunday evening at the Auditorium brought all the musical and fashionable world together, is again in Chicago. Mrs. Bryan Lathrop is giving a dinner for him tonight at the Lake Shore Drive hotel.

On Tuesday evening the "friends and admirers" of Frederick A. Stock are giving him a banquet at the Drake hotel as a testimonial to their appreciation of the enlightened work he has done in Chicago and the middle west in helping to develop and diffuse a love

KERMANS

Individual Spring Frocks $40 to $55

Go into the most exclusive and expensive shops in New York, or any other fashion center, and you will see the same character of frocks and gowns that you see at KERMANS. But you will be struck with one great difference.

KERMANS prices are decidedly lower

This is thoroughly demonstrated by the hundreds of new Spring Modes which we have priced at $40 to $55.

Please remember that while we are continually searching the markets for the newest and smartest Modes, we are equally keen to keep prices as low as possible in order to cater to the needs of very woman.

This naturally has resulted in a tremendous volume of business. A volume so big that we are able to sell frocks and gowns of the "highest character" for considerably less than one is compelled to pay elsewhere.

Our pricings on the new Spring Modes which are reaching us every day prove it.

NEWS OF CHICAGO SOCIETY

for music and an understanding of the best in this, one of the greatest of the arts.

M. A. Barthelemy, the well known French consul general here, is one of the chief organizers of this affair, which promises to bring together a large number of Mr. Stock's friends. The director of the Chicago Symphony orchestra is one of our most valuable and distinguished citizens, and it is to be hoped that we shall continue to have him lead us up the heights of Olympus in spite of beckoning hands from other communities. We can't afford to lose him, fellow citizens.

There will be a meeting of the Chicago and Cook county committee of the Girl Scouts at the society's headquarters, 826 North Michigan avenue, on Wednesday next, when Mrs. Frederick Edey, national chairman of the field committee, will be present to tell of the work in this department. Mrs. Edey is devoting all her time and energies to this movement, and travels about the country organizing bands of scouts. Mrs. Julius Rosenwald is honorary chairman of the local division of this nation-wide organization, of which Miss Elizabeth Baker is active chairman and Miss Emelia Thorsell is director.

Garden lovers go on loving gardens even in the dead of winter, and many of them will gather in Fullerton hall at the Art Institute tomorrow afternoon at a quarter to 4 o'clock to hear Robert N. Cram of Boston talk on "Old Villa Gardens of Italy," illustrated with autochrome or natural color photographs. It is a free lecture, given under the auspices of the Woman's National Farm and Garden association. As I read the announcement of it at the behest of a gardening relative I feel as if I had heard the chirp of the first robin of the season. Is winter really on the wane? Time flies too fast!

MRS. EDWARD L. DOHNEY.

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Estelle Anglin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Anglin of 206 North Latrobe avenue, to Edward L. Dohney, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Dohney of 7215 South Sangamon street.

MRS. JOHN WHETSTON.
[Melvin Sykes Photo.]

The marriage of Dr. Mary Eleanor Shippert of the Morrison hotel and John Whetston of Steward, Ill., took place on Jan. 19. Mr. and Mrs. Whetston will reside at 5349 Kimbark avenue after Feb. 15.

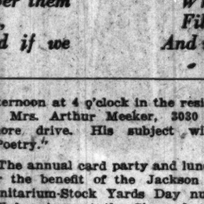
O, DON'T YOU REMEMBER—

O, don't you remember them days, Ben Bolt,
We couldn't be good if we tried?

When "original sin"
Filled us up to the brim,
And we'd cut up our pranks if we died.



The New
LAKE · SHORE · DRIVE · HOTEL

is one of extraordinary beauty, dignity and luxury, and of exceptional location, just east of North Michigan Avenue, facing beautiful Lake Michigan. It is designed for those who want the unqualified best. Its luxurious interior appointments and general beauty, with its truly Continental atmosphere, make it almost non-competitive, both as a residential and transient hotel. The restaurant, which is operated publicly, is attracting cosmopolitan attention for its excellent cuisine and service. Rates are reasonable for the accommodations and service offered. We invite inspection.

THIS fashionable MANICURE LASTS A WHOLE WEEK!

You need never apologize for your nails if you keep Glazo Liquid Polish handy on the dressing table. Apply Glazo lightly with a brush. Instantly it gives nails that fashionable shell-pink polish washing cannot mar.

A Glazo manicure lasts almost a week without bothersome buffing. The polish will not crack or peel and it prevents hangnails.

Now with GLAZO POLISH comes an equal quantity of POLISH REMOVER—so important to the most effective liquid manicure. Complete outfit in adorable twin bottles, 50c—all counters.

Are You Proud of Your Nails?

The Success of Our Last Fur Sale Brings This Sale

Two weeks ago we offered a New York maker's entire bankrupt stock of Furs—thousands of dollars' worth at $80. It was a "sell out." The sale was so wonderful, so tremendous that news of the phenomenal achievement, disposing of this great stock before store closing time reached New York almost immediately.

New York Furrier Needed Cash

His stocks figured thousands of dollars. He was willing to sacrifice. After speedy negotiations we reached an agreement. This sale of furs, worth to $300, at $80 is the result.

ART AND ARTISTS

Chicago Artists' Show Filled with Good Paintings

By Eleanor Jewett.

Pan blew on his flute and the shadoles danced
Light on the grass where the gray goats fed,
And the music whirled louder to rouse the sea,
Sparkling beyond, to give up its dead.

Pan piped and through an arch by the sea
File upon file, they came—the dead—
Dreams of youth and forgotten souls—
File upon file, where the prim goats fed.

'Twas a marble arch that looked on the sea,
And the sea laughed for the dreams that were fled.
I sat me down and Pan piped for me,
Come, sweet—my first love—back from the dead. E. J.

"Acoma Water Girl," by William P. Henderson, in the twenty-eighth exhibition by artists of Chicago and vicinity, which opened last Friday at the Art institute. Mr. Henderson is one of the Taos group of painters, and this is a colorful rendering of a street scene in that New Mexico town.

FREDERICK M. GRANT spent last year abroad. He did not go so much for work as for play.

He played in Italy and Capri, in France, probably too, in England, perhaps—I don't know. However, he brought back a portfolio of sketches, hastily dashed off impressions of snatches of beauty in landscape and befilding, and he also brought back a vivid memory of colors. The colors were glowing and deep, mellowed by centuries and warm with the sun. He brought back, chosen under the seal of artistic license, the best of Italy.

In the present exhibition at the Art institute of paintings and sculpture by Artists of Chicago and Vicinity there are a number of paintings by Mr. Grant and in practically all of these may be seen developments of his European travel. Take, for example, the beautiful canvas, undoubtedly inspired by Capri, which shows a broken white marble arch on a green hill, beyond which glitters an intensely blue sea. Goats graze on the sloping ground and a figure or so lends a touch of color. The scene is bathed in sunshine and steeped in romance. Pan pipes there, dreams flock there, love laughs there, and youth never dies.

A vastly different composition, though a similarly striking and dramatic painting, is his canvas of a little statue of the Virgin Mary, one imagines, against a wealth of warm, red background. It is an unusual painting for Mr. Grant to have painted, and it is also unusual in itself. It is exquisitely beautiful with the exotic beauty of luxurious simplicity.

The belief has been loudly expressed that in this new exhibition, which opened last Friday, there is no one work which stands out prominently from the rest in order of merit. The level of the show is high. Good pictures are numerous. Peculiar paintings are conspicuous by their absence. Gallery after gallery of the east wing fairly blossoms with canvases that carry a direct message of charm or wonder, of beauty or workmanship, to the eye of the public. There are no subtle canvases; there are no ultra-advanced paintings. There is, however, a vast amount of delightful painting to be encountered.

In a more or less hasty visit on the opening day of the exhibition enough works both of sculpture and painting were noted to assure the truth of the above paragraph. The most unique bit of painting, unique because of the method of treatment used—the paint is laid on as thick as though it were cardboard or a plastic clay—is found in the portrayal of a sumptuously magnificent owl and of two black swans on a red pool, a pool fragrant with the perfume of rose tinted lilies. The name of the artist was difficult to make out upon the canvas, and a catalogue was lacking, but next week his identity will be no longer a secret.

Carl R. Krafft has a beautiful winter landscape with two sturdy horses, a stout sled, a couple of wholesome, laughing children, and a man and dog or so, all making merry in the heart of a wood glade in the midst of a most marvelous snowfall.

Frank V. Dudley has several lovely paintings of the dunes to his credit. Indiana Gyberson has her usual exotic and attractive studies of the female form, more undraped than draped, in a setting of oriental splendor. Edward B. Butler has a beautiful landscape. Mabel Kay has a sumptuous flower piece. Gerald Frank is showing a still life of flowers, beautiful in composition and delightful in coloring. Another significant painting of flowers is found in the canvas by Frank Gavencky.

Pauline Palmer has a realistic, typical group of a little girl and her doll. A magnificent marine, the slate blue waves rolling in endless majesty, is from the brush of Leon Lundmark. Oskar Gross is showing a romantically tender painting of the parting of two pairs of lovers, both girls and men in the dress of an earlier generation. Mary H. Wicker shows an exquisite entrance, whether to church or palace it would be difficult to say. Abram Poole has a different painting—a thing of dull green and gray, a forest glade where a slim, uncertain Diana with slim, dashing hounds outdistances a startled, slender deer.

Anthony Angaralo shows a pleasing, gently mad, street of houses. The lion [one of the social two] of the Art Institute with a scrap of Michigan boulevard, a swirl of crowd, a flutter of flags and a patch of courtyard overswept with pigeons, is portrayed by William Clusman. Sark Davis has a large piece in his composition of a stately red crane addressing himself to the simple delights abundant, for birds, in a placid pool.

These are, of course, only a few of the paintings and painters to be heard from in the exhibition. A longer visit will bring forth much greater rewards. Meanwhile the following prizes have been announced by the Art institute as having been awarded in the exhibit:

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal, carrying with it $500, to Leopold Seyffert, for "A Portrait."

The Fine Arts building purchase prize of $500 to Pauline Palmer for her painting, "Just Us."

The William Randolph Hearst prize of $300 to Leopold Seyffert for "A Portrait."

The Mr. and Mrs. Frank G. Logan medal, carrying with it $200, to John F. Stacey, for his painting, "From an Essex Hillside, Conn."

The Edward B. Butler purchase fund of $260, for an oil painting to be presented to the public schools through the Public Art society, to John T. Nolf for "Thunder Cloud."

The Joseph N. Eisendrath prize of $200 to Stark Davis for his painting, "The Red Bird."

The Harry A. Frank prize of $150 to Abram Poole for "Diana."

The Municipal Art league prize of $100 for portraiture to Arvid Nyholm for his "Portrait of Mrs. H. Cochran."

The Mrs. John C. Shaffer prize of $100 for an ideal conception in sculpture to Angelo Zirolli for "The Dancing Girl."

The Business Men's Art club prize of $200 for a meritorious landscape in oil to Frederic Tellander for "In the Hoosac Valley."

The Englewood Woman's club prize of $100 to "Interieur des Cloistres," by Mary H. Wicker.

The Marshall Fuller Holmes prize of $100 for excellence in color and composition to Frederick M. Grant for his painting, "Pastorale."

The Rogers Park Woman's club prize of $100 for a painting by a woman, to Mary H. Wicker for "Interieur des Cloistres."

The Chicago Woman's Aid prize of $50 to Agnes Cook Pale for "Head."

The Robert Rice Jenkins prize of $50 to James Topping for "Allegheny Mountains, Winter."

The Arché Woman's club purchase prize of $400 to Anna Lynch for her "Still Life: Flowers."

To the department of museum instruction in the Art institute frequent requests come from women's clubs for lectures on various subjects pertinent to art. To satisfy these requests a short course of six talks has been arranged, planned to help those who hear the lectures to a clearer appreciation of art. The museum collections will be used to illustrate the talks. The price of the course is $3, and it will be conducted by Miss Upham. The schedule of lectures is:

"Interrelation of the Arts," Feb. 5; "What to Look for in Painting: Yesterday's Pictures," Feb. 12; "What to Look for in Painting: Today's Pictures," Feb. 19; "What to Look for in Sculpture," Feb. 26; "What to Look for in Architecture," March 4; "What to Look for in the Crafts," March 11.

One of the most important Velasquez paintings in the country, a "St. John" in the master's earlier style, has just been added to the Art institute's loan collection. Together with a striking array of other Spanish paintings, including some rare primitives, it is on view in gallery 50.

An exhibition of paintings by Mikies Gaspar is on view at the Palette and Chisel club. It will remain until Feb. 25.

Miss Marion H. Gheen will give three informal discussions on interior decoration at the Playhouse the first three Thursday mornings in February, at 11 o'clock. Her subjects are "The History of Interior Decoration in America," "Foreign Influences in American Homes," and "Cultivate Your Own Instinct for Beauty."

At the Gale school there is now hung the entire collection of original oil paintings acquired by the Chicago Public School Art society through the Mrs. Julius Rosenwald prize purchase fund. The exhibit consists of excellent representative work of our most prominent artists. It shows the value of housing in a public school the best in art.

Charles W. Dahlgreen is exhibiting a group of etchings at a downtown gallery during February. His one man show which has been touring numerous cities has met with great success. It opens in Grand Rapids the first of the month. Of two pictures exhibited by Mr. Dahlgreen at the Corcoran gallery in Washington, one has been purchased. Mr. Dahlgreen is leaving for the Yosemite valley, California, sometime this week. He plans to stay several months and do a great deal of etching and painting in that smiling, beautiful country.

Earl H. Reed Jr. will talk at Fullerton hall on Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock on "Planning the Home, Outdoors and In."

Black Is Proper Hue for Pearls

For a long time now the creamy treasure of the oyster has held undisputed sway over the jewels of the opera box, the ballroom, and the fashionable daytime gathering places. There have been single strands of pearls and double strands, choker collars and five ply bracelets, pendant earrings and lavallieres. Anything has been all right, as long as it was pearls.

While the oyster has benefited little by this enormous popularity, the pearl manufacturers have reaped a handsome profit. Few women can afford the genuine thing; many the imitation.

But the hue and cry have changed—at least, the hue has. The cry is still for pearls, but for black pearls. There are tiny strings of the black beauties and long strings, just as there were of their pale cousins. And there are delectable chokers of large black pearls, with small, glistening crystal interstices. Pendant earrings, also set off by crystal, accompany these, making a striking ornament for the afternoon costume. Time was when black pearls meant age and dignity. Now they mean only that milady has heard the latest whisper of the moment, and acted upon it.

Men who hate alibis and excuses, who go to WORK at 8:30 a. m., who work like hell all day, follow directions, and get orders, who can make money selling our $725.00 office appliance which saves 3 or more salaries and produces more PROFITS for users. Big banks and business houses have used them for years; also small concerns successfully. Plenty of sales jobs for hard WORKERS, but no drawing accounts. Strictly commission. Should make $75 weekly; have to earn $50; but you CAN earn $15,000 yearly and more, if you study hard, get down early, follow your leads. WORK hard and SELL.

Write for interview. Don't fear a crowd. As I expect few replies; most alibi shooters dodge such ads. They can't pay the price of success—eternal study and WORK.

Experience not vital. If you know National Merchandising it helps. If you don't, but will study HARD, that's even better. Prefer ages 28-45, but have one 23, one over 55, both satisfactory. Age less important than constant study, alert mind, and WORK.

We can not cannot sell each caller in an hour. If you win I'll go out and help you EARN more than drawing account your first month. Address O H 300, Tribune.

WANTED—MALE HELP.
Salesmen, Solicitors, Etc.

THE HEAD OF OUR BUSIness is in Chicago seeking two or three high grade salesmen to cover Central Western territories. We are forced to use a blind advertisement because the hotel at which he is stopping will not permit him to use that address in advertising. Our project is a business development service built from long and successful experience, and it is sold to executives on a contract basis. The work is constructive, positive, in harmony with the times, and, to a real salesman, highly remunerative. Considerable traveling is required, long sales experience desirable, and the ability to close large deals on one call absolutely necessary. This is a project that will appeal to men accustomed to earning $10,000 and upward per year. Replies coming from those whose experience qualifies them for a position of this class need not give details.
Simply give name, address, and phone number, and you will be called for an interview. Address K 53, Tribune.

TRAVELING SALESMEN—EXPERIENCED

ply. This is a big opportunity for advancement and income to high grade representative who can get actual results. Prefer representatives who are acquainted with stove and furnace trade. High grade line nationally known at popular prices. State age, salary expected, the name of line sold and annual sales for last three years. Also give references. Address A D 12, Tribune.

TRAVELING SALESMEN—FOR FASTEST selling proposition ever devised by mind of man. Standard goods for hardware, autos and garages. Repeats thick and fast. Unusual terms and discounts to dealers. Broad market. Goods in constant demand. Can make

THE TOWER BLDG., Madison at Michigan

READY FOR OCCUPANCY FEBRUARY 15TH.

Space in this new four story addition to the Tower building is highly desirable because:

1. Ideal location, close to transportation; stores, restaurants, and clubs.
2. All space is efficient working space; no awkward angles or dark spots to waste your rent money.
3. All offices have the benefit of natural light and fresh air.
4. Space can be divided to suit your individual requirements from single office to large suite.
5. Suite of two private offices and reception room, $100 to $125 per month; single offices, $40 per month and up.

We will be glad to give you further information and show you the space. Telephone Randolph 1250.

CADILLAC

AUTOMOBILE SHOW WEEK BARGAINS.

The Cadillac Used Car Department is featuring a special display of reconditioned Type 61 Cadillacs during Show Week at the following attractive prices:

Phaeton	$1,975
Touring	1,975
Victoria	2,700
Five Pass. Coupe...	2,700
Five Pass. Sedan...	2,775
Suburban	2,975

These automobiles have been completely reconditioned mechanically by our own craftsmen under our own roof. The bodies have been carefully repainted in our Coach Department and the upholstery and tops renewed whenever found necessary. Five new tires have been mounted on the cars. The standard 90-day new car warranty applies to each of these cars.

The person seeking a new automobile at or near these figures would be wise to investigate these cars. They offer features which a new car at their price could not supply—Cadillac dependability, riding and handling ease, beauty of body lines, and Cadillac distinction.

We invite you to inspect our display. We shall consider it a privilege to show you our stock and take you through the service department.

Open evenings during the Show until 9:30.

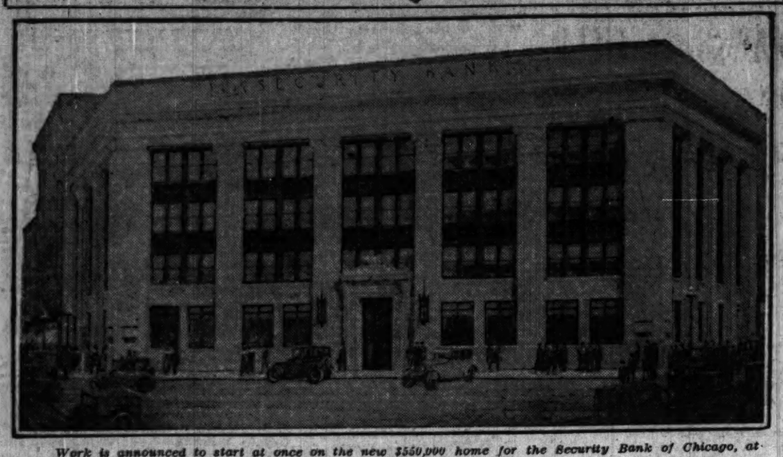
REAL ESTATE NEWS

New Home for Security Bank of Chicago



Work is announced to start at once on the new $550,000 home for the Security Bank of Chicago, at Ogden, Milwaukee and Chicago avenues, designed by Childs & Smith. The bank is expected to move from its present quarters, Milwaukee and Carpenter, on Jan. 1, 1925. The location of the new building on the Ogden avenue site is one of the long desired aims of J. C. Hansen, its president, as he was instrumental in getting the Ogden extension through.

The building will front 112 feet on Ogden, eighty-five feet on Milwaukee, and sixty-two on Chicago. It will be of Bedford stone. The bank will use the basement and first floor and rent the second, third, and fourth. The Security was organized in 1906 by J. B. Forgan, chairman of the board of the First National, in conjunction with Mr. Hansen, formerly with the First National.

BUY SITE FOR $200,000 4 STORY APARTMENT HOTEL ON ALDINE AV.

Work will start at once on a $200,000 four story apartment hotel at 549-551 Aldine avenue, by Edward M. Levin of the Realty Building and Construction company. There'll be eighty-four one room apartments, according to the plans by Architect Raymond Gregori. Completion date is set for June 1.

Mr. Levin bought the 50x166 site from Lewis C. Umlauf, a court reporter, for $30,000. There's an old residence on the property. Anderson & Anderson were attorneys and Talcott & Platt brokers.

WALGREEN DRUG LEASES SHOP IN LUZERNE HOTEL

The Walgreen company, druggists, has leased the corner store in the Luzerne hotel, at the northwest corner of Clark and Center, from Benjamin I. Morris and Benjamin Drell, owners of the hotel, for ten years at a rental, reported by Michael Flicht & Co., brokers, to be $12,000 annually. The store is now being remodeled.

PLAN $300,000 FLAT BUILDING FOR GREENWOOD

Michael Telechansky has bought the vacant 125x184 at 5326 Greenwood from A. J. Lilliroth for a reported $40,000 and has had plans drawn by E. J. Pateisi for a $300,000 four flat building, three, four, and five rooms. Dannon & Anderson and Philip A. Weinstein were attorneys; A. G. Mahoney & Co. brokers.

Jewelers Lease Floor in Madison Square Building

The Holsman company, wholesale jewelers now on the second floor of 210 West Madison and which has been in the same locality for the last two decades, has leased the entire second floor and second basement of the Madison Square building, formerly the Advertising and more recently known as the Union Trust building, for ten years at a rental reported by Michael Flicht & Co., brokers, as $12,000 annually.

Plan 52 Bungalows for Elmhurst and Vicinity

Thirty new bungalows for Elmhurst, fourteen for Melrose Park, and eight for Maywood are announced by the Bloch Real Estate Improvement company of Maywood. It is now completing twenty-four bungalows and ten two flats in Melrose Park and fourteen bungalows in Maywood.

RESTAURATEUR LEASES SHOP.

Reah's, incorporated, restaurateur, has leased the store at 108 South Clark, in the Clark-Monroe building, for ten years from March 1, at a reported term rental of $160,000.

WORLD'S BIGGEST FOX TROTTERY FOR WEST SIDE

Dance Hall to Care for 7,000 at Once.

Milwaukee avenue is to have the largest dance hall in the world, according to claims made yesterday by the buyer of 65,000 square feet of ground on the east side of that diagonal thoroughfare. Tentative plans call for space for 7,000 fox trotters. This is said to be about twice as large as the Trianon.

Michael P. Morrissey bought the vacant property at 2231-51 Milwaukee, fronting 225 feet on that avenue, and with a frontage of 125 feet on Lyndale. The average depth is 400 feet. The seller was the Milwaukee Avenue Building corporation, and the price was $140,000, subject to $44,000.

Olsen Urbain are drawing plans for a building to cost at least $700,000, probably closer to a million dollars. In addtion to the big indoor ballroom there'll be an outdoor dancing space; also eight stores, forty-two offices and two lodge halls. The building will be two stories. Work will start within a few weeks. The ground area of the project is about one and one-half acres.

Walter Spengler was broker for the buyer and Frank T. Jordan was attorney for the seller.

PLAN BIG HOTEL AT NORTHEAST CORNER OF EVERETT-55TH

What it is understood eventually will be the site for a tall apartment hotel was purchased yesterday from John W. Snyder, at the northeast corner of 55th and Everett, 142x155, for $100,000, or at the rate of $645 a front foot. The Chicago Title and Trust company took title for undisclosed buyers. C. V Snyder and Paul L. Day of Carroll, Schendorf & Boenicke were brokers. The new owners, it is said, have no immediate plans for improvement, but eventually will erect a high class hotel.

Building Permits

Ten building permits of a total valuation of $267,000 were issued yesterday, including: Francisco-av., E. 1204-58, two story brick apartments; J. Radnik, owner mason and carp.; W. H. Lruis, arch. $45,000

START WORK ON CITY'S BIGGEST MOVIE TOMORROW

Lawrence-Bdwy. Theater to Surpass Chicago.

BY AL CHASE.

Work starts tomorrow on the long idled of Balaban & Katz movie playhouse at Broadway and Lawrence, on the site of the Green Mill garden. This dynamic uptown home for film fans will represent an investment claimed to be $3,000,000 and will have approximately 4,500 seats, thereby shoving the Chicago out of first place as the honest to goodness, cross your heart, hope to die "largest theater in the city."

To forestall a flood of queries about the Chicago's red mazda lettered claim to "5,000 seats" we hasten to add that 500 of these are of the ethereal type which would give any one a bad bump if he tried to sit down in one. In other words, "5,000 seats" sounds more imposing to the management than 4,500. The only trouble is it's hard to explain when a larger house is built by the same firm.

Block Long Lobby.

Probably the most striking feature of the project, next to its huge seating capacity, will be the block long lobby, running straight through from Lawrence to Magnolia; this means a promenade of 290 feet. We'll take a chance and make this claim ourselves that it'll be one of the most imposing theater lobbies in the world, certainly by far the largest in Chicago.

For the person who likes figures we'll add that the playhouse will cover an area of 46,000 square feet, as compared with 32,000 occupied by the Chicago. The auditorium will be 212x170; the Chicago's is 170x159.

Lobbies A'Plenty.

Another arresting feature of the new playhouse is the space devoted to lobbies, promenades, and other floor areas which some managements would have tried to squeeze full of seats. Exits seem to be plentiful, with doors leading to Lawrence, Magnolia, and an alley on the north as well as the main entrance on Broadway.

Architects C. W. and George L. Rapp have used the Spanish style throughout their plans. The Broadway facade will climb 104 feet, equal to eight stories. Art glass windows will be a feature of the exterior.

No Shiny Noses Here.

One of the novelties to be installed will be a cosmetic room, with ten or more tables equipped with all of the feminine paraphernalia for achieving somber noses and brilliant cheeks. Nearby will be a playroom, equipped with books, games, toys, and a trained nurse. Mothers can check their kids, and their noses, and brighten their eyes and cheeks, and sit through a show at peace with the world.

If you live in the neighborhood you'll probably wonder what'll be done with the Riviera. So did we. The management believes there's room for both houses, the older one probably being devoted to longer than week runs. A tunnel will connect the two, and a lunch can be cooled and perhaps heated by the same plants.

An Old Friend, the Pipe Organ.

We almost forgot to tell about "the world's largest pipe organ," and the stage which it is claimed will be larger than the Auditorium's. And then there's another novelty which should have been told up near the first part of this story. The orchestra will be hoisted on a huge elevator so that when the overture is over the musicians will sink from their conspicuous place out of the eyeline of the audience.

The name for this, the sixth of the Balaban & Katz series, will be decided later. The opening date it is hoped will be April 1, 1925. All of the details as to the size of the site and its purchase price were given in this department last week.

Another Big Project.

Another big building project for the Lawrence avenue district to start almost simultaneously with the theater is the long talked of new home for the Uptown Trust and Savings bank. An office building is to be erected on the southeast corner of Broadway and Lawrence, diagonally across from the new movie.

The bank will use several floors, with main offices above.

HALSTED STREET LEASE.

The Electric Apparatus company has leased the power factory at the southwest corner of Halsted and Superior for ten years at a rental of $65,000. Paul C. Locher, broker.

ELM WOOD FOREST RESIDENCE SOLD.

Frederick B. Swift has sold his fifteen room residence at 518 Illinois avenue, Lake Forest, to J. M. Hopkins jr., together with three acres of land. John Griffith & Son were brokers.

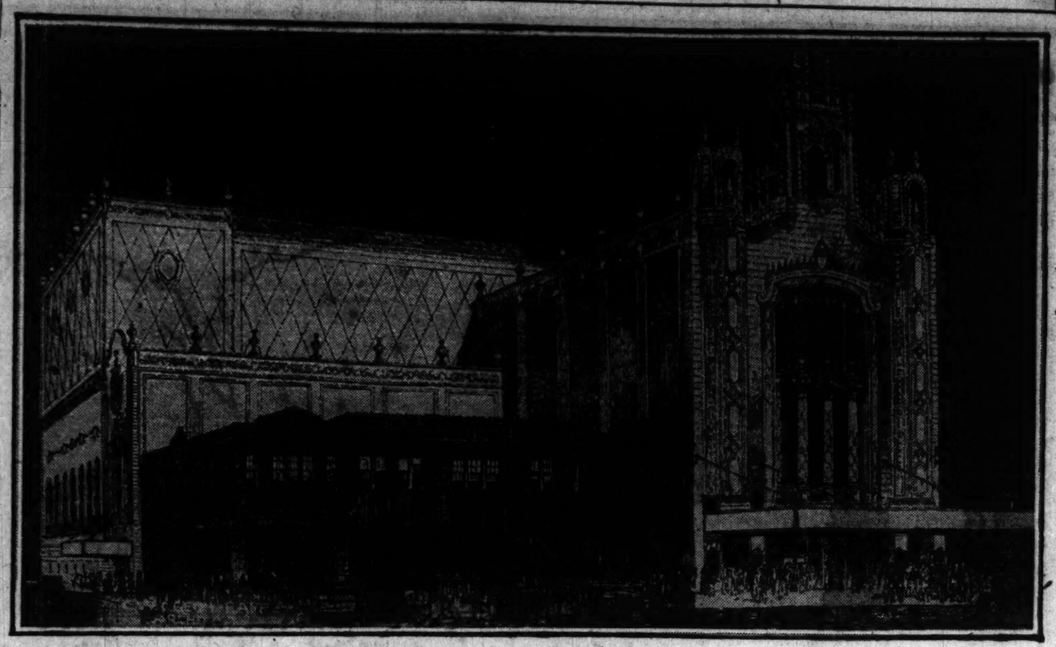
CHICAGO INCORPORATED
REAL ESTATE BONDS

Chicago's Largest Theater, on Green Mill Site



Above is a view looking northwest along Broadway toward where the old Green Mill once idly flapped its wings and where the new Balaban & Katz film playhouse will be built from plans by C. W. and George L. Rapp. It'll surpass the Chicago in both seating capacity and general ground area. It'll be "L" shaped, with the back of the stage on Lawrence, the west side of the theater extending along Magnolia and the main entrance on Broadway. It is planned to use both flood and stud lighting on a large scale. More is told of the project in a nearby column.

A. L. RANDALL CO. BUYS BIG PLANT OF STUDEBAKER

The A. L. Randall company, now at 729 South Wabash, has bought the old Staver Wagon works at Wallace and 76th from the Studebaker corporation for approximately $300,000, according to the Florists' Review. Albert H. Wetten & Co. were brokers. The property contains 215,000 square feet of ground area. On it are eight principal buildings, with 271,000 square feet of floor space.

The Randall company will move in its furniture factory, reed and rattan business, the florists' supplies departments, etc. The Randall cut flower department will move from North Wabash to 729 South Wabash when the Randall factories now at that location move to the property just acquired.

Hold First of Series of Regional Realty Meetings

Realtors of Hyde Park and Kenwood attended the first of a series of regional meetings given by the Chicago Real Estate board at Parker's café, 51st and Lake Park avenue, on Tuesday. Mark Levy, of Mark Levy & Bro., spoke on multiple listing as an aid to selling real estate, and other talks were made by John F. Wallace and Newton C. Farr.

Other regional meetings will be held in the near future in various districts of the city. The object is to keep outlying brokers informed as to the latest and most improved methods of selling and managing real estate.

TWO CHAIR STORE LEASES.

Two ten year leases to the G. R. Kinney Shoe company, one of the largest shoe manufacturers and retailers in the country, are reported by Carl & Ehrenhalt, 708 West North avenue, term rental of $50,000; 3339 Roosevelt road, $72,000.

BEGIN ON $400,000 APARTMENTS WEST OF THE SOVEREIGN HOTEL

Work has just started on a three story apartment building at the northeast corner of Granville and Winthrop, just across the alley to the west from the Sovereign hotel, which represents an investment in land and building reported to be $400,000. The Strauss Bros. company has made a $200,000 loan.

Loewenberg & Loewenberg have planned for thirty-three flats, three, four, and five rooms, with six shops on the Granville side. Completion date is set for August. It'll be called the Granville and is owned by the Granville Building corporation, of which Attorney Morris E. Feiwell is head.

The original plans of Mr. Feiwell, as told in this department last May, were for an eight story apartment hotel. The site is 150x100.

PLAN $500,000 HOSPITAL FOR MORGAN PARK

The South Suburban Hospital association has been incorporated for the purpose of erecting a large hospital for the Morgan Park and Beverly Hills district. The main building will cost $500,000 and additions to include a training school for nurses will be added later at an additional cost of $250,000. The architect and site will be announced shortly.

Indiana Harbor to Have $400,000 Theater Block

Work will start Feb. 15 on a $400,000 theater building on Michigan avenue, in Indiana Harbor, to contain a 1,500 seat movie, seven stores, and twenty-four flats. Completion date is set for Sept. 1. Michael E. Kozacik, owner, already operates four theaters in the town. R. Levine & Co. and E. P. Rupert are architects; Samuel Klein is engineer.

Plans $140,000 Building at Lawrence and Crawford

George W. Prassas has bought the southeast corner of Lawrence and Crawford, 133x125, from John M. Kronis for a reported $100,000, and will erect a $140,000 terra cotta front building to contain ten stores, eleven offices and four flats. Jens J. Jensen is architect. Mr. Kronis bought the corner in 1913 from the original subdividers for $16,500.

PIANO FIRM LEASES SHOP.

The Grossvenor & Lapham company, pianos, which has been on the fifth floor of the Fine Arts building for the last twenty-five years, has rented for five years the store at No. 414, in the same building, to be used for additional selling space.

Otis Elevator Company Buys for Future Growth

The Otis Elevator company has bought the 51x112 adjoining on the west its eight story building at the northwest corner of Jackson and Jefferson for $63,500 cash for future expansion. This gives the company a boulevard frontage of 150 feet and 142 feet on Jefferson. Mark Levy & Bro and Edgar M. Snow & Co. were brokers.

Berkeley-43d Building Changes Hands; $125,000

The four story building at the southwest corner of 43d and Berkeley, containing eighteen flats and six stores, was sold by Edward T. Maloy to Henry Schoenstadt for a reported $125,000. John M. Thompson represented both parties and will manage the property.

MARSHALL FIELD PAYS $150,000 FOR STORE LEASE

Gives Davis Co. Control of Jackson Corner.

One of the most interesting and significant leases closed on State street in some time, and the logical outcome of Marshall Field & Co. buying the Rothschild department store, has just been closed, whereby the Davis Dry Goods company, successors to Rothschild's, gets control for the leasehold on the six story building at the southeast corner of State and Jackson.

Marshall Field & Co. paid $150,000 cash to the S. & C. Clothing company for its twenty year lease it holds from the Leiter estate on the property. The lease was operative in 1921, having been made by Mark Levy & Brother. It calls for $80,000 net for twenty years. The S. & C. Clothing company subleased the east part of the first floor and all of the basement, fourth, fifth, and sixth floors to Rothschild for $50,000 annually, plus taxes over $25,000.

The State street front and frontage on Jackson was leased to D. S. Komiss & Co. at $47,000 and taxes up to $25,000. The building has a total frontage on Jackson of 144 feet and 40 on State.

As the lease just bought by Field & Co. has only seventeen years to run and as the Davis Dry Goods company already has its desired entrance on Jackson boulevard, it is presumed no building plans are contemplated.

Brokers' Notes

Carroll, Schendorf & Boenicke announce the opening of their new Jackson park office at 2164 East 71st; telephone Fairfax 6401. Paul L. Day will manage this, their fifth office.

Arthur N. Glatt and Leslie M. Price of Glatt & Price, had a formal opening of their new office at 6827 Stony Island avenue yesterday.

Rowe & Whitman have been appointed managing agents for the Hamilton building, southeast corner of Van Buren and Clark, formerly occupied by Weber's department store.

R. H. Bell Jr., for the last five years assistant manager of the Leander J. McCormick estate, has been appointed assistant manager of the new Strauss building, in charge of operation.

Frederick S. Oliver of Oliver & Co. gave a dinner in honor of Burton Newcomb, manager of the new Strauss building, on Tuesday evening at the Union League club.

The Block Real Estate Improvement company has moved to new and larger quarters at 2 South 19th avenue, Maywood.

DRUG COMPANY BUYS BUILDING.

The MacLean Drug company has bought from J. K. Farley the three story building at 310-12 West Superior, west of its own six story building at Franklin, for an indicated $40,000. E. N. Dunstan & Co. report the deal as $70,000.

BUYS ASTOR STREET HOUSE.

Alexander Smith, president of Peabody, Naurbteling & Co., has bought the residence at 1421 Astor from J. M. Hopkins.

News of the Architects

The Chicago Architectural club plans to hold its annual traveling scholarship competition on Saturday, Feb. 16, at 1 p. m., in the rooms of that organization. According to Fred M. Hodgson, chairman of the scholarship committee, the annual prize of $1,000 will be awarded by the club to the winner of the competition. This money is used by the winner for travel abroad to study architecture. Rudolph J. Nedved, winner of last year's $1,000 prize, is now in Europe studying.

Architect Elmer E. Behrns has moved from the Wrigley building to larger quarters in the Lake Shore Trust and Savings Bank building, 405 Upper Michigan avenue, suite 303. His new phone is Superior 1466.

Beg Your Pardon

Daniel Burkhartsmeier bought a half interest in 180 acres west of the Olympia Fields Country club for $56,250, and not a whole interest for that amount, as was reported in this department last Sunday.

502 Chicago Tribune Towns

It is generally recognized that The Saturday Evening Post is the most powerful of American periodicals. Its circulation in each of these 502 towns is therefore given beside that of The Chicago Sunday Tribune. Note that even in towns outside of Cook County The Sunday Tribune has much more than double the circulation of this great magazine. And readers pay from two to three times as much for The Tribune as for The Post. Considering these facts it is only natural that The Tribune should be a powerful selling influence in these hundreds of outside towns as well as in Cook County.

THERE are only forty-five towns in the five states of The Chicago Territory which have morning newspapers of their own and only forty-eight which publish Sunday newspapers. Therefore, in hundreds of communities the residents, both men and women, look upon The Chicago Tribune as THEIR paper.

The map above shows the location of 471 towns of more than one thousand population located outside of Cook County. In every one of these towns the number of Tribunes sold exceeds one-fifth the number of families and in many cases it exceeds one-half. There are 31 similar towns in Cook County.

In addition to these 502 towns of more than a thousand population there are 562 towns of less than a thousand population in these same five states in which The Tribune reaches at least one-fifth of the families.

These 1064 towns are the very cream of the corn belt—centers of industry and agriculture. Their people have both the intelligence and the money to make your advertising pay.

For seventy-seven years The Chicago Tribune has been building good will and prestige in this Central Western market.

Bruce Bliven recently said of an Iowa town: "The Chicago Tribune is our Bible, giving us all we know of what is going on in the world in general." The representative of Illinois at the National Booksellers' Convention said of his state, "Like all Gaul, it is divided into three parts, Chicago, The Tribune, and Illinois." The Tribune maintains its own world-wide news service and spends millions of dollars annually for the material it prints.

No wonder people of the Central West speak familiarly of it as "The W. G. N.," the initials standing for "World's Greatest Newspaper." No wonder Tribune advertising yields sales in volume quite out of proportion either to circulation or to rates.

The Tribune has men trained not only in advertising but in merchandising who know by repeated contacts with jobber and dealer just how to get the most out of Chicago Tribune advertising. If you want to build sales in this rich market ask a Tribune man to call and discuss the matter. It involves no obligation on your part and may prove for

Don't wait until your teeth are past saving Stop Acid Decay now at

THE DANGER LINE

THE hard enamel of your teeth does not extend all the way to the roots. Normally, it stops just below the margin of the gums. The remainder of the tooth is an unprotected, soft, bony structure. This is The Danger Line.

What happens there

Tiny food particles are often pressed down between the gum margins and the teeth. They ferment there, producing inflammation and irritation, which cause the gums gradually to recede and expose The Danger Line on every tooth.

The fermentation of these tiny food particles forms acids which eat into your teeth, causing Acid Decay.

Decay at The Danger Line spreads rapidly. The gums become infected and diseased. Abscesses and pyorrhea may develop. Poisons from these sweep through the entire system. They often cause loss of teeth, rheumatism, heart-disease and other serious conditions.

It is a fact, now recognized by the highest dental authorities, that Acid Decay must be stopped if you would have sound teeth and perfect health.

Years of exhaustive research have proved that milk of magnesia definitely and safely prevents Acid Decay. It promptly neutralizes all acids which form in the mouth. It gets into the spaces between the teeth and in fissures where your tooth-brush cannot reach, protecting them for hours after its use.

The ideal preventive

A remarkable new dental cream has been produced by the Squibb Laboratories. It is made with Squibb's Milk of Magnesia, pleasantly flavored.

Brushing your teeth regularly with Squibb's Dental Cream is a definite protection against Acid Decay at The Danger Line—and elsewhere. It stimulates the gums and relieves the sensitiveness of acid-eroded or decayed teeth.

It also cleans and polishes the teeth beautifully, keeping them bright and attractive.

Begin to use Squibb's Dental Cream to-day to protect your teeth and gums correctly. If your druggist cannot supply you, mail us the coupon below with ten cents for a generous size sample tube.

THE COUNTESS OF NORTHESK—she that was Jessica Brown, show girl, of Buffalo—interrupts the bob-sleigh business at St. Moritz, Switzerland, to have her picture taken with her earl. THE COOLIDGE "FRONT PORCH"—Just as, once, the Harding home at Marion became famous as a center of informal campaigning, the deck of the presidential yacht Mayflower is now acquiring a reputation as a shrine of political significance. Hardly a week passes that one or another group of Republican leaders is not invited aboard to talk things over. Here are President and Mrs. Coolidge at the start of one of the recent cruises on what they are already calling the "Mayflower campaign."

GOOD FOR ONE RIDE; A Blue Ribbon story about the most beautiful girl in the United States.....By Richard Washburn Child

Andrée Lafayette, the distinguished French star, writes, "Pond's Two Creams are marvelous for keeping my skin fresh and smooth as I must have it, in spite of the long hours and trying lights, and many cosmetics I am obliged to use."

THEIR SKIN taxed unmercifully

Yet it has no trace of lines
Never a hint of shine
No coarsening or roughness

The glamour that surrounds the actress is for the most part due to her own bright charm, her miraculously fresh and youthful beauty. No one realizes better than she the great importance of a clear and supple skin, and in spite of heavy cosmetics, and late hours her complexion is nearly always radiantly lovely.

That is because she takes care of it. And thousands of other women have, like the actress, adopted a new unfailing means to skin loveliness.

Every night and always after exposure, the face and neck are cleansed with Pond's Cold Cream. The fine oil in it sinks deep into the pores and removes all the dust, the powder, the excess oil of the skin. After it is wiped off, the skin is not only deliciously clean but youthfully supple.

After cleansing, before powdering, smooth in a little Pond's Vanishing Cream to guard against the coarsening effects of exposure, and keep the skin soft, clear and unlined. It gives, moreover, a special fineness of texture, and provides a perfect foundation for powder.

Learn from the women who have achieved exquisite skins and try this method yourself. The Pond's Extract Company, 131 Hudson Street, New York.

Keep your Teeth really safe by helping the Protective Processes of the Mouth

Temporary cleaning — ordinary brushing — cannot keep back the mouth acids. They are forming all of the time. They are the chief cause of tooth decay.

But Pebeco keeps your teeth safe by gently stimulating the natural protective processes of your mouth.

It causes an increased healthy flow of fluids from the mouth glands. These alkaline fluids pour through the mouth, neutralizing the dangerous mouth acids as fast as they form.

Pebeco cleans and polishes and, in addition, re-vitalizes your mouth. It leaves it tingling with cleanliness and health.

May Odors

In your breath—insure them

One of the gravest social offenses is bad breath. One of the commonest, too. Yet the offender is usually unaware.

Cigars or cigarets may cause it.

Or decaying food between the teeth.

Or affected teeth or gums.

Or a stomach disorder. Or certain foods and drinks.

That offensive breath, however caused, kills nearly every charm.

A mere breath perfume suggests concealment. You seek to hide an odor, and everybody knows it.

A May Breath tablet combats those bad odors, whether from the mouth or stomach.

It is an antiseptic mouth wash in tablet form—a purifier. It brings the odor of spring to the breath. In the stomach it also acts as an aid to digestion.

This method successfully overcomes bad breath. It combats it because it is a complete deodorant.

Carry May Breath with you—in your pocket or your bag. Before any close contact, eat one and you are safe.

Dainty, careful people do that everywhere today. They never risk offense.

Let us buy you a box to show what May Breath means to you. Cut out the coupon and present it—now. This is something you need and want.

May Breath is candy tablets designed to deodorize both the mouth and stomach. Not a mere perfume, but an antiseptic purifier. Carry it with you.

When you dance

Let a May Breath tablet kill the odor of cigars.

Be careful

In every close-contact be sure your breath is sweet.

At home

Bring to every greeting a sweet breath. You owe it to each other.

GOOD FOR A 10C BOX

Sallow skin

You can awaken it

You can give a sallow skin color and life simply by using a more stimulating method of cleansing.

Follow this treatment once or twice a week, and see how it will rouse the inactive pores and blood vessels:

JUST before retiring fill your basin full of hot water—almost boiling hot. Bend over the top of the basin and cover your head and the bowl with a heavy bath towel. Steam your face for thirty seconds. Now lather a hot cloth with Woodbury's Facial Soap. With this wash your face thoroughly, rubbing the lather well into the skin. Then rinse the skin well, first with warm water, then with cold, and finish by rubbing it for thirty seconds with a piece of ice.

After three or four of these treatments you will notice a wonderful improvement.

Get a cake of Woodbury's today, at any drug store or toilet goods counter. A 25-cent cake lasts a month or six weeks for this treatment and for regular toilet use.

ROMANCE BY ACHMED ABDULLAH

Blue Ribbon Fiction

A Strange Tale of an American Girl, a Prince of Bokhara, and the Beckoning Lure of the Inscrutable Orient.

MAURELIEN SCHOLTZ, who wrote for the Figaro the daily article of caustic personalities which he called "Les Propos d'un Parisien," used to remark that Prince Mohammed Bek Tcherkessky needed only a black velvet half-mask to interpret the soul of medieval melodrama. He added that when the prince and his barbaric, picaresque retinue of bearded Central Asians swaggered down the boulevards with an insolent crackle of steel and glint of jewels and a rather theatrical motley of high, spurred boots, flowing silk robes, and heads crowned by turbans or immense Turkoman fur caps it was as though the middle ages had come to life and once more troubadours and halberdiers, janisaries, and mincing, beribboned pages held definite social and political offices, as bishops do today and head waiters and members of the house of deputies. Indeed, Prince Tcherkessky represented romance with a torrid directness that was a challenge in the teeth of modern, prosy civilisation and that appeared extravagant and unlikely among the cloudy compromises of the Occident.

Not that his actions nor, as far as Paris could tell, his reactions were in keeping with his outer man. On the contrary. He seemed ultra-modern, a typical westernized Asiatic who aped every last trick of Europe's craving for hackneyed efficiency and shifting fads and flummeries.

To choose quite at random two of his more notorious Paris interludes, there was the revenge which he took on Captain Wilkinson and his quarrel with Viscount de Kergoualez.

The former, of His Majesty's Horse Guards, had gone to Paris on furlough—"urgent private affairs," the Army Gazette had it, while Belgravia, better informed, mentioned Mlle. Yvonne of the Folies Bergère. At a ball given by the Duchess de Tourcoing he made a remark, overheard by Tcherkessky, about being "fed up with these—O—what-you-call-'ems—Orientalized Russians or Russianized Orientals."

Tcherkessky turned to a friend.

"By calling me Orientalised he insults my Russian nationality and my loyalty to the tsar," he said, "and by calling me Russianized he insults me as a Moslem, a Bokharan prince, and a descendant of the Tartar emperors. What shall I do?"

"You are a good swordsman."

"Englishmen do not fight duels."

"Box his ears."

"Rather crude."

"Then what?"

"Ah—I have an idea."

The next week, his mustache shaved off, he took a position as waiter in the Café Napolitain, where, stumbling, he poured a chocolate soufflé over Wilkinson, who was dining with Mlle. Yvonne. Then he bowed, asked the dazed captain if he would take powdered sugar with the soufflé, and emptied the shaker down the other's neck.

Paris' cruel laughter drove the Englishman across the channel, while Tcherkessky became more popular than ever; and—since in Paris it is the stage and not, as in New York, the yellow press which does the scavenger work for society—he reached an envied pinnacle of local fame by being included among the characters whom Paul Mayol, the inimitable low comedian, impersonated in the new Scala Revue. For Mayol came on in act two, in a farcical makeup of a Russian-Asiatic aristocrat which was a mingling of whiskers, furs, turban, vodka bottles, scimitars, and an obligato knout, did a Tartar dance with Argentine excrescences, and introduced himself to the audience with a guttural:

Je me fich' bien des lois!
Boum—en avant la musique!
Les ducs, les princes, les rois
Se réchauffent sous mon toit!
Boum—boum—boum!
Les boul'vards sont à moi!

and a burlesque rendering of the scene with Wilkinson, after which he danced off to the pizzicato of a dozen balalaikas that were desperately striving to syncopate the Russian national anthem.

"Bravo!" applauded the audience.

"Encore!" cried Tcherkessky, who, turbaned and monocled, watched the caricature of himself from the stage box.

"He seems charming," Louise Carruthers said in the next box to her father. "Why don't you invite him to the house?"

"I don't know him, my dear."

"But if you should meet him——"

"Very well, my dear."

Mayol made a hit. Tcherkessky basked in reflected glory. Or perhaps it was the other way about. And shortly afterwards the latter caused the macrocosm of Paris to buzz like a beehive when in a boulevard restaurant he stepped up to the table of the Viscount de Kergoualez, notorious for his darkling Breton jealousy and his extraordinary, rococo swordsmanship, who was dining with Madelon de Pougy, the pansy-eyed soubrette of the Folies Marigny.

"Madelon," asked Tcherkessky, will you dine with me tomorrow?"

"Tomorrow Mlle. de Pougy dines with me," said the Breton.

"Perhaps—next Thursday?"

"Mlle. de Pougy dines with me every night."

"O, well—it makes no difference. You see, she breakfasts with me every morning."

The duel which followed was epochal. Tcherkessky fought well, with carte and tierce, with lunge and thrust and quick, staccato ripost. But finally he went down before the other's lightninglike feint. The sword point narrowly missed his heart, and a thick flow of blood stained his white shirt. But when M. de Kergoualez rushed up and offered the hospitality of his nearby villa Tcherkessky, just before he fainted, refused with a smile.

"Thank you. But I must hurry back to Paris. Madelon has been waiting breakfast for me these last two hours."

One of De Kergoualez's seconds had been Morgan J. Carruthers, the American banker, domiciled over twenty years in Paris, where he was partner of Higgins, Whyte & Co. and where his wife had died in giving birth to their only child, Louise. She was now twenty years old, tall, slight, startlingly beautiful with her silken, ruddy gold hair folding like wings over tiny ears, her dead white complexion, her hazel brown eyes, her profile as clear as a cameo; and, to quote that same M. Aurélien Scholtz of the Figaro, had made the "impossible possible; for she blends the chic of the Champs Elysées with the exotic verve of Fifth avenue and the mellow culture of the Faubourg St. Germain with"—verbatim, nor did the noted French columnist attempt to be humorous—"the free tang of the New Jersey prairies, where the noble red man smokes his tomahawk and gloats over his grisly, bloodstained collection of scalps and wigwams."

"MY dear," said Morgan J. Carruthers to his daughter across the lunch table, "I've met the prince whom you are so crazy to know." He described the duel.

"Delightful!" she laughed. "As soon as he is well you must ask him to the house."

"To add to your social trophies?"

"No. Ethnological. Remember, last year, the Spanish duke——?"

"The half portion with the moth eaten beard who finished my last bottle of Pol Roger 1900 and then borrowed ten thousand francs from me?" He sighed reminiscently. "I remember him all right—and others."

"And now a genuine Central Asian potentate—imagine, papa!—how gorgeously, thrillingly romantic! And one who looks the part!"

"Bosh! He is thoroughly European."

"He wears a turban."

"His turban is only skin deep."

"Makes no difference." She folded her hands like a small child. "Gimme—gimme!"

"Just as you wish, my dear!"

For that was Morgan J. Carruthers' refrain through life; had been with his wife; was now with his daughter.

"You are a darling, papa!"

Which was her refrain.

Four weeks later Prince Tcherkessky dined with the Carruthers. It was a small party. Louise had arranged it. There were she, her father, the prince, and the widowed Countess of Dealle, a middle aged Welshwoman carefully selected by Louise because—"she bores father to extinction. He invariably dozes off when she is about. Then he cannot hear what I am saying." She spoke in French. Dinner over, they were in the upstairs library.

"But," asked Tcherkessky, wagging a discreet thumb in the direction of Lady Dealle's brocaded bulk and lowering his voice, "what about——?"

"She doesn't know a word of French, although she has lived here for years. She told me the other day that to speak French in Paris only encourages the natives."

"How deliciously British!" laughed Tcherkessky.

"Quite. She is the backbone of English society."

"If only she'd use a little more whalebone."

"But why?"

"Her contours are so Louis Seize."

"A lumpy figure is a sure sign of respectability, Monsieur le Prince."

"Yes. I am afraid the case is hopeless."

"You are speaking of Lady Dealle's figure?"

"No. Of her respectability."

"What do you mean?"

"O"—he lit a cigaret—"a woman who has had no past before she is thirty-five will never have a future."

"I am hardly twenty."

"Lucky for you! Life is over in the middle."

"A philosopher are you—à la Kant?"

"No. Kant's was the critique of pure reason, while my reasons are usually—O, impure may be too strong a term."

"Purity and impurity are merely a matter of viewpoint."

"The other chap's viewpoint, unfortunately. By the way, Madame de Cassagnac told me the other day——"

They fell to talking, of society and stage. She caught the ball of gossip which he tossed free. They gilded and embossed it. They flung it wide and caught it again. They laughed.

Then, all at once, Louise cut the laugh off in midair.

"You"—with sudden American directness—"you disappoint me dreadfully!"

"I am sorry. How so?"

"With your tinsely, shoddy Parisian small talk!"

"What do you wish me to talk about? Cabbages and kings?"

"Are you familiar with all the catchwords?" she asked ironically.

"I have been trying to master them. Successfully, I hope?"

"Too successfully! That's why you disappoint me so."

"Again I fail to understand."

"I imagined you—different."

"For instance?"

"Less Occidental and more——"

"More——?"

"Romantic!"

He smiled thinly.

"Because of my ruffianly Tartar retainers and, I suppose, my turban?"

"Partly. And also——"

"Because I am a Moslem, a Bokharan, and a descendant of Central Asian emperors?"

She held to her point although she sensed the blighting ridicule beneath his words.

"Yes."

"Romance," he replied, narrowing his gray eyes, "is only a question of geography. Once I saw a motion picture of an American baseball game. It expressed romance to me. And to you?"

"The Orient."

"A stupid part of the world, I assure you. Drab and commonplace. Let's talk about America—about real romance."

"You are maddening."

She was silent. They were sitting near the window. Outside the street lamps glowed lemon and elfin green. She looked out. He had risen. He stood quite close to her, taking in the golden gleam in her hair, the low, white forehead, the suave satin lines of her slender form.

"Mademoiselle," he said, "I own up to my turban as part of my civilizational creed—as, doubtless, your countrymen own up to their stiff hats."

She stamped her foot.

"Don't talk to me. I thought you were——"

"I know. But," he continued calmly, "in spite of our turbans we are really not a pageant especially arranged for the amusement of Occidentals—even charming Occidentals like you. We pursue our own lives and destinies according to our own likes and dislikes—even—ah—vices and benighted ignorance."

"You are rude."

"It is one of life's million wild jests that woman will always mistake honest truth for a lack of breeding. Mademoiselle, I am not romantic. I am—O—a commonsensical Asiatic materialist."

Perhaps for the first time since she had left her social swaddling clothes Louise felt nonplussed. Keenly cosmopolitan, emancipated to a degree, possessed, in spite of her Paris veneer, of a typically American, cool headed rationality, she had in the past known all sorts of men, had known how to handle one and all of them. But Tcherkessky's outspokeness—chiefly since she had always considered this characteristic her own particular weapon to be used mercilessly in times of social need—left her aghast; left her breathless, too. She was on the point of breaking up the tête-à-tête and turning to Lady Dealle, who was talking to her father in a droning undertone, when suddenly a thought came to her.

"Tell me," she said, "have you ever heard of the man who could not see the forest because there were too many trees?"

"Yes. Why?"

"The shoe fits me absolutely."

"What a charming, narrow shoe it must be."

"Bromidic. But I forgive you. You see, here I have been clamoring for the romance of the exotic, the far. I blamed you because you did not measure up to the standards of my imagination. And—the forest and the trees—perhaps it is your—how shall I put it?—Europeanization which makes you, the Asiatic, so romantic. Perhaps it is your frankness which makes you, the subtle Oriental, so thrillingly picturesque. Perhaps it is the blending of turban and monocle, of eastern soul and western viewpoint, which makes you so fascinating."

"You flatter me."

"No. I am stating facts." She touched his hand lightly. "Who knows? Perhaps we shall like each other after all."

"We may unless—ah—'alli mah arfeq khasraq'," he quoted.

"Mind translating?"

"'He who does not know you does not despise you.' In other words—we must not know each other too well."

"Very uncomplimentary. A Tartar saying?"

"Arabic. It was my grandmother's pet proverb."

"Was she an Arab?"

"She was a Turkoman, but spoke Arabic by preference. Charming old lady—though she smoked a water pipe twice her size and berated the servants in language that would have caused a Paris Apache to blush."

"You were fond of her?"

"Very. I was always hanging about her skirts—which incidentally were trousers, baggy ones, of rose red silk—when I was a boy."

"Candy, I suppose? The usual bribery route to a child's affections?"

"Yes—and stories. Gorgeous stories she used to tell me about Bokhara—the olden days before the Russian conquest. One particularly—about her father, my great-grandfather—and the Musk-Drop, his favorite slave."

Louise laughed.

"Did it ever occur to you," she asked, "that a really clever woman always gets her own way?"

"What do you mean?"

"Never mind. But do tell me about Bokhara—and your great-grandfather—and the Musk-Drop."

"She was a Persian girl who had been captured during a raid—from the very feet of the war-dromedaries." He told her a motley tale of the Orient; a tale of intrigue and passion and bloodshed; dramatic, colorful, true. And all the time he wondered why Louise looked at him with that slightly ironic smile.

"That's what I call romantic!" she exclaimed.

"Do you? Life is too short to go hunting for it."

"What do you hunt for?"

"Experiences."

"Another name for romance."

"I doubt it."

It was the sound of regular breathing from the corner where Lady Dealle and her father were sitting—carefully chosen by the latter because the dim light permitted him to close his eyes and dream of U. S. Steel—which warned Louise that it was time to break up the party.

"You will tell me more about Bokhara?" she asked when the Prince took his leave.

"Gladly. Since it amuses you."

"AM I right?" Morgan J. Carruthers turned to his daughter when they were alone. "Isn't he thoroughly European?"

"Quite. He rehashed all the current gossip."

"I told you so."

"But he also talked about the Musk-Drop."

"What's that? A new perfume?"

"No. Perfumes are a luxury, while musk happens to be a necessity in Central Asia. By the way—I am lunching with him tomorrow."

"Quick worker, isn't he?"

"He? No. I! I invited him."

During the weeks that followed they met frequently, at the Carruthers home, the houses of friends, and at parties, some large, some intimate, which Tcherkessky gave. Invariably when they were alone the conversation would begin with local gossip, but just as invariably—and after a while she played it as a game, developing her skill as she went along—she would switch the talk to Central Asia, to the glamor and romance of the yellow lands. Nor did he seem to realize what she was doing.

He would mention some amusing incident, true or untrue.

"Have you heard the latest? The other night at the Gautiers the old Princess Natasha Demidova dropped her false eyebrows into the soup and chased them round and round with a spoon, thinking they were truffles."

She laughed; then:

"Have you truffles in Central Asia?"

"Rather. We find them in the great Khiva desert."

"I should love to see the desert," she rejoined demurely, switching the conversation neatly and scoring a point for herself. "What does it look like?"

"Nothing out of the ordinary. Orange and purple, and blinding, white high lights. And the sands forever shifting—and then, of course, the camel riders, with their jaws bandaged against the bitter, biting wind."

So he would tell her. "This is too easy!" she would think, flashing him a Mona Lisa smile. Or perhaps the next time, when he mentioned a nouveau riche Lorraine iron master whom he had met and who had a "dreadful time of it, eating asparagus soaked in Hollandaise sauce with two fingers and still trying to be the perfect gentleman," she would comment upon the different table manners of different races.

"In Bokhara you eat with your fingers, don't you?"

"Everything except thin soup," he laughed.

"How messy! Don't your women object?"

"They eat apart."

"Really? Why?"

Then a résumé of eastern home life, vivid, picturesque, while again he seemed to wonder at her ironic smile.

So, womanlike, she teased him because he did not suspect what she was doing; felt sorry for him because she teased him; liked him the better because she felt sorry for him. Nor was there a doubt of his genuine liking for her. But, try as she would, she could not find out if he more than liked her. Whatever romance there was in him seemed vicarious: in his picaresque outer man, his clanking, savage retinue, and in the tales of his country, his people back home. Whatever gayety was in him seemed the gayety of former adventures, with Madelon de Pougy, Captain Wilkinson, and other incidents that had been the talk of Paris. "I wish he wouldn't respect me quite so much!" she said to herself, and yet, looking up, suddenly catching his eye, she would see there like a deep, vibrant undertow beneath the lightly eddying surface, a sweet and passionate promise. But she could never reach to it, could never pierce his armor, if armor it was. He was always charming, but always impersonal. It seemed time and again as if he were catching himself up—"putting on the brakes," she described it to herself—and this intrigued her, again increased her liking by adding to it a sort of dare, a sort of do or die edge.

When her father asked her one day if Tcherkessky still appealed to her romantic instincts she replied she had had a change of heart—"in a way."

"Namely?"

"I have discovered true romance is unconscious. If he were conscious of it he would be—O——"

"Well——?"

"Near beer, papa darling."

"And now he is champagne, I guess?"

"Yes. But so far without the kick."

Of course, Paris gossiped, and Principessa Carelli, a New Orleans woman married to a Roman aristocrat, broached the subject to Louise.

"Do you realize, my dear, that people are talking about you and that handsome young animal of an Asiatic?"

"Let them! What do I care?"

"I hope that there is no cause?"

"What right have you to ——?"

"None. Only duty. Your mother was my dearest friend."

Louise was disarmed. "I do not love him," she said.

"But you like him?"

"Tremendously. He is a peach."

"That's what I said about Carelli when I met him."

"You've been married to him twenty years!"

"Yes. And"—stonily—"I have disliked him the same length of time, minus the first few weeks. Italians are rather like Orientals. Passionate and yet cold. Naive and yet secretive."

"Tcherkessky is an open book to me."

"Possibly. But written in some foreign, unintelligible language. Tell me. Do you really know anything about him, his reactions, his life, himself?"

"He tells me lots."

"About?"

"Everything. Bokhara. The desert."

"About himself?" insisted the other.

"But I know him well. I see him often."

"Have you ever been to his villa at Marly-le-Roi?"

"No. He gives his parties at restaurants. Why?"

"The other day a high French official told me that the Prince has lived here three years and that never a single European has set foot in his house. Secretive—just as I said."

"Ridiculous!" laughed Louise. "What do you imagine he is hiding? Some brooding Asiatic mystery?"

"No. Perhaps only a wife."

"O——"

"More likely two wives. Or three. Orientals are such reckless mathematicians—maritally speaking." She rose. "Au revoir, chérie. Think it over."

The principessa would have been surprised had she been able to read what was passing through Louise's mind. For the latter was thinking that, strangely, the idea of one wife being married to Tcherkessky would be distasteful to her, while two or three wives—why—that seemed a different matter. It made the marriage less a marriage and more a purely matter of fact Oriental custom, as western men join club or lodge. In fact, it heightened her interest in him. It refurbished the paling glitter of his romantic halo. Then there was his villa. She decided she would be the first Occidental to cross its threshold. It would be rather in the nature of a lark, she said to herself—and, perhaps subconsciously, lied to herself. For it was less curiosity which piqued her than a faint stirring of jealousy; jealousy of the unknown, mysterious women whom his house might be hiding—Oriental women, doubtless. She felt a pang in her soul.

THE next afternoon—they were in her boudoir—she asked him straight out.

"Are you married?"

"Yes," he replied stiffly, but without embarrassment.

"How many wives have you?"

She had to repeat the question before he answered.

"Pardon me, Louise. But we Moslems do not care to discuss our domestic relations with outsiders."

"O!" She herself was not quite sure if it was coquetry which gave the tremor to her voice or if she was really hurt. "Am I an outsider—to you?"

"Aren't you?" His voice, too, trembled a little. And again, more an appeal than a query: "Tell me—aren't you?"

"I wonder." Her accents were dreamy, wiped over.

"I also wonder," he echoed, "at times. At other times——"

"Yes?" she whispered.

"O——"

He was silent. He stood quite close to her. Their eyes met; wavered; held each other. There was between them, suddenly, some strange alchemy of understanding, and at that moment she knew he had only to open his arms and she would nestle there, without doubt or question. Perhaps he knew it, too. For his lips quivered; his hand shook where it rested on the back of her chair near her shoulder. But he seemed to catch himself back. His hand gave a curious impression of thinking, pondering, then rejecting. He turned away. Once more he was impassive, almost stolid.

She bit her lips. Her brain was in a turmoil. As from across a far distance she became conscious of his voice, without understanding the words. She shivered a little.

"I beg your pardon?" she asked. "You said——?"

"Have you heard the latest about Yvonne?"

"What is it?" She controlled herself with an effort.

So, coolly, he told her some current gossip, and shortly afterwards took his leave. She was in a curious state of mind. She was angry, but less at the man himself than at what, as she imagined it, had caused his sudden restraint.

Her thoughts ran about as follows:

"If he loves me he should tell me. He is married. He knows I know. But his religion permits polygamy. So why has he not the courage to tell me he loves me? Then it would be up to me to answer."

Came another thought, sharp, hurting: "I know the reason. The women in his house—perhaps one woman!"

And, with all the chilly American resolve inherited from her father: "I shall cross the threshold of his house. I shall see her!"

A few days later he asked her to lunch.

"Gladly," she said. "Where?"

"At the Café Riche?"

"Why don't you ever invite me to your house?"

"O——"

"I don't mean to shock you. I'll bring a chaperon."

"Very well. I shall ask you."

"Tomorrow?"

"Some other time."

But it was always some other time until finally she decided upon strategy. One day, driving her roadster, she saw his villa, gleaming white among the black trees of Marly-le-Roi near Paris. About a week later she and Tcherkessky went for a horseback ride. But before mounting she had had a talk with her Irish groom, had slipped a gold piece in his hand. He had busied himself with the mare's right foreleg where a tight bandage encircled the delicate hock.

"It'll work in about two hours," he had said, winking a sea blue eye, "and it won't hurt the baste."

"Thank you, Paddy."

They rode through a Sunday morning in spring, silver and rose and heliotrope. The Bois was crowded. Whole families were on their holiday stroll, the fathers in the burgess pomp of frock coat and high hat or the democracy of an artisan's blue blouse, the women in rustling taffeta or light cambric, but always the children carrying baskets with claret bottles protruding their rakish necks. Foreigners were there: Englishmen in tweeds, Americans in pin stripe worsted, a Chinese from the legation in embroidered peacock blue silk looking with conscious imperturbability through horn rimmed spectacles, a drove of loud mouthed South American rastaquouères. The police was there, fully armed and panoplied, and pimply faced schoolboys in tight trousers and bowler hats, swinging canes and otherwise aping the grownups, who in their turn, like all good Parisians, aped the British. The army was there in all its branches and a sprinkling of the navy and a good deal of the nursery.

"Too many people!" Louise called over her shoulder. She was off at a fast canter.

"Where to?" asked Tcherkessky.

"Who cares? Can't you smell the spring? Catch me if you can!"

She spurred her thoroughbred. It stretched its splendid, steely body and fell into a long gallop. He followed. He did not speak again. Forty minutes later they were on the outskirts of Paris where the town mellowed into a respectable dotage of drab and gray and flat greens, with here and there a red brick roof, like a nodding, bright flower on an ancient dame's sober Sunday bonnet. Came quaint little fields in a neat checkerboard pattern of yellow and bistre brown, punctured occasionally by the gables of farm houses and anemic church spires; and a shimmer of rippling water where oak and beech dipped their dark arms to the murmur of the Seine. They rode, alternating between a fast walk and a gallop, both silent, occupied with their own thoughts. Then a blurred mass in the distance loomed ever more clearly. It split into streets and a cluster of villas, and presently their horses' feet clattered on the cobblestones of Marly-le-Roi. By this time the prince had taken the lead. He kept straight on towards the open country beyond the little town. He turned at Louise's sudden call.

"Yes?"

"O——"

Her mare snorted, stood still. He rode back.

"What is the matter?"

She slid from her saddle. The thoroughbred, tame, lifted its right foreleg. She examined it with probing fingers. The horse whinnied.

"Poor old girl!" she said. "Hurt, doesn't it?" She turned to Tcherkessky. "Something wrong with her leg."

"Shall I?" He was about to dismount.

"No," she said. "I know the old girl. Had the same trouble before. She needs a short rest and a cold compress around the hock. She'll be as fit as a fiddle in an hour."

"Yes."

"Bully! Ride on. I'll lead my horse."

FIVE minutes later they reached his place. Twenty minutes later, refusing the help of the prince and his bearded, fur capped Tartar servants, she had attended to her horse and, walking by Tcherkessky's side, declared she was hungry.

"There's a restaurant down the street."

"No. I want Central Asian food."

"But——"

"Don't be so inhospitable."

He seemed perturbed. But he could not say no.

"Very well." He called to a passing servant in guttural, explosive Bokharan: "Tuk tauz! Khatonee padshah! Nuse-hoot. . ."

"Bule, mukkurum Khan!" replied the man.

He salaamed and was off at a run, while, walking leisurely, Tcherkessky led the way toward the villa. He ushered her across the threshold into a large room.

"I'll speak to the servants."

He bowed and left.

"Hooray!" she said to herself. "Here I am at last."

She looked about her. The room was furnished in the Central Asian manner, somber, stern, different from the fervent Hispano-Moorish sensuality which, through former trips to North Africa, she had learned to associate with Islam. So she was a little disappointed. Everything here was in dark and sober colors; the coverings and pillows of the low divan that ran around the four sides, the camel's-hair rug, the palmwood chairs chip carved into flat relief, the curtains and hangings of ancient Bokharan embroidery. The only frivolous touch was in the number of small articles heaped on the taborets: niello boxes, pitchers and basins of exquisitely damascened bidri ware, a Persian hand written book illustrated with archaic miniatures, a curved dagger in a golden, ruby studded scabbard. Between the windows a signed photograph of the Tsar—à mon sujet loyal et bien-aimé, le Prince Mohammed Bek Tcherkessky"—struck an incongruous note.

For a few minutes Louise amused herself examining the things. Then, suddenly, she stood still. A sharp pain cut through her heart. For, thrown on a taboret, its pearl embroidered fringe trailing on the ground, she saw a silk scarf, black and gold, crumpled, as if a woman had dropped it hurriedly.

She caught the meaning of it, full, at once. A women's scarf. A woman's room.

She looked again. She saw on the taboret some intimately feminine things: a small hand mirror, a quaintly shaped perfume bottle, some pieces of Oriental jewelry. Aimlessly she picked them up; aimlessly looked at them. There was a massive thumb ring with a huge star sapphire; a sarpesh turban aigrette quivering with a rain of rose pink diamonds; a necklace of beaten gold set with flawless, tallow topped emeralds. Other things——

She opened her hand. The jewels dropped back on the taboret with a hard, metallic clatter.

She bit her lips. She told herself, challengingly, that she was not jealous. Tcherkessky was married. She knew it. One wife? Two? Three? What was it to her? No—she did not love him, came her stubborn, self-defensive thought. But the next moment a separate brain cell in the back of her head told her she was lying to herself. For there were things which she remembered; small details—the wave in his hair, the contour of his brow, the touch of his hand, the purr in his speech. And would she remember unless——

"Es-salaam!" said a soft voice.

Louise turned, startled. A woman had come in, dressed in a loose white burnoose, her bare, henna stained feet in yellow slippers, her bluish black hair parted in the middle and braided over either shoulder. There was no doubt of her beauty, with the delicate splendor of her face, the waxen camellia tint of her skin, the narrow hands, the slumbrous, beryl eyes.

"Mlle. Carruthers, hein?" she continued in French.

"You—you know who I am?" stammered Louise in a headlong whisper, and as soon as the words were spoken she realised their ludicrous futility, hated herself for it, hated the woman for the malicious smile that curled her full, red lips.

"I do. How? Hayah! There is never gossip in street or bazaar that does not brush through the harem curtains." And, with a great deal of dignity: "I am Bibi Hanoom, the wife of Prince Mohammed Bek Tcherkessky."

"O——" All the contradictory emotions that coiled and recoiled in Louise's heart, a curious mingling of fear, jealousy, and embarrassment, rushed to her lips, crystallised into a few cutting words: "One of his wives, I suppose?"

"Possibly," replied Bibi Hanoom. "But I am the sultana, the first, the favorite wife. The others? Allah! Rose petals—to be smelled, then crushed, then thrown away." She took a cigaret from the folds of her burnoose and lit it. "Go away, foreigner. I do not like your face—nor your hands—nor your dress—nor your manners—nor your soul."

Louise was speechless, less with rage than amazement. All her cosmopolitan training had not prepared her for this outbreak of calm, passionless Oriental brutality.

"Unless," went on Bibi Hanoom, "you desire to join my lord's harem? Yes? You are, perhaps, pretty. And my lord likes roses—to smell—to crush—to throw away."

At last words came to Louise.

"What do I care for"—vindictively, imitating the other—"'my lord'?"

"Then why are you here?"

"To lunch."

"Wah! A lie."

"O——"

"There are three things never hidden: love, a mountain, and one riding a camel." She pointed at the curtain through which she had come. "Back there is the harem. Come. I am not jealous. What is one rose more or less in a garden of roses?"

Perhaps for the first time since, a small girl, she had pulled another small girl's hair Louise felt the primitive urge to use fists and finger nails. She turned white with rage. Bibi Hanoom's lips, too, quivered ominously. But civilisation, though it has changed the weapons, has not changed the instinct, and there was a bitter intent of cruelty in Louise's reply:

"If I wanted him I'd only have to raise one finger."

Even as she spoke she was shocked at herself, as if there had risen in her suddenly a tide of base characteristics of whose existence she had not dreamed. She was prey to conflicting emotions. She wanted to cry out upon herself for the uttermost fool on earth; but she also wanted to hurt this woman—because of her contemptuous smile and because she was Tcherkessky's wife. She had grown up in a world, between the stucco of Fifth avenue and the pinehbeck of Paris, that had emasculated love into a plaything. Now, all at once, she was faced by the stark fact that one must fight for love as well as flirt for it. She tried hard to grasp and correlate the series of unexpected reactions within herself. She did not succeed. She only knew she had come here on a quest after romance, on what she called a "bully lark," and that, somehow, it had blown up at the first concussion. But her stubborn pride would not let her beat a retreat, rather made her cling to her point.

"If I wanted to——" she repeated.

Bibi Hanoom's eyes deepened. What if this foreigner spoke the truth? What if already . . .

"No!" Passion leaped into her voice. "He does not love you."

"How do you know?"

"He is of the east."

"That's no reason."

"There is no love without mutual understanding."

"He is westernised. Why"—Louise did not consider what interpretation the other might put upon her words, cared for nothing except to drive home her argument as she saw Bibi Hanoom's eyes smoldering with hate and alarm—"you should see him when he is with me. So restrained—so——" Memories came back to her of what she had imagined, had hoped him to be: a romantic Central Asian, half subtly sensuous Oriental and half brutal Cossack, but a man altogether fascinating who brooked no master except his own desires. She had found him the opposite. Now, womanlike, she used as a weapon the very traits which had disappointed her. "So deferential and quiet"—she went on—"almost shy—afraid to touch my hand."

"Shy?" asked the other. "Deferential?"

"Exactly."

Suddenly Bibi Hanoom burst out laughing. Louise looked up, astonished. Was the woman hysterical? Then she saw the expression in the beryl eyes, saw the film of alarm lifting to give way to amusement; understood that the laughter, coming in ringing peals, was one of mockery and, too, of frank relief.

"What a fool I have been!" exclaimed Bibi Hanoom. "I had imagined—things. I had been afraid of you—you—a thin blooded girl of the west, a weakling who fears to stretch out her hands and grasp and hold!"

Louise could have wept with vexation. She was beginning to be ashamed of herself, the scene, the exchange of threats and recriminations. "Haven't I made a silly mess of things!" she thought. But there was her stubborn pride. There was the other's hooting laughter.

"I'm not a weakling," she said. "I'll show you . . ."

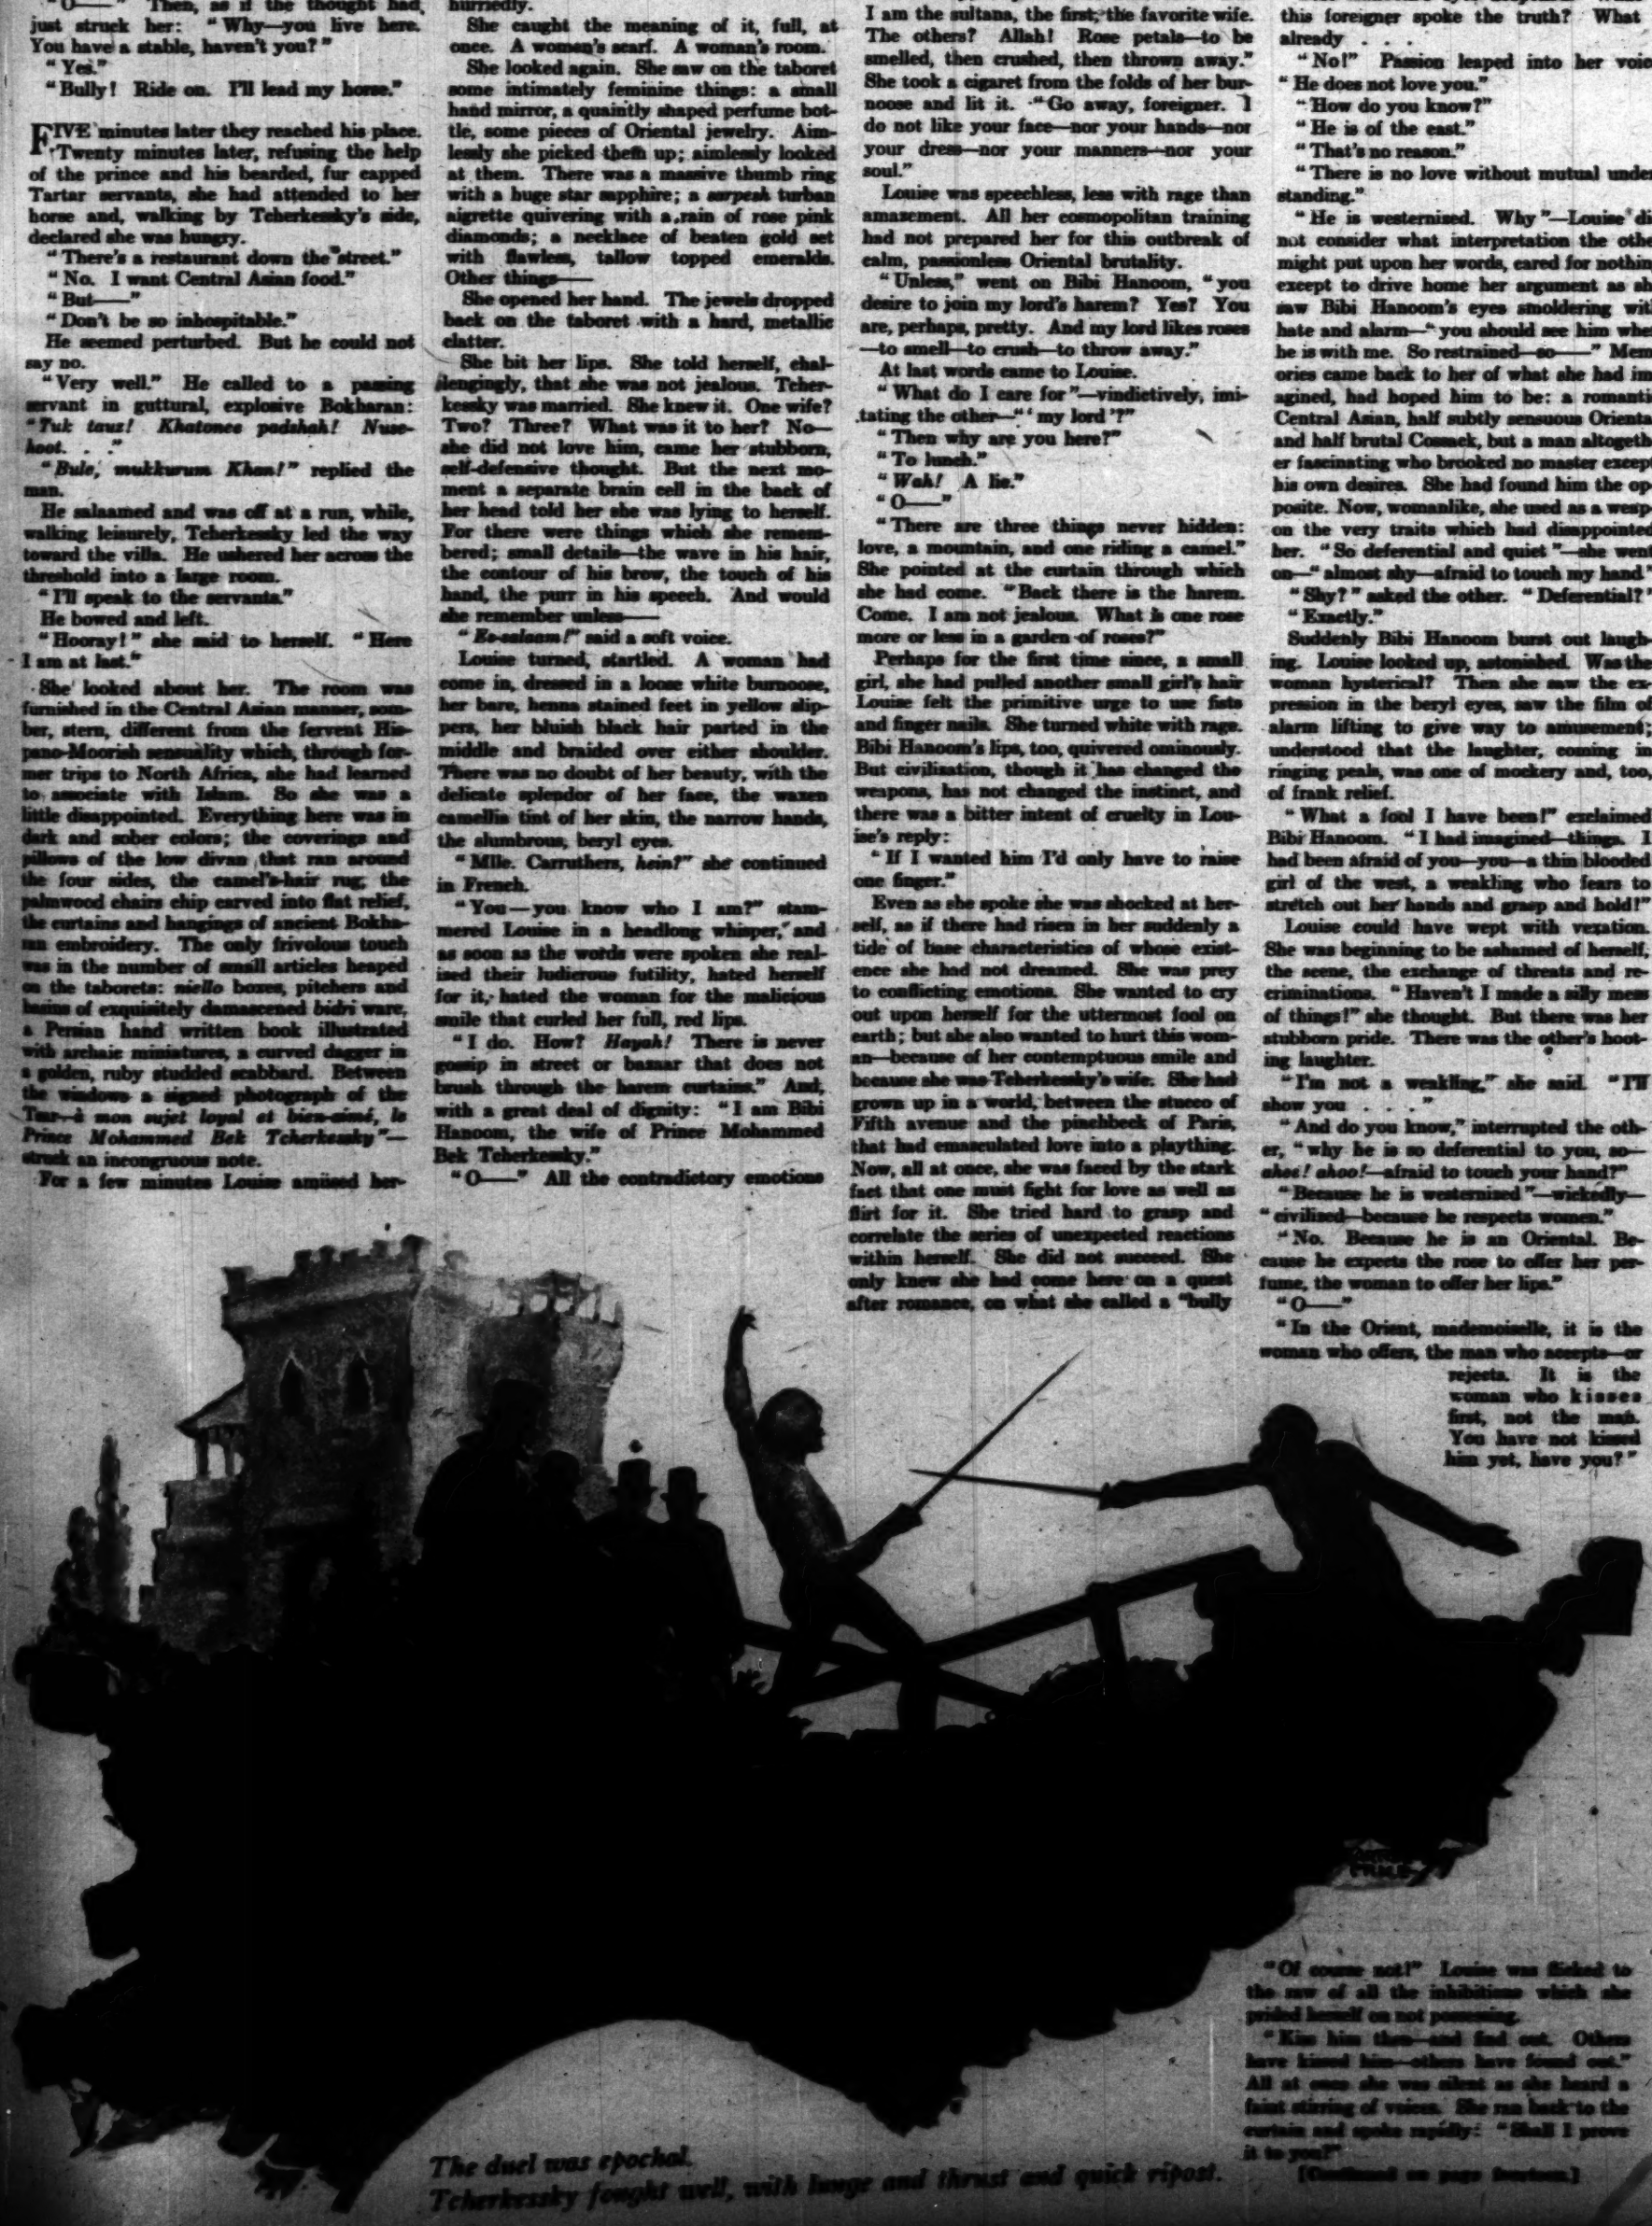
"And do you know," interrupted the other, "why he is so deferential to you, so—shes! shoo!—afraid to touch your hand?"

"Because he is westernised"—wickedly—"civilised—because he respects women."

"No. Because he is an Oriental. Because he expects the rose to offer her perfume, the woman to offer her lips."

"O——"

"In the Orient, mademoiselle, it is the woman who offers, the man who accepts—or rejects. It is the woman who kisses first, not the man. You have not kissed him yet, have you?"



The duel was epochal. Tcherkessky fought well, with lunge and thrust and quick ripost.

"Of course not!" Louise was flicked to the raw of all the inhibitions which she prided herself on not possessing.

"Kiss him then—and find out. Others have kissed him—others have found out." All at once she was silent as she heard a faint stirring of voices. She ran back to the curtain and spoke rapidly: "Shall I prove it to you?"

INSTRUCTIONS

Take a scissors or knife and cut out the six pictures below. First cut on the thin or the extreme outside edge. Then carefully cut in and take pictures. Next cut on the line A-B-C. Then fold on dotted lines, folding underneath back until the edge and bottom edge come together. Then insert pin as shown and stand will stand. (See illustration opposite.) If you wish you may paste the pictures on cardboard before cutting out; or paste each of them the pictures on a separate sheet of paper of cardboard cutout them up and make your own stand.

The Price They Pay

For prettier teeth is simply combating film

WHEN you see pearly teeth—teeth which add so much to beauty—please remember this.

They come from combating dingy film which hides the luster of most teeth. Millions now employ the method. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show how much it means.

The method is at your call. This offers you a ten-day test. Send the coupon for it.

Just fight the film

Teeth are clouded by a film—that viscous film you feel. Under old brushing methods, much of it clings and stays. Soon it becomes discolored, then it forms dingy coats. That is why teeth lose luster.

Film is the teeth's great enemy. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acid. It holds the acid in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea.

So one great problem in modern dental science has been to fight that film.

After long research, two effective ways were found. One disintegrates the film at all stages of formation. One removes it without harmful scouring.

Able authorities proved these methods by many careful tests. A new-type tooth paste has been created and you may apply these methods daily. The name is Pepsodent.

Today careful people of some 50 nations employ it, largely by dental advice.

Many new effects

Pepsodent brings many new effects. It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva, which is there to neutralize mouth acids. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva, there to digest starch deposits on teeth.

Every use gives manifold power to these great natural tooth-protecting agents.

Watch its results for a few days. They will amaze and delight you.

Send the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth become whiter as the film-coats disappear.

You will gain a new conception of what clean teeth mean. And you will never return to methods of the past. Cut out coupon now.

Protect the Enamel

Pepsodent disintegrates the film, then removes it with an agent far softer than enamel. Never use a film combatant which contains harsh grit.

ROMANCE

"Go ahead, if you can."

"Be here tonight at midnight. The back door. I shall hide you where you can watch."

"What?"

"My lord's harem. You will come?"

"Yes."

"You promise?"

"Absolutely!" said Louise recklessly, while the curtain closed behind Bibi Hanoom.

A FEW moments later Tcherkessky entered, followed by a servant who carried a tray with food, deposited it on a taboret, and left. Louise ate sparingly. She watched Tcherkessky from beneath lowered lids. Was his quiet, polished deference after all only a mask? Was there really this towering barrier between east and west, a fundamental barrier of the soul, the secret self, beyond the motley imaginings of romance?

"How much do you like me?" she asked suddenly, trying to catch him off his guard.

"Very much indeed." His accents were calmly impersonal. "Care for some coffee?"

Pungently cold. And yet, she looked into his eyes—they seemed filled with tumultuous desire, with vibrant vitality. She wondered if Bibi Hanoom was right—"the rose to offer her perfume, the woman to offer her lips."

She rose.

"I'll go and see if my horse is all right."

"I'll have mine saddled, too."

"I'd rather ride home alone. Really!" as he insisted.

"As you wish. Will you dine with me tonight?"

"Sorry. I have another engagement."

That night at dinner she turned to her father with a disconcerting question:

"Why didn't you bring me up properly, papa?"

"Eh——?" he spluttered.

"I am positively longing for a meek world of printed cambries and Victorian vapors and refined allusiveness."

"Aren't you feeling well?"

"Quite. But I am wrung with a passionate if belated longing to be prim."

"Seems to me, if I know the signs, that you are going on a particularly wild party tonight."

"Not a bit. I am going to a hen party."

"A hen party? In Paris?"

"There's going to be one lonely male. By the way, have you always been stubborn? Always—O, dared yourself to dare your other self, and then your first self to take the dare?"

"Sounds mixed up. But I guess that's me. Why?"

"Because I am your daughter, papa," she sighed.

She reached Marly-le-Roie shortly before midnight, left her roadster in a discreet garage, and knocked at the back door of Tcherkessky's villa. Bibi Hanoom let her in, led her through a long corridor into a small, dark room, and pointed at a double curtain of heavy wool that spanned the further wall.

"The harem," she whispered.

"O!" Louise was excited, intensely interested.

"Don't make a noise. I shall call for you."

"When?"

"Afterward," replied Bibi Hanoom, with the ironic suspicion of a laugh, and was gone.

Louise crossed to the curtain and looked through the cleft. She saw a room, the twin of the one which she had seen earlier in the day. Five women—joined presently by Bibi Hanoom—were sitting on the divans, cross legged, indolent, talking in gliding undertones. They were all young and pretty. Four were evidently Orientals; the fifth seemed French. Louise literally caught her breath—not at what she saw but at what she had expected to see and now was disappointed—shatteringly—in not seeing. The scene was so drab, so cold, so somber. A harem, she said to herself, remembering past imaginings, and there was here no vivid flash of color, no spice of romance. There were not even flowers or perfume. Just six women, talking soberly in an undertone, lethargic, tired, lackadaisical. One of them yawned with mouth wide open, arms fully stretched. Another—she was very pretty, with a straight, sensuous face, her body frankly outlined by her clinging green fouta—rubbed her eyes. The Frenchwoman looked at her wrist watch.

"Mon Dieu!" muttered the latter; not complaining, just bored.

Louise looked at her. She thought of Bibi Hanoom's words: "Others have kissed him—others have found out." This Frenchwoman, for instance. Doubtless she, too, had longed for romance.

So the minutes dragged on leaden feet. Louise felt the torpid indolence of the place steal upon her soul. Her right arm fell asleep. She welcomed the tiny, pin prick pain.

"Mon Dieu!" the Frenchwoman sighed again; again consulted her wrist watch.

The girl in the green fouta drew her feet beneath her, squatted on her heels, rocked from side to side. Bibi Hanoom lit a cigaret. Another girl—of a warm, golden skin, her small nose blue tattooed—drew a Mecca rosary from her burnoose and counted the ninety-nine amber beads:

"Ahed, ethin, talaté, arbaa, khamsé—one, two, three, four, five," up to "tessa ou tessaïn—ninety-nine," and back to the beginning.

At last—Louise did not know how much later—the farther door opened and Tcherkessky came in. The women hardly stirred, hardly looked up. He was dressed in a long robe of yellow silk, had laid aside his heavy turban and tied about his head a dulband of orange gauze that fell in straight, short folds about his ears, like an ancient Egyptian headdress. He seemed more intensely Oriental than ever. There was now nothing of the Russian about him, nothing of the Parisian. In his right hand he held a long stemmed Turkish pipe of jasmin wood with a tiny bowl of red clay. He advanced into the center of the room, looked about him negligently; then, as negligently, touched the Frenchwoman's shoulder with the pipe stem.

"You!" he said.

He turned and left. She followed.

The other women yawned. They, too, left by a side door, while Bibi Hanoom passed through the curtains and joined Louise.

"You have found out?" she asked.

Louise did not reply. She could not. Her throat felt contracted. She had never before known the crude definitiveness of shame, of degradation. Now she knew, indirectly, yet it hurt her almost physically.

When finally words came to her they were hectic, jumbled, hysterical:

"Take me away—please, please, take me away."

When they reached the outer threshold she had regained some of her composure. Once more her feminine curiosity was uppermost.

"Tell me," she asked, "why did you show me? Why did you warn me—since you do not like me and since you are not jealous?"

"Perhaps I lied," was the low reply, and the door shut behind Bibi Hanoom with a little dry click of finality.

Louise walked toward the garage. Her feet welcomed the hard touch of the pavement. Clean it seemed to her, safe, and—somehow came the ludicrous, incongruous thought—Christian. She jumped into her car, threw out the clutch, went quickly through the gears, was off at top speed, leaving Marly-le-Roi behind her, racing down the country roads where the moonshine lay on the ground in slanting, elfin stripes.

She reached Paris, turned down the boulevards.

From the library in her father's house the lights sprang golden and warm and friendly. Her father was still up. She was glad of it.

She rushed upstairs, into the room, into his arms; clung to him, nervous, trembling, between tears and laughter.

He asked no questions. He was an indulgent father, but a wise father. He knew her. She would tell him by and by.

"Tired?" he said casually, stroking her hair.

"A little. I'm going to bed." She kissed him, went to the threshold. "Father——?" hesitatingly.

"Yes, dear?"

"Would you mind leaving your bedroom door open tonight—the door that opens into the hall—across from mine?"

"Afraid of the dark, small daughter?"

"No! At least"—truthfully—"not any more!"

INSTALLMENT XII.

Love and Anger.

IT was too much for Sandy. He could only sit there and gape, with a wild, horror stricken face, and Heather, as if suddenly exasperated at sight of this supineness when so frightfully distressed herself and in need of counsel and support, seemed to find a sudden tonic in exasperation at his horrified aspect. The color came back into her cheeks with a hard glitter to her deep blue eyes.

"What's the matter with you? Where's your nerve? Can't you do any more than sit there like a sick rabbit watching a weasel crawling up on him? I sent for you to ask for help and advice, but if this is the best you've got to offer then for heaven's sake get out."

These stinging words and the tone of them were just the lashing strokes that Sandy needed. They brought back his mind from the contemplation of his fatal error to the matter in hand.

"What do they demand?" he asked, with a sudden hardening of his voice.

"What do you suppose? Money, of course. Fifty thousand dollars, under threat of reporting what they saw."

"How can they do that—when they were parties to your seizure?"

"They claim that Luis forced them under threat of killing them or exposing their drug dealings, frightened them into it, and that they were on their way to report my whereabouts to the police. They wanted Luis captured. Then when they saw him pass with father they thought he had made a bargain of his own, and the best they could do would be to clear out. So they kept on going. That sounds true enough to me. I told you they were a wretched, frightened pair, and what happened in the Corn Crib got their last remaining scrap of nerve."

Sandy gave a despairing groan. This seemed to further incense Heather.

"Well, I must say you're a broken reed to lean on. Don't you see the awful fix we're in? When these men learned what had happened they saw the chance of a big blackmail. Even if dad could prove he was justified in killing Luis, where would the whole exposure land him, and me? The entire business would come out. We'd be swamped—ruined—and just when dad is feeling so encouraged."

Sandy pulled himself together. Heather, watching him in angry contempt, was puzzled at the changing expression of his face. It became hard, implacable, remorseless.

"Can you put me in touch with these men?" he asked.

"Yes. I told them to come to the end of the garden at ten o'clock tonight. But what can you do?" Contempt infused her voice again.

"Quite a lot," Sandy said grimly. "I seem destined to show a poor front to you at every crisis, Heather. That's been for your sake. It's time it stopped."

"Well, what—can—you do? What is there to do? What happened is plain enough. Dad was desperate—driven into a corner. He drove Luis down to this place, and then, not knowing anything about the Corn Crib or where I might be, he just made up his mind to remove one of the wolves at his throat then and there."

"Did these men say they heard shots?"

"Yes. About half an hour later."

There was something now that revisualized her as she had stood for a moment in the Corn Crib.

"But didn't they see your father drive back before they heard the shots?"

"No. They didn't see him drive back at all. They had left the trail for fear of meeting somebody and were going back along the water's edge. They were some distance off when they heard firing. It's a perfectly straight case. Dad killed him, of course, and I don't blame him. I'm glad he did. He had every right and reason. Whatever else dad may or may not be, he is at least a strong, determined man"—and her eyes, blazing at Sandy, seemed to add the unspoken words—"even if you are not."

Sandy nodded. "I sha'n't dispute that," he said, "but, all the same, your father didn't do it."

"Why not?"

"If he had he would have told me so."

"Not necessarily. He would have felt that the less known about it the better. The chances are he went on then and killed these others, too. But he failed to find me and drove back. Then you came and were luckier."

"But I was there before he was," Sandy reminded her. "We would have met."

"That was probably when you were searching the bushes for me."

"He'd have seen the car."

"Well, then, perhaps he didn't go there. Luis asked to be set down near that cobble pit and dad in his desperation decided to finish him then and there. God knows he had reason enough. But that's not the point. What's to be done about these men?"

THE PRINCIPALS:

ALEXANDER MacCALL, a young architect. "Sandy" is in love with HEATHER McGRAW, a daughter of DAVID McGRAW, builder and contractor, supposed to be wealthy.
LUIS GARMANDIA, the McGraw butler, a sinister character.
ENID, Heather's pretty maid, who seems to have come from a better position in life.
CAPTAIN SMITH, young owner of a rum running schooner.

THE STORY.

Sandy, courting Heather, stumbles upon a safe robbery in the McGraw home. He and Enid are captured by the marauders and set adrift on Long Island sound, but get back safely. Subsequently the two encounter McGraw on Capt. Smith's schooner, discussing a $100,000 payment for rum running, which has proved to be counterfeit and which Smith demands that McGraw, owner of the liquor, make good. Smith thinks Enid is McGraw's daughter, and proposes that she go with him on his next trip as a guarantee that he will be paid for the first one. She—in reality the daughter of a man McGraw has robbed of an invention—agrees to go in return for McGraw's promise to return the invention.

Sandy and Heather explore a crooks' rendezvous at a cabin called the Corn Crib, and fall into the hands of three rum runners, who take them prisoner but are careless enough to let them find and recover the money stolen from Heather's father. Luis crashes into the hut with two other men, kills the outlaws in a gun duel, and takes Heather away with him. Sandy escapes with the money and makes his way back to the McGraw home, where he overhears the butler, now turned kidnaper on his own account, urging McGraw to leave $50,000 in an appointed place for Heather's ransom. On a "hunch" Sandy hurries back to the cabin. Here he encounters two men whom he supposes to be Luis' confederates, kills them with cobblestones in his bare fists, and finds Heather, drugged, lying on a bunk. Returning with the unconscious girl in Heather's car, he runs over Luis and shoots him dead.

When Heather recovers from her stupor McGraw confesses to her that he is an embezzler and is in trouble. She offers him her own money and proposes that she help him by marrying Gene Talbot, a wealthy bachelor. He urges her to delay her decision, but she tells Sandy about it, intimating that she is not greatly impressed by her suitor's prowess in their various adventures. Sandy has let her think that the crooks killed each other in a free fight. He is astounded, therefore, when she declares her belief that it was her father who shot Luis, and explains that "one of Luis' accomplices" has told her this. If Luis' accomplices are still alive, he has killed the wrong men.

"You must leave that to me," Sandy said.

"What can you do?"

"That remains to be seen."

"What's your plan?"

"I'll have to think it over."

"Well, let's hope it may come to something. I'll admit that if nothing else you're lucky."

Sandy's patience slipped several cogs. "Is that quite fair, Heather? Where does my luck come in? I do my best to help your father out of this jam and thought that I'd succeeded. But all I've got is the loss of you just when I'd found out that I could never know a day's happiness without you. Do you call that luck?"

Heather, fair minded when not distraught, may have felt a twinge of shame and of remorse, but she was too overwhelmed by this new sinister aspect of the case to show it. Perhaps also the fresh and bitter disappointment in Sandy's nerve that she had felt at his aspect on learning what had happened still further hardened her heart against him.

"Some men don't know their luck," she muttered. "Yours may be in not getting tied to a girl like me."

"I may yet," Sandy said doggedly. "How's this going to affect your engaging yourself to Talbot?"

"I don't know. I don't care. I feel like a pheasant in a drive with guns banging all around it. I don't care which one brings me down. One thing's certain, I stick to my poor old dad, no matter what happens."

"Nothing is going to happen," Sandy said. "This demand for blackmail is a bluff. Don't tell your father anything about it. I'll talk to these men tonight."

HEATHER agreed finally to let him have his way. She was forced to admit that Sandy had a way of muddling through. McGraw had told her the whole story from the beginning. The first part of it was the same old story that has brought ruin and disgrace on so many homes that by all sense and reason ought to continue to be prosperous and happy ones. The temptation on the part of a man esteemed to be safe and solid and in a position of trust, having built up a strong business by his own efforts, to lose himself in the idea that he has the moral right to use its funds speculatively. It had been sheer money greed on McGraw's part, and his operations might have gone on unsuspected indefinitely but for the fact that he was being closely watched by an employé who was a clever accountant and himself involved in peculations. The bookkeeper Danby, discovering what was going on, had, by threat of exposure, coerced McGraw into the unlawful effort to recoup. Danby was a not unusual type of semi-crook. McGraw himself had actually never known just how Danby had got in touch with the rum running fraternity, a poor word for this traffic where each man's knife was as ready for the throat of a colleague as for that of a rival. Danby had managed lines of communication, and McGraw, though hating it, was given no choice. Put upon the stand, he could not have told how the affair was carried on and what others were involved. His part was to find the money, which he had done, when Danby, in touch with a still lower class of criminals, including counterfeiters, contrived to double cross him with ridiculous ease."

Heather knew how Sandy had attempted the rescue of Enid, first bungled it, and then by a series of flukes achieved it. She knew of his passive part in the deception of Captain Smith. Hot on the heels of this had come his next blind and blundering effort to retrieve McGraw's stolen money, which likewise he had first bungled, then by another series of flukes accomplished. And then in the same tragi-comedy of errors he had plunged head foremost into the muddy bog for her own rescue and fluked that through to a successful issue.

It struck her now that there was something uncanny about such floundering luck, and that he seemed destined in spite of opposing forces that were sinister and formidable to be the protecting genius of her father, which was equivalent to saying of herself. History is full of cases like this, where it seems to be the Kismet of one family or individual to extricate some other family or individual from a series of dilemmas.

But if this were so in the present case then perhaps Sandy's hand was not yet played out. He impressed her as being so sure of his ability to dispose of this fresh danger that Heather was hopeful despite herself. There seemed to be a curious force in Sandy which, if neither rational nor fraught with high handed violence, at least achieved its results.

"Very well," she said wearily. "I can't imagine what you hope to do or how you propose to go about it, but you seem to think you can carry on. If you succeed this time I'll admit that miracles still happen."

"I'm going to succeed," Sandy said quietly.

Heather was on the point of saying: "Then don't let's have any more bloodshed." But she reflected that such did not appear to be included in Sandy's technique. It was possible that she had failed to give him credit for an astuteness that had swayed past events to a successful issue, so she said instead:

"I don't know how we're ever going to pay you, Sandy."

"That's not the motive. If I'd wanted a reward I'd have helped myself some time ago." And with this cryptic remark he left her.

AT ten o'clock that night two stealthy figures slipped through a wicket gate at the foot of the rose garden. They found themselves immediately confronted by a broad, square shouldered man whom at first they took to be McGraw.

The shock of their surprise on thus encountering a stranger gave Sandy an advantage that he did not intend to lose. Moreover, he was forearmed with the knowledge that the pair with whom he had to deal was unlike the adversaries with whom previously he had dealt, neither of desperate intent nor courageous fiber.

He had arranged that there should be no danger of interruption by Heather's agreement to dine with the Talbots, going there in her father's car with James to drive and instructing him to return for her at ten o'clock. Sandy had impressed upon her that she was not to get back before eleven.

The two men were punctual. Sandy, examining them as best he could through the darkness of a fairly clear night, found Heather's description of them to be fairly exact. They had the look and bearing, and when presently one of them spoke, the speech of Latin-American ship stewards or hotel servants or guides. Smooth, of the sort of half defiant servility and a rather guttural English that was correct enough.

Sandy went directly to the matter in hand. "So you think you've got a chance to blackmail Mr. McGraw," he said. "Well, it so happens that you can't. No blooming chance."

"You gotta show us, mister," said one of them.

"I'll tell you now," Sandy said, "and if you try to make further trouble, you'll be quickly shown. In a criminal court."

"He killed Luis," one of them muttered.

"He did not."

"Then who did, since you know so much about it?"

"I did."

"Huh!"

"I killed Luis. I knew about the Corn Crib, and guessed that Miss McGraw had been taken there and was probably being held there. I took her car, in which Luis had come here, and went there and found her lying on the bunk, drugged. Mr. McGraw brought Luis to the lane and left him there, then returned home. I was at the Corn Crib when that was done. As I came back along the lane with Miss McGraw in the car, still unconscious, Luis tried to hold me up. I ran him down, then shot him. I am perfectly prepared at any time that it may be necessary to swear to this in court and to prove it. I have nothing to fear. Any jury would find my act justifiable homicide in the protection of a kidnaped lady."

There was a moment's silence. Then one of the men asked sullenly: "Who are you, mister?"

"I am an architect named MacCall. A friend of the family. It could not hurt me in any way to have the truth known nor could it hurt Mr. McGraw or his daughter. But it would land you two in jail."

They seemed to find no immediate answer to this. Then one of them asked, "How do we know that what yer tellin' us is straight?"

"You saw the car that Mr. McGraw took Luis over in, did you not?"

"Sure."

"Was it a sedan?"

"No. It was an open roadster."

"Then come with me. You've nothing to fear—so far. There's nobody home."

He led them to the garage. Switching on the lights he showed them the bullet marks on the steering pillar and the back of the car.

"Luis did that before I struck him. I ducked, and the shots went past me and out through the back. Now let me tell you something. Instead of trying to make anything out of this, you owe me something. Luis meant to get you both."

This evidently startled them, not in its announcement of a fact they were bound to admit but that Sandy should know of it.

"Whadda ye mean 'get us'?" one asked feebly.

"To kill you. To silence you. He took you on for this job because he had no time to get anybody else. Then he corrected that."

"Huh!"

Sandy had already decided on a bold bluff. If it failed there could be no great damage done. But he hoped that in succeeding he might be able to establish the one fact that he already suspected and the confirmation of which was vitally important to his peace of mind.

"As you probably know by this time, there were two men who did not belong to the other crowd found killed at the Corn Crib. I killed them, too."

"Geeze——"

"With cobblestones," Sandy said. "Like these——" He pointed to the cobbled gutter around the garage. "I don't know whether Luis expected you to walk out on him, or whether he sent these two men to take the girl off in a boat. But they were his men, as you very well know."

No attempt was made to deny this. The glance exchanged between the two was significant. Sandy, closely watching them, felt a great load lifted from his mind and from his conscience.

"So as the case stands," he continued, "you have actually got to admit that you are under obligation to me. Now, personally, I don't care whether this comes out or not. It would be more to my credit than to my harm, and it would give me a better standing with this young lady, whom I want to marry, and with her father. Mr. McGraw had nothing to do with it at all. He acted as any father would whose daughter had been kidnaped. He was prepared to accept Luis' terms, but neither one of you would ever have seen a cent of that money."

"I guess that's right," one of them admitted whiningly.

"More than that," Sandy went on, "it would have been very apt to have got you killed. You know Luis."

"Why did yer hold that back, mister?" asked one of them.

"To save myself bother, and possibly the danger of revenge from some of Luis' mob. But I no longer care about that. I can take care of myself. Besides, from what I've learned since I don't believe that anybody is going to mourn for Luis. He was a killer and a double crosser."

"That's right."

"Then there you are," Sandy said. "I'm not interested in you two. Miss McGraw tells me that you didn't like the job and that you treated her decently enough. But we can both prove that you had a hand in her kidnaping."

"You see fit to ignore me, Heather. You seem to think I don't matter."

"We wus goin' to blow it, mister."

"You can't prove that. This job would get you twenty years, and if there's one squeak out of either of you I'll see that you get it." Sandy's voice burst out with a sudden rasp. "Do you think that if I were afraid to state what I'd done I'd be standing here talking to a team of yellow sweeps like you?" He glanced down and his eye fell on a loose cobble on the rim of the gutter under the eaves that ran from the garage. Stooping quickly, he whipped it up. "You'd get what I handed those two others."

For an instant he thought that he had carried his intimidation too far. The two men started back and the hand of one went to his side pocket. Sandy tossed away the cobble with a contemptuous laugh.

"You should worry—like I do. If I'd needed to get you, it would have been before all this. Now you'd better beat it, and keep on beating it until you hit the Tropic of Cancer. That's all."

A moment later the two slouching figures had dissolved in the murk.

SANDY was in fact as nearly elated as a man could be whose heart's objective was probably at that moment being made love to by a middle aged suitor whose hopes were by no means to be considered vain. Sandy had counted on the ease with which he had disposed of those prospective blackmailers. There had not really seemed much for them to do about it, with a man ready to come forward and assert himself the slayer of such criminals as Luis and company had been.

But the fact that the pair at the Corn Crib had been actually what he suspected relieved his spirits of an oppressive load. Reflecting now that Heather would be correspondingly relieved to know how this last menace had been disposed of, he called up the Talbots, asked for Heather, and, getting her presently, said briefly:

"Everything's all right. If you'll come home I'll tell you about it."

About half an hour later Heather came in; Sandy described the interview with certain omissions. These in regard to the relief guard at the Corn Crib. Heather listened with a white, strained face.

"Well, of all the nervy bluffs," she murmured as Sandy finished. "You really told them that you had killed Luis?"

"Not only told them so, but convinced them of it," Sandy said. "You see, it hung together perfectly well, the elapsed time and where I was apt to be."

Heather reflected a moment. Her face clouded. "Of course, it must have been dad."

"Well, what difference does it make? Nobody could blame him for it. But my statement would have spiked their guns even if they hadn't believed me."

"Your mind is supple, Sandy. You put us deeper and deeper in your debt. What I must tell you now is poor payment for all you've done."

Sandy felt a deathly sinking. "You've engaged yourself to Talbot?"

"Yes."

"Do you care for him at all?"

"No. But he's not repellent to me. I've had enough of this uncertainty. I need a rock of refuge. Gene is scarcely that, perhaps—"

"Call him a safe deposit vault of refuge," Sandy said.

"Well, call it that, perhaps. He'll solve my problems in more ways than one."

"What problems?"

"Future ones. Money and matrimony and position. That last not in the social sense but the fact of being placed with nothing much to bother about. I've had my fill of violent emotions. I want peace."

"I wonder how long you'll want it."

"Nobody will know that."

Something in the cool passivity of her voice began to rouse an emotion up to this time dormant in Sandy. Heretofore, in spite of the treatment to which he had been subjected, the lack of consideration as a potent factor in events, the manhandling, the careless belittlement from Heather, Sandy's absorption in the game, and the engrossing objectives of its different phases had held his own passions of rage or resentment in abeyance with his pride and sense of justice. No great fury of rage had been stirred against these different sorts of things merely because they were that, and as such exhibiting what was to be expected of thuggee.

He had felt the sort of unemotional animosity for them that one might feel for an aboriginal head hunter who was playing no more than true to his savage form. He had felt more pity for McGraw than indignation. He had not blamed Heather for refusing to credit him with a resolute belligerency of which she had not seen the evidence.

But now at this cool indifferent statement of her intention to make a marriage of convenience Sandy felt something at the deep core of him beginning to seethe. He stared at Heather, and the pressure rose. She was in such an evening gown as that for which the modern debutante is censured by conservative people, carelessly rather than daringly décolleté, slight of texture and volume, revealing rather than clothing contours of her superb young figure. Sandy was accustomed to such, but there was something now to Heather that revisualised her as she had stood for a moment in the Corn Crib when thrust in by her captors. A sort of cold disdain and haughty arrogance of beauty that had so fired whatever of precious molten metal was to be smelted out of Mike's mistaken soul.

Just so was Sandy fired now. It whelmed suddenly over his consciousness that here stood the one woman, by all rights of strong and faithful service, his woman. The woman whom he had repeatedly risked his life and the peace of his conscience for, had been humiliated for, and thrice in the same night had killed for.

And not vainly, but to the redemption of her well being. He had even for her sake been a passive party to the tricking of a brave man. It made no difference that this act had been fraught with happy result. It was a blot, just as it would have been an eroding blot, like burning acid, if he had found himself to be the slayer of two harmless and innocent men—sportsmen or boatmen, seeking a refuge for the night.

And here now stood Heather placed in this relation to himself, unconsciously perhaps, but nevertheless so disposed. Heather, after what had happened, indifferently commending what she thought to be a rather cheap if clever trick, as she herself expressed his suppleness of mind. And in the next breath coolly telling him she proposed to make a loveless marriage for the sake of her peace of mind, her tone such as if she had said: "I'm sorry I can't give you that Airedale pup, Sandy. I've promised it to Gene Talbot. He can give it a better home."

On went the avalanche started by this mental pebble. Sandy could feel the roots of his patient self-restraint beginning to strain and snap. He looked somberly at Heather, and her cool though slightly drooping indifference roused simultaneously two passions that ought to be opposed but unfortunately sometimes go together—love and anger. A new factor swept like a cyclone squall over the loftier branches of his protective manliness to ring and torment them. He as well as Heather had got the repercussion of Mike's impassioned apologia, and it now stormed back at him, its echoes sonorously amplified. He found himself caught in the grip of that same dominion of the male who from ages past has taken his woman by force when all else fails.

THE want of her and the folly of her dealt Sandy simultaneous blows. If the interpretation of his next act could have been phrased by Mike's cult it would have said, "The fool Jane don't know what she wants. I'm the guy that's goin' to put her right."

Sandy acted on this arbitrary finding. In doing so he was not taking a leaf from anybody else's book. He had suddenly ripped open a hitherto uncut page of his own. In any other man Heather might have seen it coming, but because she would never have thought of looking for that sort of thing in Sandy it caught her unprepared. And she was tired from worry and from ten days of indecision, and still more unstrung from the decision that she had now finally reached.

So that while she got the words, she failed to get the spirit of Sandy's exordium. He began quietly enough, though in a sort of hard, uncompromising voice that was new to Heather. They were in the study, that storm center of cyclonic episodes. It was between eleven and twelve, and the big house that had remained depleted of domestic service was silent and scarcely lighted. Desert islands or sandy deserts are not the only isolated places. There are moments when one's home can be all of that.

"You see fit to ignore me as a factor in your future plans, Heather. You seem to think I don't matter. From the very start of this affair you've considered me a negligible quantity. Up to this time I've accepted that because there seemed no help for it. But there is now."

Heather looked him over curiously. "What are you trying to say?"

"Nothing much. So far I haven't asked for any help or any pay. But the situation has changed. Your father's out of the bog. You don't have to do this thing."

A line drew itself straight down between Heather's eyebrows.

"I think I've told you my reasons."

"They're no longer good enough. While they were, I respected them. Now I don't."

"That's unfortunate." Heather's voice had a mocking note. Her eyes seemed to ask: "What are you going to do about it?"

Sandy chose to read the query thus: "You say you want to put an end to this uncertainty. Well, you can do that just as well by marrying me as by marrying Talbot. I'm not so rich as he is, but I can give you all you need."

"Dear me! What's this?" The mockery gave way to irony. "Is the faithful watchdog showing his teeth?"

"Call it that. You're not going to marry this middle aged fop. You're going to marry me."

Heather's frown deepened. "Don't be silly and don't try to be dominant. In any such rôle you would find yourself miscast."

"I'm not playing to the gallery. I mean what I say. You've just said that you don't love Talbot. You might also say that Talbot doesn't love you."

"You're very flattering."

"I'm right. You know it, too. He doesn't love you and I do."

"Then you've got a disagreeable way of showing it. Why this sudden change from disinterested devotion?"

"I've shown too much of that. From the start of this affair I've been the only one that's shown any. Your father was out for himself, and so were all the others. Enid and Smith and Mike and all these other jackals and hyenas. So have you been, and so has Talbot. It's just a bargain between you. And now I propose to fall in line."

Heather's straight dark brows lifted. This time she voiced the query that her eyes had already asked.

"O—you do—do you? And how do you propose to go about it?"

"I'm going to help myself."

"To what?"

"To you. If you don't like it, you can swear out a warrant later."

"Have you gone stark mad, Sandy? You're not Mike, you know."

"Quite right. There's a big difference. Mike is dead." He rose suddenly. Heather had been sitting on a corner of the desk, one foot swinging nervously. This sudden change from calm if curt and stern speech to a threat of violence startled her more than if it had come from a source whence it might have been expected. It was as she had just said, the faithful watchdog had shown in a flash its latent distant strains of wolf blood and traits.

The shock of the swift metamorphosis dazed her. It was as if some dual personality, hitherto unsuspected in Sandy, had roughly bundled out the mild, well ordered tenant of his body and taken possession of it. Perhaps it was actually some such possession. But where she had fought furiously against such an entity in its natural guise, she found the barriers of her resistance broken down from sheer amazement and shock. She did not even shrink away as Sandy leaned forward, the clasp of his two hands falling on her bare shoulders.

The AFFAIR at OTHMAN'S

The setting—A mysterious house, blank and bare and bricked to the public; the interior with secret panels, unexpected stairways and abrupt exits; and an oriental room de luxe dominated by a $700,000 Titian nude filling up the wall.

The characters—Frederick Othman, half Turk, wholly mysterious, vastly rich—a man whose name darkly quickened many imaginations; Jenks, the queer, long-faced valet with his satirical grin; Nelson Barlow, of the social elect, in Othman's power; Philip Kendall, a young reporter from the west; and Flora Marsden, beautiful daughter of an aristocratic family that had seen better days.

The plot—A mysterious murder. Suspicion falls on the woman found in the house. One fighting, hoping, and despairing youth battles the brains and force of the whole police department. Mystery, crime, love, adventure in fascinating succession.

This great murder-mystery serial by Will Payne starts Feb. 17

For Women Only

By W. E. HILL

The finishing school teacher is spending a week of her vacation at the women's hostelry. It's been a great rest so far. Hasn't seen a single girl from the school, thank heaven.

After dinner in the lounge, where the lights are dim, showing two elderly ladies looking not wisely and too well, for places to sit down. "You know, Fanny," Mrs. Herbert Rountree has but a moment ago whispered to her deaf, dear sister-in-law, Mrs. Rob Royster, "I think some of these women must have husbands calling on them. They sit and sit and don't say a word to each other."

A great trial to the management of a women's hotel is the guest who will insist on getting ahead of the cafeteria. Look at Gloria, if you please, coming in with a bag of rolls from the bakery, right out before every one!

The young lady behind the desk is so very collegiate that new arrivals hesitate to approach her, thinking that one of the guests has just stepped into the office to get the view. When a young man waiting for the only girl to come out of the elevator asks if it's all right to smoke, the young lady behind the desk says: "Oh, but you shouldn't have awaked!" Then he doesn't know what to do.

Lewis is waiting in the lobby for his girl and as each lady emerges from the elevator she looks at Lewis and seems to say, "No, that's not mine," and passes on. Lewis is getting restive.

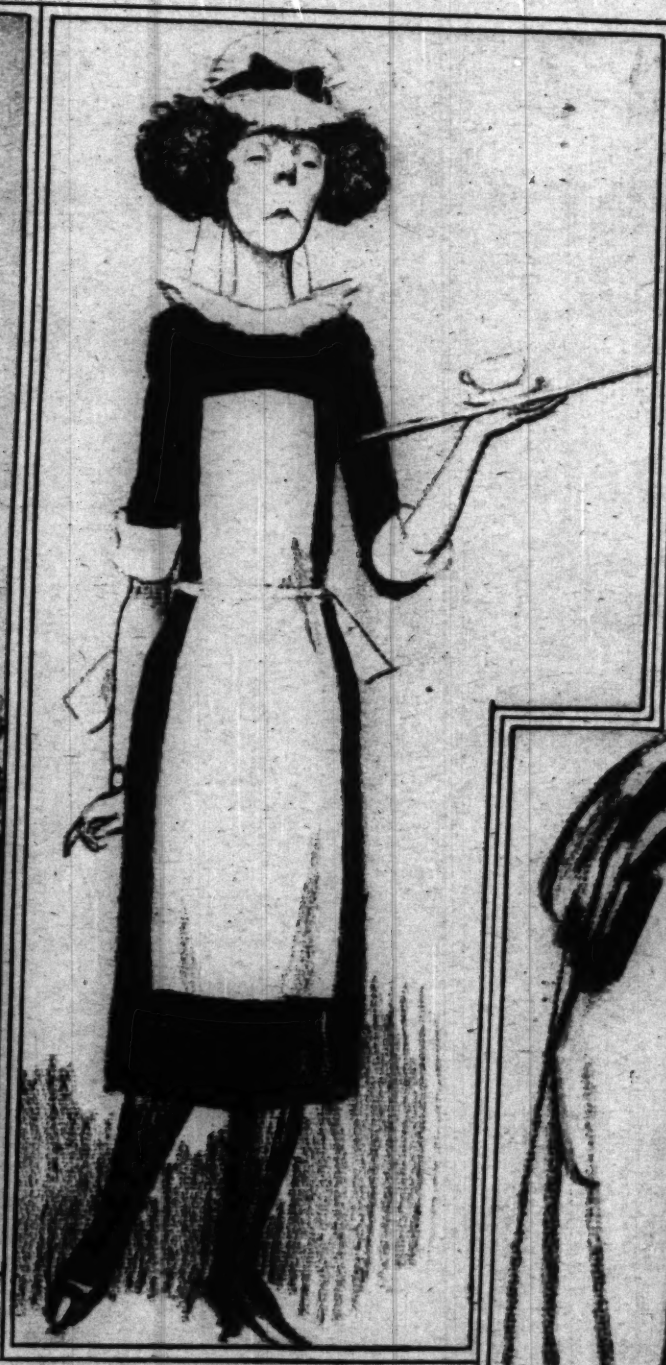
It's a rainy night and the lady with the timid disposition is going to ask at the desk if it will be safe to entrust herself to a taxi driver for seventeen blocks.



Only the most ultra refined waitresses get jobs in the cafeteria. Jenny is one of the most ultra. She has just put a woman in her place who "had the NOIVE, my dear, to try to get a thermos bottle filled with coffee!"

Tired business girl all ready to go out and get tireder. She has just sighted her swain across the lobby, hence the gladsome smile of welcome. She and her girl friend have planned that the one who gets in first will pin a note on the door if she wants to go to sleep. If not they will have a long talk about the party.

[illegible] nurse, starting out for work, and this was the [illegible] she had set aside for a shampoo!

4 Men in 7 Bald at 40

Yet 91% Needlessly, We Claim

Science discovers falling hair most always due to simple infection (Sebum). Now usually overcomes it.

WRITTEN GUARANTEE

Falling Hair Stopped—New Hair Grown

This New Way, or No Cost to You

THIS is to offer you, under money-back guarantee, the new Van Ess treatment, which, under actual test, grew hair on 91 heads in 100.

Now high authorities say hair may be regrown. For hair roots seldom die in early stages. And this method revives them. Test it yourself at our risk.

Hair Roots Rarely Die

Records show 4 men in 7 are bald, or partially bald, at 40. Modern science proves this to be unnecessary. Proves only about 9 men in 100 need ever be bald! Baldness is not a disease. Note this fact and mark it. It is merely a symptom of infection—of an infectious scalp oil, known as Sebum.

Remove this infected Sebum and hair will almost always grow. The hair roots are generally alive. This is true in about 90% of all cases of falling hair or baldness.

This new method reaches the roots. It makes hair grow. But the public is skeptic, we know. So we guarantee it. You take no chance of loss.

Note This New Way

You can see from the illustration that Van Ess is not a "tonic"; it combines massage and lotion. You do not rub it in with your fingers. Each package comes with a rubber massage cap. The nipples are hollow. Just invert bottle, rub your head and absorbs automatically feed lotion down into follicles of the scalp.

The Infected Sebum

About 90% of all hair troubles are traced to infected Sebum. It is an oil that forms at the roots of the hair. Its natural function is to lubricate the hair. But it cakes on the scalp. It forms a breeding place for bacteria. It clings to hair and destroys it. It lodges in hair follicles and plugs them. Then germs by the millions start to feed upon the hair. Semi-baldness soon is marked. Then comes total baldness. You can see this Sebum on your scalp, in the form of an oily excretion. Or, when dried, as dandruff. But it does not kill the roots. Hence when you remove it new hair most always grows.

Costs Nothing

Unless We Grow Hair

The Van Ess 3-bottle treatment is absolutely guaranteed. You are the sole judge. The warrant is given by your own dealer. All we require is his signature showing you have purchased a ninety-day treatment. If it fails, we refund your money. Hence you assume no risk making this test.

Now We Remove It

For years science experimented to combat infective Sebum. Finally a 90% effective treatment was found. Now we have embodied it in a home treatment. It is called Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage.

New Hair-Beauty for Women

It is applied a new way—a scientific way. (Note illustration at left.) It penetrates to the follicles of the hair. It combats the Sebum and removes it. Results are marked. They are quick. It stops falling hair. It grows new hair.

We urge you to try this new way. We know the statements we make are amazing—almost incredible. But remember, we back them with an absolute guarantee. The guarantee accompanies each package. Read it first before you buy. Note its fairness. Note that we let you be the judge.

Then note the results yourself. Mark the healthy condition of your scalp—the freedom from dandruff. Look in your mirror—see for yourself.

Go today to any drug or department store. Ask for the Van Ess Liquid Scalp Massage. Written guarantee is given with each 3 bottle purchase.

New Hair or No Money

We make our guarantee without reservation—without strings. It is absolute. We guarantee to stop falling hair. We guarantee to grow new hair in 90 days. Sometimes much sooner. But usually this treatment requires about 3 bottles of Van Ess. If we fail, your money back without question.

Sloan's Liniment kills pain!

Why Have Gray Hair or Dandruff?

Modern Science Says Neither is Necessary

Gray hair handicaps one socially and in business. Moreover modern metaphysical discoveries teach us that thoughts have a harmful effect upon the body, and, since gray hair makes us think of old age, we actually become old, dependent and discouraged. Wake up! Join the thousands who have banished gray hair and are defying old age and decay! Be youthful not only in appearance but in fact.

Thousands of men and women today are freed from the blight of gray hair by NOURISHINE — a genuine tonic which is positively not a dye. It is absolutely harmless and cannot cause the hair to become brittle, to deaden or to split. You do not have to state the color of your hair when purchasing, since the ONE LIQUID RESTORES TO YOUR ORIGINAL COLOR whether it be black, brown or blond. Nourishine restores the color evenly, naturally—NO STREAKS. You can easily apply it in your own home. You do not wet the hair all over but simply rub in vigorously at the roots, since Nourishine restores the coloring element through the roots, thus reproducing nature's process.

Nourishine cleanses the scalp, banishes dandruff and promotes the growth of the hair. Thousands who have no trace of gray hair use Nourishine for this purpose only. Remember Nourishine is a genuine tonic and is not a dye. If Nourishine did nothing else but remove dandruff, it would remain a remarkable testimonial to the achievement of modern science. It stops itching and tones up the hair and scalp generally. For dandruff alone it is worth many times the price asked.

No matter what you have tried — try Nourishine today. Price $1.25 per bottle, leading drug and department stores, including Buck & Rayner, Hensel Cut Rate Drug Co., MacLean Drug Co., Walgreen Co., and leading dealers in cities surrounding Chicago.

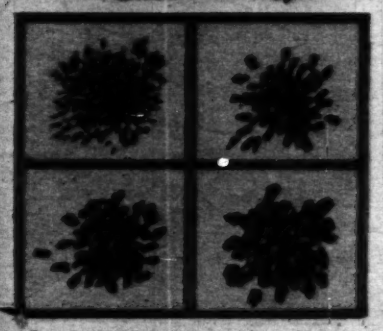
RICHARDSON
Product

From the makers of Flex-a-Tile Housetops, Vitrolit Membrane Roofs, Vitrote, and similar products.



Careful laboratory tests make sure that every carload of slate flakes from the Richardson quarries is not only permanent in color but is also proportioned in size so as to seal the shingle securely against weather and fire hazards.

Carefully tested gems of slate give your roof this lasting beauty

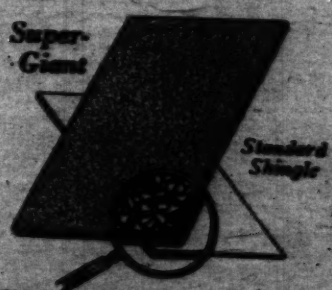
A wholly new roofing color in slate, found only in the Richardson quarries of Georgia, makes possible for your home a new and lasting beauty.

This new color, weathered brown, gives you the mellow richness of November meadows, permanently fixed in flakes of slate. Careful laboratory tests make sure that these flakes of slate not only are permanent in color but also are proportioned in size so as to seal the shingle securely against weather and fire hazards.

Architects are enthusiastic at the rare color effects made possible by the weathered brown, especially when it is blended with other Richardson Super-Giant Shingles of jade green, tile red, or black pearl.

A super-shingle

The new weathered brown is used only on the Richardson Super-Giant Shingle—a remarkably improved roofing product.



The Super-Giant Shingle — 50% thicker, 100% more rigid, and 35% more economical in cost of laying.

Its greater size (10x14 inches) saves you 35% in cost of laying. Its 50% greater thickness makes it last much longer and cast a deeper shadow line on the roof. And its 100% greater stiffness keeps it rigid and firm in all kinds of weather.

Moreover, its inner materials, felt and asphalt, give conclusive evidence of its endurance. Richardson felt, so architects or roofing dealers will tell you, has for fifty years been recognized as the best. And the asphalt which goes into it is of the highest grade raw materials refined by a special Richardson process.

Prove the facts yourself

Go to your nearest dealer in lumber, hardware or building material, or to your contractor, and ask to see the Richardson Super-Giant Shingle in weathered brown. Feel it, weigh it, measure it, note the rare color. Then compare it with ordinary shingles—the difference will convince you.

Meanwhile, send for our beautiful new booklet, Roofs of Distinction, showing the exclusive color combinations of Richardson slate surfacing, and containing valuable facts. Or, ask for our booklet Roofing on the Farm. Just use the coupon below.

THE GUMPS

• SIDNEY SMITH •

GEE, THIS IS THE KIND OF WEATHER THAT PUTS PEP IN A FELLOW - A GOOD SNOW-STORM WILL KILL A GERM QUICKER THAN A PILE-DRIVER - IF THERE'S ANYTHING I LOVE IT'S SNOW - I COULD EAT IT LIKE AN ESKIMO - WATCH ME GET CHESTER WITH THIS ONE -

FORE!

AW - DON'T GET MAD - I WAS ONLY FOOLING - I DIDN'T MEAN TO HURT YOU - DON'T BE A CRY BABY - A LITTLE SNOW IS GOOD FOR YOU -

YOU HIT ME RIGHT IN THE BACK OF THE NECK - I'M GOING TO TELL MAMA -

WHAT DO YOU THINK OF THAT? I PACKED THE SNOW SOFT SO IT COULDN'T HURT HIM - NOW HE'LL TELL HIS MOTHER - HE JUST WANTS TO MAKE TROUBLE - WHY, THAT WAS A TONIC - IT WILL MAKE A GOOD RED BLOODED BOY OUT OF HIM -

YOU MIGHT HAVE KNOCKED THAT CHILD'S EYE OUT WITH THAT SILLY HORSE-PLAY - HE'S JUST WRINGING WET - I SUPPOSE IF HE GETS PNEUMONIA YOU'LL THINK IT'S VERY COMICAL -

BOO! HOO!

THE WAY YOU TALK YOU'D THINK I'D HIT HIM WITH AN ANVIL - THAT LITTLE SNOW I THREW AT HIM WOULDN'T DO HIM ANY MORE HARM THAN A HANDFUL OF POWDERED SUGAR.

IS THAT SO? IF SOME ONE HIT YOU IN THE FACE WITH A BIG HARD SNOWBALL YOU'D BE HOWLING LIKE A PIG UNDER A FENCE -

ALL RIGHT - ALL RIGHT - I PLEAD GUILTY TO ATTEMPTED MANSLAUGHTER - I CONFESS THERE WAS A DYNAMITE BOMB CONCEALED IN THAT SNOW BALL -

THERE'S NOTHING FUNNY ABOUT IT - IF THE POOR CHILD COMES DOWN SICK YOU WON'T THINK IT WAS SO HUMOROUS.

IT WAS GOOD FOR HIM - IT WAS PURE SNOW - WHY, MIN, WHAT ARE YOU TRYING TO DO? BRING THE BOY UP LIKE A HOT-HOUSE PLANT? I'M JUST TRYING TO MAKE HIM STRONG AND RUGGED - I WANT CHESTER TO BE A HARDY BRIGHT-EYED BOY WITH ROSY CHEEKS AND SNOW WILL DO IT -

HAVE A LITTLE COMPLEXION POWDER YOURSELF, KID -

OH BOY - I'LL TELL THE WORLD THAT WAS A KNOCKOUT -

HAR! HAR! HAR! WHEN I SAW THE LOOK ON HER FACE WHEN THAT SNOW WENT DOWN HER BACK I THOUGHT I'D DIE LAUGHING - AFRAID OF A LITTLE SNOW LIKE THAT - THERE'S NOTHING I LIKE BETTER THAN A HEAVY FALL OF SNOW -

OH MIN!

HEAVEN'S SAKE MISTAH MOON! LOOKIT DAT!!

I SHOULD WORRY! IT AIN'T MY GOAT!!

WHY MOON- I WOULDN'T ACT LIKE THAT IF I WERE YOU.

YOU WOULDN'T? WELL, WOT'D YOU DO IF SOME DUMB COP HANDED YOU A TICKET JES' BECAUSE YOU HAD A LAST YEAR'S LICENSE ON YOUR CAR? CHEER ABOUT IT??

SILLY, PAPA CAN FIX THAT UP FOR YOU- HE'S GOT A PULL WITH THE JUDGE.

BY GOLLY! THIS IS SWELL OF YOU POP- YOU'LL FIND TH' OL' CAN OUT IN FRONT- AN' TELL MUSHMOUTH I SAID TO DRIVE YOU TO THE COURT HOUSE.

PAPA JUST PHONED THAT HE'S ON HIS WAY HOME AND THE JUDGE SAID IT WOULD BE O.K. ONLY YOU WILL HAVE TO APPEAR

THAT'S JAKE! I'LL WAIT ON THE PORCH FOR 'EM- AN' THEN I'LL HURRY DOWN TO SEE TH' JUDGE, HONEY.

UGH!

WHOOEE!

WELL, WOT'D TH' LAW ALLOW, MUSH?

YO' BETTAH AST MISTAH BUGG. HE'S DERE IN DE BACK SEAT.

YOU'RE CRAZY!

HEAVEN'S SAKE! DAT MUSTA BEEN WOT DAT SPLASH WUZ!

I FINK IT MUSTA BEEN IN DAT ROUGH STRETCH BACK DERE WHAR MISTAH BUGG SPILLED OUT.

I DON'T SEE HIM NOWHERE. HE MUSTA WENT AWAY.

MOON JUST LEFT PAPA- YOU LOOK LIKE YOU HAD TO WORK PRETTY HARD TO FIX HIS CASE.

UGH-HUH- AND I'M GONNA FIX IT SOME MORE JUST AS SOON AS I FIND THE AX.

CASSIDY- BRING THAT BANJO-EYED BIRD AWAY FROM THE WINDOW, AND TELL ME WHAT HE'S HERE FOR.

YESSIR

WOT TH-?

MOON MULLINS IS HIS NAME, YER HONOR. HE WAS STILL SPORTIN' A 1923 LICENSE ON HIS CAR.

OH YES- MR. BUGG SPOKE TO ME ABOUT YOU, YOUNG MAN. RENEW YOUR LICENSE AND I'LL LET YOU OFF THIS TIME

NIX! NOT ON THAT CAN I WON'T JUDGE.

WHAT? ARE YOU SO STUPID, YOU DON'T KNOW THAT OLD 1923 LICENSE IS NO GOOD THIS YEAR?

SURE I KNOW IT'S NO GOOD-

BUT NEITHER IS THE CAR!

IN DAYS OF OLD — WHEN KNIGHTS WERE BOLD

'TIS I, FAIR SHEBA!

OHH!! SHEIK!

BOY! THEM WAS TH' DAYS! KNIGHTS IN CLANKING ARMOR, ON SNORTING, SPIRITED STEEDS, CHARGED TH' CASTLE-

TEE, HEE!

-AND AFTER A TERRIFIC BATTLE AGAINST TREMENDOUS ODDS CARRIED AWAY HIS LADY FAIR!

TEE! HEE! WHAT'CHA DOIN, HAROLD? PLAYIN' MOVIE?

YOU GO RIGHT IN' AN' WASH YOUR DIRTY FACE - YOU SNOOPIN' LIL' IMP!

MEN WERE MEN IN THOSE DAYS! I THINK I COULD MAKE A BIGGER IMPRESSION ON LILLUMS, IF I CARRIED MYSELF AS A KNIGHT OF OLD!

-SUCH AS ALWAYS BEING COURTEOUS TO WIMMIN - AND ALWAYS PROTECTING A LADY'S FAIR NAME AND SO FORTH!

SOUR GRAPES. THAT'S YOU BEEZIE! YOU COULDN'T HAVE LILLUMS LOVEWELL IF YOU WANTED HER TH' WORST WAY!

ZAT SO?

SAY, ANY OF THESE DAMES FALL FOR TH' COIN-JINGLE TH' SHEKELS AND ALL THESE CLASSY RIBS PRICK UP THEIR EARS!

LILLUMS AIN'T THAT KIND!

HAW! LILLUMS IS ONE OF THE FOXIEST GOLD-DIGGERS IN TOWN!

BETTER NOT LET SIMP HEAR YA SAY THAT

LIKE TH' KNIGHTS OF OLD!

I NEVER TAKE NUTHIN' BACK - THAT'S ME ALL OVER!

NO BOZO CAN SULLY TH' NAME OF TH' GIRL I LOVE!

KNOCK 'IM FOR A ROW OF LOLLYPOPS!

WHAM!

BAM!

TO THINK YOU HAVE SUNK TO THE LEVEL OF A COMMON STREET BRAWLER!

LISSEN, LILLUMS - I WUZ PROTECTIN' YOUR NAME, LIKE TH' KNIGHTS OF OLD!

HAW!

IT'S HARD TO FIGGER, EM, DAD - I MEAN TH' WIMMIN!

YOU TELL 'EM - THAT'S TH' REASON I BEEN A BACHELOR THESE FIFTY YEARS!
